PRESIDENT HOOVER DEALS WITH IMPORTANT MATTERS

Yesterday the Chief Executive Gave His Attention to the Revolt in Mexico, General Law Enforcement, Patronage and Other Questions—Discussed the Date For Beginning the Special Session of Congress With Representative Tilson—Senator Borah Called to Congratulate Mr. Hoover on His Inaugural Address.

WASHINGTON, March 6—(AP)—Swinging quickly into the stride of the presidency, Herbert Hoover today gave his attention to the revolt in Mexico, the special session of the new congress, general law enforcement, patronage and other questions.

He also found time to receive delegations from Arkansas and Louisiana and 31 temperance and dry organizations of the country, and to shake hands with more than 800 visitors who filed through his office in a steady stream from noon until 12:45 p. m.

Secretary Kellogg called at the executive offices several times during the day with the latest reports from Mexico and there was no doubt of the deep interest of the administration over the situation in the neighboring republic.

Without a final decision being reached, the president discussed the date for beginning the special session of congress with Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the republican leader of the house, and other members of congress. Present indications are that congress will be assembled on April 15, with the house proceeding at once with consideration of farm relief.

Appointment of the commission which is to investigate general law enforcement with a view to making recommendations designed to improve present conditions was understood to have been the topic of a conversation the chief executive had with Attorney General Mitchell at an after luncheon conference at the white house.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, a champion of the dry cause, called to congratulate M. Hoover on his inaugural address and especially upon that section dealing with law enforcement.

A delegation representing 31 temperance and prohibition organizations called to present a testimonial hand wrough parchment volume to the chief executive.

Two names for solicitor general of the United States to succeed William D. Mitchell, the new attorney general, were presented during the day. Senator Reed of Pennsylvania proposed appointment of John G. Buchanan, a Pittsburgh lawyer, while Senator Sackett, J. M. Chilton, national committeeman, and R. W. Hunter, republican state chairman of Kentucky, urged the selection of Federal District Judge Charles Dawson, of the Western Kentucky district.

Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman of the senate finance committee, called to urge retention of Frank T. Hines as director of the veterans bureau. He also endorsed Mr. Buchanan for solicitor general.

Among the visitors who called to shake hands with the president were Chief Spotted Crow of the Sioux tribe from Pine Ridge, S. D., who came in full regalia with several members of his family, also in native costume requests that the president pose with the Indians for photographers were denied, it being stated that Mr. Hoover was opposed to any pictures having feathered Indians or other wild west features as a background.

HOOVER CABINET HOLDS REINS OF AUTHORITY

WASHINGTON, Mar. 6—(AP)—The reins of authority had been taken over by all the members of President Hoover's cabinet today except Henry L. Stimson, who is returning from the Philippine Islands to be secretary of state.

The last two to be sworn in, James W. Good, as secretary of war, and Arthur M. Hyde, as secretary of agriculture, took the oath today and now all of the president's official family, except Stimson, are ready to sit around the long mahogany cabinet table when Mr. Hoover calls them together for the first time on Friday.

Until the newly confirmed secretary of state arrives, his place will be filled by Secretary Kellogg, who has consented to stay on the few weeks before Stimson's journey ends. Thus Mr. Hoover will be surrounded by a cabinet which at the outset includes three members of the Coolidge cabinet since Secretary Mellon and Secretary Davis have been asked to continue as the heads of the treasury and of the labor department.

Secretary Good received the oath from John B. Randolph, assistant chief clerk of the war department, who has seen many a secretary assume the office.

Shortly afterward Secretary Hyde was sworn in by R. M. Reese, chief clerk of the department of agriculture, before a gathering that included Mrs. Hyde, a daughter and the retiring secretary, William M. Jarding.

DEATH IN NEW HAVEN OF LIVINGSTON W. CLEAVELAND

NEW HAVEN, March 6—(AP)—Livingston W. Cleaveland, a former judge of probate for the New Haven district, died at 5 o'clock this afternoon following an illness of some length. He was very well known here and had wide acquaintanceship in the state through his participation in many ways for years in conventions of the Congregationalists.

Judge Cleaveland leaves a widow and two nephews, Dr. John L. Rice, city health officer, and Cleaveland Rice, a member of the local bar.

Mr. Cleaveland was a descendant on his paternal side from Gov. William Bradford, of the Mayflower and on his mother's side from John Howland and Elizabeth Tilley, passengers on that historic ship, and he had common paternal ancestry with Grover Cleveland, and Gov. Chauncey F. Cleveland, and maternal with John Adams, John Quincy Adams and Gov. Jonathan Trumbull. He was born in South Agremont, Mass., on January 31, 1860, son of Rev. James Bradford Cleaveland, a Connecticut Congregationalist who died in 1889. His mother was Elizabeth Jocelyn Cleaveland poetess and also author of the "No Sects in Heaven." She died in 1911, her father was Nathaniel Jocelyn, a portrait painter of this city, and a founder of the American Bank Note company of New York.

PROGRESS OF SECOND REPARATIONS COMMITTEE

PARIS, March 6—(AP)—The second Dawes committee at a full session today found it necessary to refer back to a sub-committee the question dealing with organization of a central institution for administering German war reparations. This institution would hold and distribute not only the annuities, but also any bonds that eventually might be issued as part of the final reparations settlement.

Many of the experts on the commission believe that this central organization should be located in a neutral country and be itself neutral in personnel. This presupposes however, that there will be a final agreement between Germany and her credits something which is not in sight at this moment.

"BULL" FORCES ROUTED BY RISE IN CALL MONEY

NEW YORK, March 6—(AP)—The retreat of the "bull" forces on the New York stock exchange became general today when call money, the principal ammunition of speculators for the advance, ran low and the rate was marked up from 8 to 12 per cent. A few high priced specialties broke $10 to $45 a share, and a long list of active industrial, railroad and public utility issues were hammered down $3 to $7 a share.

It was the fourth consecutive day of declining prices. During that period, The Associated Press index of 50 leading industrials has declined 7.6 points, the 20 leading rails 3.4 and the 20 public utilities, 9.2 points.

JAPANESE STEAMER AGROUND ON AN ISLAND NEAR GUAM

GUAM, March 6—(AP)—The Japanese steamer Bankoku has gone aground on Kana Island near here. In response to an SOS call from the ship for immediate assistance, Captain L. S. Shapley, governor of Guam and U. S. naval commandant here, dispatched the U. S. S. Napa to aid the vessel.

DEATH OF FORMER U. S. SENATOR MOSES E. CLAPP

WASHINGTON, March 6—(AP)—Former Senator Moses Edwin Clapp, of Minnesota died at his home here today. He was 77 years old.

Elected in 1901 to fill the vacancy in the senate caused by the death of Cushman K. Davis, he served until 1917. During the administration of President Taft, he played an important part as a member of a special committee for investigating contributions to political campaign funds. He was a republican. After leaving the senate he practiced law in Washington until a short time ago illness forced him to retire.

He came into public notice again in 1927 in a daring rescue from drowning of his granddaughter, nine-year-old Virginia Clapp. Little 3-year old Edna Marie Armitage who with Virginia plunged into deep water as they were wading in the Potomac river, tried to save her little friend. She was drowned before Senator Clapp could rescue her too.

ROCKEFELLER INTERESTS REPEAT CLAIMS OF VICTORY

CHICAGO, March 6—(AP)—Representatives of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who will try to oust Colonel Robert W. Stewart as chief executive of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, tonight, on the eve of an annual meeting, reiterated claims of victory. Proxies still were pouring in at the time.

Contrary to expectations, both sides have been able to agree on all proxies checked in at the company's offices here, preparatory to the annual meeting of stockholders in Whiting, Ind., tomorrow.

Although he estimated approximately 1,500,000 shares had not yet been voted, Winthrop W. Aldrich, brother-in-law of John D. Jr., who has headed the fight against Colonel Stewart following the latter's refusal to comply with Rockefeller's request that he resign, said the number of votes that would be received before tomorrow noon would not prevent Stewart's defeat.

COPPER COMPANIES PAY INCREASED DIVIDENDS

NEW YORK, March 6—(AP)—The sharp rise in copper prices in recent months brought increased dividends from two more copper companies today.

Utah Copper Co., which is controlled by Kennecott Copper Corp., placed its stock on a $16 annual dividend basis, in contrast to $12 previously, and Nevada Consolidated Copper Co., which is in turn controlled by Utah, raised its annual rate from $2 to $3 per share.

Charles Hayden, chairman of the finance committee of Kennecott, stated that at the present price of copper the Kennecott group of mines are earning at the rate of over $100,000,000 a year, with Kennecott's pro-rata share roughly over $85,000,000.

OBITUARY

John G. Phelan

NEW HAVEN, March 6—(AP)—John G. Phelan, 80, secretary of the Wallingford Historical society and at one time a deputy judge of that borough, died in the New Haven hospital today. He was affiliated with many official positions during his life having held the chairmanship of the democratic town committee.

He was a member of the public parks commission, the Elks and a charter member of the Young Men's T. A. B. society. His widow and nine children survive.

LOCAL BOYS MAKE GOOD SHOWING AT YALE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 6—Honors again come to Windham high school through the scholastic standing of its graduates who have entered advanced institutions of learning. In the freshmen class at Yale only 11 boys out of a student body of nearly 900 young men drawn from the best public and private preparatory schools of the United States, secured an average scholarship rank of 90 per cent. or better. Of this 11, two are graduates from Windham high school in the class of 1928. They are William L. Glowacki and Jacob H. Krug. Glowacki was valedictorian of his class, having shown superior work in mathematics and science and figuring prominently in the management of class affairs. His management of the publication of the senior class book met with outstanding success. At the time of his graduation he was but 15 years of age.

Krug is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Krug of Union street. He specialized in languages and graduated as salutatorian of his class. He was assistant manager of football and the manager of basketball while at the high school.

Still another achievement that reflects favorably on "Old Windham" is that of Robert Kennedy, graduate of the school who is in the Yale honor list of 170 students who secured an average of 80 per cent or better. Kennedy came from Waterbury to Windham at the beginning of his sophomore year and graduated with honor marks in all studies.

The report of the excellent work of these three young men is highly gratifying to the faculty of the school and the public at large. The majority of students entering selective colleges are drawn from private schools but the work of Glowacki, Krug and Kennedy is proof of the fact that any pupil who is capable and serious in study can readily equip himself with all requirements for a successful college course in his home town high school.

PROGRAM FOR SPRING OPENING IS ANNOUNCED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 6—Additional details of the spring opening program which will be carried out here Friday and Saturday, March 15 and 16, are made today by Chairman J. Z. Malkiel of the spring opening committee and President James H. Hurley of the Retail Merchants' division, give conclusive evidence of the prediction that the event will be the most colorful ever staged in Willimantic.

That the merchandise display will be on a wide scale is also indicated in Chairman Mathieu's report that over 100 stores will engage in special window trimmings. Window dressers and decorators have been laying their plans for some time and the result of their work is bound to prove a great attraction. It is planned to have the windows veiled all day Friday until 7 o'clock in the evening when at a given signal the coverings will be lifted and a flood of lights will be turned on throughout the Business district.

After the "unveiling" the public will be invited to look around at leisure along the street and through the stores with a guarantee that no attempts will be made to force sales. The spring opening is essentially a "looking-over" proposition and not a sales event.

A prize contest for the best window trimmings will not be staged this year, according to a decision reached by the committee, a contest not being felt as necessary in view of the expressed desire of the merchants to give the public the finest display of merchandise and new styles possible.

The hundreds of persons who will take advantage of this opportunity to gain a thorough knowledge of fashion's latest decrees which will be not one mite less recent than what Fifth avenue will show, will find an impressive variety of colors in the 1929 spring goods.

In addition to what will be done on the street the merchants will make special announcements of what they plan to display. These announcements will appear in this newspaper the latter part of next week and should prove of great interest and value to readers.

Reports from the 17 committees appointed to investigate the more significant phases of community life and welfare are being received in numbers at the chamber of commerce and will be turned over to the city planning commission in the near future for final consideration. These reports embody recommendations that are to be taken up for action after a complete study of the problems as presented has been made by the commission.

Among some of the reports which have already been received are the following: Tax revaluation, M. E. Lincoln, chairman; fire prevention, Stanley J. Sumner, chairman; school needs, Mrs. Carl R. Alford, chairman; public library, Mrs. C. C. Case, chairman; welfare and charity, Mrs. Helen Boss Cummings, chairman.

The committee on parking and transportation and that on pure milk supply, headed respectively by George W. Hickey and Dr. C. E. Simonds, will report within a few days.

Other committees still at work are: New industries, William P. Jordan, chairman; housing, George M. Graves; sewerage disposal, Charles W. Hill; recreational needs, K. N. Hillhouse; public utilities, Edward G. Kenney; business growth, James B. Fullerton; aviation, Roland B. Jordan; town and city consolidation, John H. King; and zoning and building code, Nelson A. Daniels.

In observance of the tenth anniversary of their organization, the St. Mary's choir boys will stage an Easter frolic, April 15. The choir boys were established with a membership of 35 which has grown to 92 members at the present time. The choir was organized for the purpose of singing for the evening services at the church but at intervals other phases of activity helpful for the moral and physical welfare of the boys have been inaugurated, including the annual encampment at Columbia lake and participation in various sports. While the roster contains 92 names there are also a group of honorary members representing boys who are graduated from St. Mary's parochial school each year. The choir has found able leadership in all its activities in Joseph F. Gaudreau, who has been director of the choir since its establishment.

As part of a campaign of activity of the Windham branch of the League of Women Voters the Chaplin players will present a comedy, Mrs. Tubbs of Shanty Town, under the auspices of the league later this week. League members will go to Hartford March 20, to hear the presentation of a bill regarding the making of women eligible for jury service. The purpose of attendance when the bill is presented before the legislature is to become more familiar with the proposition.

What proved to be the smouldering of sawdust in a cuspidor into which a lighted cigarette had been thrown, brought out Engine company No. 1, in answer to a call to the Willimantic Silk Co., Inc., plant on Bridge street late Tuesday night. The night watchman had been unable to locate the source of a smoke odor and finally telephoned the fire department. The plant is owned by the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company.

Mrs. Claire Case gave a travelogue on her recent trip to Hawaii and a tour of California and Yellowstone Park at the regular meeting of the Woman's club held in the rooms on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Charles Tryon, first vice president, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. F. R. Noble. Mrs. George C. Moon was at the piano for the singing.

With but a small number of voters present, a tax rate of 20 mills, the same as last year, was voted at a special meeting of the town of Chaplin held Tuesday. George A. Reed was a moderator. The grand list totals $130,000 and the budget is for $8,000. The town will pay a county tax of $450 this month, according to notice received by Town Clerk B. M. Welch.

Instrumental and vocal numbers and readings will make up the program for a social reunion of members of the Methodist church to be held Thursday evening. Mrs. Charles H. Beebe and Mrs. Cora Rice have the entertainment in charge. During the evening Rev. Harold H. Critchlow, the pastor, will review the work done in the parish during the year and will explain future work in preparation for the coming conference of pastors of the New England Southern Methodist conference at Brockton, Mass., on April 2.

George W. Bedford and Vincent Shea have just returned from a two weeks' tour of Florida and Cuba. At Miami they were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Racicot, formerly of this city and spent some time with Alderman Arthur J. Dubreuil who is in Florida for the season.

North Coventry and sections of Bolton and Mansfield experienced quite a severe snow storm early this morning with the result that state highway plows were on duty nearly all day clearing the roads. The storm did nothing more here than to create a deep slush that made going, especially for pedestrians, anything but desirable during the early hours. A strong sun remedied the situation during the day.

Whist followed the regular session of Violet Rebekah lodge held in Odd Fellows' hall Tuesday evening with Noble Grand Marion St. John presiding. Winners at cards were: Mrs. Alice D. Stoughton and Arthur Swanson, first; Mrs. Elinor Ford and Frederick N. Flagg, consolations.

It was voted at Windham High school today to stage the annual Senior play Friday evening, April 19. Miss Veronica McQuillan of the faculty was chosen as coach.

Response to a still alarm for a chimney fire at 5 Strong Court in a residence owned by James M. Smith was made at noon today by Engine company No. 1.

A quarterly meeting of the Young Women's Bible class was held with a supper at the Baptist church vestry this evening. Miss Inez Paton and Mrs. Arthur W. Swanson were in charge of a social hour and entertainment.

Leon T. Wilson of Putnam, deputy internal revenue collector, has opened his office in Room 1 of the town building to receive income tax returns which must be filed on or before March 15. The office will be open every day except Sunday up to March 15. Collector Wilson reported business as quite brisk today.

A dramatic club with an initial membership of 12 has been formed by the young people of St. Paul's Episcopal church. Joseph Bernet has been selected as director.

Alderman and Mrs. Oliver L. Willard and Judge and Mrs. Otto B. Robinson who are motoring in the south are now on their way home. They plan to visit with Charles H. Caswell at his West Palm Beach home.

William B. Sweeney and his sister, Miss Alice Sweeney attended the gift show in Boston, Mass., Tuesday.

Rev. Edwin J. Norris of St. Andrews' Episcopal church, Norwich, will deliver the sermon at a prayer and lenten service to be conducted in St. Paul's church here Thursday.

Miss Mary Hamlin, teacher in Hartford, was overnight guest of Postmaster and Mrs. Frank M. Smith, leaving to spend the remainder of her vacation with Mrs. Carpenter of Columbia.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Rose and son Walter Rose of Pleasure Beach are staying at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Frank M. Lincoln. Mr. Rose is recovering from a recent operation. He is still confined to his bed.

Russell W. Potter, proprietor of the Art and Gift shop, attended the gift show in Boston, Mass., today.

Mrs. Eugene J. Lescoe of North street is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital.

The Misses Gertrude Dondero and Margaret Young have returned from a week end visit in Boston, Mass.

Mary Storrs Boglisch who spent the week's vation at Hanks Hill has returned to her home on Prospect street, Willimantic.

Myron Boglisch was elected one of the players of the Central Baptist church basketball team, Hartford, at the meeting held at the Central Baptist church Tuesday evening.

JEWETT CITY

MRS. GRACE WEST DIES AT HOME IN GLEN'S FALLS

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, March 6—Mrs. Harry L. Hull, of Lisbon, received a telegram today, from Glen's Falls, N. Y., announcing the death today of her aunt, Mrs. Grace West, 57. She is survived by her daughter, Ethel West. Some 35 years ago, Miss Grace Hoagland and Walter West were married in Lisbon. Mrs. Hull is planning to go to Glen's Falls to be present at the funeral Saturday. Miss Hoagland is remembered as a general favorite among the young girls of Lisbon at the time of her marriage.

The committee appointed Tuesday evening to serve for the coming banquet and ladies' night of Mt. Vernon lodge, No. 75, F. & A. M., includes: Clarence E. Whittaker, chairman; Walter A. Field, Walter L. Benjamin, Wallace H. Payne and George T. Bell.

A grand first meeting of Lisbon grange is slated for Friday evening. It has been arranged that all new names received that evening shall appear as charter members. Minor Ives, master of Grangers in Connecticut, will be present, as well as several delegations from neighboring granges.

A delegation from Mt. Vernon, No. 75, will visit Quinebaug, No. 106, of Pomfret, to witness work in the master Mason's degree.

The last two additions to Mr. Hiscox's calendar collection, bringing the number to 68, are a reproduction of The Old Mill, a painting by Oswald, from the Troy Laundry of Norwich, and the very daintiest of them all from Miss Grace Olin, done in water colors by herself. Its title is, "You Are No Chicken," and shows in spring buttercup yellow, two day-old baby chicks, thus addressing a mild-mannered garden toad, a seemingly unwelcome visitor to the cosy coop corner where the wee pair of peepers are viewing their first sunrise.

The steady 24 hours of rain did not cease until 5 a. m., Wednesday. Sunrise disclosed a landscape not to be recognized as the same locality which was to be seen last Sunday. Turn four inches of snow, wires, trees and buildings plastered with snow and sleet. Now, snow entirely disappeared, weather fair and mild, grackles building a nest on the East Main street highlands, with signs of spring as plenty as they are welcome.

Addressed Hartford Circle

Mrs. George H. Prior, president of the King's Daughters in Connecticut, was in Hartford Wednesday evening to address the King's Daughters of the Central Baptist church. While in the capital city, Mrs. Prior was the guest of Mrs. Emma Starbuck. In Jewett City, as school mates and girl friends, they were Misses Alice Phillips and Emma Campbell.

The water in the Quinebaug was over the Grove wall Wednesday, for the first time this winter. This level at the bridge means close to four feet above normal.

FACTS ABOUT STEEL TRAPS AND OTHER DEVICES

A Griswold trapper, living in the vicinity of Broad Brook, sold $400 worth of raw furs, mainly skunks, in one season to New York peltry jobbers. That same spring the trapper told in Jewett City of his last winter's success, and told that not one of 86 skunks was caught in a steel trap. Asked about it, he declared himself as finding the figure four deadfall not only sure but humane. The skunk, he said, will go into any sort of a trap that is baited, but will avoid any strange object where the attractive bit of carrot or potato does not appear. Twenty muskrats were caught in steel traps, but these, being set under water on sunken logs or at the entrance to the burrow, every rat was found to be drowned. The Broad Brook man, in reading about the spirited steel trap controversy, claimed that much of the bragging about catching foxes in a steel trap was simple rot, adding that the man who traps, by any scheme he can discover, a healthy, wide-awake red fox, is certainly going some. No record locally shows of but one fox being taken in a steel trap. The late W. C. Bliven caught one at the rear of the old, one-time Augustus Read saw mill. There was a slaughter house on the ridge above the mill. Every night, that winter, after an animal had been killed, the foxes from the Benjamin hemlocks would come over to smell around, and were sometimes shot by a hunter who lay low inside the old building. Mr. Bliven suspended a gory calf's head on a stick, six feet above the ground. That night a fine old vixen was caught in a steel trap secreted in the turf under the bait. She had leaped for the suspended head and landed in the trap.

Coit Library Officers

At the annual meeting of the Coit library trustees, Monday evening, the following officers were elected: President, Merton Bartlett; vice-president, John Potter; secretary, Miss Susie Hoagland and Walter West were married in Lisbon. Mrs. Hull is planning to go to Glen's Falls to be present at the funeral Saturday. Miss Hoagland is remembered as a general favorite among the young girls of Lisbon at the time of her marriage.

MYSTIC

RAIN FLOODS CELLARS—DRIVEWAYS DEEP MUD

Many local residences have water in the cellars, some of them having so much, that a person is required to wear rubber boots to tend the furnace fire and in some cases the fire has been put out by the water. Many cars get stuck in the mud in just trying to get out of yards, going down as far as the car will go.

OBITUARY

Walter D. McDonald

Walter D. McDonald, 57, who died at his home, Tuesday morning following two weeks' illness, was born March 1, 1872, in Dalton, Mass., the son of Pames McDonald and Nancy Plummer. He came to Mystic in 1900 and has been employed as a weaver at the Rossie Velvet company's mill during 29 years. The flag at the mill has been at half mast since his death. Mr. McDonald was a member of Stonington lodge, No. 26, I. O. O. F., Royal Arcanum Pequot Council, 442, of Stonington and of the B. F. Hoxie Engine company. He was a Spanish War veteran. SUGAR WAS ONCE TAXED AS LUXURY

Considered a Delicacy Only Rich Could Afford

A well-known food authority recently pointed out that sugar was once considered "an exotic tropical luxury." As a luxury, sugar was subject to taxation on the theory that it would be used by the wealthy classes that could afford to be taxed.

Sugar is now so cheap in price, the food authority went on to show, that it is used by everyone. As a matter of fact, as another scientist recently pointed out, there is now no fuel for the human body as cheap as sugar. "Sugar is one of the cleanest, purest, most wholesome foods," he said. "There is nothing that gives nutriment so cheaply."

The ideal way to use sugar is as a flavorer of all those varied, healthful foods we should eat in order to be strong and well. All children and adults should drink milk each day, and a little sugar and flavoring can be used to make delicious milk-shakes. Modern health authorities affirm that all of us should eat abundant fruits and vegetables, fresh and canned, raw and cooked. It is inadvisable to try to force the members of your family to eat fruits, vegetables and meats unenjoyably prepared.

Sweetening is the key-note of delicious, healthful cookery, and don't forget the satiation value of deserts, such as cakes, cookies and ice creams. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

Alice White

Saves dress and film goes on!

HOLLYWOOD, CAL.—Alice White's ingenuity recently saved a temporary suspension of production on her new film—and a loss of thousands of dollars an hour to First National studios.

In the midst of a ballroom scene, Miss White spilled punch down the front of her chiffon dancing frock. Consternation reigned—then Alice White herself saved the day.

Calling her maid, she instructed her to wash the dress in Lux. In 30 minutes the dress, dried quickly by electric fans, looked like new!

"Every girl knows how marvelous her frocks look cleansed in Lux," Miss White said—"and our own wardrobe department uses Lux regularly. Tests prove clothes can be kept gorgeously new looking ever so much longer with Lux. Today's incident merely illustrates dramatically the marvelous work Lux does in double-quick time."

STUDEBAKER'S Dictator by its remarkable stock-car record of 5000 miles in 4751 minutes, has certified the fleetness and staying power you may confidently expect from this great Six. Its 28 records for speed and endurance are not matched by any car at its One-Profit price.

The Dictator provides, too, that matchless comfort-assurance pioneered by Studebaker—ball bearing spring shackles. These, with The Dictator's new hydraulic shock absorbers, long, pliant springs and deep-sprung cushions, achieve travel ease unknown before Studebaker pioneered it.

The low-swung grace characteristic of the New Studebakers expresses beautifully The Dictator's champion performance. You sense at a glance the swiftness, the dauntless spirit of the car. You know it is fast, and sure, and capable, for it looks the part. And the world knows it too—just as it knows the 77-year-old name of Studebaker that stands four-square to back your judgment.

DANIELSON

BRADFORD HAS NO ONE IN MIND FOR JACKSON'S JOB

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 6— It is unlikely that there will be any immediate appointment to fill the vacancy in the position of county investigator in Windham county caused by the untimely death of William E. Jackson of Willimantic. State Attorney Howard C. Bradford said this afternoon that he has no one in mind at the present time to nominate for the place. It is understood that numbers of persons are desirous of having the office. The procedure for filling the vacancy is for the state attorney to make a nomination, which is subject to approval by Governor Trumbull.

Mr. Bradford said this afternoon that no definite date has been fixed for the beginning of the trial of Deputy Trenor A. Rice, held at Brooklyn jail to face the charge that he is responsible for Detective Jackson's death. The trial will come during the April term, Mr. Bradford said, but whether it will precede the disposition of minor cases on the criminal list or another murder trial that is pending remains to be determined as circumstances shape themselves.

Final reports to the Civic federation on the Christmas seal sale show that the total receipts here were $576.36. Expenses, including envelopes, mailing, etc., amounted to $23.13. Fifteen per cent. of the gross receipts go to the state association. This 15 per cent. amounting to $77.45. With this sum and the expense account out the net proceeds for use here is $415.78. This balance is used for purchasing milk, eggs, and other nourishing things that may be needed for tuberculosis patients regularly receiving care through the visiting nurse service of the federation.

Steady progress on the work on the interior of the new building of the Brooklyn Savings bank now assures completion of the structure by April 1, and officers of the institution already are considering plans for recognizing the occasion appropriately.

The new building, on the northeast corner of Main and Academy streets, is of face brick in handsome colonial design and constitutes an important and attractive addition to Danielson's business section. The interior arrangement and equipment represent the last word in bank planning. Immediately at the left of the Main street entrance, opening on a spacious lobby, is the officers' room, while directly opposite a large community room has been provided that will be available for meetings of various civic organizations. Five tellers' cages, glass enclosed, open upon the lobby.

The new safe deposit vault is situated at the rear of the public space, on the ground floor. The structure, of steel and concrete and built in accordance with the latest design, will house 200 two-key lock boxes. Another fireproof vault in the basement has been provided for bulky valuables.

State officers from the Danielson barracks began this afternoon the check-up that has been looked for to determine how many people are operating motor vehicles in this section without having 1929 operators' license. The check-up began here this afternoon and later was extended to Central Village, where passing motorists were being halted and asked to show their authority to be operating. It was said that the check would continue throughout the day. There was an early forecast that there would be court appearances both in Killingly and Plainfield as the result of the operation, the first of the cases probably coming Thursday.

This afternoon at the home in Putnam there was a prayer service at 1:30 for Mrs. Ellen Shaw Gallup, wife of Elmer Gallup, Rev. Edwin P. Wright of St. Philip's church, Putnam, and Rev. J. Rees Jones of St. Alban's church, Danielson, officiating. At 2:30, the funeral service was conducted at St. Alban's church here by the same clergymen and with a large number in attendance. The choir sang during the service, which was very impressive. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were: Dr. Henry Gallup, Denton Gallup and Lindner Gallup, Harry Shaw, Fred Shaw and Alfred L. Reed. There were many beautiful floral pieces.

Another demonstration that it is always a bit hazardous to send out news items in advance is illustrated by this morning's announcement in this column of the appearance of Will Rogers of Hartford as speaker at the chamber of commerce meeting last evening. As a matter of fact, Mr. Rogers was taken suddenly ill and had to cancel his appearance here, a fact that slipped by the newspaperman.

The directors of the chamber of commerce have taken up the matter of endeavoring to eliminate radio interference in Danielson by proceeding somewhat along the lines already outlined in this column. The endeavor will be to interest all parties concerned in a co-operative movement tending to eliminate as great an amount of interference as possible.

The fact that prospective Putnam town tax rate is 12 1-2 mills, whereas Killingly is facing one 25 or 25 1-2 mills is due to just one thing, and that is that Putnam has gone through a general revaluation of property, which practically doubled the grand list. The same thing is going to happen in Killingly in the not distant future. Killingly is paying on a lower valuation of its property now than Putnam is. However on a piece of property assessed for $10,000 in Putnam and a similar one assessed for $5,000 in Killingly the actual amount paid in taxes as the tax rates prospectively are to be would be about the same. Killingly likely will have a revaluation before the end of 1930. It has not had one for years.

A newspaper receives many suggestions for items. One that came today is of interest. It presents the idea that someone who might like to do a worthwhile thing in the public interest might present to the borough a new statue to take the place of the one that formerly stood in the fountain at Davis park. It's a nice idea, but would involve considerable expense for anyone undertaking it.

Mrs. Fred Howarth is spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. John Welsh of Attawaugan.

Danielson friends were in Mystic today to attend the funeral of John W. McDonald, for a number of years a summer resident at East Killingly.

Mrs. Emma Fowler of Pawtucket was a visitor with friends in Danielson today.

Selectmen of the town held their monthly meeting today, passing upon routine matters and approving the budget form to be presented at the adjourned annual town meeting to be held soon.

Arrest of more than a score of drivers in New London for operating without having proper licenses was said today to have been the means of some cars owned here going out of service until their owners can get new licenses.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry Gallup of Boston were here today to attend the funeral of Mrs. Elmer Gallup, who died at her home in Putnam.

A mid-week Lenten service is to be held at St. Alban's church Thursday evening.

Tuesday of next week Mrs. J. H. Milligan is to entertain the members of the Fortnightly club.

The Woman's auxiliary of St. Alban's church is to meet at the Parish house Thursday afternoon.

Arthur C. Benjamin of Springfield is spending a few days with friends in Danielson.

State highway surfaces all through this section, expecting where there is concrete, are showing the wear and tear of the winter season.

The board of relief, which has finished its labors, reduced the grand list $1,000, on a soldier's exemption, and made an addition of $100 to the list through locating a small piece of property that has evaded taxation the past eight years. The net change is a reduction of $900 in the grand list as completed by the assessors.

Selectman Alcott D. Sayles was indisposed at his home in East Killingly today, as Selectmen Charles F. Tillinghast and N. P. Gingras went there to confer with him about budget matters.

On Easter Sunday there is to be a reception of new members at the Westfield Congregational church.

Letters from former Danielson people who are now with the Connecticut Mills at the Albany, Decatur plant in Alabama tell of the wonderful spring weather there.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill said today that he is still uncertain as to when he will resume the inquest in the W. E. Jackson case at Willimantic.

PUTNAM

REPORT OF PUTNAM WATER COMMISSIONERS IS DELAYED

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 6—Because of the illness of one of the members of the board of water commissioners, Chairman Ralph E. Thurston was unable to outline tentative plans of the reconstruction in the water department at the March meeting held last night. Mr. Thurston told the councilmen that he would call a special meeting of the board at an early date to further plan their campaign for the relief of the water department. Mr. Thurston told the aldermen that he had invited Commissioner Shannock of the New England Insurance Underwriters bureau of Boston to be present as an advisor at this meeting. Mr. Thurston was pleased to inform Mayor Richard that the engineer had accepted his invitation and would attend the meeting.

By having some reputable engineer such as Mr. Shannock, Thurston stated that he would avoid the criticism of the public, Shannock is reported to be highly interested in Putnam's solution of the water problem and has volunteered his services free of charge. Mayor Richard was highly pleased with Thurston's report and commended him for his foresight in the matter. While being unable to furnish the city with a comprehensive statement of what has taken place in the water department during the past fortnight, Thurston did speak briefly of the various types of mains that he intends to include in his plans of reconstruction. In addition to this, Mr. Thurston condemned the plan of construction of a 2,000,000 gallon concrete reservoir to be erected on Richmond hill in the West Side of the city. The concrete sink for water storage was recommended by the old board of water commissioners who resigned their posts during the height of the controversy last year.

The report of Lucius P. Merriam and John J. McGarry, city auditors, was read and accepted. The auditors stated in their report that they had made careful examination of the accounts of all the heads of each department and found their books to be in perfect standing to the best of their knowledge at least.

The report of Captain of Police Jarvis showed 14 arrests for February for the following offenses: Intoxication, 10; assault, 1; violation of motor vehicle laws, 1; theft, 2. Four offenders were committed to jail, two to the care of probation officers, six paid fines and costs, one received a suspended sentence and one was discharged. Fines and costs for the month amounted to $223.97.

Alderman Eugene Migneault of the city highway commission reported that he had consulted Mr. C. F. Andem in the matter of repairing Farrows street. While neither the alderman nor Mr. Andem reached any binding agreement as to what steps would be taken to repair this thoroughfare, the alderman informed him that immediate action would be taken by the council at once.

Following the reading and approval of bills for the current month, Mayor Richards adjourned the meeting to Thursday evening, March 21, when a detailed account of plans for the reconstruction of the water department would be given to the council by the board of water commissioners.

MAYOR APPROVES ELECTION OF MOTOR CO. OFFICERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 6—Mayor Charles A. Richards has approved the election of the following officers of the Motor Company, No. 1, of the Main street station: Foreman, Harry M. Shower; assistant foreman, W. A. Wheaton; second assistant foreman, Harry C. Morse; secretary, M. H. Fish, and treasurer, W. A. Wheaton. The chief executive of the city has approved of the transfer of Fireman Walter Carey of the motor company to the Hook and Ladder company of the Main street station. Chief Thurston has also appointed Fred McCollugh and Joseph Guertin as members of the Hook and Ladder company to fill vacancies caused by the resignations of two members. Mayor Richards has sanctioned this act of the chief and the two new firemen will assume duties with their respective companies at once.

County Commissioner Arthur C. Keith was interviewed yesterday in regard to the sudden increase in the county tax to be paid this year by the town of Putnam. In past years the county assessment on this town has been in round figures, about $3,000, but for 1929 the selectmen of the town of Putnam will be obliged to forward the county a tax of $10,000. Mr. Keith said that the tax is laid according to the running expenses of the county. The expenses for Windham county have not increased any great margin during the past year, but every other year the towns within the county pay a larger tax one year and a smaller one the next. Many technical explanations of the fact were pointed out by Mr. Keith but have little bearing upon the subject. The county tax is laid by the state tax commissioner and is collected by him and then forwarded to the county officials to defray governmental expenses.

The Salvation Army maintenance appeal for $1,200 was launched Monday and is now well under way. The army drive is being supported by the city's leading clergymen, professional and business men and it is thought that before the close of the drive the funds obtained will be well over the top. Ralph X. Bugbee, leading Putnam merchant, is chairman of the drive committee.

Funeral and prayer services, prior to burial in Danielson, were held at the home on Florence street this afternoon at 1 o'clock for Mrs. Ellen S. Gallup, wife of Elmer J. Gallup. The short prayer service was read by Rev. Edwin P. Wright, rector of St. Philip's Episcopal church of this city, of which Mrs. Gallup was a member. The service was attended by many friends and relatives of the young mother, who fell a victim of pneumonia. Following the service in this city, the funeral cortege proceeded to Danielson where a church service was held.

A large gathering of local Rotarians and a Danielson delegation heard Sabin S. Russell, well-known Danielson attorney, speak on the subject of "How Laws are Made." Mr. Russell told his listeners of the many procedures necessary before a bill can become a law. He described the many forms, resolutions and petitions, as he exhibited samples which are brought before the various sub-committees of the state legislature, examined, passed upon and reported to the house when in session. Mr. Russell also told of the manner in which the state legislature is organized and how its business is conducted.

Five members of the Danielson Rotary club comprised the delegation accompanying Mr. Russell to Putnam today: William G. Sangster, Van Thomson, Henry Dubud, Lorne Greig, W. Irving Davis. Following the social period the club went into executive session, with President James F. English presiding.

Funeral services for Mrs. John B. Lepire of Bullock street, who died Saturday evening, were held this morning at St. Mary's church with a solemn high mass of requiem celebrated by Rev. Jos. D. Casey, curate at St. Mary's, assisted by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor, as deacon and Rev. Ernest J. Bolleau, curate at the church, as sub-deacon. Special music for the occasion was rendered by the members of the 10:30 o'clock choir, under the direction of Miss Rose Metras, church organist. The funeral mass was largely attended by many out-of-town relatives and friends of Mrs. Lepire as well as by scores of local acquaintances. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery with committal exercises at the grave in charge of Father Bellerose.

Dr. Marguarite J. Bullard of South Main street, who returned last week from the Phillips house in Boston, after several weeks' illness, has returned to her home in this city. Reports from the sick room of the doctor are to the effect that she is making a satisfactory recovery. She continues to gain in health daily, but it will be several months yet before she will be able to resume her practice.

Dr. Edward F. Perry, retired Putnam physician, who has been ill for a number of weeks, suffered a relapse late yesterday afternoon and was committed to the Day Kimball hospital in this city. At noon today Dr. Perry was reported as being somewhat improved. Dr. Perry retired from active practice of his profession about two months ago, when ill health forced him to give up his work among the sick. Dr. Perry is commanding officer of the medical detachment of the 43rd division of National Guard stationed at Danielson.

The new municipal register containing the annual reports of all the city departments has been printed and placed in circulation. The water department which has been in the limelight for the past two years showed a considerable gain during the past year in its financial report as outlined in the register. The other city departments also experienced a good year during 1928, according to the statements of the officials of each department.

After two weeks of confinement in New Bedford hospital Leonard H. Mellor has returned to this city and has resumed his duties at the National Thread company. Mr. Mellor suffered a compound fracture of the jaw three weeks ago in a soccer game played at Jewett City.

STONINGTON

THREE FIRE CO. OFFICERS HONORED BY RE-ELECTION

At the annual meeting of the Neptune Engine Co., Stonington Fire Dept. this week the following officers were elected: Captain, James J. McCoart; first lieutenant, William E. PICKED THE RIGHT MAN.

No one need think that because he has finished his term as vice president Mr. Dawes is going to fold his hands and sit in idleness. That isn't characteristic of the man and it would be putting his ability to poor use.

In the past he has been called upon for much valuable financial work and it is indicated that his services will be much in demand in that direction. This is disclosed by the arrangements which were made before he left the vice presidency to head a commission that will reorganize the fiscal system of the Dominican republic and establish a scientific budget.

That republic has had its troubles in looking out for its own affairs. It has received the kindly assistance of this government on various occasions but it has need for more and it is indeed fortunate to get the help of the commission headed by former vice president in regulating its expenditures.

For a quarter of a century the Dominican republic has indicated a willingness to spend regardless of income, to have slight regard for the importance of making ends meet and to get into financial tangles from which it was necessary to get outside assistance before they could be unraveled. This country has repeatedly responded, as has so often been the case with other island republics. It is a republic where internal difficulties have at times made the outgo twice the income resulting in overpowering debts and the insistence on the part of creditors that they be paid or they would collect. Through plans arranged by this government a serious situation was prevented and a substantial debt reduction accomplished. More civil strife added to its difficulties and following an administration by the military of this country order resulted and financial assistance was extended to meet its indebtedness and provide for needed betterments.

It is thus inevitable that the republic should turn to this country as a friend in time of more complications. The Dawes commission did much for the relief of the tangled situation in Europe and the new commission under the same head will accomplish the desired results in this new undertaking if anyone can. The republic is fortunate to get his services.

CANNOT SEE PAST THE DOLLARS.

While it cannot be said that any very great progress has been made toward the much desired reduction in the output of habit forming drugs through international agreement, the effort has not been abandoned. While this country has been taking a leading part in the endeavor to get the nations to agree to a curtailment of production, so that only what is required for medical and scientific purposes would be manufactured, it has failed to get the necessary cooperation.

According to a report by the anti-opium information bureau at Geneva, there is full recognition of the situation in this country where those who seek narcotics illegally experience little difficulty because of the willingness of other countries to produce the goods and dispose of them to those who are ready to engage in smuggling because of the profit there is in such business.

In spite of the demoralization which it is known that narcotics are causing and the crime which goes hand in hand with their use, there is an apparent unwillingness to decrease the production. There is opposition to trying to supply such an industry with something else that might be beneficial rather than detrimental to mankind. The anti-opium information bureau tells the story when it says: "With these drugs comparatively readily obtainable in Europe and Asiatic countries and a strong demand in the United States, represented by non-medical addicts who find it impossible to obtain a supply from the quantity domestically manufactured, it is obvious that large supplies of drugs so readily obtainable are unlawfully introduced into the United States."

The situation is anything but creditable to the countries which are unwilling to overlook their selfish ends and make a real contribution to humanity.

OCEAN AIRPORTS.

Whether airports in the ocean are going to become a reality will be determined by the experiment that is to be made with one midway between New York and Bermuda. It will be a test of what has been looked upon as a dream following the demonstrated need of some landing place in the ocean for those airplanes which seek to cross the Atlantic.

It can be realized that if there were several floating airports located in the Atlantic between this country and Europe the difficulties attending the transatlantic flying would be greatly reduced. It would be a flight that could be made in several hops instead of one, and there would be no need of carrying such a great quantity of fuel as is now required, for refueling could be accomplished at anyone of these stops. Furthermore there would be facilities for effecting repairs if trouble developed on such a flight.

The problem is of course to get something aside from a ship, like a huge airplane carrier to serve as a floating airport. As the result of experiments with steel models of such an ocean airport as is contemplated the belief exists that it is practical. Such confidence has developed that a million and a half is to be risked on the venture and it is figured that under the proposed method of construction it will be able to ride the waves with little or no motion. At least the calculations are that there will be no waves less than 180 feet high that will disturb the serenity of those aboard it.

Such a claim for a steel platform 1200 feet long, 400 feet wide and setting 100 feet above the water, containing a hotel and supply stations seems fanciful but stabilizing methods which are to be used have worked well with models which gives ground for the belief that if the sample of the pudding is satisfactory the whole dish should be likewise.

With a series of such seadromes lined up across the Atlantic ocean flying would become more attractive and far less risky. The possibilities if the landing platforms are a success are many, and while the expense of determining that point may be considerable it means a big contribution to aviation and especially ocean flying if the demonstration succeeds.

OUR NEW LAND.

Placing the American flag on new territory is not an every year occurrence. It is not the policy of the United States to extend its limits through conquest and it is seldom that it adds to its possessions by purchase. On the other hand it is not in the habit of seeking additional territory for the purpose of taking care of its surplus citizens.

Thus when Commander Byrd places the Stars and Stripes on territory which he has discovered in the far south and calls it the property of Uncle Sam it is enough out of the ordinary to arouse interest.

Others have gone into Antarctica and made discoveries, claimed tracts of land for their government and given them names. Many have explored that region and yet it is invariably true that each new expedition finds something which those who preceded it did not see. It is so with Commander Byrd. He had as his early objective points those which others had found. But through his operations after reaching there by the use of the flying machine and other means he has established the fact that there is a territory estimated at something like 40,000 square miles which no one had previously known about.

It was to be expected that he would claim any such area as belonging to the United States. Explorers have that in mind when they start out but from anything that can be foreseen now there are many regions where the United States flag files today which are far more valuable than that which has been recently located.

Just what use can ever be made of it is a question. The fact is that there is that of value there which can be obtained and removed at a profit. Setting up a flag isn't always accepted as undisputed ownership. There are also other requirements before possession is actually gained provided others are interested. It remains to be seen, as yet, whether the newly discovered territory is without any overlapping claimants. From all indications it is new and so far as known it is a mountainous, ice covered region that no one will be inclined to dispute over.

PRESIDENTIAL REST PLACE.

Congress has a way of suiting its own sweet will. While it gives indications one day that it is disposed to block action on a certain measure, it may remove the opposition subsequently and permit a vote on it, knowing all the time that if a vote is taken it will have a favorable outcome.

Such at least was the experience of the bill seeking an appropriation for a presidential retreat. One of the bills signed during the closing days of the 70th congress was that carrying out the recommendation of the president that provisions should be made for establishing a place within motoring distance of Washington where the chief executive could go for week ends or other times for a rest from the daily routine of the office. This is particularly desirable during the warm months when Washington is far less comfortable than the mountains which are close to the national capital.

What Mr. Coolidge sought could do him no good. His interest was in behalf of others and when he let it be known that Mount Weather would be a desirable place he was trying to get something done for his successor. Thus it can be appreciated that it was with much satisfaction that he signed the bill for the improvement of the buildings already erected and little used in the Blue Ridge mountains, where weather observations were once made. What appeared destined to get clogged in the rush of business during the closing days managed to escape the jam. If it had concerned the head of some foreign government it would have meant the building of a palace instead of remodeling an unused building.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

This is the day when the Standard Oil Company of Indiana stages the battle of the proxies.

The man on the corner says: It doesn't take much to arouse thoughts about next summer's vacation.

It will not be long now before the seed catalogues can be put aside and the early plowing started, the groundhog being willing.

Tammany is said to be booming Walker for mayor of New York again. One might think that Mayor Walker considered his renomination rested with Florida.

This is the season of the year when a heavy rainfall is a quick asset for reservoirs in some localities and a flood provocative in others.

SWEET DREAMS

"This book on the psychology of sleep and dreams is very interesting," said Mr. Moffatt, who read things like that. Mr. Moffatt's taste in reading matter was, in fact, extremely diversified and a bit erratic. One week it was sleep and dreams, another it might be the real causes of the Wars of the Roses or the fishing methods of the Salish Indians, or the love letters of George Sand. Mrs. Moffatt, on the other hand, did fancy work.

"It must be," agreed Mrs. Moffatt. Politeness required that she say that much, but even politeness could not strifle the yawn that followed. She knew what was coming.

"I'll bet you don't even know why you sleep!" charged Mr. Moffatt. His belligerent tone was certainly unjustified. Mrs. Moffatt had been as inoffensive as possible all evening.

"Of course I know," she replied, a bit nettled at his tone. "You sleep because you need the rest. Any fool knows that!"

"Ha!" cried Mr. Moffatt, plunging into this opening. "That's just the point. Any fool thinks that, but this psychologist thinks differently. Your body can rest just as well while you are awake."

"I don't believe it," said Mrs. Moffatt. "And, anyway, what about resting your mind? After you've thought hard all day about what to have for dinner and where your allowance all went to and how does the milk bill happen to be so big this month, you've got to go to sleep to rest your mind. Now, don't you?"

"You don't!" replied Mr. Moffatt, emphatically. "Don't you realize that your mind doesn't rest at all while you are sleeping? It works constantly. That's how you dream."

"But some people don't dream."

"Ah, yes they do. We all dream, but we don't always remember our dreams. Why, it says here that ——"

"What difference does it make why you sleep, as along as you do?"

"You what?"

"That's what the book says. You do things that you don't enjoy all day, and get bored with everything, and then you go to sleep to get away from it all, and in your dreams you do the things you wanted to do during the day but couldn't. Suppose you wanted to play golf, for instance, and couldn't, but had to stick in the hot office all day. Then you might dream about playing golf and get away that night."

"I think that's a far better way to play than the way you do, and a lot less expensive," said Mrs. Moffatt. She thought a moment. "That explains it."

"Explains what?"

"What you were doing in your sleep last night. You dreamed of golf."

"How do you know?"

"Because you swore so. And I'd think you swore enough during the day, without doing it at night. That's no escape from reality."

"No, but don't you see that the golf was? I did want to play yesterday and couldn't. Then I satisfied that desire in sleep." Mr. Moffatt was triumphant.

"Well, how about my dream that I was mowing the back lawn? Why should I want to escape from reality by mowing a lawn? Goodness knows, it's hard enough to do housework during the day, without having to take care of the yard at night." Mrs. Moffatt was really quite indignant about it.

"Oh, you always make everything sound ridiculous," said Mr. Moffatt crossly. "I think this man's theory is absolutely right. Most people lead such awful monotonous existences. They want to escape from the conditions they live in, and can't in any ordinary way, so they fall asleep to forget their troubles, and then they dream and do all the things they'd like to do to break the monotony, but couldn't and they——"

He stopped, gazing at his wife. She was sitting just as she had been, but her fancy work was lying untouched in her lap. Her head nodded.

The psychological theory was proved. Mrs. Moffatt had fallen asleep. —Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Protest

Mr. Editor: We know that our moving pictures are censored. I would like to know if the plays which are being given this week by the Chicago Stock Co. are censored.

I attended the Tuesday matinee and protest against such vulgar suggestions and profanity that was given to us.

A MOTHER.

Norwich, March 5, 1929.

An Erroneous Impression

Mr. Editor: A great effort is being made in America at the present time to convince the people that beer is not an alcoholic beverage in the sense that whisky and other spirituous liquors are, that its so-called use is harmless, that it has food value, and that a permanent solution of the drink habit can be found in the prohibition of whisky and similar drinks and the encouragement of beer and light wines.

These statements are not supported by the facts as established by the experience of America and Germany, by the medical and chemical professions, and by the records of "keep-beer-prohibition" experiments.

Dr. Charles Gilbert Davis of Chicago said, "It is my professional opinion after observation of many years in the medical profession, that beer is doing more harm to humanity than all other alcoholics." Dr. Struempell, a German physiologist of high standing says, "Nothing is more erroneous than to think of diminishing the destructive effects of alcoholism by substituting beer for other alcoholic drinks."

As to the food value of beer, the German chemist, Baron von Liebig says, "Beer, wine, and spirits furnish no element capable of entering into the blood, muscular fiber, or any part that is a vital principle.——Nine quarts of the best ale contains as much nourishment as would lie on the end of a table knife."

Yours truly,
G. R. BARNES.

TRIBUTES PAID TO SENATOR GEORGE P. McLEAN

Senator Glass of Virginia, democrat, paid a high tribute to Senator McLean, who retired from congress Monday by his own decision, and who is ill at his winter home.

Senator Glass said:

Mr. President, in the course of the proceedings today the minority leader took occasion to pay very suitable tribute to those members of the senate on this side of the aisle who have been retired momentarily from public life, or who of their own choice have retired from the senate. It occurs to me that some word of tribute ought to be paid to a distinguished senator on the other side of the aisle who is voluntarily retiring from this body, and with whom I have now for nearly seven years been most agreeably associated on the committee on banking and currency. I have reference to the senior senator from Connecticut (Mr. McLean).

It affords me peculiar pleasure to say that in my 18 years of service on the banking and currency committee of the house of representatives, and the kindred service of nearly eight years on the banking and currency committee of the senate, I never encountered any man in either body of the congress who seemed to be more earnestly and conscientiously devoted to public duty than this distinguished senator from Connecticut. Always courteous, always kindly, always intelligently informed as to matters brought before his committee for consideration, I regarded his retirement from the chairmanship of the committee as a distinct loss to the senate and to the country.

I was so impressed with that conviction that I personally appealed to him to reconsider his decision. It was only due to ill health that he would not respond to these appeals of his associates. I consider that his retirement from the senate is a loss to the country, and I do not know that ever before in my public career have I entertained such an attachment or such personal affection for any man with whom I have been associated, notwithstanding he and I belong to different political parties. From our intercourse, and from our co-operation in legislative matters, no human being could ever have supposed that our political affiliations were not the same, and it is with a feeling of great sadness that I consider the retirement of this worthy and altogether capable public man.

Senator Bingham then rose and said:

Mr. President, on behalf of the people of Connecticut I want to express to the senator from Virginia (Mr. Glass) our very warm thanks for this unusual tribute to come across the aisle from one of the most distinguished senators on the other side, whose record as a public servant we all know has been one of the most marked of any in this country.

The people of Connecticut did all they could to keep his friend and our distinguished statesman in this body. By public and unanimous resolution of the convention of the party of which he was a member he was in a most unusual manner told that the nomination would be his without the slightest opposition on the part of any one, and that it was the universal hope of the state that he would again serve them, but he gave it as his unalterable desire to retire from the public service after having served as governor and as senator for nearly a quarter of a century.

It is our belief that we have lost an able, an ardent, and a loyal advocate of the state, and that our friends in the United States have lost the services of one of their most distinguished statesmen, who voluntarily retires into private life on Monday next.

An Ohio dentist recently became insane and tried to fill the teeth of a buzz saw. The coroner's jury declared the experiment a success.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 6— Almost on the eve of the expiration of the 70th congress a knock down and drag out fight between senate and house over appropriation bill procedure loomed for a while.

Harsh words aimed at particular house members were popping like pistol shots on the senate floor. Several senators, both republican and democratic, seemed riled to the boiling point. Some boiled over publicly, like Glass of Virginia and Walsh and Wheeler of Montana. Others did their boiling privately, among them no less a figure that Curtis of Kansas, majority leader and vice president-elect.

Money the Root Of It

What underlay the general situation arousing senate fury was described by Moses of New Hampshire as house assumption of autocratic control of money bills.

"They (house money bill conferees) have become increasingly insistent upon having exactly their way or legislation will fail," Moses said.

"It is time the senate let the other branch of congress know it is the senate and cannot be controlled by one or two contumacious members of another body!" Glass thundered.

The queer part of it all was that the fuse which set off the senate fireworks was the row between Walsh and Wheeler and Representative Cramton of Michigan, chairman of the interior appropriations sub committee and long a specialist on national park legislation.

Cramton included in the interior supply bill a provision authorizing condemnation of private holdings within national parks. Both Montana senators own summer homes within Glacier national park and both are good fighting men.

A Personal Matter

They fought Cramton all the way and the senate supported them. So the issue that hung up an $286,000,000 supply bill in conference for weeks was not a money matter after all. Yet it served as a pivot for the whole senate clamor at house procedure and for open threats of filibuster by senators who never have employed that device before.

Norris of Nebraska got in a crack at house repugnance to an anti-lame-duck session constitutional amendment. With that adopted "we will never get into this difficulty again," he said.

"Mr. President," said Blease of South Carolina, "some of the 'lame-ducks' we have are the brainiest men here."

The Congressional Record fails to show whether the group of ousted senators thanked him.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Taxes on personal property and real estate paid during the taxable year 1928 are deductible. The revenue act of 1928 permits the deduction of taxes assessed against local benefits, such as, for example, taxes imposed by drainage or irrigation districts, to the extent that such taxes are properly allocable to maintenance and interest charges. The deduction of estate and inheritance taxes is confined to the estate. Retroactive provisions pertaining to deductions of estate and inheritance taxes also are found in the new revenue act.

The federal income tax may not be deducted. However, income taxes imposed upon the income of individuals by states may be deducted by an individual in his federal income tax return.

Customs duties paid by a person on articles imported for his own use are deductible. Admission taxes are deductible, but the taxpayer must show that account has been kept of the amount paid during the year. Guesswork will not be accepted.

"LENT AND MY CHURCH"

Memory Verse for Thursday

"Those members of the body which seem to be more feeble are necessary." (I Corinthians 12:22). (Read: I Corinthians 12:1 to 11).

MEDITATION: My church shows me great respect by asking me to do something for it. It does not offer to carry me as a weakling, it honors me with a task. It informs me that I am of consequence and that my service however humble is important and even necessary. And I find that when I have done something for my church I love it the more because I have put myself into it. More than that I discover and possess a new value in the Christian life. So I must be diligent in service that my love does not grow cold and the comforts of my religion fade from my life. If my service be small yet it is needed and therefore important and honorable.

PRAYER: O God who hast divided unto men their gifts and appointed unto each his portion of labor I pray for the willing and humble heart that I may accept my task with thanksgiving. Through Jesus Christ my Lord. Amen.

YOUR HEALTH

The King's Illness Explained

(By Dr. William F. Honan, New York City, of the Gorgas Memorial

Standing bareheaded at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in London, the king became chilled. The effect of this chill was to lower the resistance of the mucus lining of his breathing apparatus. This gives the organisms that are always present in the nose, throat, tonsils and sinuses an opportunity to multiply nad produce an infection. The result was a cold in the head, followed possibly by extension into the bronchial tubes.

Invasion of the lungs is usually by the pneumococcus, and the production of pneumonia was probably the consequence. Possibly the king started pneumonia without the bronchitis. Perhaps a slight chillness was followed in a few hours by pain in the chest and pleural pneumonia. After ten or twelve days, the pneumonia probably cleared, but his temperature failed to drop. Examination showed a more or less clear or turbid fluid in the chest. Culture and examination of the fluid in the laboratory work showed the pneumococcus. In a few days this fluid became pus and the physicians in attendance, feeling that this collection of fluid was localized and shut off by adhesions from the greater part of the chest cavity, removed it by taking out a portion of the rib and inserting a drainage tube. This is the most favorable type, and offers the best chance for a cure. The prospect of recovery depends upon the age of the patient, and particularly on the condition of the heart and kidneys.

You have noted by reports in the daily press that the distinguished patient was receiving calcium or salts of lime. In infections and following surgical operations, there is a great strain upon the various organs of the body, notably the heart and kidneys. There is also a disturbance in the chemistry of the blood. The blood not only contains white and red corpuscles, but also a solution in which are dissolved important inorganic elements that replace the worn-out tissues of the body. The loss of tissues in any serious disease is important. The blood becomes impoverished in attempting to combat invading organisms and to supply lost tissues. A normal level of the salts of the blood of the patelent must be maintained artificially when they are deficient. The ability to maintain a balance at or near the normal standard will frequently tip the scale in favor of recovery, where a failure to do so may mean the death of the patient. The calcium referred to profoundly affects the heart, giving tone to the heart muscle, somewhat like digitalis, as well as performing an important chemical function in the blood stream.

The best way to avoid complications in influenza and pneumonia is to take the matter seriously from the outset. Upon the first appearance of a cold in the head or chilliness with aching of the muscles, fever and general weakness, the patient should give up and go to bed. He should be isolated from the rest of the family, and a physician should assume charge as early as possible.

Stories That Recall Others

The Bath Whistle

Mr. X has one tune he whistles when occupying the bathroom. One evening while listening in on the broadcasting of a programme from a radio station the members of the family were amused to hear the familiar whistle.

"That fellow must be taking a bath," said the observing five year old boy of the household.

Practically the Same

Billy, the small son of a prominent doctor, was playing at his father's profession, walking up and down the street with a "pretend" medicine case in his hand and a very serious expression on his face. Much impressed next-door Lillian inquired of her mother:

"Is Billy a doctor, mother?"

"He's a quack doctor," said her mother, jokingly.

The next day one of Lillian's dolls developed mumps.

"Mother," suggested the girl importantly, "I'm going to call in Doctor Duck."

"One simple look is all I crave," writes the poet. He would probably get it by gazing into a mirror.

A total of $6,170, nearly one-third of the $20,000 goal, has been raised in the Norwich chamber of commerce expansion programme campaign, according to the reports made by the captains of the four divisions and the chairman of the activities fund at a dinner meeting held by the campaign organization Wednesday evening at the Wauregan hotel. The amount secured in subscriptions Tuesday, the first day, was $2,986, a little less than was netted by the workers on Wednesday, when $3,184 was brought in. The number of subscriptions so far is 228.

Plane No. 11, Max Hanover, pilot, was twice honored Wednesday evening by winning the pennant for the best report in subscriptions secured and the "bacon" for the best report in collections for the day. The winner of the flag awarded to the division for the best report in total amount of subscriptions procured, went to Division 2, John P. Lyston, ace and the dollar sign for the best total report in collections for the day was awarded to Division No. 1, Abner Schwartz, ace.

The sum subscribed by the workers on Plane No. 11 for the day was $374, which, with the $261 made Tuesday, puts it at the head of the column in the planes division. The activities fund committee has turned in the largest amount, $2,775, to date in the campaign, $1,425 being secured Wednesday.

After the reports were presented, William J. Fitzgerald, chairman of the recreational committee, instilled enthusiasm into the members with a stirring talk. He spoke of several accomplishments of the chamber of commerce during the past, including the building of the military highway, the installation of the great white way; being instrumental in founding the recreational centers and building the Samuel Huntington and other schools. He urged the members to go out today (Thursday) and sell their subscriptions on these merits.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, general chairman, urged the team workers to do more intensive work today.

Previous to adjournment, Carlton Yount, campaign manager, contrasted the total subscriptions secured with the present membership of the chamber. Only 128 members have been reported, he said, while there are 225 paid-up memberships on the books, with an additional 75, who are not in good standing. There are some workers who have these members on the cards, he said, and it is up to the pilots to check up with their workers on this. Mr. Yount announced that the next report will be made at 12:15 o'clock this (Thursday) afternoon at the Wauregan hotel.

Late Wednesday afternoon a verdict of $3,300 was returned in the superior court at New London in favor of the three plaintiffs in the joint tial of automobile negligence suits against Manuel G., and Arthur J. Davis of Stonington. Damages of $20,750 were asked. Trial of the three suits was started Tuesday morning before Judge Christopher L. Avery and the jury, and Judge Avery charged the jury Wednesday afternoon. The plaintiffs are: Peter Morosini, Stonington, who asked damages of $10,000; Dominic Morosini, damages of $10,000; Morris Morosini, a minor, damages of $750.

The suit arose out of an automobile collision in Greenmanville avenue, Mystic, between a car owned by Morris Morosini and driven by Dominic under instruction by Peter, and a car driven by the defendant, which, according to the complaint, came out of a private driveway into the path of the plaintiff machine. The accident occurred about 4:30 p. m. on Dec. 19, 1927.

GAVE ADDRESS ON STATE PARKS AT D. A. R. MEETING

An address on state parks given by W. Foster Schreeder, engineer of the state forest and park commission, was an interesting feature of the monthly meeting of Faith Trumbull chapter, No. 11, D. A. R., held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Wauregan hotel. Mr. Schreeder's talk was illustrated with views taken in the forests under the supervision of the Connecticut Forest and Park association. The chapter had as its guests members of the civics department of the Woman's City club. About 75 attended.

In his address Mr. Schreeder mentioned five bills rezarding forestry that have been presented before the 1929 Connecticut general assembly, and are deserving of the support of the chapter. These bills are as follows:

H. B. 179—Authorizing formation of forest protective associations. The object of this bill is to provide means for more adequate protection of forest land from fires by permitting the state to cooperate with associations of forest land owners. It appropriates $10,000 for this purpose. Before appropriations committee.

H. B. 690—Appropriation of $50,000 for improving roads to state forests to facilitate fire prevention, removal of ripe timber, thinnings, planting and the like. It will, in addition, make the forests more available for recreational centers. Before appropriations committee.

S. B. 289—Taxation of forest lands. This bill exempts standing timber from taxes, taking only the land upon which it is grown and is in accord with sound principles of forest taxation. Under present system forests are often cut before they are ripe to avoid excessive taxation. Before finance committee.

The other two bills, which are before the appropriations committee, are the state foresters and fire wardens bills.

The pictures shown by Mr. Schreeder included the virgin pine forests of today, birds eye view of Connecticut with open spaces and short timber, historic spots, tree plantations, diseased trees, and other interesting views.

In speaking of the chestnut tree, Mr Schreeder said that they were practically wiped out by the blight several years ago and there is no hope for them. There are trees in the state, he said, but when they reach a certain stage, 2 or 3 inches in diameter, the blight strikes them and they die. He also spoke of other diseases including the fungus that are detrimental to the trees, the removal of which is urged.

The most serious enemy to the forests, as well as the wild life and birds, is fire, he said. In order to contend with this enemy the state forest and park commission has erected 10 lookouts in the state, and 11 are in the process of construction, he said. A number of pictures were thrown on the screen showing the various apparatus used for the extinguishing of forest fires. The telephone, electric light and railroad companies are cooperating, he said, in the prevention of forest fires by the removal of brush, trees and grass on either side of their lines.

Preceding the address the chapter held its business session, Mrs. William H. Dawley, presiding. The reports of officers and committee chairmen were presented following the singing of America, Miss Annie E. Vaughn at the piano, the Lord's Prayer in unison and the salute to the flag led by Mrs. Albert J. Bailey. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Leslie L. Brewer, and the treasurer, Mrs. Albert S. Comstock, reported that there is $217.87 in the current fund and $4,270.87 in the museum fund.

The deaths of Mrs. William H. Allen and Mrs. Albert Degenaar were reported that Miss Kinnan has been received as a member. Mrs. Dawley spoke in appreciation of the work of Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Degenaar for the chapter, especially the former's part in the erection of the D. A. R. fountain on the Little Plain. Progress was reported by the historian, Mrs. Harry Carlson, on the chapter's history, which the state historian has asked for.

It was announced by Mrs. W. Tyler Browne, chairman of the museum committee, that the chapter has received a number of pieces of silver from Mrs. Osgood's estate, which are now in the chapter's box at the Norwich Savings society. The chairman of the patriotic committee, Mrs. Frank I. Royce, reported on the postponement of the bridge party by which her committee expects to raise its part of the budget.

Mrs. Louis A. Wheeler, chairman of the programme committee, made it known that Mrs. Clarence H. Wickham of Hartford, will address the April chapter meeting, which is an open one, speaking upon the state work in patriotic education and her recent trip around the world. A letter from the state regent was read by the secretary announcing the state conference at Windsor, March 19 and 20, to which all chapters are invited.

Attention was called by the regent to the new by-laws calling for the appointment of a nominating committee at the April meeting. She asked that members to remember that two of the five members of the committee are to be appointed by the chapter and three by the regent.

Following the business session, a delightful programme of entertainment was provided and included a short paper, Defense of the Common Defense, by Mrs. Ernest J. Jones and a vocal selection by Mrs. Aurin E. Payson, who was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Arthur Payson. The address by Mr. Schreeder was given, after which tea and dainty refreshments were served by a committee of which Mrs. Walter S. Bussey was chairman.

The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. William H. Geer, leader of the circle and this was followed by a brief business meeting. The remainder of the afternoon was spent socially, Mrs. Allen serving tea.

WILL DEFER MOTION ON DIVERSION OF WATERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6—The motion which the state of Connecticut intended to make in the supreme court next Monday to have the secretary of war and the chief of engineers made parties to the suit of Connecticut against Massachusetts to prevent diversion of the waters of Ware and Swift rivers, to supplement the water supply for the Boston metropolitan district, will probably be deferred until after the recess of the supreme court, which opens on April 8.

This was learned at the department of justice and the judge advocate general's office in the war department today. Assistant Attorney General Callahan of Massachusetts was in conference here yesterday.

CLOTHING MISSED FROM FAIRMOUNT ST. HOUSE

Complaint was made to the police Wednesday evening by Herman H. Ragovin of No. 35 Fairmont street, that someone had stolen two or three suits of clothes from his house. The thief is described as being five feet, four inches in height, wearing a gray overcoat, cap and scarf and having a reddish moustache.

MR. AND MRS. COOLIDGE GLAD TO BE BACK HOME

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 6—(AP)—Back in her own home after almost six years as the first lady of the land, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge looks upon her stay in the white house "as a great lark" but a position also attended by great responsibilities which make her join her distinguished husband in a feeling of relief that they are private citizens again.

Mr. Coolidge has been frank and explicit in telling how glad he is that the cares and worries of the presidency are no longer his, but it was not until today that his wife, who has often been described as one of the most gracious mistresses the white house ever had, revealed her own feelings.

A warm sunny day brought her out of doors for a walk along Massasoit street. Accompanying her as she indulged in her exercise was "Tiny Tim" her favorite dog and the only pet that she brought home with her from the capitol. Mrs. Coolidge wore a black fur coat and no hat.

To newspaper correspondents whom she met in the course of her stroll she said, "it was hard to leave our old friends in Washington, but it is nice to get back here. It was a great lark but a great responsibility. It is too bad that more women cannot have the opportunity of living in the white house. It is a great opportunity for service."

Giving the correspondents a flash of her famous smile, she went on to tell them that she intended to follow the quiet routine of life in a small New England city, with no definite plans for the immediate future. Free from the duties required of the first lady of the land, she wants to come and go as she pleases.

DAWES DOESN'T WANT TO SAY A WORD ABOUT POLITICS

CHICAGO, March 6—(AP)—Charles Gates Dawes came home today to get some work done and within half an hour after stepping from his train he was busy doing it.

He hustled off the train which brought him from Washington to his offices in the Central Trust company and soon after was presiding over a meeting of the board of that institution.

The former vice president sent his family on to the Dawes home in Evanston but put in a full day at the office before going there himself. When he finally arrived home he found messages of greeting awaiting him from the mayor of Evanston and Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university.

General Dawes set at rest reports that he might run for the senate against Senator Charles G. Deneen with one word, "Never," he said when asked if he might not run for office, and then added, "And I don't want to say a word about politics. I am glad to be back and so is Mrs. Dawes."

An epigram is anything mean that can be said in a two-line poem.

BEWARE OF DIETS WITHOUT BULK

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Will Protect You

People are more careful than ever before about diet. They diet to clear complexions. They avoid certain foods to stay thin. They eat others to get fat. But many are running a serious danger because they are missing the "roughage" or "bulk" foods that every person must have to keep well.

As a result, constipation gets in its deadly work. Headaches, listlessness, circled eyes are only the first symptoms. In the end, constipation ruins health, wrecks beauty and may cause serious disease.

Don't neglect your daily roughage. That is nature's rule. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will supply it. A healthful cereal to eat each day. To use in cooked dishes or to serve with milk or cream. To mix with other cereals.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation — to prevent it. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. It is 100% bran. Doctors recommend it. Your grocer sells it. Served by hotels, restaurants, dining cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

This wonderful surgeon's prescription now known all over America as Moone's Emerald Oil, is so efficient in the treatment of skin diseases that the itching of eczema often stops with one application.

A few applications and the most persistent cases of Eczema often are healed never to return.

Moone's Emerald Oil is safe and pleasant to use and it is so powerful antiseptic and deodorant that even odors arising from ulcers, gangrene and cancer are instantly killed.

Moone's Emerald Oil in the original bottle is dispensed by pharmacists. They always have Moone's Emerald Oil on hand.

WINDHAM HIGH SWAMP ACADEMY WHEN MEIKLE AND MASON RUN WILD

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 6—Windham high's quintet climbed into a first place tie with Chapman Tech in the Eastern Connecticut high school conference basketball race tonight by smothering Norwich Free Academy at the state armory surface, 53 to 13. Both Tech and Windham now have six victories and one defeat with each team having a game with Putnam high to decide the title. Both of these games are scheduled to be played at Putnam.

The first half of tonight's encounter was fairly interesting, Windham leading at half time by 24 to 12. Berghinzo, Academy center, scored the first point of the game on a foul and early in the first period it looked like a very even go but once the local big guns started booming, there was little or no interest in the game. Norwich scored but three foul points in the last half, going scoreless in the final quarter.

Windham's second team was used considerably and N. F. A. battled it evenly.

Artie Meikle was high scorer with 21 points, followed by Mason, his running mate at forward, with 11 tallies. Berghinzo scored over half the Norwich points, namely eight.

This was Norwich's 15th defeat in 19 games, one of their most disastrous sport seasons. Summary:

MUCH INTEREST IN DANIELSON-DIXIE GAME

There is a lot of interest being created in Danielson and vicinity over the game which takes place Friday night in the town hall between the fast Hartford Dixie team and the Danielson Towners.

From all indications this should be a great game to watch as both the Hartford team and Danielson Towners have played and defeated the same teams, for instance, the Knights of Lithuania, so Manchester "Recs," Norton A. C. and several of the fastest teams in Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Manager Trudor of the Hartford Dixies promises to have his very best men in Danielson and is confident of victory and to make sure as he says, he is adding "Wardy" Waterman of the Bristol Endees and also Dutch Leonard.

Danielson having made a great reputation or themselves so far this year also feel quite confident of victory and will put their best lineup on the floor.

Watch for final lineups in tomorrow morning's paper.

BUDDY BREAKS THREE RECORDS IN YALE TANK

NEW HAVEN, March 6—(AP)—Ray Buddy, representing the New York Athletic club, at Yale's annual intramural swimming meet here tonight, broke three world's distance free style records and barely missed establishing a fourth. Buddy set new standards at 500, 600, and 800 yards, bettering his own times in the two longer distances and beating the former record of C. M. Daniels at 550 yards. Buddy cut 28 seconds from the 550 yard mark, and broke the other records by fractions of a second. The new records are: 500 yards, 6:45; 600 yards, 7:13; 800 yards, 9:45 1-5.

BARTLETT HIGH DEFEATS KILLINGLY BY BIG SCORE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WEBSTER, Mass., March 6—Bartlett high defeated the Killingly high school basketball team of Danielson, Conn. 44 to 12, at the Bartlett gym here this afternoon. The Killingly team was completely outplayed by the Southern Worcestern county league leaders throughout the game. Love of the Bartlett team was the star of the game with 21 points.

AGGIE TRACK TEAM SHOWING GOOD PROSPECTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, March 6—After two weeks of preliminary workouts, the Connecticut Aggie track team is gradually rounding into shape for one of the most promising years to look forward to on the cinder path that any Aggie team has had of late. Coach Bilgood has arranged a distinct routine of training for the track men, and the daily workouts are supervised by both Bilgood and Rev. Edmund D. Sundt, of South Willington, who was formerly a track star at the University of Pennsylvania.

The aggregation will be exceptionally strong in the distance runs this year with the addition of Dittrich and Bottomly, of Waterbury and Milford, respectively. These two men competed in road races this fall all over New England, and have been in shape all through the winter. Other men who ran on the cross-country team that will be valuable in the long distances are James Gwin '31, Edmund M. Monstream '31, Hartford; Clifford Barnes '30, and Charles White '30, of New Haven.

The middle distances will have a moderate amount of strength, but will be much stronger than the team of last year. The field events will not be up to the par of other years, but with some promising material from the class of 1930 and 1931, the squad should give a good account of itself in this department.

Since taking over the reins as coach of the track team here, Bilgood has worked mervels in the training system he has installed. Last year, his first year here, he devised a plan to build from the lower classes expecting to make a much better showing with the 1929 squad. He will have this year, Dan. Chubbuck, of Mechanicsville, who proved to be the one-man track team of the 1928 Frosh team.

Bilgood is a native of Danielson, and one who has made history in athletics at the college. He was a three-letter man while at Connecticut, from where he matriculated to Springfield college.

HEYDLER IS GUEST AT CAMP OF PHILLIES

ATLANTA, Ga., March 6—(AP)—The Phillies, in spring training at Winter Haven, Fla., were host today to John A. Heydler, president of the National league, who selected that camp as his first stopping place on a tour around the circuit. Most of his day was taken up by a conference with club officials with the topic of umpires the principal business at hand.

During the afternoon he watched Shotton's squad work out. Whitney, third baseman, arrived in the camp during the day and Thevenow is expected tomorrow.

Heydler plans tomorrow to attend the exhibition game between the Cardinals and Athletics at Avon park.

Incidentally, Connie Mack announced at Fort Myers that he would carry a squad of 19 players for the game against Billy Southworth's pick. The Athletics will include Orwell, Dykes, Simmons, Miller and Cochrane in their lineup while Yerkes, Breckenridge and Walberg will get pitching assignments.

The Cincinnati Red Legs, conditioning at Orlando, were surprised by the arrival of Adolfo Luque, veteran Cuban pitcher. He was not expected until the squad went to Miami later in the week to open a series against the A's. Luque immediately donned a uniform and tossed a few over. The Red batters had their first taste of fast pitching this year when Rixey, Lucas Kolp and Ash, all veterans, began speeding them over.

Cooler weather put new life into the St Louis Browns at West Palm Beach. Manager Howley put several infield combinations through a second day of hard work. Dondero, obtained from the Western league, again was showing up well at third base.

The Chicago White Sox, training at Dallas, went through a regular Yannigan game. Hunnefield has not yet reported but Lena Blackburne said he was not worrying.

"He can report or stay away," Blackburne declared. "It makes no difference. Johnny Kerr is the White Sox second baseman this year."

The Washington Senators suffered their first casualty of the training season when Ed Kenna, catcher, was hit on the thumb by a foul tip. The finger was dislocated and badly split. He will probably be out three weeks.

Walter Johnson appeared pleased with Bluege's work at shortstop. He looks like a sensation in that position. Jack Hayes and Stuffy Stewart are waging a battle for second base.

Pitcher Johnny Miljus, Outfielder Eddie Morgan, and Second Baseman Chil Lind reported to the Indians at New Orleans today. Miljus' arrival completed the mound roster, which has been working out with the catchers. Miljus joined his battery mates in a vigorous tossing bee today.

Today's workout was accompanied by ideal weather, and the only frowns came from Manager Peckinpaugh and Pitcher Grant. Peckinpaugh had a blistered finger, and Grant had a bad case of what opera stars call "indisposition."

NO LET-UP IN PRACTICE SESSIONS FOR MAJOR CLUBS

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6—(AP)—Working on the theory that perfection even in the conditioning of a baseball player needs constant practice to endure, the three managers of the major league ball clubs training in the far west allowed no let-up in the hard grind today.

At Paso Robles, Calif., where the Pittsburgh Pirates are holding forth, Neptune postponed the morning workout until noon. As a result, Manager Donie Bush added an extra half hour to the afternoon session, giving the hurlers most of his attention. Kremer, Meadows, Hill, Dawson and Grame were serving an assortment of fast and slow ones with a few curves in mid-season form.

Lefty Alexander, recruit from Toronto repeated his performance of yesterday by smashing the ball over the center field score board at Phoenix, Arizona, where Bucky Harris is putting the Detroit Tigers through their paces. Harry Heilmann also connected with one which sailed over the left field boards. Jonathan Stone, who has received favorable comment for his activity in the short patch, did some excellent work in the infield.

The Chicago Cubs after playing an intra-club game in their camp at Santa Catalina Islands made ready for their three-day exhibition series with the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league tomorrow.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

The next meeting of the Eastern Conn.-Western Rhode Island league will be in this city Monday, March 25.

"Wildcat Eddie" Wilson, former Hillhouse athletic star, and who played center field on both of the New Haven's nines sallies against the Academy at the campus in '27 and '28, has been signed by George Weiss for a tryout with his Baltimore Orioles. He will report next Saturday.

Boots Nekola, Holy Cross star pitcher, has a brother out for the Evander Childs high outfit in New York city. "Boots" was the strikeout king of New York city in 1926, pitching for Evander and is expected to be varsity pitcher at Worcester this season. It is said that he will be given a trial by the New York Yankees after graduation.

By Friday at night the final standing of teams in the Eastern Connecticut conference basketball race will be pretty well known. The Putnam-Chapman Tech team at Putnam is probably the most important game of the season and should draw heavily. Likewise, the Academy-Stonington game is important, at least to those two schools, for it will decide last place.

It is one month from next Monday, the 11th, that the Academy baseball season opens with the Alumni. The inaugural comes on a Saturday, the second of April.

BASKETBALL TALK

About a Week More

Basketball hasn't much more to run in Norwich this season. It has been a poor season in the matter of attendance, although there have been just as many if not more high-class games during the season now closing. Next week, the Academy and Y Seniors finish their city title series. Whether the winner will play any other team is not known. Last year, the Academy after beating the C. F. C. in two straight games, played and defeated the Taftville Crescents.

C. F. C. Needed Again

Battery E of Westerly has won 12 straight home games up to last Saturday night. This team was a victim of the C. F. C. five way back in the early season and maybe another meeting would shatter that victory streak of the Rhode Island soldiers.

Only One Man Lost

The Academy may have been kicked around somewhat this basketball season but the future looks very bright for the Whitney-men. Only one player, Captain Buck LaCroix will be lost by graduation.

Must Have a Winner

What Norwich would do with a consistent winning basketball team is not known but it is safe to say it would be well-supported. The Academy's small crowds show that fans don't care about losses.

Berghinzo Most Improved

Although he probably won't make any all-star teams, the fact remains that Chet Berghinzo, Academy center, is the most improved player that we know of in Eastern Connecticut high school ranks. Berghinzo first started playing last winter and then only with mostly pick-up teams. Now he is one of the most promising performers the Wildcats have and should be one of the best players in the section by another season. Last year Chet could grip a basketball in each hand and we suppose he still possesses that trick.

An All-American

Joe Godfrey, Jr., a sports writer of Chicago, has picked the following All-American basketball team, the first of its kind, for College Humor: Forwards, Hyatt of Pittsburgh and Schaaf of Pennsylvania; center Murphy, Purdue; guards, Wineapple of Providence and Pickell, Arkansas.

Too Strict Referees

That basketball is unpopular in New England because of overzealous officiating is contained in a story in a Boston daily recently. Harvard has called a meeting for March 30 at the Harvard club for collegiate hop coaches of New England to draw up a standard list of referees. There is a known sentiment prevalent which believes that the indoor sport is being ruined by strict officiating and probably this meeting will do some good.

Y SENIORS AND FAST MU IOTAS CLASH AT Y GYM TONIGHT

Tonight at the Y gym the Y Seniors will meet some of the best players in the New London City league, playing under the cognomen of Mu Iotas. There will be a fast preliminary, starting at 7:30, between the Y Emps and the Gamma club of the Church league, with the main game at 8:15.

The Seniors will get some tough opposition from the Whalers. In their lineup are several well known players, such as Johnny Trude, formerly of Chapman Tech and several speedy amateur performers in the city by the sea. This team has played here in previous years, fast season snapping a winning streak at the expense of the C. F. C.

The Seniors, however, after their victory over the Academy in the opening city title game last Saturday night, are in A-1 shape and primed for a stiff tussle. To turn back the Whalers will greatly increase their prestige for the season. The Yers have now won nine and lost seven games. The lineups:

BIKE RACE FEATURED BY SPILLS AND JAMS

NEW YORK, Mar. 6—(AP)—Through a series of jams and a spill that came close to putting Paul Brocardo out of the race, the teams of McNamara and Vannek and Georgetti and Debaets still held their lead in the six day bike race at Madison Square Garden tonight. Before the largest crowd of the week, about 13,000, the sight sprints produced a burst of furious jamming. In the midst of the spurt Brocado burst a tire while going at top speed and crashed to the boards. He had to be assisted to his quarters where his attendants had a busy time easing bruises and removing splinters.

In the ten o'clock standings, the Georgetti-Debaets and McNamara-Vannek teams had a two lap margin over their nearest rivals.

ARCOLA BEARS NOSE OUT PLAINFIELD BY SINGLE POINT IN TORRID GAME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PLAINFIELD, March 6.—By the scant margin of a single point Plainfield Pros went down to defeat before the Arcola Bears of Dogota, N. J., 40 to 39, here tonight in one of the most hectic and torrid games of the current season. Two more evenly matched teams would be very hard to find and their hard playing from whistle to whistle kept the fans on edge. It was a game where the ultimate winner was not a certainty until the very last second of playing time. In fact the game was so close that a fraction of an inch decided the contest. When the final whistle blew Bernot had just shot for the basket and the ball was spinning around the hoop, only to drop outside instead of through the net.

The game started off with a rush and the count see-sawed until the end of the first half which found the Bears in the van by a single point, 23 to 22. Opening the second half the Bears drew away to a sizeable lead and with only a few minutes to go the score stood at 40-34 when Plainfield came up with a rush and two field baskets and a foul brought them within a point of the Bears. With 15 seconds of playing time remaining Bernot took the ball and fought his way to the basket and shot. The ball hit the backboards, dropped to the hoop, rimmed several times and then fell outside as the whistle blew.

The preliminary game resulted in a victory for the Buddies over the Baltic Independents. The summaries:

WINDHAM-PUTNAM DISPUTE NO NEARER SETTLEMENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 6—While no flare-up has resulted as yet, the embers continued to smoulder today in the Eastern Connecticut Basketball league with a possible hearing on the Windham-Putnam return game question, which has been in dispute between the two schools since Monday. The controversy was not any nearer a settlement today than it was on Monday as neither Coach T. A. Callahan of the Windham quintet nor Coach L. F. Noyes of the local hoopsters have met to determine whether or not the return game at Putnam will be played.

This afternoon Coach Noyes said, "We will not force Willimantic to play, but I do ardently hope a settlement will be reached before Friday." Coach Noyes also intimated today that he would under no circumstances agree to forfeit the game to the Willimantic aggregation because Coach Callahan agreed to letting the game "slide" until the windup of the season.

In sporting circles the question is one of the most talked of topics that has come before the public this season. In both cities the fans have taken a hand in the matter and are urging a settlement of the matter. In Putnam it is thought that the two mentors will keep the subject from a league decision by agreeing on a play off date, although Coach Noyes hesitated to make any statement to this effect this afternoon.

The outcome of the Chapman Tech-Putnam game to be played in this city on Friday evening will do much to bring about a settlement of the question. In the event Putnam defeats Chapman to put itself one notch nearer the top of the league, every effort will be made to bring Windham to terms. A defeat over Windham, if the game is played, throws Putnam into a tie for the championship, necessitating a third game to be played between the locals and the league leading Tech men of New London. If this should come about and Willimantic still insists that the Putnam game has been conceded to them by forfeit, the matter will be given an "airing" before the league officials, as Coach Noyes stated Monday evening.

NO SUCCESSOR TO RICKARD IS APPOINTED

NEW YORK, March 6—(AP)—The question of who will succeed Tex Rickard as head of the Madison Square Garden corporation will remain a matter of conjecture for at least two more weeks. A meeting of the Garden's executive committee failed to consider the matter of a new president and no decision will be reached before the next meeting of the board of directors, March 19.

During the thirteen days before that meeting is scheduled, so many developments may or may not take place that few of the members of the committee would even hazard a guess at what the result may be. The question of the connection, if any, between Jack Dempsey and the Garden corporation also was laid aside by the committee. The former champion is due here tomorrow.

Dempsey is believed to be tied up with Floyd Fitzsimmons, Detroit promoter, and will not be available unless there is trouble with the boxing and racing bills now pending in the Michigan legislature.

William F. Carey, vice president of the corporation who joined with Dempsey in making a success of the recent battle of Miami, also is providing one of the big question marks of the Garden situation. The big railroad builder still holds the guiding hand in the affairs of the Garden but whether he will take the president post or hand it on to someone else, keeping his interest only as a sideline, is another of the many questions. The agreement which Carey negotiated with the city of Miami for staging five winter fights there in the next five years was approved by the executive committee without argument, but nothing was done about his official post or his future relations with the corporation.

The still tangled heavyweight situation also was laid on the table so far as the committee is concerned. The expected discussion of plans for an elimination series extending through the summer and deciding the chances of Jimmy Maloney, Paulino Uzcudun and Max Schmeling did not materialize.

MISS COLLETT PLAYS FINE GOLF AT ST. AUGUSTINE

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 6—(AP)—Miss Glenna Collett, national women's golf champion, showed the ways to a strong field today in the Florida east coast championships. She shot the best individual round to defeat Mrs. Dorothy Pentham, Great Neck, L. I. 8 and 7 in the first match play.

Golfdom's newest star, Miss Helen Hicks merely joined the gallery to go into the second round, as her opponent, Miss Madge Miller, Detroit, defaulted.

Christen Elected Captain

HORTON SMITH WINS $2,000 FORT MYERS OPEN TOURNEY

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 6—(AP)—Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., a contribution to golfdom's great from the Ozark Mountains, won the first annual $2,000, Fort Myers open today.

The 21 year old Missourian victor this winter in the Catalina, Calif., Pensacola, Fla., and Oklahoma open tournaments, defeated Densmore Shute Columbus, Ohio, professional, one up after a nine holes lay off had been carried to the 11th green.

To tie Shute, former West Virginia amateur champion, at the end of the 72 hole route, Smith shot a pair of 67s on today's rounds for a total of 281. The morning 67, eight strokes below par, set a new course record.

WARREN HARDING QUINTET WINS BRIDGEPORT TITLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

BRIDGEPORT, March 6—Warren Harding high won the deciding game of the annual city title basketball series with Central high here this afternoon, 30 to 15. This was quite a distinct surprise as Central, after losing the first game, won the second and seemed to have Harding on the downgrade.

Harding had a great first-half season, then slumped and now seems to be again coming back in time for the Yale tournament, in which the Presidents are almost a certain entrant.

MILLER SIGNED FOR RETURN BOUT WITH McLARNIN

NEW YORK, March 6—(AP)—Ray Miller, hard-hitting Chicago lightweight, today was signed for a return match with Jimmy McLarnin, Pacific coast star, in Madison Square Garden, March 22. McLarnin, who was knocked out recently in Detroit by Miller, has already agreed to terms for the match, billed for ten rounds.

Dogmatism is puppyism that has obtained its growth.

Amateur Boxing Under Fire At New Haven

NEW HAVEN, March 6—(AP)—A meeting to discuss rules and regulations for amateur boxing, held today at the Arena by State Athletic Commissioner Thomas Donohue, ended when Nathan Podoloff, openly challenged the right of Commissioner Donohue, to prohibit amateur boxing shows until a set of rules were drawn up. During the entire afternoon session Donohue was bombarded with critical repartee after he had made a statement that he knew of no real amateur now fighting in the state.

State's Attorney Samuel E. Hoyt, commissioner for the amateur athletic association in Connecticut, suggested that the name of future boxing shows, now known as amateur boxing shows, be changed to a class of professional shows and that the boxers be given a Class A and B rating, according to the length of time they had been fighting. He also advocated the continuance of present amateur bouts, until time for a change, after Commissioner Donohue had formulated his rules and regulations.

Hoyt declared that no outside boxer could now come into this state and box under the present so-called amateur rules and still continue to retain his amateur standing. He said this was due to the fact that the A. A. U. did not recognize the standing of amateurs now boxing in this state.

Several amateurs, who have been appearing in local bouts, told Commissioner Donohue that they were satisfied with the present conditions.

Nathan Poroloff, manager and one of the owners of the New Haven Arena suggested that a temporary permit be granted to promoters of amateur bouts, until he had fully drawn up his code of rules. He declared that if this was not granted a boxing show arranged for Thursday, March 7, would go on just the same and he and the promoters woul challenge te right of the state commissioner to order the cancellation of the bouts, until he had time to draw up his rules.

About one hundred persons, interested in amateur boxing, attended the meeting, and numerous suggestions were made by promoters, boxers, newspapermen and spectators.

"By Joe! it's good to smoke Luckies."

Felix Count Luckner

"Lucky Strikes? By Joe, yes. Let me tell you. I was cruising in my raider in the South Pacific. It had been damp, rainy weather and every bit of tobacco we had on the ship was mouldy and could not be smoked. We began to be desperate. The men were—what you call—grouchy. Along came an American ship. We captured her and after taking the captain, officers and crew aboard my raider and finding comfortable places for them to stay, I and my officers went over to the captured ship to see if there was anything aboard her that we wanted. We searched her. And what do you think? Under the cushions of a seat in the captain's cabin we found 500 packages of Lucky Strikes! I tore off the end of one and lit it and filled my lungs with it, and By Joe, I was a man again. We had enough for all the crew and we were all cheered up and we all became friends once more. By Joe, I was sorry to sink that American ship that had brought us those smokes. Lucky Strikes, they are wonderful, and my Countess, of course, wishes a fashionable, slender figure. She smokes Lucky Strikes when she is offered fattening sweets. And my life has always been an active one and I must be trim and fit. I love to feel what you Americans call 'peppy.' So no sweets for me. Give me a Lucky Strike instead. By Joe, it's good for us to smoke Luckies."

COUNT FELIX VON LUCKNER

"The Sea Devil" Germany's greatest war adventurer, who never killed an opponent. Count Felix von Luckner, the most romantic and mysterious figure on the side of the Central Powers in the World War

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This confirms in no uncertain terms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

WESTERLY

FUNERAL OF TEACHER IS LARGELY ATTENDED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, March 6—Largely attended funeral services were held Wednesday morning at 8:30 for Annie Bransfield, wife of Joseph Montague, and well-known teacher in the public schools of Westerly. During the funeral the flag at the high school building was flown at half mast out of respect for a member of the class of 1904. There were no sessions of school in the morning, to permit teachers and pupils to attend the funeral. At 9 o'clock a requiem high mass was sung by Rev. Fr. J. F. Vincent, pastor, at the Church of the Immaculate Conception. He also conducted the committal services at St. Michael's old cemetery in Pawcatuck. The bearers were Farquhar Smith, Charles Murray, George A. Dolan, Frank Lynch, Hiram Harvey and Edward Montague. A number of relatives from Providence were among those who attended the funeral.

President Carl F. Sturhahn, of an insurance company of Hartford, who is having a large summer home erected this winter on his property along East Beach, Watch Hill, announced in his annual address to the stockholders of his company, Tuesday a financial expansion of the company. He stated that he was not able at present to state the reduction in the par value of the shares until the Connecticut legislature had acted upon matter in permitting certain amendments to the company's charter. President Sturhahn hopes to occupy his new Watch Hill summer home the coming season.

TESTIMONY FOR DEFENSE IN GENCARELLI TRIAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, March 6—Witnesses for the defense continued to testify Wednesday, the third day of the murder trial of Louis Gencarelli, being tried before Judge Herbert L. Carpenter for the death of Santo Gaccione Jan. 21st. The jury, with LeRoy S. Lanphear of South Kingstown foreman, is being locked up each night at the Hotel Martin in the custody of deputy sheriffs.

With the exception of the jurymen already serving on the Gabrielle murder case, the former jurymen were excused from further jury duty. The newly qualified jurymen were excused to report again Monday next when other cases on the Westerly trial calendar will be taken. Following qualified as petit jurymen: South Kingstown—Merton T. Champlin, truck driver; Joseph W. H. Cole, farmer; Henry A. Congdon, gardener; Freeman A. Healy, operator; Arthur L. Holland, laborer; Almer Libby, carpenter; Frank Smith, manager; Clifford A. Woodmansee, merchant.

North Kingstown—William H. Caswell, chauffeur; Arthur F. Clairess, carpenter; Arthur E. Cole, laborer; Waldo E. Emery, carpenter; Richard F. Falquist, velvet cutter; James F. Haggerty, weaver; Jesse N. Townsend, comfixer.

Westerly—Joseph F. Bray, machinist; William H. Browning, salesman; Thomas Burnie, stone cutter; James H. Crowley, weaver; Gilbert H. James, meter tester; Elfonzo E. Johnson, painter; Grover C. King, merchant; Sylvester M. Murano, salesman.

Hopkinton—John Dinwoodie, Jr., carpenter; Edward Murray, carpenter; Hoxsie C. Niles, repairman; Irving S. Saunders, ice cream business.

Richmond—John F. Dumelow, lace maker; Arthur L. Gardiner, manager.

Exeter—Edmund R. Greene, mason, driver.

Mrs. Gaccione Testifies

Wednesday morning with the resumption of the trial the cross examination of Mrs. Susie Gaccione, widow of the murdered Santo Gaccione, was begun by Attorney A. V. Pettine, senior counsel for the defense. Mrs. Gaccione said that the gun belonging to her husband which had been loaned to Chief Big Horn was in the Gaccione house the night of the shooting and that it was taken by Dr. Scanlon.

Mrs. Mary Grocci, who lives in the apartment beneath the Gaccione's at 4 Marion street, testified that Louis Gingerella came to her house at about 5 o'clock January 20. Gaccione was not there at the time and Gingerella stayed until about 9 o'clock. She told of Gaccione and Gingerella starting to fight downstairs. "I wouldn't let them fight," she said. Gaccione went out the back door and Louis went out the front door, she said.

The witness said it was 1 o'clock when she heard a shot and a train went by. Mrs. Grocci said that Susie Gaccione called her and that she put on her dress and went upstairs. Mrs. Grocci said she found Santo sitting in a chair in the kitchen and she and Mrs. Gaccione put him to bed. The witness then went to call the doctor.

She went to the home of John Murano to telephone. Near the store of Dominico Terranova she saw Louis Gingerella who came out from between the store and the house of Joe Gabrielle. He had an overcoat and cap on and had a gun under his right arm.

Experts In Court

Capt. Charles V. Amburg of Boston, Mass., gun expert for the state, and Wilbur F. Turner of Boston, gun expert for the defense, were in court today ready to testify. Prof. Kennison, mechanic expert of Brown university, Providence, who was in Westerly last Sunday to examine the gun and shells introduced as evidence in the lower court hearing, will probably testify for the defense.

Acting as Italian interpreter at the morning session was Eraclio Magiante, a deputy sheriff of Providence county.

When court convened at 2 p. m. the cross examination of Mrs. Groccia was continued by Mr. Pettine. He endeavored to have the witness say that she did not tell the police about seeing the defendant with the gun under his arm until she was afraid that her husband would be locked up.

In an effort to shake the witness Mr. Pettine asked if there were reporters present at the Westerly police station when she was first being examined. In the district court hearing Lieutenant Champlin had stated that Carl E. Burdick, representing the Norwich Bulletin was present at the time of the first examination on the morning of the shooting at the police station. Mr. Pettine directed Mr. Burdick to stand up in the court room but Mrs. Groccia declared that she could not remember his being present.

Louis Groccia, 16, niece of Mrs. Groccia, the next witness, like her aunt testified through an interpreter. She stated that she did not know the defendant very well and in a large measure corroborated her aunt's testimony.

Face a Sight to Behold With Pimples. Cuticura Healed.

"Pimples broke out on my face and seemed to get worse each day. I also had some on my body. They were hard and red and scaled over and when I washed my face they used to bleed. The pimples were very itchy and caused me to scratch, and the irritation kept me from sleeping. My face was a sight to behold.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some, and after using three cakes of Soap and one box of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Linda Cianfrocca, 206 Everett St., E. Boston, Mass.

SEVERE SCARCITY OF CALL MONEY DROVE PRICES OF STOCKS DOWNWARD

NEW YORK, March 6—(AP)—The stock market continued downhill today for the fourth successive session. Selling was accelerated by a severe scarcity of call money, which rose to 12 per cent for the first time since Jan. 2, and equalling the peak rate of recent years.

A few high priced issues sold off from about 10 to as much as 45 points, while scores of important stocks staggered 3 to 7 points.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent, which caused some satisfaction after yesterday's closing rate of 10, and the market rallied during the morning under the leadership of the coppers. As the rate was stepped up to 12 per cent, a flood of selling poured into the market, which kept the ticker running for half an hour after the close.

The sharp tightening of money rates this week was not in line with expectations, as a slight ease was expected with the return of the month-end disbursements to the banks. Calling of loans has been heavy, however, with $39,000,000 reported today, bringing the total of the week's reported withdrawals to about $100,000,000. Banks are understood to have been withdrawing funds to pay off their borrowings from the Federal Reserve for the month end, and corporations are said to have been withdrawing funds to meet the March 15 income tax payments.

New treasury financing for March 15 of $475,000,000 in nine-month certificates was announced at 4 3-4 per cent, 1-2 of 1 per cent higher than the treasury had to pay in connection with its last financing in December. The subscription books open tomorrow, and if the issue is promptly subscribed, there is much talk that the New York Federal Reserve bank may raise its rediscount on Thursday. It has been rumored about Wall street that the bank has been prepared to raise its rate for several weeks, but has deferred action pending the treasury financing.

The day's business news, largely coming too late to influence the market, continued favorable. The iron and steel trade reviews were again optimistic. Iron Age said, "Steel demand is broadening," and added, "The growing strength of prices is also broadening in scope," pointing to increases in furnace coke, scrap, and indications of higher price for pig iron. Two more copper companies increased their dividend rates, Utah stepping up its annual rate from $12 to $16, and Nevada from $2 to $3. Lambert company, which has been paying $1.25 quarterly with a 50 cent extra, put its stock on an $8 yearly basis. Several chain store systems reported increases in February sales.

Adams Express, which has risen from 389 to as high as 585 this year, had an overnight loss of 45 points, bringing it down to 515. Radio (old) touched 568, down 20 points, and Case Threshing dropped 23 points.

A rally during the morning carried half a dozen coppers to new high ground, and American Express mounted 28 points. Later in the session, however, the coppers fell 1 to 3 points under the previous close, and American Express fell back 30 points. Such issues as Allied Chemical, Allis Chalmers, Chrysler, Crosley Radio, Continental Investment Trust, Delaware & Hudson, International Combustion, Johns Manville, New York Central and Packard sold down about 5 to 8 points.

U. S. Steel, which moved up nearly 3 points during the forenoon to 187, fell back to 180 5-8, and closed at 182 1-2. Bethlehem likewise made an early gain, only to close about 2 points off. General Motors lost about a point. In the rails, Erie was in demand for a time, but closed heavy with the rest of the group. International Silver was strong point, selling up more than 6 points to a new peak.

The high money rates at New York were reflected by a general ease in foreign exchange rates. Sterling was slightly lower at $4.85 3-16 for cables, and the discount on the Canadian dollar was increased to more than 1-2 of one cent. The Spanish peseta and the Japanese yen dropped about 1-5 of a cent each to the lowest levels of the year.

The commodity markets were irregular, with cotton easing on better weather reports from the south, and coffee dropping 19 to 30 points. Grains were steady. Refined sugar prices were increased from 4.75 cents a pound, the lowest in recent years, to 4.90 cents.

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—Wall street expects the monthly report of the United States Steel corporation, to be published Saturday for February, will show little change in unfilled orders unless monthly adjustments were made. Production during the month about kept pace with new orders.

Foreign buying of copper, held chiefly responsible for a rise in price of 1 1-2 cents a pound last week, was reported today to have fallen off, with the result that no immediate change was expected in the present level of 19 1-2 cents, domestic. However, the trade sees no prospect of a decline in price until July, since producers are sold up to June.

Emporium-Capwell corporation, operating department stores in San Francisco and Oakland, Cal., is reported to have submitted terms for merger with the Hahn Department Stores, Inc., which would result in inclusion in the Hahn chain if accepted.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, March 6—(AP)—Despite a temporary advance based largely on crop damage fears because of an expected cold wave, wheat values today finished lower. Most of the time, sellers outnumbered the buyers. European demand for United States wheat except the Durum variety was lacking, and the market was dominated by figures showing 110,000,000 bushels more wheat in this country at present than a year ago.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, at 1-8c to 7-8c net decline, with corn unchanged to 3-8c off, oats 3-8c@1-2c to 5-8c down, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 25c.

Adding to the bearish influence of constant reminders of immense domestic supplies of wheat were reports of land selling of price cutting abroad on account of sharp competition between Canada and Argentina. Notice was also taken of big receipts today at Winnipeg, 1,138 cars compared with 396 cars there a year ago. There were advices current, too, that deliveries which Canadian farmers are making to country elevators are averaging three-quarters of a million bushels daily, that Canadian lake terminals are jammed to the doors, and that meanwhile 1,000 freight cars and many vessels are being utilized for Canadian wheat storage.

On the other hand, wheat price setbacks due to the foregoing factors were at times much more than overcome as a result of broadened buying of Chicago future deliveries. A good deal of this buying was credited to eastern interests that recently were able to turn prices upward in the face of general bearish day-to-day conditions. Helping today's transient upturns were Washington messages asserting that the date when the extra session of congress will start is to be not later than April 15, and that the administration farm relief bill would be ready April 10. Besides, some Illinois districts reported numerous fields of winter wheat are apparently dead, and there were also advices of alternate thawing and freezing in the southwest. Nevertheless, rallies in the wheat market failed to last, and renewed selling out on the part of holders of future deliveries was much in evidence as the day drew to an end.

Corn and oats, as well as wheat, lost the benefit of early upturns. Corn, however, displayed relative strength owing to corn export purchases totaling 125,000 bushels or more. Oats showed independent strength at times, and shipping business here in oats aggregated 250,000 bushels, the largest amount for a single day so far this year. Profit-taking, though, was of considerable bearish effect both on corn and oats toward the last.

Provisions were responsible to brisk new advances in quotations on hogs.

STATE TO RETAIN DRY ENFORCEMENT

tion by judges not exceeding one year, the facts to be spread on the records and if a sentence is to pay a fine and probation, it is to be void on payment.

H. B. No. 25, providing for payment of fines for minor infractions to clerk or justice of peace without formality of trial, the first and second violations not to be deemed criminal acts.

H. B. No. 10, providing for the examination of jurors by the presiding officer and not the attorneys.

Educational Hearing

The advisability of having district school superintendents instead of district committees nominate new teachers, as proposed in house bill No. 439 revising the state school laws, was questioned by Alexander W. Creedon and Judge John L. Bonee, of Hartford before the legislature's education committee Tuesday. Mr. Creedon said that a superintendent would be subject to as much "pressure" as three committee members, and that the type of teacher now in Hartford's schools proved the ability of committees to select wisely.

W. H. Mandrey, superintendent of schools in Farmington, called attention to "the unfortunate incident" in the election of new teachers in the Northwest district here last year and said it reflected little credit on Hartford's educational system. He refused, however, to speak further on that point, but went on record as in favor of selection of teachers by superintendents.

Fred D. Wish, Jr., superintendent of schools in Hartford, was also present at the hearing. He said that it is the practice of the city's board of education to approve selections made by the superintendent, who places before the board names of evening school, manual training and other teachers not directly appointed by the district committees. The board of education has final say in the matter of these teachers selected by the superintendent of schools, and may reject or accept them. In choosing the teachers for a district school the district committee has the final say.

House bill 439 is sponsored by the state board of education and revises the school laws of Connecticut. The main feature of the bill is that changing the whole basis for distribution of state aid to towns for public schools. The bill is of such great length that it is being heard by sections by the education committee. Part 1, dealing with administration and organization was heard yesterday, and brought up this controversy over selection of teachers under the district system.

Wednesday Part 2 and Part 3 were heard, dealing with educational opportunity and educational supervision. Next week the hearings will be continued, and on Wednesday, March 27, the final hearing will be held. At that time the section providing for state aid under the proposed new equalization grant will be discussed. At each of the hearings Dr. Albert B. Meredith, of the state board of education, will explain the bill.

The section which brought the protest from Judges Creedon and Bonee provides that district superintendents shall have the same power now vested in superintendents of town systems whereby a recommendation for teacher appointment is made by the superintendent and the board of education must accept or reject within one month. Appointments cannot originate with board members except by suggestion to the superintendent.

HOUSE

The house was called to order at 11:20 by the speaker. Prayer was offered by the house chaplain.

Upon favorable reports from the committee on forfeited rights, the rights of Emmett J. Lyman of Suffield and Victor Donnigan of Vernon were restored, more than two-thirds of the house voting.

The judiciary reported favorably on the resolution appointing Joseph G. Shapiro, judge, and John M. Ginseburgh deputy judge of the town court of Shelton; and Henry A. Adams, judge, and Louis J. Fontaine as deputy judge of the town court of Sprague.

Unfavorable reports were made by the judiciary committee on H. B. 131, an act establishing a racing commission in New London county; H. B. 142, an act authorizing any town to establish an advisory highway commission; H. B. 222, an act providing for penalty for gaming elsewhere than in public conveyance or gaming house; H. B. 224, an act amending section 6416 general statutes and providing a fine of $100 or imprisonment of not more than one year for violation of said statute; H. B. 225, an act requiring the appointment of an assistant town clerk in every town, by the clerk; H. B. 249, an act providing that campers without consent of land owners shall be deemed vagrants; H. B. 250, an act providing for penalty for intoxication not more than $50 or imprisonment in jail not more than six months; H. B. 581, an act providing for the regulation, control and licensing of horse racing; H. B. 602, an act concerning the depositing of rubbish within the bounds of highways; H. B. 608, an act providing compulsory closing, Wednesday afternoon during July, August and September in certain lines of business; H. B. 615, an act providing that any town may rescind its zoning act; H. B. 631, an act providing that any judge of a juvenile court with advice of selectmen or mayor may provide for purchase of a suitable detention home for delinquents, not to cost more than $25,000; H. B. 632, an act providing that town clerks shall without charge furnish certified copies of vital statistics to any juvenile court or probation officer, on request; H. B. 773, an act providing that the selectmen of any town shall appoint an electrical inspector to inspect the installation of electrical appliances; H. B. 785, an act concerning juvenile courts, substituting for the word "may" the word "shall" in the first line of section 5 of chapter 336 of the general statutes; H. B. 791, amending an act concerning billiard tables or slot machines, providing that any person who shall violate the provisions of section 6476 of the general statutes shall be imprisoned not more than one year; H. B. 799, an act providing that the provisions of section 9 of chapter 252, an act concerning the sale and use of pistols and fire arms, shall not apply to town, municipal or county peace officers; H. B. 806, an act providing that dealers in charcoal and coal in paper containers shall obtain a license from the state police department; H. B. 844, an act concerning building contracts.

The fish and game committee reported unfavorably on H. B. 756 and 761, bills that would provide a closed season on foxes and would make the limit of the number killed five in one year.

The committee on agriculture reported unfavorably on H. B. 446, an act that required compulsory erection of fences by owners of property abutting land where sheep are raised.

Favorable Reports

The appropriations committee reported favorably on H. B. bills making appropriations for the care of Colonel Ledyard's Grove and repair of his headstone and for the care of Groton monuments.

They also favored a bill that provides an appropriation to the Connecticut Vegetable Growers association. Other favorable reports were received and ordered printed and placed on the calendar.

Matters on the calendar passed were:

Substitute for H. B. No. 400, An act extending the time within which the [illegible] of Madison [illegible]

POETRY

Forsythia in February

Forsythia for sale! I stop to see.
The florist's window, city street.
The eager faces, hurrying feet—
All vanish suddenly!

Now it is springtime in a little town,
And everywhere I can behold
Four-petaled sproutings of crisp gold
On branches, slender-brown.

Spring has come back? Forsythia is the proof!
In cherished gardens now it blooms.
It stands on lowboys in old rooms,
Most charmingly aloof!

And children take their teacher sprays of it
Picked at high noon; and women bear
The graceful branches, and the air
Is elfin-lantern lit!

No, no; I shall not buy a single spray!
Forsythia is not to buy!
It is to find beneath spring's sky
Upon an April day!

Violet Alleyn Storey, in Christian Science Monitor.

A Tree in Winter

There stood at the top of a frozen hill
As I looked—on a frosty eve,
A forlorn, forsaken, naked tree—
Lean—alone—it seemed to grieve
It swayed and sighed with the howling wind,
Creaking, cracking, crying shrill—
And reached its scrawny arms to God,
As it stood alone—at the top of the hill.

Massive, tall and huge it was,
Like the ghost of something great;
A spectre tree! It shrieked to me—
It sighed and cried—bewailed its fate
Then moaned alone in a monotone
As wind hurled rain in a fiendish glee—
Shivering, quivering, I heard it pray,
"Oh, bring the summer back to me!"

—Mary Adelaide Smiley, in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The legal voters of the Town of Lisbon are hereby warned to meet in the Town House on Saturday, March 9th, 1929, at two o'clock P. M., to transact the following business:

I.
To lay a tax on the last perfected Grand List of the Town, as prepared by the Board of Relief to meet the expenses of the Town for the ensuing year.

II.
To fix a date when said taxes shall become due.

III.
To do any other business proper to come before said Town of Lisbon recommended by its Board of Selectmen.

Dated at Lisbon, Conn., March 4, 1929.
(Signed)
HARRY L. HULL,
GEO. C. BRADLOW,
C. W. LEE,
2t TTh mar5 Selectmen.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received by the State Highway Commissioner, 13 Washington Street, Hartford, Connecticut, until 12 o'clock noon, March 15, 1929, for furnishing automobile and truck tires up to and including March 31st, 1930.

An estimate of the quantities required may be obtained upon application.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 26th day of February, A. D. 1927.

Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Adelle Mathews, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.

Ordered, That the Executor cite the creditors of said deceased to bring in their claims against said estate within six months from this date, by posting a notice to that effect, together with a copy of this order on the sign-post nearest to the place where said deceased last dwelt, and in the same town, and by publishing the same once in a newspaper having a circulation in said district, and make return to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

NOTICE

All creditors of said deceased are hereby notified to present their claims against said estate to the undersigned at 428 Boswell Ave., Norwich, Conn., within the time limited in the above and foregoing order.

THOMAS MATHEWS.
mar7d Executor.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given to all persons liable to pay taxes in the Town of Lebanon that I have a Warrant to levy and collect a Tax of twenty-five (25) mills on the dollar on the Grand List of the said Town of Lebanon, as last perfected, and that said Tax is due and payable on the first day of April, 1929.

For the purpose of collecting said Tax, the Collector will be at the Town Hall at Lebanon Center on Monday, April 1, 1929, from ten o'clock A. M., until two o'clock P. M. On Saturday, April 6, 1929, he will be at Choquette's Store, in the North Society, from two o'clock until four o'clock P. M. On Saturday, April 20, 1929, he will be at the Waterman School from two o'clock until four o'clock P. M.

All Taxes under this Levy and Warrant, not paid within thirty (30) days after the date on which they become due, will be subject to an interest charge at the rates fixed by the Act of the General Assembly, Approved June 8, 1927. (See Chapter 300 of the Public Acts of 1927.)

The Statutes of the State of Connecticut which apply to the levy and collection of taxes will be strictly enforced against all persons neglecting this notice.

Dated at Lebanon, Connecticut, March 4, 1929.

GEORGE E. BRIGGS,
Collector of Taxes.
3t Th mar7 Town of Lebanon.

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING NOTICE

Upon a petition signed by twenty legal voters of the Town of Colchester, the legal voters and all those qualified to vote in town meetings are hereby warned to meet in Special Town Meeting in Grange Hall in said town on Tuesday, March 12th, 1929, at 2:30 p. m., for the following purposes, viz:

First. To receive and act upon the report of the committee appointed at the annual Town Meeting held in October, 1928, to investigate the feasibility of building a suitable place to house the Public Records.

Second. To see whether or not a building committee shall be appointed and to authorize and empower said committee to use real estate now owned by the town or to obtain a site upon which to erect a Brick building with fire-proof vault for housing the Public Records, etc.

Third. To amend the budget of 1928-1929 if necessary for the appropriation for said site and building above mentioned.

Fourth. And also to appropriate a sum of money not to exceed Four Thousand Dollars therefor and to authorize and empower the Selectmen to borrow said sum and to give the note or other interest-bearing evidence of indebtedness of said town therefor.

At said Special Town Meeting you are requested to see what action shall be taken to appropriate Five Hundred Sixty-Two Dollars, money spent on building road in Westchester Society, known as Usher Swamp.

Dated at Colchester, Conn., this 5th day of March, 1929.

CHARLES KING, SUB-BASE MACHINIST KILLED BY TRAIN AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 6—Charles King, 41, chief machinist, first class, stationed at the submarine base, suffered a terrible death last night when he was struck and killed by a New Haven railroad train on Winthrop Cove trestle. There were no witnesses of the fatality but the crew of a passing train discovered the body. It is not known what train struck King, but it is believed that the Federal express due to arrive in New London at 10:[illegible] o'clock struck the sailor for his body was terribly mangled, indicating that King rolled along the rails where several of the wheels passed over his body because of the speed of the train. An eastbound freight passed over the trestle about the same time, but the speed of the train was slow and ordinarily would not cause the body to travel with it as would be the case with a swiftly moving train.

King evidently decided to walk over the trestle as a short cut to the Thames river highway bridge, on his way to the base, intending to leave the tracks at Harrison street. While midway of the trestle King was run down and after being carried several feet by the wheels and truck, the body landed between the east and west bound tracks. A short time afterwards the crew of an east bound freight observed the body and the train coming to a stop, the railroad officials here were informed of the fatality. The police were notified and officers went to the trestle and took charge of the body until the arrival of Medical Examiner Kaufman, who ordered it removed to an undertaking establishment after he had ascertained such facts as were possible to obtain in connection with King's death. King was well known among the submarine base sailors for he had been stationed there a long time. He was born in Minneapolis, Minn.

U. S. S. Bushnell to Cuba.

The submarine tender Bushnell, which arrived in this port last week and then left for Hampton Roads, will leave that port for Cuba where she will participate in the fleet maneuvres being held there. Upon the completion of this duty she will return to New London.

STATE MARRIAGE LAW HALTS NEW JERSEY GIRLS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 6—Arvilla Curran and Alice Barron of Weehawken, N. J., are being very much sought after by relatives. They came to this city and yesterday it was learned that the girls with two sailors applied for a marriage license at the city clerk's office. The information that under the state law they must wait five days before getting a license caused the two girls to leave town, it is said. The two sailors who were in their company are reported to be Thomas Hasey and Theodore Johnson, attached to the naval base here. Today police were endeavoring to get in touch with them so that knowledge of the whereabouts of the girls might be obtained.

Max Fern's Lease.

Max Fern, proprietor of the New London grill has leased from Judge Charles B. Waller and the estate of Thomas M. Waller the two upper floors of the building at 12 Main street adjoining his present property, for five years, with the privilege of renewal of the lease. Mr. Fern will transform the second floor into a dance hall and cafe with booths for private parties.

Frank B. Callaghan, coast guard sailor, was arrested last night when he made a disturbance in the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. West, of Mitchell street, Groton. In the Groton town court this morning a continuance of the case for one month was granted. The trouble started over difficulties between the sailor who is 25 and his 17 year old wife. She has been living with her mother pending the time when the husband should establish a home.

Patients dismissed today at Home Memorial hospital were: Arthur Reed, 27 Lee avenue; Mrs. Charles Oviatt, of West Mystic.

FUNERALS.

Miss Nellie M. Beckwith.

The funeral of Miss Nellie M. Beckwith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe L. Beckwith, fatally injured last Sunday night by being struck by an automobile, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of the girl's parents, Willetts avenue extension, Waterford. The services which were largely attended, were conducted by Rev. Royal W. Ferguson, pastor of Montauk Avenue Baptist church, father of Donald Ferguson, one of the young men, who was in company with Miss Beckwith when she was injured. The bearers were Daniel Hart, Clarence Clark, Robert Simpson, Quinton Reed, Robert Penn and Chester Simpson. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Thomas H. Drew.

The funeral of Thomas H. Drew, former employe of the New London Ship & Engine company, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons. The bearers were James Walter, Charles and Fred Drew, all nephews, of Norwich. Burial was in Stonington.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Ira Watson.

Mrs. Laura K. Watson, 63, wife of Ira Watson, formerly of New London, died last night at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Harold Geer, Hartford, after a lingering illness. Besides her husband and the daughter mentioned, Mrs. Watson is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Frank Drago, Hartford and Mrs. John Bates of this city.

Mrs. Samuel C. Allen.

Mrs. Isabel I. Allen, 55, wife of Samuel C. Allen, died last night at her residence, 7 Riverside place after an illness of about six weeks. Besides her husband, Mrs. Allen is survived by a son, Dunham Collier, of this city; a sister, Mrs. Bertha Boucher, of Rockville and three brothers, Clarence Cooley, Dayville; Fred Cooley, Holyoke, Mass., and Frank Cooley, Los Angeles, Calif. Mrs. Allen was born in Stafford Springs, but for the past four years had resided in New London.

GROTON FERRY SERVICE IS TO END SUNDAY NOON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 6—The ferry that has been operated between New London and Groton for so many years is to be operated no more after next Sunday at high noon. That decision was reached at a special meeting of the city council this afternoon at 5 o'clock. Mayor Scott explained that the lessees had notified the city manager that the sum of $10 a day in addition to the subsidy now paid, $6,000 a year, was necessary, if the expenses of the ferry were to be met and the boat run on the schedule proposed by the lessors. The city of New London pays 75 per cent. of any deficit that results from the operation of the ferry and Groton pays 25 per cent. That is a pretty tidy sum to give up to accommodate the limited number of people who use the craft when there are busses operated to bring people to New London and to take passengers from this city. There is a bridge over the river also that accommodates vehicular travel and such pedestrians as elect to make use of it. Attorney Troland explained the terms of the contract under which the ferry has been operated and disclosed that the contract gave the city the right to change the schedule of trips. It was within the power of the city council to give the lessees relief from operating the ferry if the council decided that it would be good policy so to do. Councilor May moved that the council give the lessees the relief they sought, moving also that the franchise held by the city be abandoned. Attorney Troland advised against that course and pointed out that complications might arise, in the event that the city should give it up, as it owned real estate on both sides of the river where the boat made its landings. The motion of Mr. May was amended to include only the abandonment of the ferry. That motion was adopted and Sunday next at noon the boat will go out of commission. The cessation of trips will take employment from eight or ten persons engaged in the operation of the ferry.

Groton was represented at the meeting by representative citizens, Clark B. Whaley, George R. Hempstead and Conrad Kretzer. All told the council that restricted trips such as the lessees proposed—beginning at 9 o'clock in the morning and finishing at 6 o'clock in the evening, would not be the accommodation the town of Groton sought. They were unwilling also to saddle an additional expense of $10 a day for continuing operation of the boat. They figuratively threw up their hands and the council agreed to put the ferry out of the running Sunday next.

The lessees are under a bond provided by a surety company of $1,000 for the faithful performance of their duty in the operation of the ferry, but that said bond will be collected is improbable. The lessees are to deliver the boat to New London in good condition and the transaction will be closed. The city has a valuable ferry boat on hand, which is for sale and it can no doubt be disposed of during the summer. Until then it will be tied up as useless.

It is claimed by some residents of Groton, also of New London, that in order to hold the franchise this city must operate a ferry of some sort during a stated period, but this statement cannot be verified. The ferry was a profitable undertaking for a long time, but since the Thames river bridge was erected for travel by autos and pedestrians the boat has been run at a loss much of the time, especially in recent years.

A bay rum drunk was arrested tonight by Patrolman Lawrence Fardy. The fellow was on State street and needed practically all the sidewalk to navigate. When searched at police headquarters he had in his possession three bottles of bay rum purchased at a five and ten cent store and of the alcoholic per centage of 60. Another bottle of the same liquid was found also, but its contents had been drunk, diluted with water.

Alexander Binkowski, 16, about five feet eight inches in height and a student at Winthrop school, is missing from his home. Tonight the police were requested by his father to institute a search for the youth. The boy went to school this morning, but has been missing since noon.

C. V. ROAD NOT TO STOP RUNNING FREIGHT BOATS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 6—A rumor that had been in circulation several days was run down today as being entirely without foundation and had it developed that the report was correct a large number of men would have been thrown out of work. The rumor was to the effect that the Central Vermont railroad was to withdraw the two freighters from the line between this port and New York and that the railroad had entered into an arrangement with the New Haven railroad for the handling of all freight by rail, which, according to report, would reduce the expense of handling the freight, inasmuch as truckers are employed to transfer the freight from boats to cars. Inquiry at the office of the Central Vermont railroad brought the information that the report was entirely groundless; that both boats would be kept in operation, especially as the freight tonnage was constantly increasing and business warrants the continuation of the road's marine service.

NORWICH CLOTHING THIEF SOUGHT BY THE POLICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 6—The police of Norwich this evening requested the New London police to be on the lookout for a thief, wanted in the former city for the theft of clothing from an apartment house, the thief having stolen suits of clothes and overcoats. He is described as being about five feet four inches in height, having a reddish moustache. He wore a gray overcoat, cap and scarf.

NORWICH ART ASS'N PLANS LECTURE BY CHAS. J. CONNICK

A lecture to be given by Charles J. Connick on "Jeweled Windows" in Slater hall next week, under the auspices of the Norwich Art association, will be illustrated by colored slides. These will add much to the enjoyment.

Mr. Connick is a master craftsman and life member of the Society of Arts and Crafts of Boston. Among the entries in the exhibition of mural painters traveling under the auspices of the American Federation of Arts which opened in Wilmington, Delaware in November, are a number of cartoons in black and white and water color sketches executed by Mr. Connick for six panels of stained glass designed for a corridor of Calvary church in Pittsburgh. The subjects were derived from events in Pennsylvania history and symbolized in glass for the children of the Sunday school.

One of Mr. Connick's most interesting projects is the glass for the Princeton Chapel choir windows, an epic group of four windows showing Dante, Milton, Malory and Bunyan.

The bulletin of the Society of Arts and Crafts of Boston, contains a description of a window just completed by the Connick studios for the parish house of St. John's of Lattingtown, Long Island. The Art Digest in its December number, reproduced this window as an example of what is being done in stained glass in America.

All these windows, executed by the Connick studios, show with great clarity the variety of subjects chosen by the designers of stained glass windows. The beauty of the windows themselves is further enhanced by glowing combinations of color that make of them with the help of flooding sunlight, a delight to the eye and an inspiration to all lovers of beauty. Mr. Connick is not only an authority on the subject but he has also an effective personality and delivery on the lecture platform. Therefore an unusual opportunity is offered to the general public of Norwich by the Norwich Art association.

This association is the only organization of its kind in the city. It not only holds monthly meetings for its members, but it also finances art educational work for the children of the public schools. In this museum extension work over five hundred pupils in the sixth grades are reached each year.

The children are taken through the museum at Slater hall and made familiar with the noblest examples of Greek art. This is supplemented by work in the grade school class rooms by a specialist sent by the Art association. The children are told myths and stories that give them a vivid outline of the development of Greek sculpture and the history of art. The grade teachers use the subjects suggested by the study of the statues and myths in their theme work, in their history lessons and in their drawing, thus correlating with the regular school work the knowledge gained. Of their own volition the children return to the museum with their relatives and friends, showing the great interest evoked.

They are also constantly clamorous for the many books on the subject that have been provided by the Otis library, quite a number of them having been donated by members of the Art association.

All these facts give an idea of the scope of work sponsored by the association. Every community needs to foster and lend its support to all of the arts for the sake of redeeming its life from material activities.

Unless you have faith in your ability you can neve win a battle.

Palace Theatre.

That the "spoken drama" is popular in Norwich when it is well acted and staged is being attested at the Palace theatre this week where the Chicago Stock Company is playing to overflowing houses with their excellent productions.

The acting cast has scored a great hit with local theatregoers and it is safe to predict capacity houses will witness the final three days of the engagement.

The matinee attraction today is "Married—and How," the comedy drama that ran at the Little theatre in New York and tonight the world's famous drama of the night clubs entitled "The Noose" will be staged. This famous melodrama was written by Willard Mack and pronounced by the critics to be better than "Broadway" and ran over a year at the Hudson theatre in New York.

Tomorrow matinee and night the New York Klaw theatre hit entitled "That's Her Weakness Now," will be produced. It is the story of a 1929 girl who wanted to go places and do things. Solomon in all his wisdom knew only half as much as she, when it came to telling the boy friend the right dope on who's who and why. She wanted to be good and she would be good, but Oh, Gee. The comedy permits the introduction of nifty stage settings, a gorgeous display of wardrobe and great parts for the entire cast.

Saturday the farewell production the New York Gaiety theatre hit, "Why Girl's Walk Home" will be staged, and judging from the huge advance sale this play will turn hundreds away long before the curtain rises. At the matinee performance Saturday souvenirs will be given to all school children attending and a special price of twenty cents is made for every scholar.

Broadway Theatre

Dolores Costello stars in Warner Bros.' latest Vitaphone special, The Redeeming Sin, which comes to the Broadway theatre today.

Miss Costello is supported by Conrad Nagel, the team having previously appeared in Glorious Betsy and Tenderloin. Others in the cast are Lionel Belmore, Georgie Stone, Warner Richmond, Nina Quantero and Philippe de Lacy. The story is by L. V. Jefferson and the scenario by Harvey Gates. Howard Bretherton directed.

Miss Costello is cast as Joan Villaire, dancer in an underworld dive of Paris. New heights and depths of characterization are evident in this latest part essayed by the most beautiful lady of the screen.

Under the control of a thief, Joan's hectic days are lightened by her small brother, who, without her knowledge, is being trained in the art of pocket-picking. The child is shot by accident by the thief and a young doctor is called, whose love for Joan changes the source of her life, not, however, without some of the most thrilling episodes ever filmed.

Vitaphone magnificently carries the changing moods of the melodrama, reproducing natural sounds and the voices of the players. The Redeeming Sin is beautifully photographed, the scenes in the city by the Seine being visualized with uncanny reality. See and hear Dolores Costello in The Redeeming Sin.

Alcock Concert Postponed

It is with regret that the Slater Hall concert committee announces, because of unavoidable circumstances, the postponement of the concert by Merle Alcock, leading contralto of the Metropolitan Opera company, which was scheduled for this Friday evening, March 8th.

In view of the fact that opera has first lieu on the time of all of its artists, the recent unusual prevalence of illness among them necessitates the cancelling of Miss Alcock's personal engagements for recitals at this time. She will come to Norwich, however, for Friday evening, April 26th.

Peter Rabbit is Full of Questions

Real knowledge must be truly sought;
'Tis not a thing that can be bought.
—Wanderer the Evening Grosbeak.

Peter Rabbit was perfectly happy. You know how filled with curiosity Peter is. Here were strangers of whom he could ask questions to his hearts content. The best part of it was that they were good natured and didn't seem to mind how many questions he asked.

"If your home is so far away, why did you come down here?" Peter asked.

"Because," replied Wanderer the Evening Grosbeak, "we like to travel. Then, too, it isn't easy to get food in winter 'way up where our summer home is."

Peter understood that. He knew that that was one reason why most of the feathered people who are his neighbors in summer go away down South in the winter. He knew that this was the reason why Dotty the Tree Sparrow and Slaty the Junco and Snowflake the Snow Bunting and Snipper the Crossbill and Piny the Pine Grosbeak, cousin to Wanderer, come down from the North each winter. But of all these winter acquaintances, not one was a traveler in two directions. All came straight down from the North. But Mr. and Mrs. Wanderer said they had come from the West as well as from the North. The West was where Old Man Coyote had come from.

"Did I understand you to say that you know a lot of Old Man Coyote's relatives?" inquired Peter.

"Perhaps I shouldn't say that I know them, but I have seen them often," replied Wanderer. "Coyotes are quite as common out in some parts of the West as foxes are around here in the East."

Peter thought this over for a moment or two. "I'm glad they don't live around here," said he. "Old Man Coyote and Mrs. Coyote are quite enough."

"I don't understand," said Wanderer, "how they happen to be here."

"Oh," replied Peter. "They were caught out West by men and brought on here. Then they were lucky enough to escape. They are some travelers. It was bad enough when there was only Reddy Fox and Old Granny Fox and Mrs. Reddy, but it is worse now. How long did it take you to get here from your summer home? Did you travel as fast as Honker the Goose?"

Wanderer chuckled. He was always chuckling. He held out one wing. "Does that look as if I could travel like Honker the Goose?" he demanded.

"I couldn't say," replied Peter. "I don't know much about wings."

"Well," replied Wanderer good naturedly, "We took our time making the long journey and we shall take our time going back. The way we do is just move along from one good feeding place to another. The only way to get anything out of traveling is to do it easily. Then you can see things."

"I know," replied Peter sagely. "When I am running very fast, I cannot see much. I have to give all my attention to where I am going. You must be acquainted with a lot of people we never meet down here."

"I suppose I am," said Wanderer.

"Have you ever seen Howler the Wolf, the big cousin of Old Man Coyote?" asked Peter.

"Often," replied Wanderer. "You ought to be glad that Howler doesn't live around here."

"I am," said Peter. "I have troubles enough as it is. Is Howler as fierce as I have heard tell?"

"Yes," replied Wanderer. "He is big and he is very smart, and everybody is afraid of him."

"I wish——" said Peter; then stopped.

"What do you wish?" asked Wanderer.

"That you would tell me about Howler the Wolf," replied Peter.

TELEPHONE TROUBLEMAN REPAIRING DAMAGE

Employes of the S. N. E. T. Co., were still at work Wednesday, stringing new wires on the poles along the Colchester-Bozrahville road, following the havoc wrought by the heavy snow storm. The poles near the former Roger Foote farm have been reset. It is reported that it will be several days before the service will be back to normal.

Following the heavy snow and thawing spells, the brooks and meadows on the outskirts of the village are flooded.

Mrs Harold Gunning and two children of Hartford, former local residents were guests of Mrs. H. H. Tomkins, Wednesday.

Eight hundred day-old chicks from Ohio were received at the local post office for a Colchester farmer, Wednesday.

A number of members of Oliver Woodhouse lodge Knights of Pythias attended a lodge meeting in New London Wednesday evening.

Members of the Benevolent society are to hold a meeting at the home of Mrs. Clara M. Gillette Friday afternoon.

James Fulton has returned to his duties as driver of the U. S. mail truck on the star route between here and Meriden, having recovered from several weeks' severe illness.

At the mid-week bible and prayer meeting to be held in the Congregational chapel this (Thursday) evening, the subject for discussion will be "Canaan."

Motion to Set Aside Verdict

A motion to set aside the jury verdict in the appeal from probate case brought by George Stewart, et al., against Attorney Charles L. Stewart, of this city, executor of the estate of William Stewart, of North Stonington, has been filed with the clerk of the superior court in this city. The jury's verdict last week sustained the will made by the late Mr. Stewart. The motion is filed on grounds that the verdict was against the law and the evidence in the case.

Wise men never trust a second time these who have deceived them once.

Conn. Mother Was Right

Within a few months there will be no more feverish, bilious, headachy, constipated, pale and puny children! That prophecy would surely come true if every mother could see for herself how quickly, easily, and harmlessly the bowels of babies and children are cleased, regulated, given tone and strength by a product which has proved its merit and reliability to do what is claimed for it to millions of mothers in over fifty years of steadily increasing use.

As mothers find out from using it how children respond to the gentle influence of California Fig Syrup by growing stronger, sturdier and more active daily they simply have to tell other mothers about it. That's one of the reasons for its overwhelming sales of over four million bottles a year.

A Connecticut mother, Mrs. John Scully, 49 Glendale Ave., Hartford, says: "Before my daughter, Evelyn, was a year old, she began having constipation. I decided to give her California Fig Syrup and in a few days she was all right and looked fine again. This pleased me so much that I have used Fig Syrup ever since for all her colds or little upset spells. It always stops her trouble quick, strengthens her, makes her eat."

Always ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name and see that the carton bears the word "California." Then you'll get the genuine.

The witchery of its marvelous flavor rests on facts

★ 1—"Canada Dry" is made from high-quality Jamaica ginger and through our exclusive extraction process retains all the flavor and aroma of the ginger root.

★ 2—"Canada Dry" is made from absolutely pure ingredients, blended and balanced in exact proportions. A secret process of carbonation enables it to retain its sparkle long after the bottle is opened.

★ 3—"Canada Dry" is tested daily under laboratory methods to assure its purity. Leading hospitals serve it. Leading physicians prescribe it. Here is a better, purer ginger ale.

CONSEQUENTLY, "Canada Dry" is served the wide world over. In London . . . in the Houses of Parliament at Ottawa . . . at famous clubs and hotels in New York. And in countless homes throughout America.

Drink it with dinner tonight . . . when friends call. Give it to the children. Notice its mellowness . . . its "dryness" . . . its refreshing sparkle . . . and its marvelous flavor.

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Thursday, March 7, 1929

THE WEATHER

Conditions.

The Atlantic coast storm has continued to move northeastward to the Canadian maritime provinces with increasing intensity. It has been attended by rain or snow in the middle Atlantic and north Atlantic states and by northwest gales along the entire Atlantic seaboard.

A Michigan disturbance will move rapidly eastward and it will likely be attended by slight precipitation on Thursday from the lower lake region and the extreme upper Ohio valley, eastward to the north Atlantic coast.

The weather will become much colder in the north Atlantic states Thursday night.

Winds.

North of Sandy Hook: Increasing southwest and west winds, probably reaching gale force Thursday and mostly overcast weather.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Increasing southwest shifting to west and northwest winds reaching gale force and generally fair weather Thursday.

Forecast.

For Southern New England: Cloudy, possibly light rain Thursday, much colder Thursday night; Friday fair and colder.

Observations.

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and barometric changes Wednesday:

	Ther.	Bar.
8 a. m.	33	29.90

GREENEVILLE

Among those who attended the inauguration in Washington on March 4th from Greeneville were the Misses Agnes Casey, Doris Lund and Jennie Sebastian and Mr. and Mrs. James Mileski.

The many friends of Mrs. Harry Larose will be pleased to learn that she is able to be out again following an illness which had confined her to her home on Fourth street.

The beautiful bouquet of flowers which graced the pulpit at the Third Baptist church recently was given by Mrs. Frank Dennison, in memory of her brother, Arthur F. Campbell, who was a member of the Sunday school at one time.

Mrs. William A. Lund and daughter, Marilyn, have returned to their home on Twelfth street after spending a week in Quinebaug, Conn., the guest of relatives.

Mrs. Elmer Mulkins and son, Millard, of Boswell avenue have returned to their home after spending a week in Holyoke, Mass., at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mulkins.

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS AT LOCAL Y. M. C. A.

Wednesday evening at the local Y. M. C. A. at the supper hour, the Men's Bible Study club met for the weekly discussion. The scripture used was Luke 6:27-38, and the topic was "Human Relationships." Among the points brought out were the following: Christ knew full well that His disciples would have enemies, for He had plenty of them. No man is without his enemies, and it seems sometimes as though the better a man is the more enemies he has; Christ is an example of this.

It would not be best for a man to have everybody his friend; enemies have sometimes a developing agency in a life.

While it may be possible for a human to love his enemy as he does his friend, yet the fact is we do not do so. We can do a loving act for one whom we do not love. A Christian man should not be to ready to always demand his rights, when it is not a matter of principle; it is better at times to waive ones rights than to be in constant discord with another. It is far better to suffer wrong than to try to "get even" with an enemy. It does not hurt us and it may cause the other fellow to see his mistake. The world has a right to expect more from a professed Christian then from one who makes no profession. A great attribute of religion is mercy. Kindness shown to another always reacts most favorably on the man who is kind.

COUNTY FRUIT GROWERS HELD MEETING HERE

The fruit growers of New London county held an all day meeting Wednesday in cooperation with the New London county farm bureau, at the Buckingham Memorial, about 40 attending. This is the third consecutive year that a special fruit programme has been arranged by the county bureau and it proved of great interest to those attending.

The programme included interesting addresses by Prof. R. A. Van Meter of the Massachusetts Agricultural college, who spoke on the topic The Newest Developments in Fruit Growing Practices and by Prof. W. H. Darrow, extension specialist from Connecticut Agricultural college, Storrs, who talked on Important Pests of the Apple and Their Control. County Agent Walter T. Clark outlined the county fruit programme for the year and explained the proposed spray service to be inaugurated this spring. Prof. Darrow illustrated his talk with slides and samples of fruit.

Luncheon was served at 12.15 o'clock by members of Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No. 16. The meeting closed with a general discussion by the fruit growers on the information gleaned from the series of interesting addresses given by well known fruit authorities.

Discharged from Hospital.

The following patients were discharged from the W. W. Backus hospital Wednesday: Miss Fannie Chykow of Versailles, and Mrs. Edward McGonegal and infant son, of 39 Asylum street, Norwich.

LOCAL MERCHANTS PLAN SPRING OPENING NEXT WEEK

Elaborate plans are now going forward for the annual spring opening event of the Norwich Merchants' bureau, which will occur on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 14, 15 and 16. The latest in spring fashions will be attractively displayed throughout the leading stores of the city.

Competition for the most attractive windows, between the various merchants, will be keen. As has been the custom in the past, beautiful prizes will be awarded to the stores having the best window in each of the 12 various classifications, as follows:

A, hardware and auto accessories; B, millinery; C, shoes; D, women's wear; E, men's clothing and furnishings; F, drugs and toilet goods; G, groceries, candy stores and restaurants; H, jewelry and novelties; I, furniture and home furnishings; J, electrical and florists; K, general; L, department stores.

The general committee making the arrangements for this event will hold a meeting in the chamber of commerce rooms this (Thursday) afternoon. The committee comprises Fred Fleming, chairman; J. B. Caron, Jacob Birch, John Savard, Joseph Alexander, Jr., Charles Jacobson. Another attractive feature of the spring opening event this year will be a style show in the Broadway theatre, in which many beautiful Norwich girls will participate. This show is to be managed under the personal direction of Miss Katherine Hempstead. Many of the leading stores will feature the latest styles in footwear, sport clothes, evening gowns, rain coats, millinery, etc. The show is to take place on Thursday evening and Friday evening and will run approximately 30 minutes. A great deal of effort is being put forth by the committee to make this one of the finest events ever staged by the Norwich merchants.

A special committee of judges will make the awards on the most attractive windows, the awards to be based on the following considerations: Lighting, 10 per cent; arrangement, 15 per cent; color, 20 per cent; originality 20 per cent; selling, 15 per cent; neatness, 10 per cent; eye appeal, 10 per cent; total, 100 per cent.

INDIAN CRAFT EXHIBIT AT CONVERSE ART GALLERY

The art committee of the Woman's City club has arranged an exhibition in the Converse Art gallery, illustrating Indian Craft and Indian Lore. The opening day, Friday, March 8, will be reserved for a private view of the club. The hours on that day will be from 2 until 5, and from 7 until 9:30. The exhibition has been arranged to show the contrast in cultures and crafts of the Indians in different parts of the country.

A feature of this particular exhibit is to be its use by the children of the grade schools. The American Indian is studied in several of the grades, and these classes are to have appointments during school hours, when the gallery will be saved for the school to whom the privilege has been given.

These children will see an Indian habitat, arranged as it is furnished, with a campfire glowing inside, together with many articles loaned by the Museum of Natural History. Wood-carving, jewelry, weaving, pottery, beadwork and basketry, illustrating Indian crafts, have been loaned from a number of private collections. The exhibition will be open to the public from March 9 to March 22 inclusive, from 3 until 5. Sundays included.

YOUTH PRESENTED ON TWO BURGLARY CHARGES

Presented Wednesday morning on two burglary charges, Adelard Robarge, 17, of Chestnut street, former inmate of the Connecticut School for Boys, Meriden, had his case continued to Thursday morning in the city court Wednesday morning. It is probable that he will be returned to the Meriden school. Robarge is charged with burglarizing Jack's Sport Shop, and the fruit store conducted by Antonio Longo on Franklin street early Wednesday morning.

Attended Inauguration.

The Misses Doris and Beatrice Fowler, Carrie Burdick, Agnes Moran Jennie Sebastian, Obaline Lambert and Mrs. Rose Hooks left for Washington Sunday evening to attend the inauguration of President Hoover. They returned home Tuesday noon.

Called for Chimney Fire.

At 8.30 o'clock Wednesday morning the Yantic fire department was called out for a chimney fire at the residence on Sunnyside Av., (Yantic) occupied by Mrs. Mary Ladd and son. The building is owned by the American Woolen company. Two gallons of chemical were used in extinguishing the blaze, which caused no damage.

TAFTVILLE

A number of Bilsville residents are planning to go to Hartford March 12 to be present at the hearing at the state capitol regarding the bill introduced into the legislature by Representative George Ross of Lisbon and Representative Kerr of Canterbury. The bill would make the new highway which is being run from Norwich through Canterbury and Pomfret to Woodstock a trunk line. The town of Lisbon has already appropriated $2,500 for its share of the highway, which will be refunded to the town if the new bill carries.

The members of St. Veronica's society held a meeting Wednesday evening at their rooms on Providence street, with the president, Miss Mary Nolan, presiding. The society is planning to give a card party and Miss Anne Dailey has been made the chairman of the committee which is to have charge of the event.

Mrs. John Frohmader of Terrace avenue entertained the members of the ladies' rifle team of the German Shooting club at her home Tuesday evening. It being the March meeting of the team, the decorations were green and white and there were St. Patrick's day favors. Mrs. Frohmader in serving supper had the assistance of her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Urban, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Frohmader, Jr. At the business session plans were discussed for a post-Lenten dance.

Some of the Taftville members of the William W. Backus hospital auxiliary are planning to have a whist and bridge party the week of March 11th to 16th, when various groups of the members are arranging social affairs for the benefit of the auxiliary. A meeting of the committee which will have charge of the local card party was held Monday evening and consists of Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, Mrs. Andrew Frohmader, Miss Elsie Heap, Mrs. Elsie K. Pingree, Mrs. Frank B. Ricketson, Miss Agnes Malone and Miss Flossie M. Meyer.

A motion picture exhibition was given Wednesday evening in the community hall in the new schoolhouse in Newent, the new motion picture machine recently purchased by the pupils of the central school being used.

Lenten devotions, including recitation of the rosary, a sermon in English and benediction of the blessed sacrament were held Wednesday evening at Sacred Heart church.

The members of the Independent Order of Foresters held their monthly business meeting Wednesday evening.

The Shetucket river was running high all day Wednesday, and below the mill dam had overflowed its banks on the Lisbon side of the stream.

No woman is ever as young as she expects others to think she looks.

CAVE RADIO TALK ON STATE DAIRY PRODUCTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, March 6—In a radio talk given over station WCAC by John A. Simms, animal husbandry specialist, on the advancement of 4-H club work in the state, Mr. Simms pointed out that the Connecticut 4-H club members are getting better than the average in state competition, and are learning things about the industry that will help to make them the future producers of dairy products in Connecticut.

There are 350 dairy club members in the state organized in clubs, and the scattered enrollment would increase this number to 400. The growth in the last year has brought 13 new clubs into existence, an increase of 70 per cent over last year. There are 2,600 boys and girls in the state who desire the possibility of becoming 4-H club members, but the distance between farms makes for the lack of organization for these young folks.

Towns are competing against each other for supremacy in this field, and in doing this are helping to spread the work of the extension department at the Connecticut Agricultural college. The town of Litchfield has had a marked influence on many towns nearby. It spread the name of the 4-H club through Barkhamstead, Winchester, New Hartford, and Torrington. Winchester has for its goal this year the organizing of clubs in other nearby towns.

The Tolland County Dairy club has taken a great part in the organization of clubs, with its local leaders acting as local leaders in other clubs. The goal of 1,000 4-H Dairy clubs in Connecticut is the aim of the dairy club members of the state in 1930.

TO DRAFT MEMORIALS TO DECEASED LAWYERS

Committees have been named to draw up memorial resolutions on the deaths of five members of the New London County Bar association. The deceased members are: Jeremiah J. Desmond, Nathan Belcher, George E. Parsons, Lewis Crandall and Marion R. Davis. William H. Shields, president of the bar association, has announced the appointment of the following committee on resolutions:

Committee on Jeremiah J. Desmond—Wallace S. Allis, Nelson J. Ayling, Arthur M. Brown, Frank L. McGuire, Charles Hadlai Hull.

Committee on Marion R. Davis—Arthur T. Keefe, Charles A. Gallup, Morris Lubchansky, Thomas J. Kelly, Clayton B. Smith.

Committee on George E. Parsons—George H. Gilman, George Curtis Morgan, Edwin W. Higgins, Frank N. Gardner, Josiah Greenstein.

The several committees are to draft suitable resolutions of recognition and memorial of the deceased lawyers.

MRS. G. W. POTTER ADDRESSES PRIMARY COUNCIL MEETING

Mrs. George Warren Potter gave a most interesting hour on "Story Telling" to the primary teachers at their regular meeting Tuesday evening. Following a general talk on methods and essential points of a good story, Mrs. Potter gave several illustrations, all of which were greatly enjoyed by her audience. A rising vote of thanks was extended to her.

Preceding the meeting, supper was served to 30 by a committee of which Miss Hazel Anderson was chairman.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Norton, who are spending the winter at the Hotel Elroe, New York, are guests at the Wauregan for a few days.

Miss Grace Benjamin is in New York for two weeks.

The Tuesday bridge club was entertained Wednesday afternoon this week by Mrs. Albert H. Chase, of Sachem terrace. Mrs. Allyn L. Brown and Mrs. Willis Phipps Austin won the prizes.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Camp are at Atlantic City.

Steamer Leviathan, on which Mr. and Mrs. A. M. VanWagenen, Jr., of West Hartford, are passengers, is due at Southampton today (Thursday). After a visit in London, Mr. and Mrs. VanWagenen will fly to Paris and will spend some time touring France. They are due to return on S. S. Ile de France late this month. Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. VanWagenen, of the Little Plain, were in New York Thursday last for the departure of their son and daughter-in-law on the Leviathan.

HEALTH PLAY WRITING CONTEST IN HIGH SCHOOLS

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, March 6—More than usual interest has been shown in the health play-writing contest which is being conducted in Connecticut high schools, according to an announcement made today at the office of the state tuberculosis commission in the capitol. With still another month remaining for schools to enter the contest, the commission feels that the high schools of this state have a very good chance of winning at least one of the prizes offered by the New England Conference on Tuberculosis, as well as the three prizes offered in the state contest. High schools, junior high schools, private and parochial schools of the same grade are eligible to enter the contest for the best one-act plays dealing with some aspect of community or individual health.

The first prize play selected by the Connecticut judges, which consist of Dr. Helen Miller, state department of education, Mrs. William Harris, Jr., former child health education director, Massachusetts Tuberculosis league, and members of the state tuberculosis commission, will later be submitted to a committee for the New England contest. The three plays selected by the committee will be presented by the students at the Copley theatre in Boston, under the direction of Mr. E. E. Clive.

PLAN CO-ED DEBATE AT CONN. AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, March 6—Announcement has been made by Dr. Henry K. Denlinger, professor of history, and debating coach at the institution, that a co-ed debate will take place in the near future at an assembly hour. The co-eds have organized their own debating club, and have shown marked accomplishments in the new enterprise.

In past years the debating has been largely monopolized by the male members of the student body, but with the advancement of the forensic abilities of the women in other colleges, the sport has been organized here. Perhaps in the near future the women students will be made members of Pi Kappa Delta, the National Forensic fraternity, which has a chapter here.

May Call Special Town Meeting.

A special town meeting may be called in response to a petition being circulated, to take such action as seen fit on the grand list as left by the board of relief. The board is now completing its work. The petition, addressed to the board of selectmen, reads:

We, the undersigned, taxpayers and electors of the town of Norwich, Conn., hereby petition your honorable body to call a special town meeting in said Norwich, on or before March 27, 1929, to take such action as they see fit on the grand list as left by the board of relief and as now appears.

NORWICH TOWN SPECIAL LENTEN SERVICES AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Those attending the First Congregational church have received attractive leaflets for the Lenten season, sent out by the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey. The face of the leaflet is inscribed First Church of Christ in Norwich, Founded 1660, Norwich Town, Connecticut, Gurdon Franklin Bailey, minister, 1929. Inside is the list of Sunday morning sermon themes as under the general theme, "Our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ." The dates follow: March 3rd, Man's Need of a Saviour; March 10th, The Jesus of Nazareth; March 17th, The Increasing Messiah; March 24th, The Rejected Christ; March 31st, Christ Triumphant.

Mid-Week Preacher

The Men's Division of the League of Service co-operates with the minister in preparing the following program for the mid-week meetings during March: Thursday, the 7th, Rev. Walter Vey of Lebanon, will speak; Friday, the 15th, Rev. H. H. Tompkins, Colchester; Thursday, the 21st, Rev. William C. Fiske, Plainfield; Thursday, the 28th, the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed. Rev. Charles E. Reeves will assist the minister at this service. The services are at 7:30. The concluding paragraph reads: Will not every member of the parish, so far as physically able to do so, make an honest effort to attend at least two of these special services and all if possible?

Mrs. George Warren Potter of Norwich Town, president of the Woman's auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., attended the luncheon, also presided over the March meeting Tuesday noon, at the Y. M. C. A.

When the Primary Council Miss Justine Morrison president, held its March meeting at Broadway school, Norwich, Tuesday evening, following supper at 5:30, Mrs. George Warren Potter of Norwich Town, entertained with a talk entitled "Story Telling." This council comprises teachers of the lower grades in Norwich public schools.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb were callers recently on their cousin, Mrs. Grace Lord of Nyack, N. Y., at the home of her mother, Mrs. Agnes Smith of Broadway. Mrs. Lord, a former Norwich resident, returned to Nyack Tuesday, following a visit of three weeks.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom banish Piles.

Nor does cutting remove the cause. The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in hundreds of cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Lee & Osgood Co., who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

Getting Up Nights

Is Nature's Danger Signal

Rev. W. H. Mitchell, 824 N. Park St., Columbus, Ohio, says: "I feel I am doing real missionary work when I tell or write how my wife was relieved of a serious case of bladder irritation with Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula). She had to get up 5 to 8 times each night. It acts on bladder as epsom salts do on bowels. Drives out foreign deposits and lessens excessive acidity. This relieves the irritation that causes getting up nights. The tablets cost 2c each at Lee & Osgood Co.

A Majority of Those Present at the Legislative Committee Hearing Were Opposed to the Bill Which Would Limit the Setting of Steel Traps to 12 at the Same Time—In Opposition to the Bill Designed to Prohibit the Use of Steel Traps Mr. Daniels of Lyme Said That Roaming Dogs Were a Greater Menace Then the Traps—Eastern Connecticut Was Well Represented at the Hearing—Other Legislative News.

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, March 7—A bill of more than passing interest to sportsmen is the one that was passed in the house today from the calendar. The bill contains many changes and reads as follows:

Section 1. Section forty-five of chapter 252 of the public acts of 1923 is amended to read as follows: (a) The close season for partridge (or ruffed grouse and male Mongolian, Chinese and English pheasants shall be from November twenty-fourth to October nineteenth, both inclusive, provided no person shall hunt any partridge or ruffed grouse prior to October twentieth, 1929, and provided the close season for pheasants for the year 1929 shall end October seventh. No person shall hunt, take, possess, kill or attempt to kill any female pheasant. No person shall kill in any day more than two pheasants or two ruffed grouse; and no person shall kill or take more than fifteen pheasants or fifteen ruffed grouse. In any part provided nothing in this act shall be construed to limit the right of any person to kill or have in his possession pheasants bred or propagated by any licensed dealer, under such rules and regulations as may be made by the state board of fisheries and game. (b) The governor may, upon the recommendation of the state board of fisheries and game, and upon being satisfied that partridge or ruffed grouse require additional protection because of disease or danger of extermination, proclaim a close season for said species during the year 1931, during which period partridge or ruffed grouse shall not be hunted or taken.

Fight Over Trapping Bill

The committee on fish and game had its largest attendance of the session. The interest centered in the bills concerning trapping of fur-bearing animals. Two factions were seeking great restrictions upon the setting of traps, representatives of the Connecticut Humane society and the hunters and trappers not many valuable traps.

The bills under discussion were: H. B. 544 which would prohibit the setting of more than twelve steel traps at the same time; H. B. 558, that would prohibit the setting of any steel trap upon any land not owned by him or on which he is actually domiciled. No trap to have a spread of more than four inches, no trap to have teeth and not more than 24 hours shall elapse between visitations to the traps; H. B. 760, that would prohibit the setting of traps on top of the ground at any time for the purpose of catching any animal or for any other purpose. H. B. 763, that prohibits the hunting, fishing or trapping upon the land of another without permission of the owner; S. B. 297, forbids the setting of traps upon land of another without written permission of the owner, no trap to be set in any other place than in a pond, stream or any tributary thereto or in the burrow of a wild animal, all traps to have name of the owner stamped thereon. Land-owners or his legal occupant may set such traps without a radius of 100 feet of any permanent building located on such land. It also provides that each trap must be visited at not more than 24 hour intervals; S. B. 413, prohibits scented bait traps having teeth, or a spread of more than six inches except for the taking of otter.

Various forms of traps were on display. It included one that was styled as a "humane trap," intended to capture wood chucks alive without maiming.

More than 100 arose as favoring H. B. 763 and only four were opposed.

H. B. 532 had a large number arise in its support and there was one lone objector, Lafayette M. Main of North Stonington. H. B. 289, that repealed all laws relating to snaring was disapproved by nearly 200 who arose at the call of the chairman, protesting against the bill.

A majority of those present were opposed to H. B. 544 which set a limit of twelve traps at the same time. On H. B. 558 there was offered a maimed dog as evidence of danger that lurks in the placing of steel traps. The dog will be crippled for life. William Harrigan of New London had had five dogs injured by traps within two years. William La Rochelle of Norwich told of finding a raccoon that had one forefoot and a foreleg gone at the knee. The leg had rotted off and the foot had been gnawed off. A valuable dog that was missed

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 7—(AP)—A large majority of the Methodist conference here voted approval of the principle of admitting women to the ministry.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 7—(AP)—Eamon De Valera arrived here from jail in Belfast unannounced. Nobody met him at the station as he stepped into a taxicab and was driven to his home like an ordinary traveler.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 7—(AP)—Lieut. Ward W. Stevens, of Eubdra, Ltd., suffered a flesh wound in the arm when he attempted to quell a disturbance between members of the Guardia Nacional and local authorities at Corinto.

CHARGES FILED AGAINST ROSE PASTOR STOKES

NEW YORK, March 7—(AP)—The charge of violating the state compulsory education law made against Rose Pastor Stokes, prominent radical, when she was arrested last month for picketing in the garment district with a nine year old boy she called her son in "all but birth" was dismissed today in municipal court.

The charge was dropped when it was shown that the lad, Jerry Domaine, was a regular attendant at a public school here and had been absent only on the day of the demonstration.

At an earlier hearing Jacob Mandelbaum, Mrs. Stokes' attorney, said his client had told him she was a resident of Westport, Conn., and that the child was being privately tutored. Today, however, a letter from M. R. Lefler, superintendent of the Westport schools, was read showing that the boy had not attended school there since November 26. On that date Mrs. Stokes informed Westport school authorities she and Jerry were coming to this city to live with the boy's father to whom she is married.

HELD ON CHARGES OF TRANSPORTING LIQUOR

PORTLAND, Maine, March 7—(AP)—Two Massachusetts men were held in $1,000 bail each by United States Commissioner George F. Gould today on charges of transporting and possession of liquor.

The men, Clarence Baldwin, South Hamilton, Mass., and Eugene F. Morgan, of 9 A. St. James street, Lynn, Mass., were arrested last night near Kittery by federal prohibition agents from Portland.

The agents said they found two five gallon kegs of alleged liquor and a supply of labels in their automobile.

VICE PRESIDENT CURTIS TO SEEK RELAXATION

WASHINGTON, March 7—(AP)—Vice President Curtis intends to seek a few days relaxation next week at an unannounced resting place.

It will be the first time since the strenuous national campaign and the subsequent session of congress that Mr. Curtis has left his duties. While he is keeping his resting place a secret, it is believed the vice president will remain near Washington in order to attend the cabinet meetings in which President Hoover has invited his participation.

TWO MEN ARRESTED IN REAR OF BURNING HOUSE

MANCHESTER, March 7—(AP)—Two men were arrested following their discovery in the rear of a burning house tonight. They were Peter Happeney, 50, and Alexander McQuiy, 64. Both were locked up on technical charges of drunkenness.

Police claim McQuiy occupied the house alone for several years and tonight invited Happeney to drink liquor with him. It is believed a lighted lamp overturned and the men jumped to safety when the flames spread. The damage amounted to $1,000.

MEN ARRESTED HAD PISTOL AND BLACKJACK

HARTFORD, Conn., March 7—(AP)—Harry H. Weitzel, 26, of Reading, Pa., and Albert Altman, 29, alias Al Wiltse of New York city, former pugilist, were arrested here today by police. A search of them revealed a loaded revolver and a blackjack.

Wiltse was concerned in a shooting affray in Greenwich, Conn., some years ago according to the police. They are held under bonds of $1,000 each.

RAN AWAY FROM HOME TO BECOME "BIG BANKER"

NEW YORK, March 7—(AP)—Arthur Galpin, 14, of 20 Sheridan street, Stratford, Conn., tied a bundle of clothes on his bicycle today and set out from his home for New York to become "a big banker." Reaching the Bronx after an all-day journey he was stopped by a patrolman, who took him to the children's society. His parents were notified to come and get him.

MOTHER AND HER TWO SONS BURNED TO DEATH

DAYTON, O., March 7—(AP)—Mrs. Will Young, 35, and her two sons, William, 4, and James, 2, were burned to death tonight when fire destroyed their home two miles north of here. Will Young, 36, the woman's husband, and two other children, Virginia, 6, and Robert, an infant, were seriously burned. They were taken to a hospital.

ELDERLY WOMAN KILLED ON NEWTOWN TURNPIKE

TRUMBULL, Conn., March 7—(AP)—Miss Emily I. Lawrence, 63, of Longhill, was instantly killed today on the Newtown turnpike, when struck by a car operated by Samuel Sadelewitz, of Stepney, as she was crossing the highway to return to her residence at the home of her sister, Mrs. William I. Davis, of Longhill.

ARRESTED IN CONNECTION WITH $50,000 ROBBERIES

PHILADELPHIA, March 7—(AP)—Sought by police of half a dozen states in connection with robberies involving sums up to $50,000, Raymond Kaune was arrested tonight in his apartment in West Philadelphia. Adrian Simoliell, who was with him, also was taken into custody charged with violating the terms of a parole.

Has Narrow Escape

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 7—(AP)—A. C. N. Gosling, of Toronto, the Bermuda amateur champion, had a narrow escape from elimination in the first round of the annual spring golf tournament of the Riddell's Bay club here today. Gosling was carried to the eighteenth hole before he subdued R. B. Whitaker of Kenosha, Wis., one up.

Stewart Loses Fight With Rockefeller, Jr.

President Seubert of Standard Oil of Ind. Will Take Over Position Held by Stewart

WHITING, IND., March 7—(AP)—Colonel Robert W. Stewart lost his long-fought battle today with John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to retain his $125,000-a-year position as chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

Mr. Stewart went down to a defeat even more decisive than had been predicted by the Rockefeller group which had demanded his resignation because of alleged "moral unfitness," but he left the annual stockholders' meeting with the plaudits of the record gathering ringing in his ears.

The position of chairman, from which Colonel Stewart was ousted by more than 2,500,000 votes, was abandoned by the new board of directors which met immediately after being elected.

Edward G. Seubert, president of the corporation, was reelected and made chief executive officer. He will take over the duties of Colonel Stewart, whose successor on the board is William M. Burton, former president of the concern.

The new board of eleven has three additions, Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, Gentry Cash, manager of the Whiting plant and now a vice president of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport corporation. The slates presented by the Rockefeller faction and the Stewart supporters were identical with the exception of Colonel Stewart, Mr. Burton and Mr. Traylor. Traylor was named on the board to succeed Louis L. Stephens, who, although defeated as a director, was retained in his position as general counsel.

COL. STEWART ISSUES STATEMENT OF REGRET

"It would be idle for me to say that I leave the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) without regret. For years its welfare has been my deepest concern. Its affairs have been my very life. I have seen it grow under the present administration from a $267,000,000 corporation with 4,620 stockholders, to practically a billion dollar corporation with 56,293 stockholders. One cannot disassociate himself from such an intimacy without a wrench.

"The regret I feel, however, is mingled with an emotion of happiness tempered in turn by a sense of undying gratitude towards those associates of mine of the board of directors, towards those thousands upon thousands of employes, my friends for years, my friends still, who so loyally stood back of me in the contest through which I just have passed. It took but three hours to conduct the meeting to complete the business in hand and to determine the result of the balloting."

PRESIDENT HOOVER CALLS CONGRESS TO MEET APRIL 15

WASHINGTON, Mar. 7—(AP)—President Hoover cleared the way today for the solution of two of the three most pressing problems before his administration by calling the 71st congress into extraordinary session on April 15 to consider further farm relief and limited tariff revision legislation.

He also gave further consideration to the appointment of the national commission which is to take up the third and perhaps gravest problem—general law enforcement with particular reference to the prohibition amendment and the abuses which have grown up around its operation.

The political situation in the south and the handling of patronage there were discussed by Mr. Hoover with several callers both during the forenoon and afternoon and one of them, R. B. Creager, republican national committeeman for Texas, predicted that the president would do all that he could "to give the south a two-party government in the future.

Upon leaving the white house, Mr. Creager issued a defi to Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, chairman of the senate patronage investigating committee, by declaring that his organization in Texas would continue to raise funds in the future as it had in the past "Senator Brookhart to the contrary notwithstanding." The Iowan had condemned the acceptance of contributions for party purposes from federal office holders and threatened to smash the Creager organization.

While the president mentioned only farm relief and tariff revision in his proclamation, the special session of the new congress cannot be limited to a consideration of these subjects. In fact the chief executive can place no limitation upon its action, his authority ending with the issuing of the call and the submission of his special message outlining his views on the subjects he would have considered.

After a talk with Mr. Hoover, Senator Vandenberg, republican, Michigan, predicted that the senate would act first upon the resolution authorizing the 1930 census and providing for the reapportionment of the membership of the house of representatives on a basis of that census.

WILSON CHARGED WITH MURDER OF "FATTY" WALSH

MIAMI, Fla., March 7—(AP)—A warrant charging first degree murder was issued tonight for Ed Wilson, alleged gambler of New York, Chicago and Miami, charging him with the murder of Thomas (Fatty) Walsh, who was shot and killed in a suite of rooms in a Coral Gables hotel this morning.

The warrant was issued on affidavit filed by Sheriff M. P. Lehman, and Richard H. Hunt, assistant state's attorney, after they had questioned more than twenty witnesses during the day. They reported the witnesses indicated the shooting followed an altercation between Walsh and Wilson.

LINDBERGH TO PILOT PLANE MEX. CITY TO BROWNSVILLE

NEW YORK, March 7—(AP)—J. T. Trippe, president of Pan-American Airways, Inc., announced today that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will pilot a plane from Mexico City to Brownsville, Tex., saturday morning to inaugurate the corporations latest air mail and passenger route.

On Sunday, Mr. Trippe's statement said, Col. Lindbergh will inaugurate the first southbound service over the route, leaving Brownsville at 10 a. m., and arriving at Mexico City at 3:40 p. m.

Vera Cruz in Hands of Federal Troops

Rebel Bombardment of Juarez Thursday Was Plainly Heard in El Paso, Texas

By The Associated Press

Rebel forces opened an attack on Juarez across the border from El Paso Thursday and the bombardment could be heard plainly in the American city.

United States military authorities took precautions to protect American life and property at El Paso from stray shells, armored cars with light artillery between stations at bridgeheads while others were on active patrol duty.

The important seaport of Vera Cruz was in the hands of troops loyal to erthe Mexican government while Gen. al Aguirre, one of the three chief revolutionary leaders was trying to cut his way to safety.

The cutting of land lines between Mexico City, Vera Cruz and Tampico, left the Mexican capital isolated for many hours during the day and it was not until late Thursday that a few scattered dispatches began to come through.

The first dispatch to come was filed out of Mexico City at 1:05 p. m., (2:05 eastern standard time) telling of the execution of General J. Lopez, former chief of military police, as a rebel.

General Borquez, rebel commander, in Sonora announced that the insurgents had taken possession of the state of Sinaloa.

Advices from Laredo indicated that General Almazan, one of the chief loyalist generals had been captured at Saltillo, but this could not be confirmed.

Catholic churches in Sonora, across the international boundary line, celebrated high mass this morning for the first time since 1926.

MEXICAN GOV'T. LIFTS THE CABLE CENSORSHIP

MEXICO CITY, March 7—(AP)—The cable censorship imposed by the federal government on Sunday night because of the revolution was lifted at 6:20 p. m., (7:20) eastern standard time tonight.

MEXICO REVOLUTIONARY LEADERS CLAIM PROGRESS

NOGALES, Ariz., March 7—(AP)—While Mexican rebel troops battled federal forces today for possession of Juarez, neighbor city of El Paso, Tex., revolutionary leaders claimed progress for their armies in other campaigns in northern Mexico.

A statement issued at revolutionary headquarters in Nogales, Sonora, said the rebels were in complete control of the state of Sinaloa, and that preparations were going forward in the rebel stronghold of northwestern Mexico for a thrust toward Mexico City.

FEELS SITUATION IN MEXICO IS CLEARING

WASHINGTON, March 7—(AP)—The reported successes of the federal government troops against the revolutionists in various sections of Mexico led American government officials tonight to feel that the situation in the southern republic was clearing up considerably.

News of these successes, coming during the day through diplomatic channels and in press dispatches, apparently modified the concern of American officials over the possibility of danger to Americans and to the enormous American properties in the revolutionary sections.

There were no developments in Washington as to the American government's attitude. Reports that the Mexican government had asked permission to transport a number of troops over American soil from one point on the border to another for reentry into Mexico were said to be unfounded.

SEES WEAKENING OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

NEW YORK, March 7—(AP)—Paul M. Warburg, one of the fathers of the federal reserve system, today said the federal reserve, through its failure to check speculative credit in the past year has relinquished leadership in the money market to stock exchange operators.

These operators have now for many months, he said, governed the flow of money not only in the United States but in the principal parts of the world.

"The banking fraternity," he asserted, "would we well advised to anticipate radical congressional proposal by taking the lead in seeking the lines along which reform may be brought about."

Mr. Warburg, who no longer is connected with the federal reserve system, but was a member of the first board in Washington, issued the statement at the close of a meeting consolidating the Bank of Manhattan company and International Acceptance Bank, Inc. Mr. Warburg is chairman of the International Acceptance bank.

Officers of the New York Federal Reserve bank refused to make any comment on Mr. Warburg's statement. Directors of the bank at their weekly meeting made no change in the rediscount rate.

BIG BUS IN SMASHUP; SNOW BLINDED DRIVER

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 7—(AP)—The driver blinded by clouds of snow driven by a 75 mile-an-hour gale, a big bus coming from Chicago by way of Pittsburgh, was in a smashup this noon with three trucks at Woodlawn, near here.

Three passengers are known to be injured, two seriously.

The bus was traveling along the Lake Erie road, where traffic has been tied up by the accident. The seriously injured passengers, Charles Evans and William Tapp, both of Bradford, Penn., were taken to a hospital in Lackawanna.

ESCAPED FROM SUB. S-4 AT A DEPTH OF 200 FEET

ABOARD U. S. S. MALLARD, Off Key West, Fla., March 7—(AP)—From a depth of 200 feet, Lieutenant C. B. Momsen and Chief Torpedoman Edward Kalinowski successfully escaped from the submarine S-4 late today. It was the first time a man has ever been submerged to that depth outside a vessel and lived. They escaped by means of the safety device being tested out in these waters.

GALE CAUSED DEATHS AND DAMAGE IN THE NORTHEAST

At Least Three Lives Were Lost and Scores of Persons Were Injured—In New York and Other Cities the Gale Swept Persons Off Their Feet—Vessel Was Driven Aground on Governor's Island in Upper New York Bay—Zero Weather Follows Wind Storm in the West.

NEW YORK, March 7—(AP)—A dying winter took on a new lease of life today and went on a rampage over some of the northeastern states and eastern Canada, causing at least three deaths, scores of injuries and serious damage to property.

A sixty mile gale drove the in-bound Lamport and Holt liner Van Dyck, sister ship of the lost Vestris aground on Governor's Island in upper New York bay, but several hours later the vessel was hauled off the mud by ten tugs and docked with her 245 passengers from South America.

The gale swept throughout New York city, blowing a 15 foot smoke stack from the top of the 36-story Claridge hotel in Times square, and ripping a section of sheet iron from the roof of the Long Island railroad freight station in Brooklyn. The falling metal fractured one woman's skull.

In New York and other cities the gale swept persons off their feet, many of them being injured, and in three places fatalities occurred.

The storm toppled over a huge crane at the Bethlehem Steel plant at Coatesville, Pa. One man was killed and the operator of the crane was badly hurt. The wind also caused collapse of a large two story building housing a wholesale supply company at Coatesville.

Near London, Ont., a railroad section man was fatally injured when struck by a train as he was patrolling the track in a snowstorm, and at Goderich, a man was blown from a roof and killed.

Fifty men escaped from falling masonry as the roof of a four-story Buffalo lodging house was blown off and a brick chimney collapsed.

Damage was severe along Lake Erie.

ZERO WEATHER FOLLOWS WIND STORM IN WEST

CHICAGO, March 7—(AP)—Riding on the crest of a destructive west wind, winter made a brief sortie on the midwest last night and early today, causing several hundred thousand dollars of property loss and personal injuries. Sub-zero temperatures prevailed over many sections of the northwest, but tonight they were moderating.

More than 10 persons were injured, most of them in Chicago, while most of the property damage was caused at Tomahawk, Wisconsin, where the wind fanned a fire through the business section, causing a loss estimated at $500,000. Considerable damage was caused in other parts of Wisconsin and the upper Michigan peninsula where the wind was accompanied by snow and later rain, which halted travel and communication.

In Chicago several huge smoke stacks were ripped down. Two Milwaukee road passenger trains were locked fast in ice-encrusted drifts at Rudolph and Necedah, Wisconsin.

Little hope was held tonight for two men and a woman, who were caught in the gale while riding in a small fishing boat on Lake Michigan. The 35 foot boat left Kenosha, Wis., yesterday, carrying Mr. and Mrs. Hans Nielsen, and Nielsen's young brother, but despite all day efforts of the coast guard, which used cutters and an airplane, nothing has been seen or heard of them.

NINE MILLIONAIRES DIRECT THE CHILDS RESTAURANTS

NEW YORK, March 7—(AP)—Nine millionaires were elected today to direct the destinies of the Childs restaurants, six members of the Childs family being removed to make way for them.

At the company's annual meeting a long drawn battle over menu and management policies reached its climax in a skirmish of proxies that resulted in severing all connection between the 115 restaurants of the Childs system and the people whose name that system bears.

There was one chance that today's actions might be nullified but even William Childs himself, co-founder and chairman of the company, placed little hope in it.

The faction opposed to the Childs family, headed by William A. Barber, filed proxies which they said accounted for 260,000 shares of the company's 412,000 shares of voting stock, and for the purposes of the meeting the Childs faction conceded them a majority; subject to challenge when the official count should be completed. If the Barber proxies could be cut down to 205,000, less than a majority, then no quorum would have been established and all today's actions would be void. But only the younger members of the Childs faction expressed even slight confidence of reinstatement by such means.

The directors deposed today were William Childs, his wife, his two brothers and his two nephews. The new board elected consists of Barber, Halfyday D. Meeds, Jr., of the New York banking house of Laird, Bissell and Meeds; Clement R. Ford, of the Boston and New York banking house of Tucker, Anthony and company; Leroy W. Baldwin.

EDEL FOUND GUILTY FIRST DEGREE MURDER

NEW YORK, March 7—(AP)—Frederick W. Edel today was convicted of the murder of Mrs. Emmeline O. Harrington, actress, in her Washington Heights apartment in December, 1927.

The jury deliberated about four and a half hours before it reported Edel guilty of murder in the first degree.

Death in the electric chair is the penalty for first degree murder. Edel will be sentenced March 14, by Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., who presided at the trial in general sessions court.

In his charge to the jury this morning, Judge Nott had said the jurors could find a first degree verdict if they decided Mrs. Harrington had been killed during the commission of a felony such as robbery or burglary.

The state contended at the trial that Edel had robbed the woman or personal belongings and subsequently gave them to other women acquaintances in Springfield, Mass.

DANBURY PROTEST TO EDUCATION COMMITTEE

HARTFORD, March 7—(AP)—Approximately 50 Danbury citizens, led by Mayor Anthony Sunderland and Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Davis, appeared before the education committee of the legislature today to express vigorous opposition to a bill which would permit the state department of education to sell property adjacent to the state normal school in that city.

It is ultimate aim of the city to set aside the region occupied by the normal school, the nearby high school, and adjacent property as an educational center, they said and voiced opposition to a sale of a portion to real estate operators who would presumably cut it up into house lots.

BROKER FIGURES IN $100,000 BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT

MIAMI, Fla., March 7—(AP)—Ernest H. Estey, said to be a prominent broker of Boston and New York, was named defendent in preliminary papers in a suit for $100,000 filed in Dade county circuit court today by attorneys for Mrs. Elizabeth H. Hurschman, Miami widow, alleging breach of promise to marry.

Estey, who is 55, spends much of his time here and today was reported to be aboard the yacht Priscilla III in the basin here.

SIX MEN AND TWO WOMEN CHARGED WITH MURDER

PEORIA, Ill., March 7—(AP)—Six men and two women were under arrest, charged with murder. A father and his son were being sought as suspects and federal prohibition agents were analyzing samples of liquor, as investigation of 19 deaths from poison liquor in Peoria, Galesburg and vicinity went forward today. Federal authorities have entered the inquiry.

Ed. Bailey and his son, Wesley, were sought on a charge of having sold poisonous alcohol to Mrs. A. Gary, of Peoria, one of the first to die. Herman Wilforth, alleged Peoria bootlegger, had been arrested, and, according to police, confessed selling liquor to George Mills, of Bloomington, a student at Illinois Wesleyan university, and Harold Huddleston, of Peoria. Huddleston died, supposedly from the effects of the alcohol, and Mills was made seriously ill.

At Galesburg, State's Attorney R. C. Rice ordered five men held for questioning in his investigation of the source of poison liquor that killed one man and blinded several others.

COURT DECISION AGAINST FORMER NORWALK POLICEMAN

BRIDGEPORT March 7—(AP)—Judge Carl Foster in a memorandum of decision returned in superior court tonight decides against James Ryan, former Norwalk policeman, in one of the initial steps in Ryan's suit against the board of public safety of Norwalk. The judge grants the latter's motion to remove 22 of the 25 reasons of appeal cited by Ryan.

Ryan appealed from the action of the board in dismissing him from the police department when he refused to patrol his beat in the "black belt" of Norwalk after he had been shot at by an unknown assailant.

MRS. MABEL WILLEBRANDT WILL RETAIN OFFICE

WASHINGTON, March 7—(AP)—It was said today at the department of justice that Mrs. Mabel Walker Willibrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition prosecutions, will remain at the department in the administration of President Hoover.

Mrs. Willebrandt attracted much attention during the presidential campaign and was subject to sharp criticism by members of congress because of her campaign activities. While it was generally understood she would remain as an assistant attorney general, no definite announcement has been forthcoming.

A 62 YEAR OLD WOMAN WAS BURNED TO DEATH

ABERDEEN, Miss., March 7—(AP)—A 62 year old woman was burned to death today when she ran back into her burning home, from which she had escaped safely, to get a box containing bonds and jewelry, which already had been saved by firemen.

The woman, Miss Clara Sims, had been aroused at 4:30 a. m., and had fled with her brother, Dr. J. B. Sims, several years her senior. The latter was restrained with difficulty from going to the rescue of his sister. He collapsed and was reported in a serious condition.

RADIO MAY REMOVE THE UPPER BIRTH DISCOMFORTS

CHICAGO, March 7—(AP)—The discomforts of the upper berth are about to be removed. Radio will chase away the squeaks and wails of the wheels and springs, while television will paint the adjacent ceiling with pageants, parades and the beauties of nature. Such a picture was held before the American Railway Engineering association convention today by O. H. Caldwell, former member of the national radio commission.

MRS. THEODORE ROOSEVELT HAS SAILED FOR FRANCE

GENOA, Italy, March 7—(AP)—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the former American president, left today for France whence she will return to New York. She had visited for more than a week her aisted, Emily Carow, who has a villa near here.

FRANCE CONCILIATORY ON FIXING VALUE OF IMPORTS

PARIS, March 7—(AP)—The France-American contention over the manner of fixing values on French goods imported into the United States seemed more likely of settlement tonight. The French government today handed to the American embassy a reply to the latest American note in which a more conciliatory attitude was taken.

Matters had been in suspense for several months following the rejection by the American government of the French proposal to employ French experts to fix the costs of French goods coming into the United States. The arbitrary appraisals made by the customs in consequence of the withdrawal of treasury agents who previously had fixed costs in France were the subjects of strong protests but no other concession was made than the use of French experts in the place of the treasury agents. The French also were inclined to think that the Americans had failed to accord proper reciprocity for French tariff concessions.

The new French note, according to the best information, takes a different attitude and improves the chances of settlement.

NEED FOR WOMEN IN WAR AND PEACE COUNCILS

NEW YORK, March 7—(AP)—The need for women in every council of government that settles questions of war and peace was emphasized today by Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, congressman-elect from Florida and daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan. Mrs. Owen was among the honor guests at a testimonial luncheon given by the league for political education to the women members of congress in anticipation of their entrance into the seventy-first session of the house of representatives. Congresswomen Ruth Pratt, Edith Nourse Rogers, Florence P. Kahn, Mary Teresa Norton and Katherine Langley also were among the honor guests who spoke.

"Women's place is in the home, but the walls of home have widened since a few years ago to include the scope of politics," said Mrs. Owen. "And women should be able to help the nation find some way to settle quarrels that does not involve throwing the bodies of men into the balance."

CHANGES ANNOUNCED IN CONTROL OF RAILROADS

NEW YORK, March 7—(AP)—Control of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh railroad has been obtained by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad from the Allegheny corporation, which in turn, has acquired control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad from the Baltimore and Ohio and New York Central systems, it was learned in Wall street late today. Both transactions were made on the basis of cost plus carrying charges.

FIRE LOSS OF FROM $90,000 TO $100,000 IN BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, March 7—(AP)—Fire starting from the sparks of an emery wheel on the second floor of the Frank Miller Lumber company, here today caused an estimated loss of from $90,000 to $100,000 before it was extinguished by the fire department. Several extra companies were called to fight the blaze which was fanned by a brisk wind, giving the firemen a hard battle. The first alarm was received at 4:24 p. m., and the recall sounded at 7:25 o'clock.

WOMEN CLAIM CREDIT FOR ELECTION OF HOOVER

WASHINGTON, March 7—(AP)—The victory of Herbert Hoover in the 1928 election was attributed to the woman vote of the country by speakers at the annual convention meeting today of the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement league.

"Even though they were democrats, they voted for Hoover," said Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch, Chicago lawyer. She urged the women members of the organization to give their full support to the democratic party, in an effort to rid it of the "influence of the Tammany Tiger."

Senator J. Thomas Heflin, of Alabama, arch-foe of Alfred E. Smith, the democratic presidential candidate, gave the women all the credit for the Hoover victory in November, saying that it was not so much a republican victory as a defeat of the wet principles of the democratic candidate.

The league unanimously adopted a resolution demanding the resignation of John J. Raskob as chairman of the national democratic committee, urging him to "pay off his debt he incurred in the name of the democratic party, and at once resign, that a competent leader acceptable to the majority of our party may be appointed to succeed him."

DELIBERATIONS OF THE REPARATIONS EXPERTS

PARIS, March 7—(AP)—The international bank which experts will recommend as an intermediary in the execution of reparations settlement was the subject of heart to heart talks between delegates all of today, with the result that a draft of the scheme has been finally completed and is ready for detailed discussion at the next plenary session of the committee.

It is proposed to give this institution a board of directors of the highest competency and the bank begins to loom up to the delegates as capable of filling a much more important role than that of merely agent for reparations payments.

The draft of the scheme is understood to provide for eventual participation in the bank of other countries than those directly interested in reparations payments. The institution may possibly become an important instrument for the promotion of world trade.

CALVIN COOLIDGE BEGINS HIS CAREER AS A WRITER

NEW YORK, March 7—(AP)—The most important private citizen of the United States appeared before the nation as a writer today. Three days after he retired from the white house to No. 21 Massasoit street, Northampton, Mass.

The first of a series of articles on his career and his life in the white house by Calvin Coolidge appears in the March number of the Cosmopolitan Magazine. Mr. Coolidge also is under contract to write articles for the American Magazine and for the Ladies Home Journal.

INCREASE IN LOANS TO BROKERS AND DEALERS

WASHINGTON, March 7—(AP)—Loans to brokers and dealers held by the New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending March 6, were announced by the federal reserve board today as $5,647,000,000, representing an increase of $140,000,000 as compared with the preceding week.

RICE'S ATTORNEYS DEMAND COPY OF CONFESSION LETTERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 7—Attorneys William A. King and Samuel B. Harvey, counsel for Trenor A. Rice, who is confined in the county jail at Brooklyn, on a bench warrant charging him with the murder of County Detective William E. Jackson, were in Danielson today and in the course of their visit there, they made a demand on Coroner Arthur G. Bill, for a copy of the confession alleged to have been made by Mrs. Jackson, which was found on her person after she had committed suicide here, in a sealed and stamped envelope addressed to Mr. King. The coroner, it was stated, expressed a readiness to comply with the demand but did not feel that he was able to do so without permission from State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford, of Putnam, who, he said, had told him not to divulge the contents of the reported confession.

According to an announcement made today at the offices of the New Haven railroad in New Haven, automatic flash signals designed for the safety of pedestrians and motorists, would be placed in operation at the Ash street crossing, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, upon the request of the public utilities commission. There will be a signal on each side of the crossing and on each unit there will be two red lights, 20 inches apart, on an upright six feet high, which will flash alternately to give a flickering effect for visibility. The signals will be operated for twenty seconds before a train reaches the crossing and will be in operation 24 hours daily. The Ash street crossing is a dangerous one and the installation of these signals will improve conditions there considerably. Motorists stopping at the crossing while a train is passing should not attempt to cross after the passage of the train in the event that the signal still continues to flash for that indicates that another train is approaching the crossing probably from another direction.

Over twenty automobiles were stalled in the snow on the Stafford Springs road west and north of Englevile, this morning. Tolland county was greatly affected by the storm whereas the snow here melted rapidly, almost as rapidly as it fell. At mid forenoon, the snow in Tolland was a foot deep and the roads there were impassable.

In the Chaplin town court yesterday, George W. Hall, of Dudley, Mass., was charged with speeding and a fine of $10 with costs was imposed by Miss Therese Bandeneck, justice of the peace. Harold Chick, of Chaplin, was also presented before the court, charged with driving an unregistered car and with carriers belonging to another car. A fine of two dollars and costs was imposed on each count. The grand jury was Frank W. London. Officer Henry Heinold arrested Hall and Officer Charles Stevens, Chick, both going from the Stafford Springs barracks.

Harry Abel, of Pawtucket, R. I., engineer of the Providence local freight, was taken to St. Joseph's hospital last evening with acute indigestion from which he sufficiently recovered to be discharged from the institution today. The freight arrived here shortly after seven o'clock in the evening, and the first report was that Abel had sustained a shock while at the throttle. He was attended by Dr. M. D. Riordan.

The funeral of Mrs. Ellen Dwyer Montessori was held this morning at the home of her sister, Mrs. William V. Palmer, of 308 Prospect street, with a solemn high mass of requiem in St. Joseph's church at 10 o'clock. The celebrant was Rev. Charles M. Kelly; the deacon, Rev. Francis Duch, and the sub-deacon, Rev. Henry E. Quinn. Mrs. Edmond R. Fortelance was at the organ during the service. As the remains were being borne into the church, Mrs. Henry Mathieu rendered "Lead Kindly Light" and at the offertory "Pie Jesu." After the elevation, Arthur Roy was heard in "O Meritum" and as a waiting hymn "Farewell." For a recessional the duo united in "Nearer My God to Thee." The remains were placed in the receiving vault of St. Joseph's cemetery. A committal service was read at the vault by Rev. Father Kelly. The pall bearers were Frank Dwyer, Philip, John and Charles Ottenheimer, Francis and William Palmer.

Mrs. Mary Jane Bassett, wife of Amry A. Bassett, who died at their home in Chaplin, this morning was born in Mansfield City, May 4th, 1843, a daughter of Lucius and Rosetta (Bedworth) Chamberlin, and besides her husband she leaves one son, Frank Bassett, of Chaplin; two daughters, Mrs. Alice White, also of Chaplin, and Mrs. Bertha Fuller, of North Windham; one brother, George Chamberlin, of North Windham; one sister, Mrs. Ella Larkron, of Chittenden, Vt., and five grandchildren.

Roy W. Downer was elected exalted ruler of Willimantic lodge, No. 1811, B. P. O. Elks, at the regular meeting last evening. Other officers chosen were as follows: Esteemed leading knight, George W. Hickey; esteemed loyal knight, William B. Sweeney; esteemed lecturing knight, Harry S. Gardner; secretary, Louis J. Flynn; treasurer, Raymond A. Parker; tiler, Frederick Gaudreau; trustee, John E. Buck; delegate to grand lodge session to be held at Los Angeles, Calif., in July, Maurice S. Leonard; alternate delegate, P. H. Donahue. The installation of these officers will take place in connection with the meeting of April 3rd.

At the regular meeting of Francis E. Long Woman's Relief corps, No. 28, it was voted to continue the afternoon bridge parties for the remainder of the present month with Mabel Dimock as chairlady. The department aides are planning to stage a public whist Wednesday evening, March 13th, for the purpose of raising money to carry over to the convention which is to be held in New London, in May.

Edward H. Morse, president of the Morse Business college, in Hartford, and a former local resident, is at the present time, on a cruising trip aboard his yacht, Eldena, below Key West, Fla., at Dry Tortugas, which is the farthest point of land to the south owned by this country. He is being accompanied by Mrs. Morse. They left Hartford in November. Mr. Morse's parents erected a residence at 116 Prospect street here, where they resided for many years.

Thirty members attended the regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the First Congregational church yesterday afternoon and Mrs James F. English, of Putnam, gave an interesting talk on the work being done by the Council of Congregational Women of Connecticut.

State officers from the Stafford Springs barracks started last night to clock up on the number of people driving cars in this territory without 1929 licenses. Many motorists were located on the Columbia and Eagleville roads.

P. H. Peterson, 92, is ill at his home in "The Ridges."

Albert M. Gilman, of South Coventry, attended the Hoover inaugural Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Shearer, of Innwood, L. I., are guests of relatives and friends on Pleasant street.

Miss Elcia Casey has returned to her home on Church street, after a tour of Florida and Bermuda.

Mrs. A. H. Fryer has returned to her home at Shetucket Park, after a week's visit with her daughter, Miss Alberta Fryer, of East Hartford.

Mrs. William C. Smith and daughter, Margaret, of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Julian Norton and son, of Bristol, were in New York Tuesday, to meet Miss Pauline Smith, returning after six years in France.

Mrs. Darius M. Bennett, of Buckingham road, entertained in honor of her guest, Mrs. W. B. Bean, of Stafford, with a luncheon and bridge yesterday. Guests included Mrs. P. S. Hills and Miss Elizabeth Peterson, of "The Ridges," and Miss Gertrude H. Turner, of this city.

Mrs. William E. Hendry, of Church street, entertained the Windham Road Bridge club at her home yesterday afternoon. Three tables were in play. Mrs. George F. Stiles won first, Mrs. Roland B. Jordan, second, and Miss Elizabeth Hardman, third. A luncheon was enjoyed after play.

COLCHESTER

MISS GLEATON TO SPEAK AT HOME OF MRS. GILLETTE

The following invitation has been issued to local women voters:

You are invited to meet the field secretary of the Connecticut League of Women Voters, Miss Gleaton, at the home of Mrs. Edwin R. Gillette, South Main street, Friday afternoon, March 8 at 3:30.

Miss Gleaton will give information regarding the work of the League of Women Voters, and will speak of the legislativep rogram.

One or two of your friends may like to come with you. Women need to know more about the machinery of government in order to vote intelligently.

A successful supper was furnished Wednesday evening in the parlors of the Baptist church under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society. Over thirty were in attendance. The menu included baked beans, salads, pie, cake, coffee and ice cream.

Robert A. Millar has returned home, after ten days' stay at a Hartford hospital, where he underwent treatment for eye trouble.

Receives 3,500 Chicks

An enterprising farmer in the western section of the town received via parcel post Thursday, a shipment of thirty-five hundred day-old chicks. This is thought to be the largest single consignment of chicks ever received by one man in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Robbins of Hartford visited Thursday with Mrs. Robbins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Rathbun on South Main street.

B. C. Cottrell of New London was calling on friends here Thursday.

Mrs. Frank H. Browning is entertaining her mother from Provincetown, Mass., for a few days.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of Colchester grange No. 78, P. of H. Wednesday evening, Worthy Master William B. Gerhardt presiding. After business was completed, plans were made for the next meeting when the recently organized Colchester degree team is to confer the third and fourth degrees on seven candidates.

Local friends of Mr. and Mrs. Selden P. Sears of New Haven, former Colchester residents, learn that they are on a vacation motor trip to visit relatives in Virginia and North Carolina. Mr. Sears is head civil engineer in the employ of the C. W. Blakeslee Co., of New Haven and was a resident here at the time the Blakeslee firm constructed the new concrete road on the Hartford-New London turnpike.

Borough people are pleased to note that the town clock has been put in working order again, after several days' idleness.

Principal and Mrs. Raymond O. Kendall are entertaining Mr. Kendall's mother from Winchendon, Mass., for several days.

WARRENVILLE

REDS STILL LEADING IN ATTENDANCE CONTEST

In spite of the storm of Saturday night which put a heavy blanket of wet snow over the local roads, the children at the Baptist Sunday school showed their interest in the attendance contest by turning out 26 strong Sunday. The "Reds," under Priscilla Buck, are still holding their lead but the "Blues," under Gordon Whitehouse, are not discouraged for they feel that this week with the bad roads was not a fair test of strength.

The morning sermon by Rev. E. B. Verney was entitled "The Gates of Faith" and closed the series on "The Gospel Bridge." In this series Mr. Verney has likened God's plan of salvation for men to a suspension bridge similar to that connecting Brooklyn with New York. The subject announced for next week is "Bethany—A Sermon on Christian Womanhood."

Arrangements have been made with Rev. Alex. Kinda of the Hungarian Baptist church, South Norwalk to spend a few days in Warrenville, conferring with the Hungarian people in regard to how the local church can best serve them.

Saturday afternoon at the close of the church covenant meeting a committee consisting of the pastor, Deacon Z. B. Bricknell and Mrs. Clarence Buck was appointed to try to raise the money still due on this year's missionary pledge from the church to its boards.

Sunday evening Rev. and Mrs. Verney, their son, Frederick, and Mrs. Marshall Lawton attended the ordination service of Rev. Frederick Howell, at Mansfield Depot.

Rev. E. B. Varney was in Hartford and South Norwalk two days last week.

One of the new born lambs a farmer found here had three legs, one hind leg having three toes. The lamb did not live.

Mrs. John Howlett and Everett Cushman visited Fiskdale, Mass., relatives Thursday.

Darius Barlow returned to the home of his son at Springfield, Mass., last week after several weeks' visit with relatives here.

LEDYARD

RAISING OF TAX RATES TO 32-MILLS BY TOWN MEETING

A town meeting called by the selectmen of the town of Ledyard was held in town hall Friday afternoon March 1st for the purpose of laying the rate of tax for the ensuing year and to authorize the selectmen to borrow enough money to pay the running expenses of the town until the taxes come in, about April 1st. About seventeen or eighteen voters were present. S. E. Holdridge was chosen chairman of this meeting and William I. Allyn, clerk. The clerk read the warning and then the moderator called upon Frederick W. Burton, first selectman to make his statement in regard to the laying of the tax. Mr. Burton advocated 13 mills for schools, 8 mills for roads and 9 mills for miscellaneous making a total of 30 mills, which is one mill higher that the grand list as left by the assessors and board of relief was about $50,000 higher than last year. An additional mill would make the taxes somewhat higher than last year. The recommendation of Selectman Burton was voted, making the tax rate for the ensuing year 30 mills. The selectmen were authorized to borrow $6,000. After these resolutions had been voted W. R. Snyder made a motion that the former vote of laying a 30 mill tax be rescinded and that a 32 mill tax be laid, 13 mills for schools, 10 mills for roads and 9 mills for miscellaneous. This vote was carried by a small majority. Several who were present did not vote either way. There is quite a feeling in town over laying a 32-mill tax after the selectmen had recommended 30 mills. The taxes in Ledyard are high enough and it means quite an effort to some to raise enough to pay their taxes at a figure sufficient to run the expenses of the town. If a special town meeting was called, it is sure that the vote laying a 32-mill tax would be rescinded. B. T. Avery opposed the raising of the tax, but did not have support enough to carry his motion.

CHAPLIN

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Goulding, young people who recently moved to town from near Worcester, Mass., are residing on the farm owned by Mrs. Emily Vail, formerly occupied for a number of years by Archibald A. McLean and family.

John Szemberko and family, who bought the John M. Clark farm last fall, are industrious residents and are making improvements to the buildings, including a new cow stable, milk house and poultry house. Mr. Szemberko, who is a Swede, intends to buy cows and become a milk producer.

Mrs. P. B. Sanger, who has been ill the past two weeks, is recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellwood Burdick have been ill with the prevailing colds, but are improving in health.

Miss Ellen Welch and a friend from Hartford were week end guests of the former's father, Town Clerk B. M. Welch.

Callers at W. B. Gallup's Sunday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Mathewson and son Morgan of Plainfield and Mrs. Samuel B. Harvey and Lawyer John Harvey of Willimantic.

Rev. Paul B. Sanger exchanged with Rev. Walter E. Lanphear of Eastford Sunday. Rev. Mr. Lanphear's spiritual sermon was based on a familiar text, "Christ in you the hope of glory." Rev. Mr. Lanphear preached at the North Windham church previous to the service at Chaplin. Rev. Mr. Lanphear had a busy day Sunday; at 3 o'clock in the afternoon he delivered a sermon at the Congregational church in Brooklyn. Mrs. W. E. Lanphear spent the day with her sister, Miss Julia L. Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fitts have sold their place on the state road south of the village to Mrs. Eliza Ruet, who will take possession soon. They came to Chaplin from Hampton about four years ago. The Fitts family will move to Mansfield Depot.

The Ladies' Aid society met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. W. G. Gallup.

When You Catch Cold Rub On Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and works right away. It may prevent a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster.

Musterole is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

KILLINGLY BUDGET WILL CALL FOR 29 1-2 MILL RATE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 7—Selectmen of the town—C. A. Tillinghast, N. P. Gingras, Alcott D. Sayles—handed the electors of Killingly a bit of a surprise this afternoon when they released copies of the proposed budget of town expenses for the current financial year, which budget, if adopted, entails the making of an appropriation of 29 1-2 mills to raise the necessary money. The selectmen do not recommend this. That is a point that is stressed. They simply have taken a list of expenses that cannot be evaded, fixed charges, and with these have incorporated in the budget proposed appropriations for one thing and another wanted by people in various parts of the town, and it all adds up to a surprising figure. The selectmen submit the budget to the voters for discussion. They do not insist. If the voters wish to cut and slash, where cutting and slashing is possible, the selectmen will have no objection. The fact is, however, that many demands have been made upon them. The pressure for improvement of dirt highways in various parts of the town for instance jams an item of $7500 for gravelling roads into the budget. That item alone forecasts a mill increase in the tax costs. The selectmen have included it in the budget and, like various other items, submit it for discussion. They do not say it is necessary.

The point the selectmen make is this: Killingly, an aggressive town, can have whatever it wants—if it pays for it. It cannot have everything it wants if it does not wish to pay for it.

All of this leads one to believe that the adjourned annual town meeting next Monday evening is going to be something more than a merely perfunctory affair. It is going to cost the taxpayers plenty if they approve the budget as submitted "for discussion" If the voters decide to start cutting estimates, and it is very likely they will, they will have to confine themselves to cutting where cutting is possible.

There is about $18,000 of unforeseen expense in this year's budget. It will be hard to find a way to get rid of any of it. The grand list is down a quarter of a million dollars. Another tough obstacle to argue about. But there may be places after all where the proposed budget can be cut. The matter will be up for consideration next Monday night. The chances are that the debate on the subject will be lively.

A matter of general eastern Connecticut interest is the fact that Harry Richardson has tendered his resignation as agent of the Aldrich Brothers' mills at Moosup. The resignation will be effective in the immediate future. Mr. Richardson has become particularly well known all through this section of the county not only on account of his connection with the textile industry, but also because he has been active in county Y. M. C. A. work, and president of the Windham County "Y" organization for several years.

Mr. Richardson has been connected with the textile industry since he was 10 years of age. He is a native of Leeds, England. As a young man he came to this country, and here found a rapid rise to success. Beforecoming to Moosup he was for seven years superintendent of the Victory mills in New York state, and later was with B. B. and R. Knight mills in various sections of New England. He has been in Moosup, with a plant that makes specialties of high grade cotton, for the past eight years. Mr. Richardson has been president of the Eastern Connecticut Mills association, is one of the incorporators of the Moosup Trust company, is president of the Moosup District association and affiliated with the Methodist Episcopal church in Moosup.

Members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., will be in Putnam Monday as guests of the members of Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter. At this afternoon meeting the principal address will be made by Mrs. Alice Collins Gleason of Providence, who is to speak on Shipping Days in Old New England, a subject that will be treated with rare interest by the speaker. Miss Marion D. Chollar, secretary of the local chapter, is compiling a list of names of those who are to make the trip to Putnam.

While the winter wanes, the removal of snow from streets in the business section another winter is a live issue here just now. The practice for several years has been for state plows to push the snow out of the streets into the gutters and for abutting property owners to clean off the sidewalks and add whatever snow came from them to the piles already accumulated there. The result in almost every instance has been a freezeup, clogging of the gutters, and then, when warm weather came, a thaw and a near flood. The chamber of commerce is out to bring about some arrangement for the removal of snow from the business section, in the interest of business.

The following are the newly elected officers and trustees of the Danielson Methodist Episcopal church for another year, the fourth quarterly conference expressing its desire that Rev. Albert Abbott be returned as pastor for another year:

Trustees, S. H. Perry, N. D. Prince, David King, H. A. McEwen, Luther Pilling, A. F. Wood, Fred Colvin, W. H. Judson, W. E. Parker; stewards, S. H. Perry, N. D. Prince, David King, H. A. A snooty little blizzard—a bluffer—swirled its way in from the northwest this morning. It didn't amount to anything, much. A couple of inches of snow and then sunshine. Just a gesture of limping old winter, soon to be on its way.

Dairy meetings continue to engage the attention of men who devote their energies to that particular line of production in this section of eastern Connecticut, and they are working with The County Farmers' association in developing their business.

Mrs. C. W. Flagg of Hartford is visiting here with Mrs. George Caron of Hawkins street. For a number of years Mrs. Flagg was a resident of Danielson.

A little dog, disporting himself around Davis park this morning, was an object of special interest inasmuch as all Killingly dogs are supposed to be in quarantine just now.

Rev. William F. English of Hartford is to be the preacher at the 10.45 service at the Brooklyn Congregational church next Sunday morning. Rev. Mr. English is treasurer of the Connecticut Missionary society, and father of Rev. James F. English, pastor of the Second Congregational church of Putnam. The Sunday school hour is to be at noon.

Through another change in arrangements, the Forthnightly club is to meet with Mrs. E. H. Keach next Tuesday afternoon.

March has set out to be the rough guy of the winter season in this area. It has yet, though it is one-quarter spent, to produce one wholly pleasant day.

Today the fire department was called out twice for fires of minor importance. On a call this morning the firemen chased up to the Connecticut mills to subdue a blaze that got out of control in a tar kettle, and this afternoon at 5.30 were out again to deal with a rather difficult chimney fire in a tenement house owned by Luther Pilling on Furnace street.

CHRISTENING BOWL USED FOR SIX GENERATIONS

Sunday afternoon, last, John Butterworth Flagg, the little son of Irving Clement Flagg and Florence Butterworth Flagg, born January 7, 1929, was christened at the home of the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Butterworth. The baptismal was performed in the presence of the family and friends by Rev. William C. Prentiss, pastor of the First Congregational church. The godmother was Miss Margaret Krauss. The baptism bowl used had been so used in the christenings of the family for six generations.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Butter were recent visitors in Hartford.

James Royle and Alfred Royle, James Allen Royle, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Royle and sons, were callers at Storrs college early in the week to visit Ernest Royle.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Leringe and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Allard were recent callers in South Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Topihle Paquette and children of Central Falls, R. I., were at Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Roy's Sunday.

Mrs. Jerry M. Sullivan has returned after spending a few days in New York.

OBITUARY

Beverly Eva Royle

Beverly Eva Royle, the year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Royle, died Wednesday, at 1:15 p. m. from whooping cough which developed into pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bowne, of Hobart avenue, Norwich, have returned home after spending a few days in Plainfield with relatives.

Dined at the Inn

Twenty members of the Maytag Washington Machine Co. held their meeting at the Lawton Inn at Plainfield Wednesday evening. At the close of the meeting a steak dinner was served by the management and was very much enjoyed by all. The remainder of the evening was spent with instrumental music and songs.

This month's Columbia Magazine contained a very nice article on the book written by De Lacy Bellingari of New York. The author has relatives in Norwich and Plainfield whom he visits often during the year. The title of the book is The Roll of the House of Lacy.

PUTNAM

VILLAGE OF MECHANCSVILLE SOLD TO BOSTON FIRM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 7—It became known today that the entire village of Mechanicsville and a few houses owned by the Guerin Mills, Inc., of Woonsocket, in West Thompson were sold to a Boston real estate firm, presumably for speculative purposes. It was learned this afternoon from a Putnam man, an authority on the deal, that the Boston party had closed the transaction and deeds for the transfer are now being drawn up. The real estate deal does not include the old Beechmont, which has been closed for some time, but takes in about 38 houses, the French River Inn and a brick building owned by the mill company, used as a railroad depot and general store.

The deal was brought about by a Providence firm of lawyers, according to the local informant this afternoon, who has more or less affiliated with the matter in checking up interests for some months.

The sale of the village regalls an incident several months ago when officials of the Guerin company came to Mechanicsville and offered the property to tenants at public auction. The scheme was a wholesale failure since neither the tenants nor speculators from other communities made any substantial bids for the property. One Putnam man who has figured in a number of real estate speculations made a number of offers but his figures were so low they were ignored by the auctioneers.

The sale of the property, verified today on good authority, was accompanied by a rumor that the mill and the West Thompson firm had been included in the sale but this was flatly denied by the Putnam informant, who released information concerning the transfer of the property. The Mechanicsville mill, one of the largest industrial plants in Windham county, has been shut down for nearly four years. Machinery has been removed and there are no hopes that it will change hands and commence operations at any immediate date. As previously stated, several textile men and mill-owners have inspected the plant but have made no attempt to negotiate terms of sale.

NORTH END PEOPLE NOT OBSERVING QUARANTINE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 7—It has been called to the attention of the local health and dog authorities that dog owners in the north end of the city are paying little attention to the quarantine that is now in effect throughout the northern part of the county. In the north end, known as Rhodesville, dogs are not confined on leashes or kept in regulation kennel enclosures, but are allowed to roam about that section of the city on the street and associate with other stray dogs.

Health Officer Peter A. Gardner of the city health department, who is assisting the state and local domestic animal officials with the enforcement of the quarantine bill said this morning that roaming dogs will be taken into custody, beginning today (Friday) owners will be check-up and will be fined for violation of the quarantine act. If the canine owners are not located the dogs will be killed.

Woodstock is the first town in the county to take action against the pine tree rust and blister that is at present medacing the beautiful pine growths in this section of the county. Public opinion in the little community northwest of this city has been stirred against the destructive tree disease and at the adjourned town meeting held this week the citizens voted a purse of $500 to be placed aside as a nucleus for a greater fund to fight the rust and blister.

Attorney and Mrs. Irving H. Miron of Florence street, who were in Wasaington this week, where they witnessed the inauguration of President Herbert Hoover, returned to this city Wednesday.

"Tis an ill wind that does not blow someone some good," according to one philosopher and the same has proven true in more ways than one. The campaign now being directed by Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston and the members of the common council to have the property owners take steps to clean out their soot filled chimneys, has become the means of a few men in the city to earn their living. Since Chief Thurston has disapproved of the plan of forcing the members of the hook and ladder company to answer chimney fire calls—some men in this city who have been unable to secure employment are now convassing the city in search of these soot filled chimneys offering to remove the fire hazard for the payment of a reasonable rate.

With seven days of the new month passed, nearly all motor vehicle operators in this city have their 1929 licenses, which went into effect on the first day of the month. Several were forced to come with the inconvenience of not being able to legally operate their cars because the mails caused the new licenses to be a day or two late.

Superintendent of Schools Leon M. Farrin, who has recently returned from the national convention of the department of school superintendence of the American Education association, held last week in Cleveland, Ohio, appeared before the members of the Putnam school committee last evening at the monthly meeting and delivered a very interesting account of what took place at the gathering of all the school superintendents of the country. In part Mr. Farrin said, "The members of the New England association of school superintendents went out together in a special train. The trip was planned by way of Washington. The Chesapeake and Ohio railroad arranged an itinerary from the national capital to Charlottesville, located in the shadow of the beautiful Blue Ridge mountains. Charlottesville, the temporary capitol of the state in 1781, is situated in one of the most fertile and picturesque sections of Virginia, and one rich in historic associations. We visited Monticello Mountain, two miles east of the city where Thomas Jefferson lived and where he now lies buried. We made a tour of the University of Virginia, the child of Jefferson's old age and the leading educational institution of the south. Another historic place visited was Michie's Tavern, patronized by many prominent men in the early days of America, containing a most wonderful collection of genuine colonial furniture, said by some to surpass the collection at the Metropolitan of Art in New York city."

"Arriving in Cleveland, we joined 20,000 men and women whose life is the enlightening of the American public opinion, through the school room. They had come from the little red school house on the hill and the metropolitan school, with its task made more complicated by the social problems of the cities. They met to exchange ideas and experiences, and if possible to lift the plane of instruction to a higher and more efficient level."

"The theme chosen for this year's convention had to do with the hope that concerns every American. It was 'How Can the Public Schools Better Serve Democracy; Increasingly Produce a High Type of Citizen?'"

HERE'S WHERE SPRING BIRDS WOULD AMAZE VOLUNTOWN

Tell Mr. Bitgood, of Eastern Voluntown that Everett E. Brown has several flocks of birds, 12 blue jays, 30 or more smaller ones including nuthatches, sparrows, two kinds of woodpeckers, flickers, 12 robins, bluebirds and not least, 600 Rhode Island Red birds that are laying over 400 eggs per day now. The wild birds don't lay as good a per cent in eggs, at least not yet.

Mrs. Fred Graves has received notice of the death of Howard MacKensie of Boston, husband of Mrs. Graves' younger sister, Lora Bennett, formerly a resident here.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Perkins and son of Rhode Island recently visited Mrs. Perkins' father, Willard Cornell.

Everett E. Brown motored to Providence last week.

Benjamin Cornell and family visited Providence recently.

Elbridge Kinne who has been confined to the house for some time ill with grip, is able to be out.

Miss Helen Brown spent several days last week visiting friends in Providence.

Misses Ida and Esther Falb and Miss Rose Dansis of New York have been visiting former neighbors in this vicinity.

Miss Abbie Medbury was called to Moosup last week to attend the funeral of a relative, Mrs. Joseph Sunn.

Mrs. H. Beecher Brown spent the week end visiting Mrs. Horace Brown, of Worcester.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis of Central Village were recent callers at the Medbury home.

ARMS TO MEXICO.

The Hoover administration came in just in time to face the problem created by the revolution in Mexico and it is no more than what was to be expected when the decision was reached to keep the Coolidge policy in force concerning the embargo on arms.

It is a case where the established government of the republic to the south of the Rio Grande is under attack. That government has for some time been maintaining friendly relations with the United States and it is the declared desire of this country to see peace rather than revolution prevail in the western hemisphere. That policy was set forth during the Coolidge administration and the embargo on arms to those opposing the Mexican government was established. It might have been withdrawn, but it wasn't and now it is simply a case of maintaining it.

This means that the only arms that can be legally purchased in this country are those going to the Mexican government. The embargo makes it impossible for the revolutionists to acquire them here. It is in existence for the purpose of checking arms and ammunition being sent to those who are trying to break up the government.

Were it possible for the free flow of war material across the border, or out of ports of this country, for the support of the revolution it would mean a much more serious situation for the established government. It would be of direct benefit to the trouble makers and serve as a means of giving constant encouragement to revolutionary tactics.

That the embargo is sustained does not mean that this government gives its implicit endorsement to every thing that has been done by the Mexican government, or contemplated by it. Uncle Sam doesn't undertake to meddle with the internal affairs of that country. It insists upon Mexico, like others, assuming its responsibilities as a nation toward other countries. It doesn't at the present time presume to take sides on the merits of the causes back of the revolution, but it had stood for the upholding of a constitutional government, as the arms embargo shows, and it sees no reason now for any change in that attitude.

ROCKEFELLER WINS.

The stockholders of the Standard Oil company of Indiana have had an opportunity to express themselves upon the question of morals that arose between Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of directors of that company and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., one of the stockholders. They appeared in person and by proxy following a hard fought campaign for votes and by an overwhelming expression upheld the latter. That brought about the severance of Mr. Stewart's relations with the company with which he was so long identified and the abolition of the office he held.

Mr. Stewart played his trump card when he appealed through reports of a large increase in business under his chairmanship and the paying of a special dividend, but it was not sufficient to eclipse the part which he had played in the oil scandal, and in spite of his glowing statements concerning the business the stockholders were unwilling to swallow his conduct because they were getting profits from the oil company.

Evidently Mr. Stewart believed he was adequately entrenched to combat Mr. Rockefeller's opposition. The latter came not because of any lack of ability but because he did not believe that the company could afford to endorse any such conduct. Furthermore it would appear that the stockholders took the side of Mr. Rockefeller rather than that of Mr. Stewart when it came to the question involving the promise to resign, which Mr. Rockefeller claims to have received from Mr. Stewart, when such action was called for.

Mr. Rockefeller is only a small owner of the millions of shares of stock in that company. He was in no way responsible for Mr. Stewart's conduct, but he was unwilling to allow the charge to be made that he had failed to use his influence to purge the company by the removal of Mr. Stewart following the senate disclosures.

It was not an easy job and there has been no question in that respect from the start, for there are those who sympathized with Mr. Stewart because of what he has done for the company, but in the judgment of the stockholders his conduct as the result of the oil scandal stands condemned and they have declared by a large majority vote that they are not willing to condone his actions.

LIGHTS AT CROSSINGS.

Massachusetts is one of the states where there has been a recent demand for the reduction in the number of railroad crossings. This demand has followed repeated instances where people have been killed because they refused to respect danger and got in front of the engine or else crashed into the side of a train.

In this connection it is interesting to note that the New York Central has petitioned the utilities commission of Massachusetts that it be permitted to establish lights in place of gates at a certain crossing. This would appear to be in the interest of economy, but there may be a question today if the red signal light set against traffic today isn't the warning which the auto drivers are most familiar with and the most inclined to respect.

There are crossings where bells are automatically sounded when trains are approaching and they continue until the train has passed. The same kind of service would be performed by the crossing lights, and already they are in operation in many places. The driver who proceeds against such lights can certainly have no excuse if he becomes involved in trouble. They are stronger than many traffic lights and they are more conspicuous than the gates are at night and can be plainly seen during the day time. Should they be combined with a bill there would be a double automatic warning.

Conditions at the particular crossing in Massachusetts will probably govern the decision of the utility commissioners but such a form of warning could be employed at practically every railroad crossing for the greater protection of grade crossing users.

It will not be sufficient to stop those who are ready to defy any warning, but that would be no different than has been repeatedly done where there are gates and where motorists have crashed through them, or knocked down and killed crossing tenders, in their wild determination to get ahead of the train. There seems to be good reason for the placing of light warnings at every crossing. Even the private ones ought to be guarded in some such manner.

THE ATTACK ON MELLON.

Unless we are greatly mistaken those who are raising the objection to Secretary Mellon and demanding an investigation are battering their heads against a wall. That there was no opposition to the McKellar resolution when put to a vote presupposes such an outcome. Thus it is just as well that the troublemakers be given their chance to do their worst and have it over with with a vindication of Mr. Mellon once more.

Mr. Mellon has been the target of some from the time he entered the cabinet. He has administered his office in such a manner as to bring objections from others, but it is a generally recognized fact that in spite of the assaults and the venting of personal spite Mr. Mellon has grown stronger as his service in the cabinet has lengthened.

There is nothing new that the investigation can reveal. The ground had been thoroughly covered before and the fact that Mr. Mellon is continued as secretary of the treasury from one administration to another without being renominated made it necessary to resort to a repetition of the assault in that method rather than through the intended holding up of the confirmation of his appointment.

The country is fortunate that Mr. Mellon is willing to remain in the cabinet. That President Hoover so regards it must be taken for granted. This doesn't mean that he is the only man in the country who can successfully administer the duties, but he has rendered such excellent service and handled the country's finances in such a satisfactory manner that the country as well as the president is gratified at his retention. Those who are engaged in the attacks are making a hopeless contest and will get slight sympathy.

THOMAS TAGGART.

In much the same way that others have gone to the top in business, Thomas Taggart, the democratic political boss in Indiana went to the top in politics. He was likewise successful in business, and his is not the only example which demonstrates that such a combination can be conducted with success.

There is no question but what "Tom" Taggart was a power in his own state. He was in control of the democratic machine, which was his own personal machine. But his influence was by no means confined to that commonwealth. It was recognized far and wide and it had a large following. "Tom" Taggart was a name to conjure with in political activities. He was a figure in many democratic conventions and as Taggart went so went many others. His own machine kept him solid with his party in Indiana and the influence he exerted for his party in his own state gave him a high standing among the democrats nationally. Naturally one who could accomplish all that he did in Indiana was looked to for advice elsewhere. He was one of those bosses who did things and still kept control.

He is credited with having made many office holders, state and nationwise, during the three decades that he was active. He stood out as one of the party leaders. To him they went for counsel and there was confidence that he could produce results if anyone could.

Well may Indiana wonder what effect his death is going to have upon the democratic politics in that state. Having held it in line so long there's a question whether another has the ability to step into his shoes and accomplish as great results. Certainly his passing cannot be regarded as adding strength to the democratic party in that part of the country. Political history cannot overlook the work he has done.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Marchy March.

The man on the corner says: March seems to be trying to satisfy everybody.

With the April showers piling up spring cannot be showing much hesitation.

If there is any organization which should stand for Norwich, it is the chamber of commerce. The better and stronger it is the better for the city.

The check up in which the state police are engaged is sufficient warning for all auto owners and drivers to see that they have proper registration and 1929 driving licenses.

A MOMENTOUS CHOICE

So you were sent out to show me samples of wall paper? Isn't it perfectly wonderful the way you modern young women are penetrating industry! So clever of you. It just thrills me. But, really, do you think you had better show me the paper yourself or send one of your real decorators? I don't mean, of course—I didn't mean that you aren't a decorator—but you know what I mean. Just one of those old prejudices that women's place is—well, all right, then.

Now, to simplify matters, I must tell you that this paper is for my own bedroom. And so, necessarily, don't you think it should be character revealing? I do. A person's bedroom is to intimate. And mine particularly. A true color scheme, that is what I want, if I am to cultivate repose of manner, so needful in this day of rush and road, don't you think? Really, I don't see what we are coming to.

In the first place, please do not show me anything that has any red or pink in it. A cream ground, not white, and there must be a note of—I would not call it magenta, but plum. Yes I think it might be called plum, on the order of the old aches of roses, if you aren't too young for that archaic term.

And you might not think it, for I scorn to wear my sorrow on my sleeve, but I am a widow. Yes—Mr. Fiedler passed away nearly three years ago. So of course I am still in simple black. Such a protection, don't you think? Not that I haven't many man friends, but they are quite, quite sure that there's no hope.

One of my friends, such a dear man, is embarked in a new mercantile venture—bed spreads—quite lovely. A new process. And although I never permit gifts, I did let Mr. Montgomery give me this spread—I call it ashes of roses, so significant of my buried heart. You will understand, young and untried as I am sure you are, that I just couldn't refuse him, despite the fact that a blue spread would have matched my color scheme so much better.

Oh, are those the papers I have to choose from? Don't you think they seem very, ah, inexpensive looking? They seem to me——.

Let me see now, that is the right grouping of colors, cream, and a dash of blue and the absolutely right shade of plum. But, would you advise me to take a paper with birds on it? Of course, I am absolutely not superstitious. Still, birds, in a bedroom, you know. Oh, that's a sweet one! The one with the columbines. But it has a white ground. I want cream. How about a colonial design? No, not that one. I do not like that one at all.

This one is not so bad, and the colors are right, but it is such a set pattern. Do you think that one would be good for my unconscious? I tell you what I shall do in selecting one of these three patterns. I will make three marks on the back of my shopping list. Here's my pencil. Then I will close my eyes and put my finger on one and take the pattern indicated. Here, you hold the paper, please.

What! Why, what a naughty girl you are to say I put my finger on the mark that means the birds. But I'll show you that I'm as good a sport as Mr. Montgomery always says I am. Or, I'll tell you what we'll do, for I'm all worn out with the strain of selecting a paper in consonance with my character and traits. I see what delightful taste you have, even though you are a woman, for all these papers are pretty in spite of their inexpensiveness.

Be a sweet thing and select one for me. And when it comes I'll promise you to be satisfied. Good-by. Thanks so much for your sympathetic understanding. Oh, I just rushed back to say, send me any one, really and truly, any one of the papers that you prefer, only not the birds!—Chicago News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 7— It was not to be expected that voteless Washington would allow its anomalous political status to pass unnoticed by the folks gathered for the 1929 model inauguration.

The opportunity to impress on the privileged many the plight of Washington's de-franchised few was too good to be overlooked. Careful plans to get the situation properly before the visitors were executed with the skill of long practice.

Voteless But Taxed

As a demonstration of the status of Washingtonians outside the pale of political equality, however, what was going on in the senate just before inauguration was far more illuminating than the "Votes-for-Washington" movement.

With not half of its huge appropriation job completed, with countless bills and resolutions of national importance sunk without warning in the last minute rush of legislation, the senate put in quite a number of hours wrangling about the site in Washington of a new farmers' market.

It developed into a fine row between Senator Glass of Virginia on one side and Senators Tydings and Bruce of Maryland on the others. The farmers who might use the market, of course, must come from one of these states. The 10-mile square of the District of Columbia does not lend itself to farming on any important scale.

Still, none of those farmers was expected to pay anything for construction of the market, nor was the general government. The entire $300,000 was to come out of the pockets of the voteless and politically unrepresented taxpayers of Washington.

It is certainly an odd circumstance of American political organization that the folks who would pay the bill had no elected spokesman in house or senate to speak for them; and it is another and even more odd circumstance that the ponderous machinery of the United States senate, of congress as a whole, must concern itself with such relatively trifling details of the municipal life of Washington.

Almost Reconciled

Anyhow, Washington did its best to make the new president welcome, despite the fact that its citizens had no hand in selecting their distinguished visitor for his high honors.

As a city it has grown accustomed to political impotency more or less. Still, continual dripping will wear away any stone, and sooner or later Washington probably will come of voting age again.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Charitable contributions and gifts are deductible within limitations provided by the revenue act of 1928. In order that a deduction may be made, contributions to a corporation, trust, community chest fund or foundation must meet several tests. Such organizations must be operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children and animals. No part of this income must inure to the benefit of private stockholders or individuals.

Contributions made to a missionary fund, to church building funds, and for the benefit of other activities of the church are deductible. Pew rents, assessments and dues paid to churches are regarded as contributions. Gifts to any corporation or association organized or devoted to the advancement of learning are exempt.

Gifts to an individual are not deductible, but if made to a charitable organization, as defined by the revnue act, may be deducted even though the organization distributes the funds among the individual beneficiaries.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Coolidge's Seven Years

Mr. Editor: Well inauguration's over with, and we have another president. Now I can get down to business again. In the meantime I would like to say a few words for that excellent man that has stepped down from supreme authority but will not be forgotten soon.

During his administration in the last seven years, there has been a reduction in the running expenses of the government by $2,000,000,000, also a reduction of the national debt of over $1,000,000,000, whereby we save in interest, over $75,000,000. Now $1,000,000 is quite a piece of change. If I had one or two million I wouldn't have to go around fixing up rotten pipes that are beyond fixing.

Mr. Coolidge has also contrived to get $600,000,000 for our injured and disabled soldiers and pensions for the families of those who have passed on. During that seven years our steel industries have increased 100 per cent., railroads increased one-third, deposits in our savings banks increased from $61,000,000,000 to $30,000,000,000.

Now, you soreheads, when you have something to say against him—stop and think. Has any other president as magnificent a record?

I have already opened negotiations with the intentions of securing his services as manager of the gas and electric plant. We would, at least, get economy and honest management. In case he accepts the job, I may get a position as helper. I can, at least, read and write.

Our G. & E. Plant

Mr. Editor: I have hesitated and would refrain entirely from taking up valuable space in your paper, were it not for the fact that the authors of the trashy anonymous letters published in our local papers during the past few months, attacking the present management of our gas and electric plant, didn't stop there, but some were bold enough to insinuate the taxpayer has been fleeced ever since the time of William F. Bogue.

I had, at least, assumed that the management was fairly honest since I left the board. However, I will plead guilty to having used my best efforts to retain, to develop and inflict upon the people of Norwich, such a troublemaker as the gas and electric plant.

It's not my desire to belittle or criticize the report of our fact finding committee whom I know worked hard and honestly, to carry out instructions given them at a special city meeting. They certainly made a report that was a credit to themselves. Nor will I make any attempt to defend the present management of our plant. Their annual report and the one they just now presented, should be their best defense, but I do know, from experience, that their path is not always strewn with roses while trying to satisfy the public. The drift of this propaganda that recently filled the papers, would indicate, or have us believe, that there is a guardian angel protecting the local taxpayer.

As questions seem to be so much in order just now, permit me to submit a few:

Why all this solicitude for the taxpayer? Is it from friends who fear that the Norwich taxpayer is in danger of losing what money he invested in our local plant? Are they ignorant of the fact that no man, woman or child in this city has ever put one single cent into our gas and electric plant for the past 15 years? So you can see it would be hard to lose if you haven't invested.

I would like to ask where were all these guardian angels when we taxpayers, for the good of Norwich, put money into such enterprises as the Celluloid Trunk Co., the Columbus Pheaton Co., the Westerly Trolley Co., the John T. Young Boiler Co., the Vaughn Foundry Co., the Hopkins and Allen Co., the very recent Bridgeman Machine Co.? Where was that solicitude when the management of these concerns took thousands of dollars of hard-earned gold and left us nothing to show for it but worthless paper? What were they doing when we voted to spend a million or more to build a reservoir, when we had a river on each side of us, a pumping station and three reservoirs that would take care of our city for at least 50 years? A good water system, but you don't see capitalists eager to buy or get control of it.

I would say right here, that my greatest desire in writing this letter is to see a plant to which I devoted ten of the best years of my life, prosper, flourish and expand, and I have every reason to believe that our men in our common council will play fair and see to it that no ordinance is passed that will hamper the success or growth of our plant or tend to bring about a condition pleasing to the eyes that have been watching us for many years and that they will consider facts as well as faults.

The only apparent cause for all this furore was a small change in the electric rates that went into effect Oct. 1. That may not seem strange in view of the fact that it took so little to cause the World war and a cow caused the disastrous Chicago fire and in each case a little care would have prevented such serious results.

The schedule of prices that caused all this trouble had some good features and but a small portion of our people were penalized. Their cases could have been adjusted in a few minutes and things should be running smoothly again and probably would if there wasn't something else behind all this—some motive other than extreme love for the taxpayer. It isn't altogether waste or extravagance for we have that in other developments.

Will someone tell me why it is that for the slightest trumped up charge, we are nearly all ready at once, to jump upon the management of the gas and electric department, the only one that has earned millions of dollars for our taxpayers? We have other departments that are only a bill of expense. They seem to escape. Is it because they are immune to extravagance or waste or are they managed by saints or superhuman power?

What can be the motive back of all those periodical fracases and frequent heated discussions? Is it possible that we have forgotten or fail to appreciate the sacrifices made by the men who, a few years ago, took charge of your plant when it was but a liability—a lemon—when the air, yes the papers, too were filled with about the same propaganda as we recently read, and the cry came from different quarters. "Before we spend $25,000 on the old plant to —— with it. Sell it, even though it meant a loss of a quarter of a million to the taxpayers?" Is any credit due the men who said, "No, we must not sell it, but put more into it and save what is already there," and without taking one cent out of the pocket of the taxpayers? They improved, developed and rebuilt it, and we have today, a plant in which we have an equity of $3,000,000, a modernized plant that is a credit to Norwich, the pride of our city and the envy of outside capitalists.

Is any credit due the men who, only about four years ago, turned down an offer of $1,600,000, made by the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., and soon afterwards, another offer, made by Filkin and Co., for $3,000,000? Since then an offer of $3,250,000 has been made.

Now what I do fear most is that our ill advised meetings and disturbances of this nature are bound to hasten the time when good citizens—rather than stand up under such fire and be crucified—will refuse to act on our commission and a good general manager will be hard to get.

I fear, too, that there is more behind the curtains than appears before the footlights.

So I believe it behooves us to keep a sharp lookout for the hidden actor.

Fellowship of Prayer

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

Federal Council Churches of Christ.

"LENT AND MY CHURCH"
Memory Verse for Friday

"A friend of publicans and sinners" (Matthew 11:19). (Read: Luke 15:11 to 32).

MEDITATION: I find most pleasant the society of those who are likeminded with myself. For that I love my church and its fellowship. But I must not be a pharisee. There are those outside my church and all the churches who need my friendship. By my coldness or indifference I may shut the gates of hope against them. By officious and condescending efforts to do them good I may repel them. Perhaps the best thing I can do is to be friendly and that without any air of patronage. So Jesus won the very outcasts of his day. Nobody was beneath him, no one was outside the pale of his friendship.

PRAYER: Most merciful God, who art the Father of all men, deliver me from all self-righteousness and hardness of heart. In humility and in kindness lead me in the way of Him who was the Brother of all. Amen.

Stories That Recall Others

Not to Be Fooled

A little miss of four years was visiting her aunt. Soon after her arrival the family sat down to dinner. Her little cousin bent his head above his plate to give thanks. When he had ended she sat very still for a minute and then remarked: "Well, you can't fool me. I know there ain't no reading on that plate."

What Is The Use?

Four year old Martin accompanied his mother to the grocery. The grocer used every endeavor to get the child to talk but without avail. On leaving the store the mother said:

"Why didn't you talk to the man?"

"Well, mother, what's the use o' talkin' when you ain't got nothin' to say," was the reply.

An earthquake of severe intensity was recorded on the seismograph at Peabody Museum of Yale university.

Desire

Oh, the ripe, red apple which handily hung
And flaunted and taunted and swayed and swung,
Till it itched your fingers and tickled your tongue,
For it was juicy and you were young!
But you held your hands and you turned your head,
And you thought of the switch which hung in the shed,
And you didn't take it (or so you've said),
But, tell me—didn't you want to?

Oh, the rounded maiden who passed you by,
Whose cheek was dimpled, whose glance was shy,
But who looked at you out of the tail of her eye,
And flirted her skirt just a trifle high!
Oh, you were human and not sedate,
But you thought of the narrow way and straight,
And you didn't follow (so you state),
But, tell me—didn't you want to?

Oh, the golden chink and the sibilant sign,
Which sang of honey and love and wine,
Of pleasure and power when the sun's a-shine,
And plenty and peace in the day's decline!
Oh, the dream was schemed and the play was planned;
You had nothing to do but to reach your hand,
But you didn't (or so I understand),
But, tell me—didn't you want to?

Oh, you wanted to, yes; and hence you crow
That the Want To within you found its foe,
Which wanted you not to want to, and so
You were able to answer always "No."
So you tell yourself you are pretty fine clay,
To have tricked temptation and turned it away;
But wait, my friend, for a different day!
Wait till you want to want to!

The bearers were Ranney Homes, Frank Kruge, Clark Woodmansee, Otis Browning, Fred Benjamin and Charles Zabriskie.

MRS. LESLIE BREWER WINS STORY WRITING CONTEST

A well attended round table meeting of the literature department of the Woman's City club was held Thursday afternoon in the club room, Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn, the chairman, presided. The meeting marked the end of the short story contest held by the club. Five stories were entered in the contest.

Mrs. Vaughn told of the interesting work of the committee in connection with this new activity. She named the following tests of short stories, as given by E. J. O'Brien, and on which the selection of the winners was based:

Substance—That is, how vitally compelling the writer makes his or her selected facts on incidents. Substance is something achieved, not always present.

A conscious plan well carried out.

From that is the substance shaped into skillful and satisfying form.

Conciseness—Use of as few well chosen words as possible, to give real point to the story.

Originality—Expressed individuality.

The winning contests were as follows:

First prize, by N. O. Mann (Mrs. Leslie Brewer); second, Mrs. John E. Fanning; third, Miss Josephine Erwin.

"Extra Money," the second prize winner, was read by the writer. "Mrs. Sal's Vacation," the first prize winner was read by Mrs. Vaughn. It is an interesting character study of a widow anticipating a summer vacation, as a visitor in a church camp. She overhears the conversation of "busy ladies," concerning the character of her daughter, loses her courage and puts an end to her life.

The third prize story, "David's Deception," was read by the author, Miss Erwin. The judges were Miss Helen Marshall, Dr. Gerard Jensen and Hibbard R. Norman. The prizes were, $10 in gold, $5 in gold and $2.50 in gold.

TRIAL OF TWO SUITS FOR DAMAGES OF $25,000

Started late Wednesday afternoon, trial of two auto negligence suits was continued in the superior court Thursday, at New London, before Judge Christopher L. Avery and a jury. The suits are brought by Andrew E. Startz, of Groton, against Charles C. Dod and Roscoe K. Burrows, of Mystic. Damages aggregating $25,000 are asked.

Andrew Startz sues for $10,000 as administrator of the estate of Andrew Francis Startz, setting out that on July 26, 1928, while the child was standing with his mother, father and brother on the sidewalk in West Main street, Mystic, in front of the store of Orrin H. Sanford, a car driven by Charles C. Dodd and owned and accompanied by Roscoe K. Burrows, suddenly darted onto the sidewalk, cutting off the left leg of the child, fracturing his skull and killing him.

Gertrude Startz sues for $15,000, claiming that the machine threw her through the window of the Sanford store, terribly injuring her and causing her to sustain permanent injuries.

SECOND DIVISION LEADING IN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE CAMPAIGN

At 9.30 this (Friday) morning all teams and the activities fund committee in the Norwich chamber of commerce campaign to enlarge its membership and budget will assemble in the chamber of commerce to check over the prospect list that has been re-vamped.

After a brief meeting, they will again enter the field and put in the entire day covering the prospects who have not signed the card up to date.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, general chairman, and Frank R. Murdy commanding ace, have issued a call for every card in the hands of the workers to be covered by tonight when the members of the teams and the activities funds committee will assemble at at 6 o'clock dinner at the Wauregan hotel to make their report for the day's work.

MERCHANTS TO OFFER PRIZES DURING SPRING OPENING

At a meeting of the Norwich merchants bureau committee in charge of the plans for the annual spring opening next week, held Thursday evening at the rooms of the Norwich chamber of commece several matters of importance were decided upon. Fred T. Fleming, chairman of the committee, presided. Mr. Straus of the Reid & Hughes Co. was appointed to look after the advertising. One of the outstanding features of the meeting was the decision to ask each of the various merchants participating to award prizes. A large number of hand bills will be distributed throughout the city and on several of these hand bills will be lucky numbers. The number on the lucky hand bill will coincide with a number to appear in the window of the store offering the prize. The only thing one has to do to win one of the prizes is to circulate around the city on the night of the opening, March 14th and see if the number in any of the windows corresponds with the number on the hand bill in his or her possession. This plan has proven very attractive in many cities. It has been used here in Norwich before and it has the advantage of creating a lot of interest in the windows.

A rehearsal of the girls who are participating in the style show took place in the chamber rooms at seven o'clock Thursday evening. Miss Hempstead is in charge of this part of the programme and from all indications, it will be one of the finest style shows ever presented to a Norwich audience. Invitations are being mailed to over 1,000 women throughout the city, to attend one of the two performances which will be given, the first will be on Thursday night and the second on Friday night. It is planned to have the show take place between the first and second shows at the Broadway theatre. The management have kindly cooperated with the chamber of commerce in making this possible. Some of the stores participating in the style show are: Caron's Specialty Shop, Model Bootterie, Worth's Specialty Shop, Reid & Hughes, Porteous & Mitchell, Alling Rubber company, and Max Rabinovitch. The Hanover-Curland Co. will arrange for the music. Some of the furnishings are to be made possible through the courtesy of Schwartz Bros.

The special committee of judges has been arranged for through the cooperation of the Business and Professional Women's club and a local man, who is engaged in the advertising filed. The names will be announced later.

As has been the custom in the past, prizes will be awarded for the most attractive looking windows by the committee of judges. Invitations have been extended to all the local merchants to participate in this window contest.

EARLY MORNING CALL FOR RUBBISH FIRE

Rubbish burning on land in the rear of Irving F. Bogue's garage on North Main street, was responsible for a call to the fire department at 12:25 o'clock this (Friday) morning. Officer James Ryan discovered the blaze in patrolling his beat and the fire department was notified by telephone from police headquarters. Squad A, Acting Chief Henry R. Taft and Acting Deputy Chief Dennis Brennan responded and used one tank of chemical.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

C. Royce Boss, of Washington street, arrived home Tuesday evening, having spent two omonths in California and at Honolulu, also at Biloxi, Mississippi, for the golfing.

There is deep regret among their friends that Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boisson, who have been residents of Norwich Town for eleven years, are to sail April 20th with their three children for Lyons, France, which will be their permanent home.

The members of the Thursday afternoon Sewing club were entertained by Mrs. Arthur F. Howard, of Lincoln avenue, supper following.

Mrs. Harry B. Ford, of Hobart avenue is giving a bridge of six tables, this (Friday) afternoon.

Miss Annie L. Ruggles and Miss Isabel, H. Mitchell are going abroad for two or three months, planning to sail March 21st on S. S. President Wilson, of the Cosulich line from New York, for Lisbon, Portugal.

Mrs. Allen Latham has returned, after five weeks' visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Cudworth, in Tuscaloosa, Alabama. Mr. Cudworth, who is a graduate of M. I. T., is head of the department of mines in the State University at Tuscaloosa. Mrs. Cudworth (Emily Latham) is a graduate of Wellesley.

Mrs. John Wilbur, of Fair Harbour Place, New London, who has been occupying the Woodruff cottage, Neptune park, with Mr. Wilbur and their children, has gone to the Edgewater hotel, Biloxi, Mississippi, to visit her mother, Mrs. Thomas A. Woodruff, who is at Biloxi until April 1st.

Mrs. Fred Sudlow, of Sachem street was hostess this week to the Tuesday supper-bridge club. The prizes were won by Mrs. Charles A. Suxton and Arthur M. Thompson.

Represented Wesleyan Guild.

The Wesleyan guild of Trinity M. E. church was represented by Mrs. Mary E. Thompson, No. 50 Freeman avenue as delegate to the Jubilee luncheon of the Home Missionary society, recently held at the Woman's Republican club in Providence. Mrs. Thompson remained in Providence several days as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Tetlow of No. 11 Marlborough avenue, that city.

CITY PINOCHLE LEAGUE HOLDS ANNUAL BANQUET

That the third annual banquet of the City Pinochle league held Thursday evening at the Wauregan hotel was an outstanding success is the concensus of the more than 100 players and guests, who took part in the official closing of the league. The programme was enlivened with dance music furnished by Thumm's orchestra. The festivities started with a supper served at 8 o'clock, the menu including:

Fruit cup, mullagtawney soup, olives, celery, roast spring chicken, mashed potato, creamed corn, cranberry sauce, assorted cakes, ice cream, coffee.

Among the guests was First Selectman William S. Murray of the town of Norwich, who was introduced by the toastmaster, William R. Hastedt. With appropriate remarks First Selectman Murray presented a large silver loving cup to the Foresters, champions of the league, and a large silver loving cup to the runners-up, the American Legion team. The cups were received by the team captains of the respective teams, Henry Congdon, and Carl Johnson, with brief acceptance speeches. The $10 prize for the high individual scorer was awarded to Percy Hardwood.

After the presentation of the team prizes and prize for high individual score prize, Toastmaster Hastedt awarded the individual prizes to the following players.

Foresters—Raymond, $10; Giebeault, $7.50; Rigney, $5 and Ryan, $2.50.

American Legion—Johnson, $10; Heinrichs, $7.50; Morrill, $5.00; Haskell, $2.50.

Thermos—Harwood, $10; W. Hastedt, $7.50; E. J. Mullins, $5.00; A. Hastedt, $2.50.

Duwells—Weldon, $10; Labrie, $7.50; Moll, 5; Riley, $2.50.

American Icy Hot—Krause, $10; Stoudt, $7.50; Driscoll, $5; Wright, $2.50.

Grotto—Erirson, $10; Kloss, $7.50; Rossoll, $5; Beeman, $2.50.

Eagles—Lerich, $10; Sautter, $7.50; Seinkowski, $5; Farrell, $2.50.

J. O. A. M.—Perkins, $10; Austin, $7.50; J. Vars, $5; A. Vars, $2.50.

K. of C.—Kelley, $10; Caffery, $7.50; Bailey, $5; Ryan, $2.50.

Moose—Swatzburg, $10; Krorn, $7.50 Wunderlich, $5; J. Mehrholz, $2.50.

Brief remarks were made by the various team captains: Ellsworth Cramer, Duwells; Henry Congdon, Foresters; Henry Swatzburg, Moose; Sam Swpatzburg, Eagles; Carl Johnson, American Legion; Percy Willis, Icy Hot; W. H. Hastedt, Thermos; E. Lesemann, Jr. O. A. M., Henry Gee, Grotto and others, all of whom spoke in favor of the continuance of the league. Edward J. Mullins, secretary and treasurer of the league, expressed his thanks to the team captains for their cooperation during the year; also the individuals on the respective teams.

At the opening of the programme Mr. Mullins announced that he had received a letter from Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, in which the mayor expressed his regret at being unable to attend owing to illness: "I am with you boys in spirit and hope you have the best time yet," the mayor stated in his letter.

At the conclusion of the awarding of prizes a programme was furnished by a troupe of professional entertainers from Providence.

The committee in charge of the programme comprised the team captains, W. R. Hastedt, Henry Conzdon, Sam Swatzburg, E. Lesemann, Ellsworth Cramer, B. W. Ryan, Percy Willis, Henry Swatzburg, Henry Gee, Carl Johnson and Edward J. Mullins, secretary and treasurer of league.

13 ATTENDANCE AWARDS FOR NIGHT SCHOOL STUDENTS

Robert C. Deming, director of adult education for the state, gave an interesting address at the closing programme of the Norwich public evening schools, held at Slater hall, Thursday evening, with a good sized attendance. During the programme orchestral selections were furnished by Raymond Coyle and his Harmony boys, William Hazard, directing.

A playlet, the Naturalization of Michael Krylenko, consisting of two scenes, was nicely presented by pupils of the Taftville and Broadway schools. The first scene was in the home of Michael Krylenko, an immigrant from Russia, who tells his wife and two children that he has taken out his first papers, much to the joy of the family. He explains to them the information he was required to write. The second screen shows Mr. Krylenko before the examining officer, where he answers questions concerning the government of the United States and receives his citizenship papers. Between the scenes, William Hazard, gave a violin solo, Humoresque, with Raymond Coyle at the piano.

The speaker of the evening, Robert C. Deming, state director of adult education, was introduced by Edward J. Graham, superintendent of schools. In his talk Mr. Deming told how the purpose of the average evening school student changes after he has attended the schools for a session or two. Usually he comes to school to learn English, so that he may get a better position or to get information, which will help him in getting his naturalization papers. After attendance in school he becomes interested in the welfare of America and wants to become an intelligent and responsible citizen, one who will work for the country's best interests.

Mr. Deming also stressed the fact that these older pupils learn three times faster than children because of their greater desire to learn. Of the 9,000 who are attending Americanization classes in Connecticut over 400 are above 60 years of age and are learning easily and rapidly. At the conclusion of his talk Mr. Deming was heartily applauded by his appreciative audience.

Each year the state organization of the Daughters of American Revolution present certificates and gold pins to those pupils of the evening classes who attain perfect attendance the first 75 nights. Thirteen of these awards were presented to the following pupils by Mrs. William H. Dawley, regent of Faith Trumbull chapter, Inc., D. A. R., Mrs. Tekla Skraba, Miss Anna LaSalle, Miss Germaine LaSalle, Miss Fabiola Pion, Miss Fabiola Duchesne, Maxime Daigle, Joseph Kot, Henry Faucher, Lucien Daigle, Zafiris Hantzaclis, Stanley Banas, Girard LaSalle and Frank Plivines.

The five women in the group received additional awards of $5 gold pieces from local women's organizations and individuals, who are interested in the progress of the school. The organizations offering these prizes are the Woman's City club, Norwich League of Women Voters and the Business and Professional Women's club.

State certificates of attendance and promotion were presented to 68 of the students, who had attended 45 or more evenings.

The cast of characters in the playlet was: Father, Frank Plivines; mother, Mrs. Frances Glowski; daughter, Miss Anna LaSalle; son, Irving Herman; officer, Joseph Benac.

Miss Bernice Willey, director of the school, delivered the address of welcome and was in charge of the programme, which was brought to a close with the singing of America.

The enrollment in the evening schools this past winter has numbered over 150, classes being held at the Broadway, Greeneville, Taftville and Occum schools.

A citizenship class will be opened Monday, May 6th, at the Broadway school for all who wish to prepare for the naturalization examination in June, and for any others who wish a course in United States history and American government. This class will meet three nights a week for 12 nights and all who are interested are invited to attend.

LOCAL DELEGATION TO ATTEND ROAD HEARING

A delegation from the Norwich chamber of commerce will attend a hearing next Tuesday to be held by the roads, bridges and rivers committee of the state legislature on house bill No. 81 (Mr. Frink of Canterbury) relating to the improvement of the road from Canterbury Green south to Newent where it joins the road leading from Jewett City to Taftville via Newent (not the river road). The chamber is in favor of the bill.

This turnpike is 66 feet wide and there is no road in Connecticut that is more direct or that has such long stretches of absolutely straight away highway, it is pointed out.

There is no grade crossing on this road and passing through no large towns or cities there is very little danger of traffic congestion. In the summer months this highway would be the most direct way to the short resorts.

The road from Canterbury Green to Brooklyn, has already been built and the section from Brooklyn to Pomfret will be built this summer as the contract has been let and work starts as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

South from Canterbury Green there is under construction about two and one half miles which will be finished early in the year.

This loop is about four and one half miles long, partly in Canterbury and partly in Lisbon.

This highway would open up a section of country that would naturally trade in Norwich, as this would be the most direct route to this city from sections north, those in favor of the bill point out.

The hearing will be held in Room 65, 4th floor, East Side of the capitol at one o'clock.

PRIVATE SHOWING FOR WOMAN'S CITY CLUB

This (Friday) afternoon and evening the Woman's city club will hold its private view of the exhibition of American Indian material that has been assembled by the art committee and which forms a very colorful display in the Converse Art Gallery. The hours will be from 2 to 5 and 7 until 9:30.

Special Lenten Preacher

The special Lenten preacher at Trinity Episcopal church this (Friday) evening will be the Rev. Frank H. Bigelow, principal of the Rectory school, Pomfret.

"My grandmother, who recognized the signs of worms, advised Dr. True's Elixir. The results were most surprising. He recovered so quickly, thanks to your Elixir. I recommend it most highly."—Mrs. M. Smith, Everett (Mass.)

Quick Success

Few girls in pictures have made such rapid strides toward success as this charming New Yorker. Just a few months ago she was given her first job, shadowing a star. Within three hours, she had a real part in the picture—"The Loves of Sunya."

Miss Bayard says: "I am told my selection was largely due to my perfect skin and lovely hair. I've really never taken much trouble with either. For my hair I use the simple method that most of the girl I know here in New York are so enthusiastic about. It's so easy. All you do is put a little Danderine on your brush each time you use it.

"This method is just what a busy girl needs. It's so easy; and it keeps your hair and scalp so clean you don't need to shampoo half so often. I am letting my hair grow and I find Danderine helps make it soft and easily manageable. I can arrange it any way I want and it stays that way. All my friends are complimenting me on the appearance of my hair, nowadays because Danderine has brought out all its natural color and made it so soft and lustrous."

Danderine removes the oily film from each strand and makes dull, stringy hair gleamy, soft, easy to dress. It tones and refreshes the scalp; helps overcome dandruff. It is delicately fragranced; isn't sticky or oily; doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 35c bottles.

PUTNAM AND CHAPMAN TECH MEET TONIGHT IN IMPORTANT LEAGUE GAME

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 7—The eyes of eastern Connecticut's sporting circles from New London, northward to the Massachusetts state line, and westward from Putnam to Willimantic, will be focused upon Putnam tonight for the outcome of the clash between the league leading Chapman Tech five and the Putnam high quintet to take place Friday evening in the local gym. Putnam and all eastern Connecticut will know the fate of the Blue and White aggregation for its championship chances when the outcome of the Tech tilt is learned. The Noyesmen tonight completed one of the hardest training weeks of the season in preparation for the year's greatest basketball classic. Coach Noyes confined the work of the blue and white squad to pass work, in hopes they will ably match the leather tossing ability of the team now at the top of the league.

The locals are extremely fortunate in having Bill Shann in condition to play at least part of the game. Information from the Putnam camp tonight was to the effect that Shann's troublesome ankle was back into shape and that he would be allowed to do some work against the New London hoopsters. The Noyesmen will bank upon Carman Leo to come through. If Leo plays Friday, as he has been during the past three weeks a Putnam victory is assured. Capt. Walt Cody and Jim Denning will be depended upon to work the ball through the Chapman defense, to allow Leo to crash for scores. Coach Noyes' plan of attack was not made known tonight, as the blue and whites will not receive their final instructions until a few minutes before they take the floor at the opening of the fray. It will be remembered a month ago that the New Londoners narrowly defeated the Noyesmen on their home floor in the Whaling city and as it is their first appearance in Putnam they will have to cope with a severe handicap in shooting: the high backboards and the unusually low ceiling.

A victory over Chapman will mean much for a settlement of the Willimantic question and in view of this the locals will strain every energy to come out on the long end of the score.

HIGH SCHOOL LEAGUE MAY END IN TRIPLE TIE

A triple tie may yet come about in the Eastern Connecticut conference's first basketball race. Windham and Chapman Tech, at present stand tied for first place and with three more games to be played in the circuit there is a chance that Putnam may have something to say about it. Should Putnam beat Chapman Tech and Windham, league leaders, in her remaining games, a triple tie would result.

Putnam meets Chapman Tech tonight, Putnam also will in all probability meet Windham, all controversies to the contrary, and the Academy meets Stonington. The first two tilts are important while the last one will decide last place between the two stragglers in a good race.

The present standing is as follows:

	W	L	Pct
Chapman Tech	6	1	.857
Windham High	6	1	.857
Putnam High	4	2	.667
N. F. A.	1	6	.143
Stonington High	0	7	.000

Should Putnam beat Chapman Tech tonight and Stonington beat the Academy the standing would be:

	W	L	Pct.
Windham High	6	1	.857
Chapman Tech	6	2	.750
Putnam High	5	2	.714
N. F. A.	1	7	.125
Stonington High	1	7	.125

In other words Putnam would still be in the race and as for the other game Stonington would force the Academy to share last place with it.

But should Chapman and N. F. A. win the standing would be:

	W	L	Pct.
Chapman Tech	7	1	.875
Windham High	6	1	.750
Putnam High	4	3	.571
N. F. A.	2	6	.250
Stonington High	0	8	.000

Such a turn of events would eliminate Putnam from the title and also assure the Academy of being safe from last place and Stonington would finish without having won a conference game.

Tonight will be a momentous time in the conference's first season and ere midnight the race may be considerably tightened.

Putnam, by winning, would assure itself of another big game, probably, with Windham and then what a crowd that would draw.

WANER BOYS MAY COME TO AGREEMENT SOON

PASO ROBLES, Calif., March 7—(AP)—The salary dispute between Paul and Lloyd Waner, star outfielders, and Sam Dreyfuss, secretary of the Pittsburgh club which gave indications of being settled recently when the brothers reduced their demands to $30,000, is still up in the air as far as the Pirate mentor is concerned.

In discussing the situation today, Dreyfuss said the demands of the Ada, Okla., holdouts, were still too high—at least $6,000 worth—and that they could accept the club offer, reported to be $24,000, or none at all.

In spite of the apparent impasse between the principals, the camp followers agree that the Waner brothers will be signed and in uniform before the season opens. Whether Dreyfuss or the Waners will make the necessary concessions is a question but they expect developments one way or another before many more suns have set.

FOUR WOMEN GOLF STARS IN ST. AUGUSTINE SEMI-FINALS

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 7—(AP)—Four of the country's greatest women golfers advanced today to the semi-final of the Florida east coast tournament—Miss Glenna Collett, Virginia Van Wie, Helen Hicks and Bernice Wall.

Miss Collett advanced by eliminating Mrs. Sally Sterrett, Kansas City, 1-3, while Miss Van Wie went into the semi-final by defeating Mrs. Melvin Jones, Chicago, 2 and 2.

Miss Wall had a struggle to beat Mrs. Stewart Hanley, Detroit, 1 up on the 18th green.

The hardest match of the day fell to Miss Hicks in eliminating Miss Pinkey Vahay, Boston, 4 and 3.

DEVLIN GETS DECISION OVER JIMMY MURDOCK

WATERBURY, March 7—(AP)—Irish Hughie Devlin, 123, New London, won an eight round decision over Jimmy Murdock, Murdock 123, Liverpool, England, in the main bout of the Waterbury A. C., card here tonight. Results:

Jackie Harmon, beat Joe Yolas, 6-112.

Eddie Huddleston, Pittsfield, beat Babe Janis, New London, 6-137.

DEMPSEY TO DECIDE ON RETURN TO RING SOON

By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 7—(AP)—Jack Dempsey came back to New York today a big time promoter and promptly became a man-about-town, so elusive and important that even his old friends of the sport pages could not quite catch up with him.

There was everything but a band to meet the Old Man Mauler of Miami, when he stepped off the train from Florida. Bill Carey, bluff, celtic railroad builder who turned promoter for the thrill of the thing, headed the delegation that had but one question in mind: "Will Dempsey fight again?"

As usual Jack didn't know what he was going to do but added a first touch of definiteness to the situation when he did declare that the anxious public would be quieted by an announcement within a few days. The former champion will leave for Boston at 1 p. m., tomorrow to appear with Carey at a benefit show in the Boston Madison Square Garden, Friday night.

Just how important the trip figured in Dempsey's plans still was a matter for argument when the big fellow retired to his suite in one of New York's exclusive hotels for an afternoon nap. He rested for evening festivities that included accompanying his wife, Estelle Taylor, to one of the popular musical comedies.

The general impression is that Carey, a pal of Dempsey's since they joined forces in promoting the struggle of Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling to a financial success in Miami Beach, will make his final attempt on the trip to New England to convince Jack that he has at least one more good fight in his system. Dempsey admits that Carey is working on fertile ground if at the same time it can be proved that the chances for victory are overwhelming. Dempsey will not come back to the ring if he has the slightest expectation of defeat.

Even Carey, however, has little hope of proving his point. He cannot understand why a man of Dempsey's prowess should be "through" at 33 when at 50 he himself is just warming up railroad building contracts that run as high as $50,000,000.

Those closest to the former champion believe Dempsey will announce on his return from Boston a partnership with Floyd Fitzsimmons, Detroit promoter in the staging of horse racing and boxing shows in the automobile center. The venture awaits the passage by the Michigan law makers of legislation favorable to both sports.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS AMATEUR BOXING SHOW

NEW HAVEN, March 7—(AP)—Before the largest crowd to ever attend an indoor amateur boxing show, Jack Beasley, New Haven, tonight stripped Buddy Howard, fellow townsman, of the state amateur light heavyweight title by annexing a close decision. Howard held the crown since last summer at which time he defeated Beasley. The attendance at the Arena tonight was estimated at 7,000, several hundred being turned away.

The show of 12 bouts included boxers from the state and was held after a court injunction was obtained to prohibit Thomas E. Donohue, state athletic commissioner, from interfering. Donohue, who received the appointment to rule over amateur boxing and wrestling in this state by Gov. Trumbull, issued an order yesterday that all amateur contests must cease until rules for their operation were formulated.

In order to proceed with the show Dick Gray, amateur boxing promoter, and Nat Ian Podoloff, manager of the Arena, secured the proper legal protection.

ACADEMY VS. STONINGTON HIGH THIS EVENING

The Academy and Stonington tailenders, close their Eastern Connecticut Conference schedule tonight with a game at Stonington. The possession of last place rests on this tilt. At present, the locals are a full game ahead of Bill O'Brien's boys, mainly because of a victory over that team here about a month ago. Should Stonington win tonight, she would pull the Academy down into a tie for the cellar.

Both teams will have their strongest lineups according to reports. Neither has had a successful season but tonight should make a close game. Henschel and Stevens at forwards, Chet Berghinzo at center and Capt. Buck LaCroix and Harber at guards will in all probability be the Academy starting lineup. The main game is slated for 8:15.

GRIFFITH SIGNED TO MEET LOMSKI AGAIN

CHICAGO, March 7—(AP)—Jerry (Tuffy) Griffith, Sioux, Iowa light heavyweight, signed today for a return engagement with Leo Lomski of Aberdeen, Wash., who was awarded a disputed decision over him in their battle at Detroit three weeks ago. They will fight ten rounds as an added attraction to the Tommy Loughran-Mickey Walker match, for the world's light heavyweight championship here, March 28.

HUDKINS WILL MEET EMANUEL AT LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, March 7—(AP)—Ace Hudkins, through his brother, Art, today agreed to meet Armand Emanuel, San Francisco barrister-pugilist, in a light heavyweight bout at Wrigley field here, next month. The bout was tentatively arranged when Emanuel announced that he had failed to arrange a return fight with Mickey Walker, with the middleweight title at stake.

Y SENIORS LOSE OVERTIME GAME TO MU IOTAS 33-30

The Y Seniors lost an overtime game to the Mu Iotas five of New London, Thursday evening, at the Y gym, 33 to 30. It was an interesting contest. This was the local team's eighth defeat of the season against nine victories. Saturday evening the Seniors meet the Saybrook Town Team at the Y gym.

MELLO-DUNDEE FIGHT EXPECTED TO BE TORRID

BOSTON, March 7—(AP)—Champion Joe Dundee and Al Mello, of Lowell, today agreed that their second fistic clash tomorrow night would be one of the most important welterweight bouts of the season. Each of the battlers, after ending their training, predicted a victory by a knockout, the champion explaining that such a win would enhance his prestige which has suffered greatly of late. The bout, a non-title affair, was arranged as the feature event of a charity boxing carnival at the Boston Garden.

CARDINALS BEAT ATHLETICS IN EXHIBITION GAME

AVON PARK, Fla., March 7.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals drew first blood in prying the lid off the 1929 major league baseball season by blanking the Philadelphia Athletics here this afternoon, 2 to 0, in an exhibition game. Hick drove in the first run of the game in the third inning and Penner's triple with Boykin on first accounted for the final run in the eighth. Scores:

Philadelphia .....000 000 000—0 3 0
St. Louis .....001 000 01x—2 7 1

DANIELSON TOWNERS CLASH WITH DIXIES OF HARTFORD TONIGHT AT DANIELSON

Everything is in readiness for the clash tonight in Town hall between the much talked of Hartford Dixies and Danielson Towners. This game should bring out an exceptionally large crowd of spectators as both teams are very evenly matched and there is also a very keen rivalry between the two teams which has existed ever since Manager Tredo's team was defeated in Danielson two years ago.

He is bringing one of the best teams to Danielson that he has ever had represent the Dixies and just a glance at the lineup will prove this. "Wady" Waterman, star of the fast traveling Bristol Endees is one of his best bets at the guard position along with Murphy or Hafner while Dutch Leonard will play center with the forward positions covered by Larson and Terrible Ted Torant.

Danielson is very desirous of winning this game and will use "Pop" Williams at center with Arrington, Adams and a surprise man from the western part of the state while Pontier and Godreau will cover the guard positions. There is no question but what there will be a capacity house to witness this game so it is advised to be on early.

SZAFRANSKI SHOOTS WINNING GOAL FOR KILLINGLY HIGH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

POMFRET, March 7.—Killingly defeated Pomfret Prep at the Pomfret gym this afternoon by the close score of 26-25, "Brownie" Szafranski cheated defeat in the waning moments of the game by a spectacular shot from the side court. Both teams had splendid passwork which was the main factor of the game.

In the first period Killingly did not get its bearings and the Pomfret quintet was leading through the work of Hughes and Whiting. The Red and White, led by Dascoli, opened up a barrage which baffled Pomfret Prep, scoring nine points and tieing the score at 13-13 at the end of the half.

Killingly came back in the second half, a stronger team, and broke the tie with a field goal, and from then on Killingly piled up nine points before the end of the third period which ended in Killingly's favor, 24-17. Matters changed considerably when Hughes scored three field goals in the first two minutes of the final quarter. Key, of Pomfret, was then given two foul tries on a personal, making both, and putting Pomfret in a 25-24 lead.

Coach Schofield then sent in Szafranski in forward position. With about 30 seconds to play "Brownie" put in the shot that won Killingly's ninth game.

The high scorers of the game were F. Dascoli of Killingly and Hughes of Pomfret, with 11 points each. Young of Killingly was not far behind with 9 points. McKeon and Valdron were highly responsible for the victory, playing a good defensive game.

In the preliminary the Killingly second team lost a close game to the Pomfret seconds by the score of 22-19. Neither team led by more than a point up to the last few minutes when Coles broke loose with two field goals. Killingly outplayed Pomfret in the first half which ended in Killingly's favor by a 10-9 score. In the last half the score see-sawed until Coles made the winning baskets.

O'BRIEN KNOCKS OUT CURCIO IN FOURTH

In the opening four rounder, Del Poulliot, New Britain, 122 3-4, won on a technical knockout in the fourth round over Jimmy Stachas, Holyoke, 122 1-2.

Lucien Brouillard, Worcester, 145 3-4, won a six round decision over Vic Morley, Hartford, 145 1-4.

Gerald Emard, Holyoke, 137, won on a foul in the fifth round of a scheduled six round bout from Joe Zotter, New Britain, 136 1-2.

Eddie Reed Hartford, 116 1-4, won a six round decision over Buster Nadeau, Holyoke, 114.

HAWLEY RESIGNS AS DARTMOUTH COACH

HANOVER N. H., March 7—(AP)—Announcement that Jesse B. Hawley had quit as head coach of the Dartmouth football team and that Jackson L. Cannell, backfield coach had been appointed his successor, was made here today by Harry R. Heneage, supervisor of athletics.

Hawley's radio ousiness in Chicago, it was said, had become too pressing to permit him to devote sufficient time to Dartmouth football. He became head football coach six years ago and his reign, until last season was the most successful in Dartmouth's football history. In 1925, Hawley attained his greatest success, developing an undefeated team which conquered Harvard, Cornell, Brown and Chicago, and tied Yale.

The Hawley system, one of great detail is one of the most famous methods in the sport. The Green's athletic directors said Cannell was thoroughly versed in the Hawley technique and would carry on along the founder's lines.

Cannell was head coach at Dartmouth before Hawley took charge of football in 1922. He was placed in charge of the Green's football as soon as he was graduated in 1921. He was unsuccessful that year, because of his inexperience, plus the fact that he was coaching men who had been his teammates the previous season. When Hawley took over the reins, Cannell remained as his backfield coach and made an exceptionally successful record.

Rumors of the football change had been prevalent here for several weeks but Heneage's announcement created something of a sensation among the undergraduates.

"Word from Jesse Hawley," Heneage said, "has advised us that the pressure of his business responsibilities in Chicago makes it impossible for him to give us assurance of his being able to resume his coaching duties here next fall. No difference of opinion existed mong those close to football affairs at Dartmouth, that on the basis of his acquaintanceship with the Dartmouth football system, his knowledge of the material available, and his long and varied experience on the football field, Jack Cannell was the man to step into Jesse Hawley's shoes and to assume full charge.

"The unavailability of Hawley is recognized as a great loss to those of us who appreciate the value of the services which he has rendered during the last six years and the success that has attended his efforts. The long, hard schedules that the Green faces for the next few years would make it a particular misfortune if it were necessary to submit Dartmouth's football fortunes to the directions of one unacquainted with experience of the immediate past."

Heneage denied that Dartmouth's 1928 record, the worst the Green has ever had on the gridiron, influenced Hawley in any way. This failure, Heneage said, was in no way due to the lack of ability by Hawley and his assistant coaches, but resulted from the injuries which cut deep inroads in the strength of the Dartmouth team during every week of the past football season.

NORWICH TOWN

MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETS AT HOME OF MRS. W. WEAVER

With the president, Mrs. William Weaver presiding, the March meeting of Dorcas Home Missionary society of Norwich Town Methodist church, was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arthur Fulton, of Huntington avenue, with a good attendance. Mrs. George Warren Potter read the 84th Psalm and offered prayer, giving special significance to the tenth verse: For a day in thy covets is better than a thousand. I had rather be a door-keeper in the house of My God than to dwell in the tents of wickedness. These lines were chosen by Mrs. Potter, as her favorite lines of scripture when a young girl. She said: We all are door-keepers in the house of the Lord, and as missionary societies, can be door-keepers in continuing the work of the Lord. The hymns sung were: Wonderful Works of Light and My Faith Looks Up to Thee. Mrs. Potter accompanying at the organ. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were submitted and approved. The mite boxes were opened and the contents totalled several dollars. Two interesting readings were given. Learning How to Be Thankful, by Mrs. George Manning, and Betty's Partnership, by Mrs. Charles Beaver. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction. During the social hour, the hostess served cake and tea, assisted by Mrs. Wellington Miner and Mrs. Beaver.

Was Custodian of Rocklawn

Henry A. Hazler of Groton, was a caller Thursday afternoon at the home of Dr. Charles H. Lamb. Mr. Hazler was for 26 years caretaker of "Rocklawn", the beautiful estate of the late George W. Watson of Eastern Point, one of the finest estates along the Groton shore. Previous to Dr. Lamb locating in Norwich 21 years ago, he and Mr. Hazler were associated in the interests of Mr. Watson's affairs. At that time the estate had a number of beautiful coach horses, besides other animals. The estate was given its name because of a huge rock in the center of the lawn. The place was never left unguarded, night or day. The Watson family used it as a summer home and were among the most popular residents of the Eastern Point colony.

Repairing Storm Damage

The snow Saturday night, plus the heavy rain fall Monday night and all day Tuesday, caused the Yantic river to over-flow its banks in many places. The snow Saturday night, was responsible for several employes of the Southern New England Telephone company, who reside in this part of the town, being called into strenuous service at midnight, in order to overcome some of the havoc wrought by the storm to the company's property between Norwich Town and Colchester. The troublemen were on duty from midnight to Saturday until nine o'clock Sunday night. Snatching a hurried lunch some of the men in the local gang were about all in from work and exposure to wet and cold, but the task of raising the fifteen or more poles toppled over by the weight of snow on the wires, was accomplished in due time.

Mrs. Theodore D. Peck, of Westchester, has been passing several weeks at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Peck, of Otrobando avenue.

Mrs. Francis H. Rose formerly of the Philippines Islands, who has been passing several months among Norwich Town relatives, is at present the guest for several days of her cousins, Misses Alice and Grace Coombs, of Needham, Mass. Her mother, Mrs. Irving J. Coombs is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Rose, of Wauwecus Hill. Mrs. Frank Rose has nearly recovered from illness, which kept her confined to her bed about ten days.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Norris had as guests over the funeral of Mr. Norris' mother, his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hazler, of Groton, also a brother, Alfred W. Kiess, of Essex.

Additional floral pieces sent to the funeral of Mrs. Catherine Fisher Norris, Wednesday afternoon, included sprays from the Welte family, Jabez Sterry and family, also Charles Fishers and family, of Hartford. As well as the towns mentioned, relatives attended the funeral from Meriden and Willimantic.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS PLAN ANNIVERSARY SERVICE

Dakonya Camp Fire Girls of Nor-Town Methodist church met Wednesday evening at the parsonage with their guardian, Helen Haviland Potter. Doris Rose the president opened the meeting with the credo, law and handsign. The girls reported the successful sale of the Dixie cups and containers. The proceeds go toward the summer camping fund. At a previous meeting the members handed in a composition of 50 words on the subject, "Ideals of Camp Fie". It was announced that the winner in this contest was Margaret Ross, with Grace Marie Heinrichs second and Barbara Fellows third. February was "Give Service" month, each girl presented a list of good service deeds. Those receiving honors were Florence Gembel, Betty Browning and Virginia Ward. Camp Fire Girls' Anniversary service will be held in the Methodist Episcopal church. A number of the girls will take part in the service demonstrating some of the ceremonies of the organization. The group will sit in a body. The pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter will deliver a special message to the Camp Fire Girls. The anniversary service is to be held Sunday evening March 10th at 7:15.

Before adjourning the meeting some new songs were practiced. It was announced that Betty Browning and Virginia Ward have secured their Camp Fire gowns. There was an attendance of 22.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

W. W. Backus Hospital Week

Next week, a great many women in Norwich and the surrounding towns will be busy, having a very good time at parties of one sort and another, and at the same time making it possible to raise a large sum of money for the Backus hospital. The Women's auxiliary is anxious to provide the hospital with some valuable and necessary equipment (a diathermy apparatus being chief among other things desired) and the finance committee of which Mrs. Rollin Jones and Mrs. Witter Tingley are co-chairmen, have devised this series of subscription parties as a means to that end.

Their plan has met instant and gratifying success, for 125 women have volunteered to act as hostess for teas or bridge parties. These women, a list of whose names were published last week in the monthly report of the auxiliary's activities and to which should be added the names of Mrs. Henry Vignot and Mrs. Charles A. Gager, are staging their parties for the afternoons and evenings of next week, from March eleventh to the sixteenth, which is being set aside as "W. W. Backus Hospital Week."

MORE ABOUT FRAUD MASON WHO VICTIMIZED LOCAL MEN

G. H. Prior, secretary of Mt. Vernon lodge No. 75, received from New Bedford a further statement relative to the escape of Albert Dias from the Taunton state hospital. Dias, the man with a long court record, with 28 assumed names, operated here as Albert Norton. He was first committed from the district court in New Bedford to the state hospital at Taunton for observation, following his assertion that he was a shell-shocked victim of the World war. After a brief term in the hospital, one night about 7, Dias left the observation ward, and went out into the caged piazza. A door in the end of the grating was locked. He picked this lock and disappeared. After his escape he made the rounds of the surrounding country. He went from one U. S. Veterans' hospital to another, seeking admission. Many city authorities were on his trail out for a long time they were always about a jump behind, until his recent capture in a Boston hospital. When here, he made use of the old game of having lost his money by accident, and much though he hated to do it, asking for a loan for railroad fare.

Records on file in New Bedford, go to prove that his main activity is among members of the Masonic fraternity.

All Sorts of Weather

March played true to name in this section Thursday. One lively snow squall with wind from all quarters, was followed by another. Much of the day the air was filled with whirling flakes. Traffic was slowed down some by blinding snow and plastered windshields. The pick-up on the ground amounted to but little.

First Pussy Willows

School children, Thursday, had fine bunches of pussy wollows with the callins opened wide. Time was when few sprigs could be picked during a 15-minute stroll along any of the country roads near the borough. But not now: pussy willows like the red winterberries of fall (ilex verticillata) have entirely disappeared from the frequented highway. Tadpole, once the natural home of both these beautiful native shrubs, has been entirely denuded.

Gift Book For Library

Bambi is the title of a book given Slater library by Miss Kate Ross. It is written by Felix Salten with the foreword by John Galsworthy. It is an exquisite story of animal life. Bambi is the name of a male deer, and the book is the life story of Bambi in the enchanting woodland that frames the Danube. It is a book that anyone interested in the preservation of animal life will like to read. It is far more than an animal story. The doe in the story symbolizes the growing and inquisitive child to whom the universe is filled with mysterious sounds, sights and scents. Galsworthy says: "For delicacy of perception and essential truth I hardly know any story of animals that can stand beside this life study of a forest deer. Clear and illuminating, and in places very moving it is a little masterpiece."

MISSION CIRCLE RE-ELECTS ALL ITS OFFICERS

Tuesday afternoon, the Woman's Mission circle, at the home of Mrs. E. E. Gilbert, held its annual business meeting with 16 members present. After a devotional service conducted by Mrs. A. M. Brown, annual reports were read by the secretary, treasurer and White Cross committee, Mrs. E. M. Gray, chairman. The reports showed the society to be in a good financial condition and full of interest in the work. Ten meetings were held during the year and much time and money expended for projects at home and abroad. The officers were re-elected as follows: President, Mrs. A. M. Brown; vice president, Mrs. S. F. Brown; secretary, Mrs. B. R. Gardner; treasurer, Mrs. Martin Davis. Mrs. Brown appointed the following White Cross committees: Quilts, Mrs. Emma Raney; boxes and barrels, Mrs. Nathan Babcock and Mrs. John Harris; quotas, Mrs. F. M. Gray; purchasing and shipping, Mrs. A. M. Brown; solicitor for missions, Mrs. Lewis Hewlitt; solicitor for coin cards, Mrs. John Post; program committee, Mrs. B. R. Gardner; Americanization secretary, Mrs. G. H. Prior. Mrs. John P. Post had prepared a very instructive program on Christian Americanization work the country over, under the topic "Friendly Friends to the Stranger" using letters from workers in California, different sections of Chicago, Brooklyn, N. Y., Pittsburgh, the South Pacific district and the New England district. Two of the letters were from Clara J. Merritt and Dorothy Bucklin, a former and the present worker in this district. These letters were read by Mrs. R. A. Wilbur, Mrs. Lewis Hewlitt, Mrs. A. M. Brown, Mrs. E. E. Coates, Mrs. S. F. Brown, Mrs. B. R. Gardner, Mrs. B. R. Prior and Miss Ida Foster. Mrs. Wilbur also read "The House by the Side of the Road." Mrs. Gilbert served refreshments, assisted by her daughters, Mildred and Phyllis.

Mrs. F. E. Newton, R. N., will relieve the town nurse, Miss Alice Brennan, R. N., for two weeks commencing Monday next. All calls for the nurse are to be given to Dial-5 before 8 a. m. and 1 p. m.

LIBRARY TRUSTEES VOTE TO BUILD ANNEX

The annual meeting of the trustees of Slater library was held Monday. The board of trustees are: Dr. G. H. Jennings, A. D. Tripp, E. A. Faust, Alex Mc Nicol and L. M. Carpenter. Dr. Jennings was elected president and Mr. Tripp secretary and treasurer. The executive committee is Messrs. Jennings, Faust and Tripp. It was voted to build the foundation for the Fanning annex next fall. Miss Mabel Wilcox was elected librarian.

OTHER THINGS BESIDES MONEY.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

It doesn't get anybody anywhere to enter at the importance of money. Even its sincerest contemners must have it to buy gasoline with if not bread and butter.

It has been of admitted importance ever since the time when Abraham paid Ephron the Hittite 400 shekels of silver "current money with the merchant" for the cave in Macphelah wherein to bury his wife Sarah.

But is it the only thing in the world. Not is it, the most vital importance of anything in life.

It is always handy to have; it is practical; useful; it is occasionally the trump card on which the game depends. It's very much like galoshes. The human race managed to exist quite a few thousand years without a gum overshoe or a rubber boot. Rubber is not absolutely essential to its continued existence. But rubber has come to be of such everyday use that, suddenly deprived of it, we should hardly know what to do. Similarly, money is not absolutely essential to life. But it is mighty convenient. All the same. If it were all prohibited by a new constitutional amendment and an extended Volstead act forbidding the possession by anyone of more than one-half of one cent, I suspect it would be "bootlegged" by more illicit purveyors than now fracture the exceedingly brittle prohibitory laws.

That the overpowering greed of some for money, and then money, and then still more money leads to innumerable social and economical ills goes without saying. That moralists are right in condemning such dollar-idolatry need not be questioned.

But it isn't always nor often wise to be too sweeping in denunciation. Even the "reformer" who bites off more than he can chew runs some risk of choking from his own rapacity. Let's admit, right at the start-off, that money is desirable and that its possession is something to work for and pay for—provided te work isn't de-Lasing and the price too high.

Which inevitably leads to the inquiry: What, then, is a fair price to pay for money?

Well, I don't set up to be a second Solomon or anything more than just a retired old farmer. But I'll venture, as a tentative statement of what money is worth, this:—

It is worth spending from three-quarters to four-fifths of one's time to get, but it is NOT worth swapping one's soul for.

For illustration of what I mean, let me briefly retell the stories of two men which I have recently read.

One is that of Reuben H. Donnelly, business man of New York and Chicago, who has recently died at the age of 64.

About 1899 he, with one Knight, started a brokerage firm in New York. It failed in 1905 with liabilities of $300,000. Bankruptcy proceedings followed, which allowed the creditors 27 cents on the dollar. Under the law this cleared the firm of all indebtedness. But it seems that Mr. Donnelly was one of those people who don't think that honesty consists solely in keeping out of jail. He determined, then and there, that every man who had lost money through the failure of his firm should be repaid, in full, with interest, if he could ever manage to do it. He started out in the business in which his father had been engaged, that of publishing directories, and gradually accumulated money at it till, in 1927, 22 years after the failure of the brokerage firm, he was able to send checks to every loser in that firm's failure for not only the amount of the original loss but for interest on it. The gross payment amounted to almost $700,000.

When the last check had been mailed he sat back in his chair with a big sigh of relief. He was $700,000 poorer in money. But he was about 700,000,000 times richer in content. And what has to pass, in this more or less disappointing life, for happiness.

He lived only about a year after completing his self-imposed task, dying from one of those heart attacks which seem to be so common with men who overstrain their capacities in business fields. He seems to have been an industrious, shrewd and money-getting chap. There was nothing about him, personally or about his business methods markedly different from his fellows. He was considered a good, clear, averagely successful business man. One of the class whom too many theoretical moralists condemn as undesirable gold-diggers.

But didn't he 'make good" not only to his scattered creditors, but also before the high court of eternal justice?

You and I would each like $700,000. No use denying it. But, if we had it, would we keep it? Or would we use it to pay debts from which the law had discharged us and whose only claim was upon our manhood's honor? There's a question which searches home. Businessman Donnelly answered it in one way. Is there really any other answer for an absolutely honest man to give?

The other case I've read about is that of a college professor. Harry Steenbock, of the departemnt of agricultural chemistry in the University of Wisconsin.

Professor Steenbock is credited with having made at least a dozen important discoveries in the line of sanitation, nutrition, etc.

Some of them are commercially valuable, so valuable that business corporations compete for the right to their use. Prof. Steenbock sells his discoveries for good round figures. A check for five figures" came to him only a few days ago, in part payment for the use of one by a manufacturing establishment. He turned that over to the university, as he has turned over all his other royalties. He says: "I have no right to the profits from these discoveries. I made them while in the employment of the university, and the university is entitled to any profits accruing from them." Then he went on to elaborate a little along that line.

"A scientist usually makes a poor capitalist," he said, "and if I commercialized my discoveries for my own profit it would mean the diversion of my time to administration. What use is money personally to an individual if he receives enough to provide the reasonable needs and desires of himself and family?"

That, you will observe, is still another way of looking at the money-getting game. Prof. Steenbock recognizes its importance, up to the point of meeting the reasonable Steenbock requirements. Beyond that, it is of vastly less interest to him than his scientific work, with its fascinating suggestions and its immense opportunities. He simply refuses to exchange the higher for the lower, to value his brains at market-rates. When he turned over one big check to the university trustees they said to him: "If you won't take all this money, at least accept 15 per cent of it as a token of our respect." "No," said Steenbock, "let it all go to help pay for future research."

We can't all be Donnellys or Steenbocks. Nature has made no two of us quite alike. And it would be a desecration of our own individual importance to ask us blindly to ape either one. I'm not setting them up, like copy-book models, for either worship or imitation. But I can't help thinking that both of them have furnished rather suggestive guideposts along the highways of common life.

Just reading about what they have done almost irresistibly compels one to revalue in his own mind this quest for money.

You and I, we'll say, are farmers—just common, everyday "dirt farmers," to use a popular phrase. Though I frankly admit that I don't know why dirt farming doesn't cover the entire industry. I can't quite conceive of a real farmer who isn't a dirt farmer. However, we'll let that distinction pass. You and I are farmers, working the dirt in the hope of getting something better than dirt from it. What, in our minds, is that "something better"? Is it just money? We should be uncandid, not to say hypocritical, if we didn't admit that money was one of the things we are after. Of course it is. The conditions under which we live require that we should have money to pay taxes and buy shoes and shingles and pitchforks and 'steen other things. But is money the only or even the main thing we work for?

Old Uncle Ike used to say some sharp and cutting things; he also uttered much good sense, when the occasion called for it. Once he remarked to a group sitting around the stove in the country store's back room that he wasn't half so much interested in making money off his farm as he was in making that farm a little better every year he tilled it. He wanted to leave it to Young Ike a better farm than it was when he took it over. Not necessarily a farm worth more in the real estate agent's eyes, but one worth more as a farm to grow things on, to manage, to make a home upon.

That's very much the same spirit Prof. Steenbock shows. Money? Why, yes, of course; money enough to provide for "reasonable demands," but beyond that are more important purposes and aims which both men see and properly evaluate. That one is a college professor and the other a dirt farmer doesn't alter the essential character of their decisions.

I believe it has been said a few thousand times by a few thousand wise men that anybody who takes up farming in the hope of getting rich from it shows poor judgment. I can recall only one man who ever became a millionaire from farming, David Rankin, of Missouri. And David, when the truth becomes known, is seen to have made most of his wealth rather from "mining" out the stored fertility of new land than from actually farming old land.

But the fact that farming ordinarily pays poor dividends in money isn't proof that it is not a worth-while vocation.

There are several other things besides money. And some of them are really more desirable. Such, for instance, as Mr. Donnelly's honesty and Prof. Steenbock's passion for research, and Uncle Ike's ambition to make his farm better, on account of his occupancy of it. THE FARMER.

It is the easiest thing in the world to forgive yourself the sins you condemn in others.

The last invitation dance and social will be given by the American Mechanics in their hall this week. The social which includes the old and new dances have been vern popular this winter.

Miss Carolyn Roarke who has been confined to her home on Spring street by illness is able to be about.

On account of the storm weather there was a very small attendance at the services in the Baptist church held by Rev. E. S. Holloway Tuesday evening. Rev. Mr. Holloway gave an interesting talk on various forms of prayer. A solo was sung by George White.

LIBERTY HILL

A kind friend was around Sunday morning before 6 o'clock making paths with his horse-drawn snow plow.

The Exeter Liberty Hill Church was not opened Sunday on account of the big body of snow.

Saturday evening for two hours there was a blizzard when about eight inches of very damp snow fell.

Those who had radios listened to the presidential inauguration program in Washington Monday.

The electric lights were out most of the time Saturday evening during the violent snow storm.

Sunday morning every thing was plastered heavily with damp snow and when the sun was up it made a sight long to be remembered. A heavy coat stuck on the sides of the houses.

About 15 attended the meeting of Liberty Hill Men's club in the church rooms Monday evening. Prof. Roy E. Jones of Storrs college entertained by giving an illustrated lecture on chickens. After showing two pictures and while he was talking the electric lights went out and remained so except during short intervals for 24 hours.

ROCKVILLE, R. I.

Bowen E. Mathewson, 74, a former resident of this place for many years, died in Norwich, Conn., Feb. 22. He was buried in the Gallup cemetery, Sterling, Thursday, Feb. 28, at 2 p. m. The services were conducted by Rev. F. C. Drake, pastor of the United Protestant church, Sterling. Relatives and friends from Brooklyn, New York, Hope Valley, R. I., Plainfield and Norwich attended.

Mrs. Orlando Smith of Westerly was a guest Sunday night of her sister, Mrs. Annie B. Kenyon, and visited her mother, Mrs. Mary F. Barber, who has been seriously ill for several weeks. She is reported as slightly improved.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Brooks of Waterford, Conn., are guests of Rev. and Mrs. Paul S. Burdick.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Woodmansee and little daughter, Alice, and Mrs. Emogene Woodmansee, motored to Providence Monday.

Rev. P. S. Burdick and Albert S. Babcock attended a special meeting of the S. D. B. missionary board in the Seventh Day Baptist church at Westerly last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Addison McLearn of Westerly were callers Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Babcock.

The electric lights were cut out of commission here Saturday evening by the breaking of a wire near the Centerville mill during the snow storm.

WESTERLY

GENCARELLI CHANGES PLEA—GIVEN 17 YEARS IN PRISON

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 7—With startling suddenness the murder trial of Louis Gencarelli, 34, for the death of Santo Caccione, of 4 Marion street, by gun shot wound, on the early morning of Jan. 21st., as he lay in bed, came to a close today. The trial was begun Monday morning in the Washington county superior court before Judge Herbert L. Carpenter and a jury.

At 11:30 Third Assistant Attorney-General Louis V. Jackvony, of Providence, called the defendant before the bar saying, "The state moves for sentence." He said that it was the desire of the state and Attorney Anthony V. Petrine, senior counsel for the defense, that this complaint for first degree murder be nolled prossed. A new complaint charged murder in the second degree. Reading of the complaint was waived and declaration that Gencarelli's former plea of not guilty to the first degree murder, was withdrawn and the defendant would plead nolo to the complaint charging second degree murder.

Mr. Jackvony said the matter had been thoroughly discussed and gone into and while it did not have all the elements of first degree murder he was convinced the defendant had fired the shot gun.

He recommended a term of 17 years in state prison.

Judge Carpenter said that he had considered the case pro and con and thought this disposition best met the ends of justice.

"I'll sentence this man to 17 years in state prison, in Providence, there to be kept at hard labor," the judge said. "Bring in the jury."

Judge Carpenter informed the jury of the disposition of the case, excused them from further service and thanked them for the faithful performance of their duty to the state.

DEFERRED SENTENCE IS GIVEN SALIMENO

Pasquale Salimeno, who has been fined $50 and costs in the third district court, February 14, 1925, on a charge of possession of liquor, and had appealed to the superior court, was called before Judge Carpenter this morning and was given a deferred sentence on the payment of costs. The deferred sentence was given with the understanding that if the defendant gets in trouble again on a similar charge he will be brought into court and given the maximum sentences.

The case of Edward Vennard vs Harold Lihme, a suit growing out of an accident which occurred at the junction of Elm and School streets, several years ago, will be opened for trial Wednesday, before Judge Carpenter and a jury.

The panel of jurors sworn in Wednesday morning will appear for service Monday.

Plate Glass Window Broken

During one of the wind, rain and snow squalls Thursday morning, a large plate glass show window, 8 by 6 1-2 feet, in the furniture store of Ribners shop, on the Westerly-Stonington state highway, was blown in and shattered. The other window was braced to prevent the unbroken sweep of wind from crashing it in a similar manner.

Sun Blinded Drivers

On Nooseneck Hill road out of Westerly to Providence, at the start of the new layout there was another automobile accident Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the top of Vincent Carr hill. The setting sun shone squarely into the eyes of the driver of one car and also reflected from his windshield into the face of the operator of an approaching machine. Both drivers were blinded for a second. Erwin A. Kenyon, of Pine hill and his son, Henry A. Kenyon, were proceeding toward Ashaway when they met the machine of Charles A. Proctor, of Medford, Mass., en route to Westerly. Before either driver knew what happened there was a collision. After the sideswiping the Kenyon car crashed through the guard fence and ripped away three lengths of it. It finally finished up in the ditch. The side of Proctor's car also sustained considerable damage. The drivers and occupants escaped with minor cuts and bruises. Officer John Beattie investigated the accident.

When the People's Mission, West Broad street, Pawcatuck, held its annual directors' meeting Tuesday evening officers elected were: President, George Salb; vice president, Mrs. Jennie Parker; secretary, David W. Shaw; treasurer, Mrs. Clayton A. Burdick; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. F. Farnsworth; superintendent of mission, Rev. Joseph E. Herold; assistant superintendent, William D. Howard; auditor, Mrs. J. F. Farnsworth; city missionary, Mrs. Dagmar Smith; directors, Mrs. Eugene Raffenne, Mrs. Mary G. Young, Miss Jennie M. Eldred, Miss Abbie Hakes, Stephen Perkham, Thomas Tyson; house committee, Mrs. Clayton A. Burdick, Mrs. Dagmar Smith, Thomas Tyson.

OBITUARY

Mrs. John Penders

Wednesday night Ellen Shea, wife of John Penders, a former resident of Westerly, died suddenly at her home in New London. She lived here for over 20 years. She moved to New London about 15 years ago. Besides her husband, she is survived by a brother, John Shea, of 54 Morgan street, Westerly, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Sullivan, also of Westerly.

John H. Lonergan, of Granite street, was among those whose automobile licenses were suspended for improper use and operation Wednesday, when the state board of public roads met.

SPECULATIVE SENTIMENT FEATURE OF MARKET, WHICH CLOSED STRONG

NEW YORK, March 7—(AP)—Frequent shifts of speculative sentiment characterized today's stock market which closed with an outburst of strength in the face of another flurry in call money, from 10 to 12 per cent. Sales showed a marked reduction in volume, indicating that many traders, large and small, apparently have withdrawn from the market until the credit stringency has passed.

Total sales of 3,633,460 shares were among the smallest of any full session this year.

The weekly federal reserve statement on brokers' loans, issued after the close of the market, showed a gain of $140,000,000, much larger than expected, bringing the total on March 6 to $5,847,000,000, or just $22,000,000 below the high record established on February 6. This compares with a total of $5,686,000,000 on March 7, 1928.

The detailed figures showed an increase of $27,000,000 by banks for their own account, an increase of $14,000,000 for the account of out-of-town banks and an increase of $99,000,000 for the account of others. No change was made today in the 6 per cent. rediscount rate of the New York federal reserve bank.

One of the most interesting business developments of the day was the publication of the February report on steel ingot production, published by the Union Carbide. Studebaker and a number of other smaller corporations showing a gain of 275,000 tons, or about 10 per cent. over the corresponding month a year ago. Excellent 1928 earnings reports were published by the Union Carbide. Studebaker and a number of other smaller corporations. The U. S. Rubber report, released for morning newspapers, showed a loss of slightly more than $10,000,000 last year, but this had been generally anticipated.

Col. Robert W. Stewart lost his fight against the Rockefeller interests in the battle for control of the Standard Oil company of Indiana and William Childs apparently was defeated in his campaign to retain control of the restaurant chain bearing his name. Wall street was not surprised at either result, and many brokers frankly expressed pleasure that the controversies had been settled as the many charges and counter-charges were regarded as disturbing market factors.

Radio issues were the features of today's market. The old stock, which broke 18 points yesterday, rallied 37 today to 407, or just 6 1-2 points below the year's high, while the new stock showed a net gain of 7 3-4 at 81 3-4. Adams Express, which broke 45 points yesterday on one sale, rebounded 25 points on a turnover of less than 1,000 shares. Western Union was marked up more than 10 points to a new high record at 213 3-8, but lost part of its gain. Colorado Fuel advanced 5 points to a new high at 77 3-4.

Johns Manville broke 11 points to 162 1-2 on selling presumably influenced by the death of Theodore F. Merseles, head of the company, but recovered more than half its loss. U. S. Steel common rallied from a low of 181 5-8, $9 186 3-4, and closed at 184 1-4, up 1 3-4. Anaconda closed 2 1-2 points higher at 158 1-2 after having sold down to 154 1-2.

The Associated Press indices showed moderate gains for the 50 leading industrials, 20 rails and 20 public utilities.

High money rates caused a moderate recession in the leading foreign exchanges, with the Canadian dollar and the Spanish peseta sinking to new low levels for the year. Sterling cables were down to $4.85 1-8, or near the "gold import" point.

Cotton and wheat futures were heavily bought, the former advancing about $1 a bale and the latter a cent or more a bushel. Coffee futures dropped 14 to 22 points and sugar prices held fairly steady.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT FISH AND GAME HEARING

[illegible] bill was reported favorably by the committee on fish and game. Representative Wallace of Lebanon was also opposed to the change. He had lost his dog, he said, in the woods and he felt that the dog was chased by a deer. He said he had seen no dogs in the woods at all being chased by deer. He charged that the dogs were stolen from him. He was opposed by a large number of farmers as the bill deprived them of the privilege of killing dogs on their own premises. In defense of the proposed law, Mr. Wheeler, speaking as a sportsman, stated many details of hounding deer. He said he had seen a woman had been chased and worried until her husband came and killed the dog. Mr. Wheeler spoke in the records of the Connecticut Humane Society.

It was contended that the bill was unfair to the farmer, to the dogs, and was inhuman to the animals.

The bill was not intended to stop hounding but it required that it should be done in a humane way. A committee among as Nelson in favor of the bill, the bill most favored was as follows:

Section 1. Section 71 of chapter 309 of the public acts of 1925 as amended by chapter 112 of the public acts of 1927 is amended to read as follows: No person shall set any trap upon land of another without having in his possession the written permission of the owner or lessee of such land. And no person shall set any steel trap in any place save that in a box, stump or other place which will not injure any domestic animal, nor set any steel trap in any place where the bait is placed upon land which has recently stamped therein or provided that the landowner or his lessee may set such steel trap upon his own land within a radius of one hundred feet of any permanent building located on such land. No person who shall set any trap shall permit more than twenty-four hours to elapse between visits to such trap.

Section 2. Section 22 of the public acts of 1925 is amended to read as follows: No person shall kill, injure or take any bird with any shotgun or rifle and no person shall use any shotgun capable of firing more than three shots at any time, nor shall any person shoot at any bird on the water or while such bird is on land. No person shall be allowed to take any bird except between the hours of sunrise and sunset. Any bird or set in violation of any provision of this section shall be forfeited to the state.

HOUSE

The house was called to order at 11:30 by the speaker and prayer was offered by the chaplain.

The fish and game committee reported unfavorably on H. B. 238, 337 and 338, bills that reduced the license fees for hunting and fishing to $1.25, and repealed the need of a license to fish in inland waters having a line and all. The judiciary reported favorably on H. B. 10, providing for criminal libel of actions by attorneys in cases of divorce pending less than 30 days; H. B. 14 in reference to fees of divorce action pending less than 30 days; H. B. 30 providing for appointment of judges of city, town and borough courts on nomination by governor; H. B. 32, providing that judges of common pleas courts may make rules conforming practice of that court to practice of the superior court; H. B. 33, rules of the superior court; H. B. 34, and act concerning non-suits and withdrawals; H. B. 242 an act concerning [illegible]; H. B. 221, concerning clerk of court and jury fees; H. B. 222, concerning reclamation of appeals to supreme court; H. B. 241 an act concerning the setting aside of verdicts as against the evidence; H. B. 203, an act concerning taxation of a reasonable attorney's fee; H. B. 204, concerning duties of coroners; H. B. 213, an act concerning civil terms and sessions of superior court; H. B. 232, concerning notice to mortgagee for non-payment of taxes; H. B. 234, concerning [illegible] on mortgaged premises; H. B. 235, concerning [illegible]; H. B. 242, concerning [illegible] of mortgaged real estate; H. B. 242, concerning [illegible] contracts.

The finance committee refused to abolish the taxes on property belonging to St. Luke's Hospital of New York, located in Greenwich.

All bills from the senate were concurred in by the house. Resolutions of forfeited rights were voted to Raymond J. Porter of Hartford and Jean H. Christ of North Stonington.

The state parks and reservations committee reported favorably H. B. 179, an act providing for formation of cooperative forestry associations; H. B. 230, an act providing for the improvement of roads leading to state parks, it carries an appropriation of $50,000 and was referred to the appropriations committee.

H. B. 182, appropriation aid to the town of Windham for the care of paupers was voted.

A bill was passed that seeks to Charles B. Freeman of New York to build a treadle bridge from Mystic Island to Stonington to Deerfield Island.

Substitute for H. B. No. 100, An act establishing the East Haddam Improvement company to operate and distribute electricity, was passed on the report of the committee on incorporations.

Substitute for H. B. No. 116, An act concerning [illegible] incorporated in Charter Oak Title Guarantee and Security Company, passed on the report of the committee on incorporations.

Substitute for H. B. No. [illegible] concerning assessments on [illegible] and private airport of the Bloomfield Airplane Company, passed on the report of the committee on [illegible].

SENATE

The senate was called to order at 11:30 by President Hewes.

[illegible]

The bill reported by the judiciary council providing for the appointment of [illegible] was passed.

[illegible]

Bills Rejected

Other measures adversely reported upon were:

S. B. No. 160, concerning the discharge of attachments and levies of lis pendens, the act having been withdrawn.

S. B. No. 112, providing that when suit is ordered on foreclosure, judgment on the foreclosure should not be by any party in interest other than the plaintiff, there shall be allowed as credit as against the amount of a price in a deficiency judgment, was opposed in favor of this bill.

S. B. No. 121, amending the present laws governing quarantining of osteopaths and chiropractors, to prevent their admitting in the case to be affected thereon, the collection of [illegible] included in the report of public acts of 1927.

Passed From Calendar

Substitute for S. B. No. 117, providing for registration with the state department of health by physicians of certain diseases contracted by patients in employment, making such reports admissible in court or coroner's inquest, providing for fee of $2 for physicians for failure to report. Public health and safety.

S. B. No. 13, providing for compulsion to register of town where a court could within [illegible] years and registration of adoption to be made in register or assistant register of birth, copy to be sent to state department of health. Public health and safety.

Sub. S. B. No. 41, validating the holding of property having an annual income of more than $15,000. Incorporations.

S. B. No. 59, increasing the limit of capital stock of the Southern New England Telephone Company to $100,000,000. Incorporations.

Sub. S. B. No. 148, providing for regulation and inspection of slaughter houses by authorities of towns, cities or boroughs and penalties for violation of regulations prescribed. Public health and safety.

Bills Rejected

Senate Bill No. 37—Providing that any person already licensed to practice naturopathy or chiropractic shall not be required to obtain preliminary certificate required under public act 1927, chapter 236, before taking examinations to qualify as either naturopath or chiropractor, when such person is not already a [illegible].

Senate Bill No. 101—Providing that calves shipped into the state would have been inspected and passed by the United States federal inspector shall be exempted from strictly provisions of the statute dealing with diseased [illegible].

Senate Bill No. 133—Providing that the penalty imposed for sale or offering of diseased calf apply when weight is forty-five pounds instead of fifty-five pounds.

Senate Bill No. 114—Making the [illegible] the signature of the coroner before the burial permit is issued. Public health and safety.

The following references of note were made:

Senate Bill No. 110—Public health and safety to judiciary, exemption from payment of annual registration fee all persons practicing any branch of the healing arts who have retired from practice of [illegible] and who desire to retain registration; and adding midwifery, chiropody and nursing to the list of those required to be registered.

Senate Bill No. 115 requiring optometrists to register annually.

An attempt of Senator Thomas H. Cotter to broaden the reasons for challenge in the qualification of jurors was defeated in the senate today. Since the bill was rejected. The bill sought a change in the present system of qualification under which a question asked by the plaintiff's lawyer in a case is admitted at the discretion of the court.

This would prevent mistrials, Senator Cotter said.

The senate adjourned at 12:41 until tomorrow morning at 11:15.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT FISH AND GAME HEARING

ing was found caught in a steel trap and the leg badly injured.

Mr. Daniels of Lyme was opposed to the bill and said the damage done by roaming dogs more than offset the danger from the traps and spoke of one case where 99 sheep "the noblest animals of them all" were killed by three dogs. If only twelve traps are allowed, the trapper will go out of existence, avowed Mr. Daniels. Lafayette Main of North Stonington was also opposed to the bill. He claimed he had lost 153 sheep by wandering dogs. He had trapped 16 foxes, 10 wild cats and 9 owls and 2 hawks on his property, all being a menace to game. He charged that he had had 150 traps stolen from him.

The bill was opposed by a large number of farmers as the bill deprived them of the privileges belonging to them. In defense of the proposed H. B. 297, ex-Senator Wheeler spoke vigorously, giving many details of injuries received by being caught in traps. In one instance a woman had been caught and was held until her husband came and released her.

Ex-Senator Wheeler spoke in the interests of the Connecticut Humane society.

He contended that the bill was fair to the farmer, to the trapper and was humane to the animals.

The bill was not intended to stop trapping but it required that it should be done in a humane way. A great majority arose as being in favor of the bill. The bill most favored was as follows:

Section 1. Section 21 of chapter 259 of the public acts of 1923 as amended by chapter 192 of the public acts of 1927 is amended to read as follows: No person shall set any trap upon the land of another without having in his possession the written permission of the owner or lessee of such land, and no person shall set any steel trap in any other place than in a pond, stream, or any tributary thereto, or in the burrow of a wild animal, nor set any such steel trap not having the name of the person using such trap legibly stamped thereon provided that the landowner or his legal occupant may set such steel trap in any place within a radius of one hundred feet of any permanent building located on such land. No person who shall set any trap shall permit more than twenty-four hours to elapse between visits to such trap.

Section 2. Section 23 of the public acts of 1923 is amended to read as follows: No person shall set, place or locate any trap with any scent or scented bait, and no person shall set, place, maintain or attend any steel trap having a spread of jaws of more than six inches, or any steel trap having teeth, and no animal shall be snared, and no snare or similar device for taking any animal shall be set, placed or used where any animal may be taken. Any trap used or set in violation of any provision of this section shall be forfeited to the state.

HOUSE

The house was called to order at 11:15 by the speaker and prayer was offered by the chaplain.

The fish and game committee reported unfavorably on H. B. 529, 537 and 538, bills that reduced the license fees on hunters and anglers to $1.25, and repealed the need of a license to fish in tidal waters having a rise and fall.

The judiciary reported unfavorably on H. B. 10, Providing for examination of jurors by presiding judge; H. B. 14, no reference to referee of divorce action pending less than 90 days; H. B. 20 providing for appointment of judges of city, town and borough courts on nomination by governor; H. B. 29, providing that judges of common pleas courts may make rules concerning practice if they do not conflict with rules of the superior court; H. B. 32, an act concerning non-suits and withdrawals; H. B. 243, an act concerning wage garnishments; H. B. 251, concerning clerk of court and jury fees; H. B. 252, concerning rectification of appeals to supreme court; H. B. 591, an act concerning the setting aside of verdicts as against the evidence; H. B. 603, an act concerning taxation of a reasonable attorney's fee; H. B. 605, concerning duties of coroners; H. B. 818, an act concerning civil terms and sessions of superior court; H. B. 827, concerning notice to mortgage for permits to remodel; H. B. 834, concerning unlawful waste on mortgaged premises; H. B. 835, concerning change of character of mortgaged real estate; H. B. 842, concerning building contracts.

The finance committee refused to abate the taxes on property belonging to St. Luke's hospital of New York, located in Greenwich.

All bills from the senate were concurred in by the house. Restoration of forfeited rights were voted to Raymond J. Porter of Hartford and John H. Christ of North Stonington.

The state parks and reservations committee reported favorably, H. B. 179, an act providing for formation of co-operative Forestry associations and H. B. 690, an act providing for the improvement of roads leading to state parks. It carries an appropriation of $50,000 and was recommitted to appropriations committees.

H. B. 162, appropriating $329 to the town of Windham for the care of paupers was voted.

A bill was passed that permits Clayton E. Freeman of New York to build a trestle bridge from the mainland at Stonington to Ledward Island.

Bills passed from the calendar were:

Substitute for H. B. No. 382. An act authorizing the East Hartland Improvement company to purchase and distribute electricity. Favorable report of the committee on incorporations.

Substitute for H. B. No. 214. An act amending an act incorporating the Charter Oak Title Guarantee and Fidelity company. Favorable report of the committee on incorporations.

Substitute for H. B. No. 492. An act concerning assessments for grading and paving of streets in the town of Bloomfield. Favorable report of the committee on cities and boroughs.

SENATE

The senate was called to order by Lieutenant-Governor Rogers at 11:15. Chaplain Ayer offered prayer.

The bill presented by the judicial council providing for the appointment of minor court judges by the governor with the approval of the general assembly, was rejected in the state senate today.

Reporting unfavorably on the judgeship bill, Senate Chairman Peasley of the judiciary committee said the committee felt that the constitution of the state required these appointments by the general assembly. Although Senator Thomas J. Conroy pointed out that the judicial council wanted this bill passed in order to take these appointments out of politics, the bill was rejected without further remarks.

Originally, the state constitution provided that all judges be appointed by the general assembly, Senator Peasley explained. Later the constitution was amended so that the governor might appoint higher court judges. "It was conceded by the advocates of that measure that nomination by the governor is for all practical purposes an appointment by the governor and the general assembly is merely to sign on the dotted line," he said. "If the assembly releases its present powers, the constitution will not be complied with. However, of course, the general assembly has the power to give the governor or anyone else it desires this authority."

Bills Rejected

Other measures rejected on unfavorable report of the judiciary committee were:

S. B. No. 134, providing for an appeal from ruling on admissability of evidence in all actions may be had without taking exception thereto during the trial.

S. B. No. 227, concerning the discharge of attachments and notice of lis pendens, the bill having been withdrawn.

S. B. No. 442, providing that when a sale is ordered in a foreclosure judgment on the application for such sale by any party in interest other than the plaintiff, there shall be allowed no credit as between the appraised and sale price in a deficiency judgment. No one appeared in favor of this bill.

S. B. No. 237, amending the present laws governing qualifications of naturopaths and chiropractors to practice eliminating, in the case of those already licensed, the educational requirements included in chapter 317, public acts of 1927.

Passed From Calendar

The following bills were taken from the calendar and passed:

Substitute for S. B. No. 147, providing for registration with the state department of health by physicians of certain diseases contracted by patients in employment; making such reports admissable in court or compensation court; providing for fee for filing and penalty for failure to report. Public health and safety.

S. B. No. 248, providing for notification to registrar of town where adopted child was born by probate court and registration of adoption to be made by registrar or original certificate of birth, copy to be filed with state department of health. Public health and safety.

Sub. S. B. No. 37, validating the holding of property having an annual income of more than $15,000. Incorporations.

S. B. No. 39, increasing the limit of capital stock of the Southern New England Telephone company to $100,000,000. Incorporations.

Sub. S. B. No. 148, providing for regulation and inspection of slaughter houses by authorities of towns, cities or boroughs and penalties for violation of regulations prescribed. Public health and safety.

Bills Rejected

Senate Bill No. 247—Providing that any person already licensed to practice naturopathy or chiropractic shall not be required to obtain prerequisite certificate required under public act of 1927, chapter 296, before taking examinations to qualify as either naturopath or chiropractor, in which branch such person is not already licensed.

Senate Bill No. 354—Providing that calves shipped into the state which have been inspected and passed by the United States federal inspector shall be exempted from penalty provisions of the statute dealing with diseased flesh.

Senate Bill No. 353—Providing that the penalty imposed for sale or shipment of diseased calf apply when weight is forty-five pounds instead of fifty-five pounds.

Senate Bill No. 492—Making necessary the signature of the undertaker before the burial permit is issued. Public health and safety.

The following references of bills were made:

Senate Bill No. 240—Public health and safety to judiciary, exempting from payment of annual registration fee all persons practicing any branch of the healing arts who have retired from practice or moved out of the state, but who desire to retain registration; and adding midwifery, chiropody and nursing to the list of those required to be registered.

Senate Bill No. 479, requiring osteopaths to register annually.

An attempt of Senator Thomas J. Conroy to broaden the reasons for challenge in the qualification of jurors was defeated in the senate today when his bill was rejected. The bill sought a change in the present system of qualification under which a question asked by the plaintiff's lawyer in a case is admitted at the discretion of the court.

"This would prevent mistrials," Senator Conroy said.

The senate adjourned at 12:14 until tomorrow morning at 11:15.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Howler the Wolf

A reputation travels far;
Be careful, therefore, what you are.
—Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit was not the only one interested in Mrs. and Mrs. Wanderer the Evening Grosbeaks. The other feathered folk were very apt to gather around. Even Happy Jack Squirrel would sit where he could listen. So it was that when Wanderer good naturedly began to tell Peter Rabbit about Howler the Wolf, there were quite a number of listeners. They didn't appear to be listening. Goodness, no. They pretended to be eating. But they were all near enough to hear what was being said. Peter Rabbit had said that he wished Wanderer would tell him about Howler the Wolf.

"Howler," began Wanderer, "is big and gray."

"How big?" asked Peter.

"Bigger than Bowser the Hound," replied Wanderer, who had already learned Bowser's name.

"What does he look like?" Peter asked eagerly.

"Much like his cousin, Old Man Coyote, only ever so much bigger. You know Old Man Coyote is really a Wolf—the Prairie Wolf," said Wanderer.

"Does he live in the Forest?" Peter asked.

"That depends," replied Wanderer. "Way up North he does. But out in the Far West he lives where there is very little forest. But wherever he lives, he is feared, for he is very fierce and very strong and very swift of foot and he is very, very smart. Only the Bears and Fathorns the Moose and Puma the Panther are afraid of Howler. Even Fathorns the Moose, when he is without his great antlers, and snow is deep, has reason to fear Howler and his family. For Howler seldom hunts alone. Usually Howler and Mrs. Howler and their grown children hunt together."

"I've heard about Fathorns the Moose, but I have never seen him," said Peter. "Is he really so very big? Is he so very much bigger than Lightfoot the Deer?"

"You know how big horses are, don't you?" asked Wanderer.

Peter nodded. "Of course," said he. "Everybody knows how big horses are."

"Well," replied Wanderer. "Fathorns the Moose is as big as a good-sized horse."

"And do you mean to tell me that such a big fellow as that is afraid of Howler the Wolf?" demanded Peter, looking as if he very much doubted it.

"Does he live in the Green Forest?" Peter asked

"I certainly do," replied Wanderer. "He isn't afraid of Howler, excepting when he is without his great antlers. But you know he drops his antlers just as Lightfoot the Deer drops his. Then he has only his sharp-edged hoofs with which to defend himself. If the snow is deep, he cannot use these very well. Of course, Howler and his family have to be very ugly to attack Fathorns. But they often attack young Moose and Mrs. Fathorns."

"And can they really kill such big folks?" Peter persisted.

"Certainly," replied Wanderer.

"Then Lightfoot the Deer would be afraid of Howler. He isn't much afraid of Old Man Coyote," said Peter.

"Indeed he would be," replied Wanderer. "Howler's favorite dinner is of deer meat."

"I don't see how that can be," replied Peter. "Lightfoot is so swift that he could run away."

"Not from Howler the Wolf," declared Wanderer. "I told you that Howler is very swift of foot and very cunning. When a pack of Wolves—and that means Howler and his family—once start out on the trail of a Deer, that Deer is fortunate indeed, if he escapes."

DISCOMFORTS OF STORM DURING SATURDAY EVENING

It was unpleasant and dangerous going with motor cars Saturday evening, but there have been no accidents reported here.

Ralph Bradway attended a business meeting of the Tolland county farm bureau directors held in North Coventry Saturday afternoon. He arrived home safely about 6.30 p. m. and made the journey to his own driveway without chains. Here, in the blinding storm, his car ran a little out of the "beaten track" and he had to adjust chains to finish the home run.

One couple who started as usual to do Saturday evening marketing at Stafford Springs concluded to turn back, although their trip was wholly on the Buckley highway. Before they arrived home the storm was so blinding that it was difficult to tell where they were.

There was no service at the church Surday, although the day was mild and sunny. It took till noon to open up the side roads (by horse scrapers) for car traffic.

Monday afternoon there was a good attendance at the town meeting held at the town hall. Monday night and all Tuesday rain was falling most of the time, turning to snow before dawn Wednesday. Wednesday morning was a scene from fairyland, with the old snow blanketed with several inches of new covering and every branch and twig loaded with pure white fluffiness. Over all this beauty was the bright sunshine, augmented by a deep blue sky.

The inauguration exercises in Washington were heard by radio in various parts of town. At the home of Ralph Bradway Mrs. Ella Bradway of this town Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Simonds, their son Carl and Mrs. Jennie Bradway of Stafford joined the family group in the enjoyment of inauguration.

The home economics meeting scheduled for Tuesday afternoon, March 5 was postponed because of unfavorable weather and road conditions. Mrs. Sarl W. Dimock was to have given a demonstration on laundering.

No matter how much a man wants in this world he is usually compelled to put up with what he gets.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Mrs. Meyers—What is your husband's average income?

Mrs. Bevers—Oh, about one a. m.—The Pathfinder.

Dutt—What will the modern girl be twenty years from now?

Kin—Oh, about three years older.—Gryphon.

First Young Mother—Can Willie walk yet?

Second Young Mother—Walk? He can't even drive a car yet.—Piccolo, Antwerp.

Applicant (seeking maid)—I am very nervous and require one who will be very calm and never answer back.

Agent—I have the very thing—a former telephone operator.—Le Petit Bleu.

Mrs. A—You say you were up half the night with the baby. What was the trouble?

Mrs. B—My husband was away on a trip.—Boston Transcript.

"What's this man charged with?"

"He's a camera fiend of the worst type, your honor."

"But you can't arrest a man because he has a craze for taking pictures."

"Quite true, your honor, but you see he takes cameras."—Exchange.

Lady (at hardware counter)—My husband wants three pounds of nails.

Clerk—What kind—8-penny, 16-penny or 12-penny?

"Well he always gets the best. I'll take the 12-penny kind.—Omaha Bee.

Mr. Pester—Ah, Honey! You are still worth your weight in gold to me.

His Wife—I think you're perfectly horrid. You told me that years ago, and everything has gone up frightfully since then.—Detroit News.

Japan's chief export product is silk.

The first juvenile court in Italy has been established in Milan.

China has about one mile of railroad to each 200 square miles of its area.

The chief fur-bearing animals raised in the United States are the muskrat, skunk, opossum and raccoon.

Mrs. Leah Arcuet Chiles of Kenilworth was elected to be the first woman mayor in North Carolina.

A bas-relief panel of lions unearthed at Beisan is pronounced by archaeologists the finest sculpture ever found in Palestine and the equal of the best Egyptian art.

A hen, not an ostrich, owned by Glenn McDonald, Glenburn farmer, surprised him by laying an egg 10 1-2 inches in circumference and 7 1-2 inches long. There were really two eggs, a perfectly-formed one being found within the outer shell.

Two horned toads, deserted by their owner when he checked out of a Bathstrike. The best cuisine of the steer strike. The haute cuisine of the strike failed to tempt them. Expert advice from the Museum of Natural Sciences had it that worms and flies and ants were the staples of the common or garden variety of horned toads' diet. But even such a menu would not induce the abandoned pair to eat and so they were sent to the museum for more expert treatment.

"No hunting" signs, say J. W. Wilson and George Wheeler, cast a shadow on the hospitality of the Ozarks. On the Wheeler farm signs invite you to hunt all you please and then ask you to come to the house for dinner. Wilson extended his invitation through a newspaper adv. that reads: "Piney Valley, Mo.: Hunt all you darn please on my land and when you get varmints enough caught bring them to the house and skin them and get a short of Bull's Herbs and Iron. —J. W. Wilson."

REV. C. H. RICKETTS SPEAKER AT ROTARY MEETING

The weekly meeting of the Norwich Rotary club held Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel was featured by very interesting talk by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church. Rev. Mr. Ricketts took for his subject "United Effort for the Betterment of Norwich."

The speaker mentioned four ways in which the community effort could be directed, the material, the social, the intellectual and the spiritual. In speaking of the material Rev. Mr. Ricketts spoke of improved and uniform sidewalks, better street signs and street lighting. The social angle dealt with the service clubs, the spiritual with better attendance and the intellectual with the school system, the latter being highly praised by the speaker.

At the business session Vice President J. W. Curtis presided and Arnold Smith was the song leader. William G. Park, chairman of the committee in charge of the Lawrence Tibbett concert announced that tickets for the concert could be exchanged on Tuesday, March 12th, at the Cranston Co. Secretary Davis read several communications from the district governor and from the Bridgeport club.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

Superior Court Suit Withdrawn.

A suit for $2,500 damages brought by John H. Doyle of New London against the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance company, has been withdrawn without costs from the docket of the superior court according to papers filed with Clerk John H. Walker in this city Wednesday.

Mr. Doyle claimed that the defendant failed to pay a $2,000 policy following the death of Michael J. Doyle Nov. 7, 1926.

Pimples

Pimples vanish like magic with the new remedy called Kitagran—a pleasant, harmless tablet easy to take. It clears up the impurities in the blood so quickly that pimples often disappear within 24 hours. Kitagran can be obtained at Lee & Osgood Co., and leading druggists, who will return purchase price if you are not thoroughly satisfied.

BANISH THAT EXTRA FAT

Do it in the easy, pleasant way, in the modern, scientific way. Not by abnormal exercise or diet, but by combating the great cause of excess fat.

That way is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. So now you can see, on every hand, the results this method brings. New beauty, new health, new vitality. If you envy those results, learn the way to get them.

A book in every box of Marmola tells you the formula, also the reasons for all it does. You will have no fear of harm. Get it today and watch the results. Learn how much it means to you in many ways. Do this for those who wish to admire you. Just ask your druggist for a $1 box of Marmola.

NEW LONDON GETTING BETTER BUT MANY UNEMPLOYED SEEK SHELTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 7—Not a single prisoner occupied a cell at police headquarters tonight, although several vagrants were given shelter in the tramp room, since the low temperature caused unfortunates to seek a place of warmth and shelter for the night. The tramp room, in fact, has housed unemployed more during the past six weeks than at any time during the winter.

Weather Vagaries

This city experienced a variety of weather today and part of it gave many residents a reminder of the blizzard of March 12, 1888. Early in the forenoon indications were that an ideal day would result for the temperature was exceedingly comfortable. About 9 o'clock a windstorm developed and a hard snow flurry accompanied the high winds, the snow falling thick and fast 15 minutes. Soon afterwards the sun appeared and for an hour and a half excellent weather conditions prevailed. Shortly after 11 o'clock another hard snow flurry occurred, not lasting as long as the one earlier in the day. From that time until nightfall a strong wind and next to freezing temperature was the case. Tonight there were intervals of snow flurries, but none of them resembling the two that occurred during the forenoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus W. Brown have returned to their home on Broad street after having spent several weeks at Winter Garden, Fla.

At the meeting of the Harbour club, at the club house last night, Lieut. Commander R. A. Deming, U. S. N. gave an interesting talk on naval activities. A major portion of his address was devoted to the many recent improvements on submarines.

At this week's meeting of the Lions' club plans were made for holding a concert at the Garde theatre. It was announced that several well known radio artists have been engaged for the event.

Peter C. Ward, 49 Channing street, reported to the police this afternoon that a thief, probably a youth, had entered the yard of the former's home and stolen a sidewalk bicycle used by Mr. Ward's little son. The police have received numerous complaints of this nature of late, indicating that someone is making a practice of stealing children's wheel toys.

A force of city laborers has been engaged for several days making temporary repairs to streets in the central part of the city. In many places the macadam has been depressions that make it dangerous for automobiles, as springs are apt to be broken. In such places the holes have been filled with sand. Before spring is ended the working force will be used in making more substantial repairs to many of the streets, particularly Pequot, Montauk and Ocean avenues. Montauk avenue is already in need of urgent repair, although sand has been used on that thoroughfare to remedy some of the depressions.

John N. Leverone, 23 Tilley street, returned to this city this evening, having attended the funeral of a relative in New York today.

Mrs. Otis Simpson and infant daughter, of 8 Schoolhouse lane; Mrs. John Killeen and infant daughter, Uncasville, and Mrs. Charles Cushman, 4 Morse street, Groton, patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

FUNERALS

Leon M. Culver,

The funeral of Leon M. Culver, of Leppard, who died from pneumonia earlier in the week, at Lawrence Memorial hospital, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, at 15 Masonic street, the services being conducted by Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of Groton Heights Baptist church. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Starr cemetery, Groton, where the committal service was conducted by Fairview lodge of Odd Fellows.

Mrs. George E. Summerton

The funeral of Sarah E., widow of George E. Summerton, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, at her home, 28 Dodge avenue. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles Smith, of Uncasville. Burial was in Comstock cemetery, Montville.

OBITUARY

Mavis E. Dean

Mavis Elizabeth, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Dean, of 41 Broad street, Groton, died today at the parents' home.

Mrs. John J. Penders

Mrs. Ellen Penders, about 45, widow of John J. Penders, died last night at her home, 11 Mountain avenue, after an illness of about two months. Besides her husband, Mrs. Penders is survived by four brothers, John Shea, Westerly; Daniel Shea, New York and Jeremiah and Patrick Shea, of this city, and by a sister, Mrs. Mary Sullivan, of Westerly. Mrs. Penders was born in Ireland, but had resided in New London 20 years, moving to this city from Westerly.

Herbert E. Turner

Herbert E. Turner, 69, well known resident at Lakes Pond, Montville, who died this morning, is survived by his wife and a daughter, Mrs. Everett Thompson, of Montville. Mr. Turner was born in Montville and always resided in that town. He was a farmer and continued that employment until incapacitated by ill health.

MRS JOHN GARLINGTON DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 7—Mrs. Margaret Moxam Garlington, 76, wife of John Garlington, died this afternoon at her home, 52 Summit avenue, following an illness of four years. For the past three weeks Mrs. Garlington has been in a state of coma. She is survived, besides her husband, by six daughters, Mrs. Fred Fields, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Mary Hull, Hartford; Mrs. Alice Counihan and Mrs. Annie Daboll, of this city; Mrs. Helen Lesner, Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. Gordon M. Huntington, of Norwich. Mrs. Garlington was born in Blackburne, England, but had resided in this country 47 years. She was a member of St. James' Episcopal church, New London.

Mrs. Henry Clay

Mrs. Alice E. Clay, 84, widow of Henry Clay, died this noon at her home, 33 Fremont street. She had long been in ill health, but had partially recovered and until about a week ago, was able to be about the home. Mrs. Clay is survived by a daughter, Mrs. C. B. Pengar, 27 Post Hill place, four grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. The body will be forwarded to Springfield, Mass., for cremation, according to Mrs. Clay's wishes. Mrs. Clay was born at St. Eustatius, Dutch West Indies, Aug. 16, 1844, the daughter of James J. and Alice Selig Avery. For the past 28 years she had made her residence in New London, prior to which time, for many years, she was a resident of New Bedford, Mass.

Mrs. William H. Hutchinson

News has been received in New London of the death, at Mercerville, N. J., of Mrs. William H. Hutchinson, mother of Mrs. Roy C. Barker, of 483 Williams street. Mrs. Barker was called to the bedside of her mother yesterday.

Aubrey Sanford has returned to his home, on Pearl street, having visited for two days in New York.

Daniel S. Marsh has caused a release of attachment to be made against Mrs. Anna M. Richardson, a record of which was filed in the office of the city clerk today. A suit for damages against Mrs. Richardson was pending in a justice court, but the case has been settled by the payment of the claim with interest.

Jacquin and Mary E. Bridges have sold three building lots on Briggs street to Anne Sauerzopf.

The Goldsmith Realty company has granted a renewal of lease to the Economy Grocery company, 26 Main street.

Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander today ordered a release of tax warrant against William Vogel. Property owned by Vogel was recently ordered sold at public auction because of taxes not having been paid. Since then the tax has been paid.

Paul McGuire, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. McGuire, 50 Georgiana street, pursuing studies at New York, was recently initiated into Delta Upsilon.

SAILORS ESCORT BODY OF C. C. KING TO TRAIN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 7—The body of Charles C. King, machinist first class, stationed at the submarine base, who was struck and killed by a New Haven railroad train while walking on Winthrop's Cove trestle Thursday night, was forwarded to Schroonlake, N. Y., this afternoon, the body being placed aboard the train leaving New London at 5:36 o'clock. The body was escorted by a battalion of sailors from the base, leaving the undertaking establishment a half hour prior to the arrival of the train and remaining as a guard of honor at the station until the casket was placed aboard the train.

At a meeting of New London chapter, American Red Cross, held in the Mariners Savings bank yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Maurice Sherman was appointed roll call chairman. She will begin organizing a campaign for next November.

Join Murphy-Rathburn Post

At the meeting of the Ladies' auxiliary of Murphy-Rathburn post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, held last night in the post rooms, five candidates were initiated. Plans were made for a whist to be held next week and Mrs. Nellie Balcom was appointed chairman of the committee.

The Woman's auxiliary to Home Memorial hospital is to hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon, preceded by a sewing meeting.

FRIENDS COME TO THE AID OF FISH BOAT ROUGHNECKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 7—Herbert Anderson and Donald Griffin, employed on one of the fishing steamers at the American Fisheries Co. Groton, were in the police court today charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. Each was fined $20 and costs. They were prevented from going to jail only because friends came to their rescue. Anderson and Griffin were about the city last night and indulged in much strong drink. About 3 o'clock this morning they went to the lodging house, 18 State street, conducted by Morris Agin and there created a disturbance for they went to Agin's room where they attacked him and started to administer a sound thrashing for no real cause. Agin ran to the street and summoned the police. Anderson and Griffin were arrested by Patrolmen Dennis Cavanaugh, William Riordan and Dennis Murphy.

The only other cases tried were those of three men charged with intoxication, each was given suspensions of judgment. One of the drunks was arrested on State street by Patrolman Lawrence Fardy and had been drinking bay rum. Another was taken from the New Haven railroad train that arrived in this city from New York at 7.20 o'clock, he having created a disturbance between New Haven and New London. The other was arrested last night on Main street.

DIOCESAN BUREAU DRIVE FOR $5,600 TO START MONDAY

With $5,600 as its goal the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service at its Jay street headquarters last night formulated plans for an intensive ten day drive for subscriptions. The meeting was largely attended by men and women of St. Mary's and St. Joseph's parishes and considerable enthusiasm was manifested. Attorney Frank L. McGuire was named general chairman of the committee which will have charge of the drive. Miss Delia Moroney was elected secretary and treasurer. Ward chairmen, who will have charge of the solicitation in their respective districts, were chosen as follows: First ward—Mrs. Frank E. G. Douglas. Second ward—Mrs. Alice Savaye. Third ward—Mrs. James N. Kelley. Fourth ward—Mrs. John Burke. Fifth ward—Mrs. C. A. Carr.

Each chairman was authorized to select ten solicitors to assist in calling on prospects. The drive will start Monday next.

BULKELEY BOY'S WON'T PEACH—SO 25 ARE SUSPENDED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 7—Twenty-five members of the senior class at Bulkeley school were suspended for an indefinite period today by Headmaster Homer K. Underwood. Yesterday while in a French class, a student prankfully let loose an ill smelling bomb which he had made by securing a quantity of hydrogen sulphide from the chemical laboratory and having placed it in a test tube, brought it to the lecture room. The act was discovered when Track Coach Hamin happened to enter the room. Prof. Underwood was notified and when the students steadfastly refused to disclose the identity of the offending student he ordered them from the school. Several of the students suspended were to take part in a declamation contest Friday and a number are in the annual senior play.

New Organ For St. Mary's

A new electric organ is to be installed in St. Mary's church which will be as fine as any in the diocese. The old instrument is now being taken out preparatory to the arrival of the one recently purchased by the rector of the parish, Rev. Timothy M. Crowley.

At the meeting of Star of the Sea branch, Ladies' Catholic Benevolent society, held last night in Eagles' hall, resolutions on the death of two former members, Mrs. Margaret Hogan and Mrs. Abby Doran, were adopted.

The recently organized Boys' club of New London plans to hold a bridge and whist party.

A large number of local guests were present at a supper and meeting of Hope lodge, Rebekahs, held in Norwich last night.

Members of the John Winthop club and their wives plan to hold a supper and bridge March 16.

Fifty persons were present at a town meeting of the borough of Groton held at the town hall, Poquonoc bridge last night. At the meeting a 27 mill town tax was levied and an appropriation was made for $3000 to pay the expense of reassessing the town. Town Clerk Bailey also made it known that an additional appropriation for schools is called for in the current budget.

More than fifty members of the Alumnae association of Lawrence Memorial hospital attended the meeting held last night in the recreation room of the institution. Dr. Alfred Labensky gave an interesting talk on laboratory work. Miss Gertrude Osborn, supervisor of the Visiting Nurse association also addressed the gathering. Miss Catherine Sullivan, president of the association, presided at the meeting.

Request M. E. Pastor's Return

At the annual meeting and fourth quarterly conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, held by the district superintendent, Rev. Myron E Genter, of Norwich, in the church parlors last night, it was unanimously voted to request Rev. Charles E. Spaulding's return for another year's services in the pastorate. The annual report of the pastor showed that at present there were 649 members and 101 preparatory members. Dr. Spaulding reported 1790 pastoral calls during the year.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

St. Mary's Players

The following is the cast of The Whole Town's Talking, the play to be presented by St. Mary's Players at the Palace theatre, March 20. Messrs. Edward Connelly, Dr. Andrew Sullivan, Robert Enright, John Keenan, James Barry. The Misses Theresa Portelance, Parmelia DeRosie, Eileen Hinchey, Mary Keenan, Veronica Roberts, Mary Weller, Doris White. This is a capable cast, one of the best which this organization has assembled. A pleasant evening is assured all who will see this show. The play itself is a good one. It will be fittingly staged, and with this cast the roles will be excellently portrayed. Be sure and see it.

Broadway Theatre

"The Redeeming Sin" is especially fortunate—possessing as it does the most beautiful star of the screen—a leading man who is without doubt the supreme talking picture favorite—a strong story of sustained and thrilling interest, and the able direction of Howard Bretherton.

Added to this "The Redeeming Sin" is the most satisfying of all Vitaphone pictures to date. Voices of the players—all trained voices—are eminently successful in the dialogue—the symphonic accompaniment is splendidly interpretative of all the changing moods of the story, and natural sounds are reproduced with uncanny verity.

Miss Costello has never had a part which calls for such tempestuous use of her powers of interpretation. She is cast as a dancer in a haunt of the Parisian underworld, in a weird company of women of the streets, thieves, gamblers, and all the hodgepodge of the slums. Her deepest love is expended upon a small brother, her hatred on Lupine, a thief, who tries to dominate her life, and on Mitzi, the young woman who is teaching the little brother to be a pickpocket.

The good angels of her life are an aged priest and a young doctor who is called when the child has been accidentally shot. The conflict between the elements of good and evil for the soul of the dancer is stirring beyond belief, and as we said before Dolores Costello has never given such high proof of her emotional genius, her wistful loveliness being only heightened by the contrast. Here is a picture worth your while. See and hear "The Redeeming Sin."

Palace Theatre

The Chicago Stock company has scored a great hit at the Palace theatre and large houses have been the rule all this week and judging from the advance sales the next three performances will tax the popular playhouse to its capacity.

Tonight the attraction is the New York Klaw theater hit entitled, "That's Her Weakness, Now." It is the story of a 1929 girl who wanted to go to places and do things. Solomon in all his wisdom knew only half as much as she, when it came to telling the boy friend the right dope on who's who and why. She wanted to be good and she would be good but, Oh Gee. The play permits the introduction of nifty stage settings a gorgeous display of wardrobe and great parts for the entire cast.

Tomorrow the farewell production the New York Gaiety theater hit "Why Girls Walk Home," which was written by Edgar Selwyn the author of "Dancing Mothers," "Any Thing Might Happen" and a score or more of successful plays. The story is of a girl that forgot her roller skates and, well you know the answer, she had to walk. It is snappy up to date and is a cracking two and a half hours entertainment.

If you have not already secured your seats, takes the Palace tip and do so at once. Worthwhile entertainment awaits you.

$45,000 VIOLIN TO BE HEARD ON WEAF

Before the radio was known, Stradivarius made this violin. Joseph Joachim, the world's greatest violinist, used it. Mischa Elman gained his reputation on it. Now, this 207-year-old violin, which is part of the famous Wurlitzer collection, will be played before its largest audience by Hugo Mariani during the concert of his 36-piece orchestra in their White House Coffee Dinner Concert at 6.30 Saturday night, March 9, on the above station. This program is produced under the auspices of the National Broadcasting Co. and associated stations.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Reo Motor Car Co.

A noteworthy step in the manufacturing operations of the famous Cheney Brothers corporation at Manchester is the decision of the silk manufacturers to enter the automobile field. Not in the sense that cars will be built but through their participation with the Reo Motor Car company of Lansing, Michigan, in presenting a new conception in motor car luxury to the public. The Cheney Brothers product, known the world over as "Cheney Silk," is used in the manufacture of various merchandise.

The advent of Cheney Brothers into the automobile field, however, marks an innovation for the big Manchester plant and opens up a new field in their industry. The introduction of the name "Cheney" into the automobile building activities of the Reo Motor Car company can be traced directly to the constantly increasing influence which women are exerting today in the purchase of automobiles. Women of fashion desire the accessories of her daily life to express her taste and personality and between Cheney Brothers of Manchester and the Reo Motor Car company of Lansing, Michigan, it is now possible for her to accomplish this in the car she drives.

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The storm that was central over the Gulf of St. Lawrence Wednesday night has moved northeastward toward Greenland. The storm that was over the lake region has moved rapidly eastward to Nova Scotia with a further increase in intensity. This storm has caused westerly gales east of the Mississippi river, except in the extreme south. The highest velocity reported being 56 miles an hour from the west at Buffalo.

Generally fair weather will prevail Friday in the Washington forecast district, but the continued advance of the western disturbance will be attended by considerable cloudiness Friday and rain is probable as far east as the Appalachian region Saturday and in the Atlantic states Saturday night or Sunday. The temperature will rise throughout the Washington forecast district Saturday.

North of Sandy Hook: Northwest gales diminishing and partly overcast weather Friday.

Forecast

For southern New England: Fair and continued cold Friday; Saturday increasing cloudiness and warmer probably followed by rain Saturday night.

COYLE'S HARMONY BOYS HOLD WEEKLY REHEARSAL

Raymond Coyle's Harmony Boys held their regular weekly rehearsal Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. William Barwell on Central avenue. After rehearsal refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. George Barwell and Mrs. Bernard Coyle. The orchestra was formed by Mr. Coyle about 14 months ago and his players are all students at the Norwich Free Academy.

Lenten devotions were held at St. Marys Memorial church Wednesday evening, which consisted of rosary, benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament and sermon delivered by Rev. John Flint, pastor of St. Grace's church, Fishers Island, with his topic for the evening being the "Church."

Anthony Pusateria, who underwent a serious operation for appendicitis at Backus hospital Wednesday, is resting as comfortably as can be expected. Mr. Pusateria is the son of Mrs. F. Pusateria of Central avenue.

Joseph Nolan of Fishers Island spent Wednesday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Nolan, on Fifth street.

Miss Margaret Delaney has returned to her home on Prospect street after spending a few days with relatives in New York city.

Mrs. Harold Desmond and daughters, Misses Mary and Ann Desmond, of Golden street, were guests of Mrs. Desmond's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Le Clair at Jewett City, Thursday.

TAFTVILLE

The members of Council Gaznon, No. 28, Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique held their monthly business meeting Thursday evening with a large attendance.

The Euskotey club met Thursday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

Mr. and Mrs. George Zuerner and son of Wilkesbarre, Pa., are guests of Mr. Zuerner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Zuerner and family of Germania avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Daigneault and family of South Third avenue are moving this week to the new house which they recently built on the Newent road in Taftville.

Quintin Atkins of New York has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Atkins, of South Second avenue this week.

On Wednesday evening the members of the Independent Order of Foresters held their monthly business meeting.

Miss Fannie Chykow, who has been a patient at the William W. Backus hospital, has returned to her home in Versailles.

News has been received in the village of the death of the mother of Miss Isabel Thomson in Glasgow, Scotland. Miss Thomson, a resident of the village was called to Scotland by the serious illness of her mother.

Friends in town learn that the condition of George P. Kean continues about the same at the hospital in Woonsocket, R. I., where he has been ill for about a week. Mr. Kean, who is superintendent of the Nyanza Mills of Woonsocket, was formerly overseer of carding in the No. 2 carding department of Ponemah Mills. He resided on South Second avenue. He is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Israel Chaput of Boldue lane.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvia Giroux have moved into a house on North B street.

Fourth Lenten Sermon Today

The fourth in the Lenten series at the local Y. M. C. A. will be held Friday noon with Rev. J. Romeyn Leatherbarrow speaking. The topic will be "Walk Christ on the Sea of Galilee." Lunch will be served at twelve o'clock.

Discharged from Hospital

Patients discharged Thursday at the W. W. Backus hospital were: Mrs. Joseph Maxwell and infant daughter of No. 19 West Main street; Anthony Cosentino, No. 4 Valley street; Harry Loomis, of No. 3 Summit street; Adelard Racine of Baltic; Mrs. Edward J. Crahan of Lebanon.

BOARD OF RELIEF FIXES NET GRAND LIST AT $48,359,202

The net grand list of taxable property in the town was set at $48,359,202, by the board of relief which completed its work and closed its books Thursday. This is a reduction of $828,560 from the net grand list as left by the board of assessors, $49,187,762. Additions made by the board of relief amounted to $15,638 and the abatements granted total $844,198. By classes the four largest abatements are as follows:

On dwelling houses, $251,165; on building lots, $258,682; mills and manufactures, $105,775; on stock in trade, $120,850.

Nearly 900 property holders filed petitions with the board for relief from the assessments as made by the board of assessors. Of these about 260 were granted abatements ranging from a few dollars to $100,000. Among the largest abatements were $100,000 to the Norwich Water Power Co.; $75,000 to the Plaut-Cadden Co.; $41,660 to the Chelsea Savings Bank; $27,770 to Beckenstein and Taylor; $21,000 to the Eldredge Hardware Co.; $13,810 to Valerie Foran and $41,880 to Napoleon B. This year's net grand list is over double that of a year ago, this being due to the revaluation recently completed. Both the city and town tax rates will be approximately cut in two, because of the increase in the grand list. Last year the grand list was left at $22,860,120 by the board of relief.

Because of the avalanche of petitions for relief from the assessors' figures, the board of relief was unable to complete its work on the last day in February and an extension of time was necessary. Tuesday of this week a special bill was adopted by the state legislature, under suspension of the rules, extending until March 9th, the final day for the board to complete its work.

ROBINS PAY VISIT TO ROCKWELL TERRACE HOME

At a Rockwell terrace residence where the latch string is always out for birds, the first robin visitor appeared Monday morning. Thursday morning, in the midst of the baby blizzard no fewer than nine robins were spied in an apple tree. They could not have received the tip that it was a good place for free lunch from the pioneer visitor, for he quite resented their appearance on his premises. After their snack they flew away, one by one, but the original bird remains, making his quarters in the big evergreen trees.

If there is anything in the appearance of robins as harbingers of spring, that season should be just around the corner when no less than ten robins visit one home in a single day, as early as March 7th.

JUNIOR CHAPTER OF HADASSAH ELECTS OFFICERS

At a meeting held Wednesday night at the Jewish center of the Junior chapter of Hadassah, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. M. Widrowitz; vice president, I. Segal; secretary, G. Fishbone; corresponding secretary, Ruth Sadinsky; treasurer, Clara Soffer; cultural chairman, Rivy Rosenberg; ways and means chairman, Lea Blum; publicity chairman, Eva Hertz; national fund chairman, Rose Rubin.

Flag Presented Sunday School

An American flag was presented to the Greeneville Congregational church Sunday school by Sedgwick Woman's Relief Corps, No. 16, at flag exercises held at the church Sunday. The color bearers were No. 1, Mrs. M. Florence Dean; No. 2, Mrs. Annie Turner; No. 3, Mrs. Jane Seed; No. 4, Mrs. Mary Austin. The department patriotic instructor, Mrs. D. Louise Atterbury was present and Mrs. E. Grace Fowler, patriotic instructor of the corps, gave an interesting address on the Flag. After the singing of America, Mrs. Fowler presented the flag to Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor, who accepted the gift in behalf of the Sunday school. The programme came to a close with a poem on the flag read by Mrs. Atterbury, the pledge of allegiance to the flag by all and the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

Small Fire in Cellar

At 7:35 o'clock Thursday morning the fire department was called out for a fire in the cellar of the house occupied by M. Burt Burstran and located below Uncas-on-Thames. The blaze was extinguished by Engine No. 6, Squad A and Acting Chief Henry Taft, who responded. There was no damage. The blaze is said to have been caused by a hot poker placed on a burlap bag by Mr. Burstran.

Lions Omit Meeting

The Norwich Lions club omitted its regular weekly meeting Thursday out of courtesy to the campaign workers of the Norwich chamber of commerce, who held a luncheon meeting at the Wauregan hotel at noon.

was voted to hold teas during the months of March and April ending in May with a community tea.

It was voted to adopt as the Woman's Missionary quota the sum of $7.10 per month. The work committee for March, Mrs. John Rathbone, reported plans for a chicken pie supper and food sale. The second vice president was chosen as the work committee for April. The secretary read a letter of acknowledgment of the White Cross package sent Dr. Meyer at Lapiz, P. I.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

As Graduation Day Draws Near

parents are thinking more and more of the enormous expense that day means. Having that fact in mind I am offering you a decided reduction on Graduation Portraits. Up to July 1st I will make one dozen large size easel portraits and one enlarged portrait, 8x10 in size, for $6.00. These portraits are priced $12 the dozen everywhere else. As Mr. Desmarais personally will make these portraits, his 40 years experience in photography assures you of the quality. As a further guarantee, proofs shown until you are satisfied, at no extra charge. You can't help but get good portraits on those conditions. Service is unequalled also.

GLENWOOD RANGES ... MADE IN NEW ENGLAND

My husband says I'm a good business woman!

HOW proudly she says it—and how well deserved the praise! — For in buying a new Insulated Glenwood Gas Range, she not only got rid of her inefficient, antiquated old cooking equipment—but we paid her $20 for the privilege of carting it away!—Now her cooking and her disposition have both improved, since her new Insulated Glenwood Gas Range began to decrease her labor and increase her leisure!

CHANGES CONTEMPLATED IN FED. MACHINERY OF JUSTICE

Announcement Made by President Hoover—Change Will Be the First Step in Law Enforcement Program—Must Simplify Procedure to Clean Up Present and Prevent Future Congestion of Dockets—Survey For Enforcement of the 18th Amendment Will Extend to Narcotics, Immigration, Trade Restraint and Other Subjects.

WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP)—Far reaching changes in the whole federal machinery of justice are contemplated by President Hoover in the creation of a national commission to critically consider the question of law enforcement.

"The first step in law enforcement is adequate organization of our judicial and enforcement system," the president declared in a statement issued today in response to questions from newspaper correspondents.

The commission is to consider redistribution of functions, simplification of procedure, provision of additional special tribuals to clear up present and to prevent future congestion of dockets, the better selection of juries and the more effective organization of agencies of investigation and prosecution.

Included in the critical survey will be consideration of the method of enforcement of the 18th amendment and abuses which have grown up together with the enforcement of laws with respect to narcotics, immigration, trade restaint and other subjects.

The chief executive has proposed as one step in the reorganization while the commission is making its investigation a transfer of the prohibition enforcement machinery from the treasury to the justice department. The treasury department heretofore has been charged only with the prosecution end of enforcement with the prohibition bureau conducting the investigations and making the arrests.

There have been some notable exceptions to this proposition, the justice department, at the instance of Mrs. Mable Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, having begun the inquiry which led to the arrest and conviction some years ago of members of the Savanah bootleg ring.

Whether the president can accomplish the transfer he has in mind without an act of congress is now a matter of speculation with some insisting that since congress placed the prohibition unit unedr the jurisdiction of the treasury only congress can authorize the placing of its functions into another department of the government.

The chief executive has ventured no opinion on this matter nor has he intimated whether he will seek an opinion from Attorney General Mitchell. Since he looks upon this as an important move toward the end for which he is striving it might well be taken up at the extra session of congress if there is final conclusion that congressional action is necessary.

Mr. Hoover still is giving thought to the personnel of the commission, but if he has decided as to individuals he has not so indicated. Nor has there been any indication as to the size of the commission.

Attorney General Mitchell is being consulted as to personnel.

HOOVER PRESIDES AT FIRST MEETING OF HIS CABINET

WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP)—President Hoover today presided at the first meeting of his cabinet, gave further consideration to the situation created by the Mexican revolution, expanded his views on law enforcement and in addition received a number of callers with matters of politics or government to discuss.

At the close of a busy day he received a large group of Washington newspapermen and in reply to their questions said the scope of his proposed commission for a study of the operation of federal statutes and court procedure would embrace "the entire question of law enforcement and organization of justice." He also set at rest any rumors that extensive changes were to be made in the personnel of government officialdom with an explanation that not more than 20 or 30 new appointments were to be made.

With every member of his cabinet present, except Henry L. Stimson, for now Secretary Kellogg is substituting as head of the state department, Mr. Hoover went over the Mexican situation thoroughly with respect to its relation to the activities of the various departments.

It was made known that the Washington government had decided to accede to a request from the federal government of Mexico for surplus war materials and that permits have been issued for the private shipment of arms for use by the federal troops of the southern republic.

HOOVER NOT TO DISTURB PERSONNEL OF OFFICIALS

WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP)—President Hoover said today that he plans no extensive changes in the personnel of the government.

In answer to questions from press correspondents, the chief executive declared that he proposes "to adhere to the principle of retaining as many as possible of these public servants who have given honest and zealous service."

"It is traditional," he continued, "for the principal directing heads of the government whose appointments are at the pleasure of the president both at home and in foreign services to tender their resignations with the advent of a new administration.

"Out of several hundred such offices, there are probably not more than 20 or 30 changes likely to be made at the present time. Some of these are the result of the determination of the incumbents that they have given sufficient of their time to public service and wish to take this occasion to retire to private life.

"Some changes will be the result of promotion and shifts from one position to the government to another.

"There are some 850,000 persons on the federal payroll. It will be seen therefore that the number of changes contemplated do not offer an opportunity for the large recruiting of new personnel.

LAW ENFORCEMENT PROBE WILL COVER WIDE FIELD

WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP)—President Hoover stated today that the enforcement commission he is to appoint will consider enforcement of the law in respect to narcotics, immigration, trade restraint, the 18th amendment, and every other branch of federal government law enforcement.

ATTEMPTING TO BREAK ENDURANCE FLIGHT RECORD

Stinson and Page must stay in the air 66 hours and 31 minutes to be given credit officially for breaking the record of 65:31 held by the Germans.

The "Sally Sovereign" took off from the ice of the bay at 10:40:15 this morning, carrying a load of 800 gallons of gasoline, or, according to Stinson's calculations enough to keep her in the air 80 hours. She must stay in the air until 5.15 Monday morning to better the world's endurance record without refueling.

Today's take-off was the second attempt of the flyers within two weeks to set a record in the "Sally Sovereign." The first ended in a crash after the plane ascended 15 feet above the ice.

DEVELOPMENT IN COUNCIL OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS

GENEVA, March 8—(AP)—Developments in the council of the league of nations today had a decidedly American tinge. Negotiations for American membership in the world court of justice continued. The council decided to send a proposed treaty calling for financial assistence for states threatened with aggression or victims of aggressions to the United States and other non-members of the league.

The probable American adhesion to the Hague tribunal for settlement for juridical disputes is linked in the minds of statesmen here with the Kellogg pact for the renunciation of war.

In his celebrated formula to pave the way for American affiliations, Elihu Root was believed to have proclaimed a political doctrine having special appeal to the psychology of Anglo Saxon peoples. He has got down to the concrete and has flung the abstract into the dustheap.

BOY PLEADED GUILTY TO BREAKING AND ENTERING

WINSTED, March 8—(AP)—Myron Melanchuck, 15, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and not guilty of arson, when arraigned before Judge Arthur F. Ells in superior court this afternoon. The youth was arrested earlier in the day by state police who charged with him breaking into the store of Charles LeGeyt at Barkhamsted nine days ago and setting fire to the building.

After pleading Judge Ells bound him over to the May term of superior court under $2,000 bonds. J. Clinton Rorabback, public defender, appeared as counsel for the boy. Melanchuck told police that when he broke into the store he tried to burn paper in the stove and a piece of wood fell on the floor setting fire to the place.

SEEKING A SOLUTION OF KILLING OF THOMAS WALSH

MIAMI, Fla., March 8—(AP)—An impenetrable wall of silence checkmated attempts today of Dade county investigators as they sought a solution of the killing of Thomas (Patty) Walsh and searched for evidence of gangster operations here and in the north.

Eddie Wilson, proprietor of the gambling suite in the fashionable Miami Biltmore hotel, sought as the slayer of the former body-guard of Arnold Rothstein, still was at large. Wilson was known to have been in partnership in the gambling venture with Walsh, K. E. Gaylor—and Arthur Clark, who was wounded at the time Walsh was killed.

"He'd better come on in and take his rap," Clark declared today from his cell in the Dade county jail after he had steadfastly refused to comment to officials on the killing that threw scores of fashionable patrons of the establishment in Frenze early Thursday morning.

HOLSTEINS CHAMPION BUTTERFAT PRODUCERS

CHICAGO, March 8—(AP)—Two Holstein cows owned by R. E. Eddy, of Poultney, Vt., were declared champion butterfat producers by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America today.

DRY ENFORCEMENT MAY BE HELPED BY ADVERTISING

WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP)—The federal government is planning to enter the field of advertising in an effort to sell the idea of law enforcement to the American people.

Believing that law enforcement can be stimulated through the widespread use of posters, Commissioner Doran of the prohibition bureau today announced a plan to disseminate throughout the country illustrations picturing the evils of the liquor traffic and benefits from prohibition. The campaign will be financed through the $50,000 made available to the bureau for educational purposes in the deficiency bill enacted at the last congress.

Specimens of posters have been submitted by Commissioner Doran to an educational committee of the national conference of organizations supporting the 18th amendment which will report its recommendations to him. Mr. Doran said he considered the campaign for the present in the nature of an experiment.

OBITUARY

William B. Dinsmore

NEW YORK, March, 8—(AP)—William B. Dinsmore, 58, grandson of the two founders of the Adams Express company and member of an old American family, died tonight at the New York Medical Center hospital, after an illness of two weeks. He was an uncle of Vincent Astor.

One of his ancestors, John Dinsmore settled in New England in 1723, and two others were governors of New Hampshire.

His paternal grandfather, William B. Dinsmore, and his maternal grandfather, Alvin Adams, founded the Adams Express company, and his father, William B. Dinsmore, was secretary of the company.

Mr. Dinsmore is survived by his widow, who was Marion De Peyster Carey; one son, and two daughters. He was graduated from Harvard in 1893.

Clyde Liner Shawnee Veritable Rum Ship

Customs Officers Found 200 Passengers Had Contraband —65 Trunks Were Left Unclaimed.

NEW YORK, March 8—(AP)—Two hundred passengers parted with $300 in fines and hundreds of bottles of liquor today when 135 customs men met the Clyde lines Shawnee on its arrival from Havana and searched the ship and most of those aboard.

As the 400 passengers filed down the gangplank their hand baggage was searched and whenever a bag revealed contraband its owner was placed in line, later to move on to an office on the pier where he or she paid a fine of $5 or $6 for each bottle. The smaller sum was for liquors and wines and the larger fine for whiskey. Seventy-five women were among those who paid.

Passengers left unclaimed on the line 65 trunks which were ordered taken to the appraisers stores, but whether they contained liquor could not be learned until they are opened in the presence of owners or until a reasonable time passed and the government should open them unclaimed.

The search was thorough. While a coast guard boat stood by the liner ready to scoop up any contraband tossed overboard. Inspectors went through cabins and into the hold of the ship. Two hundred bottles were found in cabins, but no fines were collected on them as it was considered futile to attempt to find the owners. Four bottles were found in automobiles.

Passengers were surprised to see the customs men waiting for the ship for its first call in American territory is at Miami where the customs are cleared. Most of the passengers, however, boarded the Shawnee at Miami, and in the opinion of Colonel William Conrey in charge of the inspectors, the liquor had been purchased there.

RADIO FACTIONS HAVE REACHED AN AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—Disagreeing factions among applicants for short wave communication channels set aside for the use of the press by the radio commission reached an agreement today which they submitted to the commission.

In the agreement, which the commission will consider later, the International News Service, the United Press and The Associated Press would each receive seven of the 49 channels available. The remaining 15 channels would be allocated to the Consolidated Press and the large newspapers most of which maintain news distributing organizations.

The allocation of the channels, the commission was informed, would be predicated on the commission's waiving the policy which requires all those receiving short wave channels to become public utilities.

The waiving of the public utility policy, John Francis Neyland, of San Francisco, who presented the compromise plan, said, would be necessary if The Associated Press, which under its charter could not function as a public utility, was enabled to make use of short wave radio.

An Audacious Prov. Journal Reporter

Asks Governor Trumbull to Investigate in the Conduct of the Jackson Murder Case.

HARTFORD, March 8—(AP)—"The most reprehensible piece of business I've heard of," is the way Gov. Trumbull tonight characterized the letter presented to him this afternoon by Leo E. A. Fontanne, a reporter for the Providence Journal, signed by relatives of the murdered County Detective William E. Jackson and asking the governor to order the state police to make an independent investigation of the murder.

The governor said that he had questioned Mr. Fontanne and had secured from him the admission that he had written the letter and had prevailed on the dead detective's mother and sister to sign the document and sanction his presentation of the letter to the chief executive in their behalf.

"I shall certainly pay no attention to a letter such as that," the governor said, "inspired by an outsider who persuaded the Jackson family to sign it after he had written it. Such a man would stoop to almost anything."

The letter, which was signed by Mrs. Sarah Jackson mother of the murdered man, Mrs. James M. Osten and Mrs Olive Jackson, his sisters, and W. P. Jackson, his brother, strongly criticized the manner in which Windham county authorities, led by Hartford County Detective Edward J. Hickey, have conducted the investigation into the murder. Particular emphasis was placed on the refusal of authorities to make public the notes written by Mrs. Gertrude Jackson, the detective's widow, before she committed suicide, February 13. The letter also contains this paragraph:

"With Mr. Hickey, a personal friend, directing the investigation, with an officer of the Willimantic police force in her home, and with Gertrude Jackson a most important witness if not, in view of the purported contents of her death missives, an actual defendant, she committed suicide with a gun that had been allowed to remain in the kitchen of her home since the body of her husband had been found there two weeks and a day previously, and she used a cartridge from a box that had been in the house for the same length of time.

"Furthermore, a large quantity of morphine remained in the bathroom, the room in which she slew herself, until after the suicide, when it was promptly removed."

The letter was presented to Gov Trumbull at the state capitol today by Mr. Fontanne. After reading the document and questioning Mr. Fontanne the governor refused to comment on the letter.

HARTFORD, Conn., March 8—(AP)—By official record there were 27,530 motor vehicles accidents in Connecticut during 1928, and one town alone, Hartland, had none, in fact this town with only 400 population has had no motor vehicle accident within its borders since 1924.

FAILED IN ATTEMPT AT ENDURANCE FLIGHT RECORD

BAY CITY, Mich., March 8—(AP)—The endurance airplane flight of Eddie Stinson and Randolph G. Page ended after approximately 11 hours of flight tonight. They landed on the ice of Saginaw bay at 9.50 o'clock. Heavy snow and a strong wind forced the landing, Stinson said.

The Passing Show of 1929.

It's a show that changes every day. The passing show of current times—the advertisements in the newspapers. Packed with interest—alive with the vitality and surging change of this modern day.

The advertisements are more than reliable buying guides. Indications of quality they are, surely—for today no manufacutrer can win lasting success by buying publicity for a cheap or shoddy product. Advertising weeds out the unfit. But more than that advertisements are the fascinating daily record of progress in industry.

Buy intelligently—with open eyes. Read the advertisements every day. Compare values—know what's news, what's better, and why. When you start out to spend your money—be informed!

Make it a habit to follow the advertisements. Every day there's a new edition of the Passing Show.

A QUIET DAY IN THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

(Special to The Bulletin.

HARTFORD, March 8—No important bills were acted upon today as is the custom at Friday sessions.

The house concurred with the senate in rejecting of bills which would change the existing laws concerning the enforcement of the prohibition law.

The old age pension bill which has been urged for several years by the order of Eagles again met defeat today as it was reported unfavorably by the judiciary committee.

The old age pension bill, which drew some fire from members of the judiciary committee as a poor piece of bill drafting, provides for a maximum pension of $1 a week for persons more than 70 years old, who meet qualifications set up in the bill. The commission bill, sponsored by the Fraternal Order of Eagles, would have the governor appoint a commission of three members to study the problem and report to the 1931 session. The unemployment insurance, a socialist party measure, provided for $1.25 a day for workers under 18 years old and $2.50 for workers more than 18 years old, who were out of work.

After many years the matter of another hospital for the insane has got a start. A bill to build at Fairfield that carries an appropriation of $1,750,000 was recommended by the committee on humane institutions and it was recommitted to the appropriations committee for further action. A bill was also reported appropriating $50,000 for improvement of roads leading to state parks.

But two committees were holding sessions today, the judiciary and public health and safety.

HOUSE

The house was called to order at 11:15 by the speaker and prayer was offered by the house chaplain.

Favorable report was made by the committee on state aprks H. B. 688. An act concerning the appointment of tree wardens and providing for the care of trees. Concurrent action was held on all bills from the senate.

Unfavorable Reports

Unfavorable reports were made by the judiciary committee on H. B. 84, an act concerning cruelty to persons; H. B. 140, an act concerning old age pensions, providing for county pensions for aged persons; H. B. 244, an act authorizing the selectmen to aid pau-

MEXICAN INSURGENTS ARE NOW IN CONTROL OF JUAREZ

Rebels Captured Juarez After a Day of Fierce Fighting—A Truce Was Arranged at a Conference at the International Bridge For Internment at Fort Bliss—One American Was About 300 Mexican Federal Soldiers Marched Across the Bridge For Interment at Fort Bliss—One American Was Killed During Battle in Juarez—In El Paso an American Infant Was Fatally Wounded by Stray Bullet.

(By The Associated Press)

Important rebel gains in the north marked Friday's development in the Mexican revolution.

Juarez, historic port across the Rio Grande from El Paso, was captured by insurgents after a day of fierce fighting.

Out-numbered four to one the 600 men in the federal garrison put up a stubborn resistance but at length were driven from stronghold to stronghold until a truce was agreed upon.

The truce was arranged at a conference on the international bridge between General Valles, head of the rebel forces; General Ramos, of the federal garrison and Brig. Gen. George Vanhorn Mosley of the American forces in El Paso.

Reports were received at Nogales that the seaport of Mazatlan in Sinaloa, was evacuated by the federal garrison before a heavy rebel advance.

In the south the Mexican government was consolidating its position at Vera Cruz, re-captured from the rebels on Thursday.

General Aguirre, rebel commander at Vera Cruz, was being pursued although he was thought to have escaped to the jungle region in the isthmus of Tehuantepec.

Federal forces also were advancing on Torreon when General Escobar, commander in chief of the rebels, was believed concentrating.

The government continued its campaign of using airplanes to drop propaganda leaflets calling upon the rebels to lay down their arms and return allegiance to the government. Bills urging this were dropped by a federal plane over Nogales, Sonora.

Replacement of the American embargo on shipment of commercial planes into Mexico was announced at Washington. The order will prevent unauthorized buying of aircraft in the United States by rebel forces.

The American government consented to supply surplus war materials to the Mexican government and also granted permission for importation of commercial airplanes from the United States.

THUOSANDS OF EL PASOANS HAD GOOD VIEW OF BATTLE

EL PASO, Tex., March 8—(AP)—Under a warm sun, thousands of El Pasoans clustered on the surrounding mountains of the pass city today and viewed the battle between rebel and federal Mexican troops in the city of Juarez.

Hundreds saw the fight from lofty seats on top of office buildings and others had closer places to "ringside" but only two persons were struck by stray bullets which found their way north of the Rio Grande. A wound received by Lidia Robarta, 2 years old, shot in the leg while she played in her front yard, proved fatal to the infant. Louis Chavez, 6, was struck in the leg by a large Mauser bullet, and is in hospital where his condition is serious.

While it is no particular novelty to El Pasoans to witness rebel demonstrations across the Rio Grande, the spectacle today attracted a great attendance. El Paso business virtually was at a standstill as shop clerks and girls deserted counters for points of vantage on the higher buildings.

Those who witnessed other battles in Juarez from El Paso said the warfare seen today compares with the Pancho Villa battle of about ten years ago. Maneuvering on the streets today could easily be followed with field glasses.

For a time it was a precarious thing for an El Pasoan to be on the streets. Bullets crashed into buildings several times, but there was a very decided tendency on the part of spectators to risk being shot rather than miss seeing what was going on.

Several narrow escapes were recorded. Two clerks barely escaped death when a bullet crashed through a huge plate glass window, lodging near their counter. The two girls, Elizabeth Kaiser and Lillian Watkins, calmly continued their work, refusing to desert their posts.

The First National Bank building 12 story structure, was peppered by bullets. Girls in offices facing Juarez fled to other sides of the building, while others went on top to watch the battle.

AERIAL BOMBARDMENT OF NOGALES THREATENED

MEXICALI, Lower Calif., Mexico, March 8—(AP)—Aerial bombardment of Nogales, Sonora, headquarters of the Mexican revolutionary forces, was threatened today by General Abelardo Rodriguez, governor of Lower California.

The governor was awaiting the return of the military plane which he despatched this morning to Nogales to drop circulars warning the troops and civilian population there to return to the Mexican colors.

"Yes, I sent the plane," the governor told the Associated Press correspondent, "and the next time they will carry something more effective than circulars.

"Lieut. A. Castrejon and Lieut. Luis Voyer piloted the plane, a Waco, whirlwind engined plane, which was delivered to us yesterday. We expect nine bombing planes to be delivered to the Mexicali airport next week."

READY TO ATTACK THE MEX. FEDERAL TROOPS

NOGALES Ariz., March 8—(AP)—General Fausto Topete, governor of Sonora, indicated to Colonel Arthur M. Shipp commander of the 25th infantry here tonight that he proposed to attack the Mexican federal forces encamped at San Luis, Sonora, 23 miles south of Yuma, Arizona.

Governor Topete conferred with Colonel Shipp in an effort to determine the attitude the U. S. military forces would take in the event of hostilities between the rebels and federals stationed by Governor Rodriguez of Lower California at San Luis.

INFANT GIRL FATALLY WOUNDED IN EL PASO

EL PASO, Tex., March 8—(AP)—The first American fatality as the result of fighting in Juarez was reported today with the death of Lydia Roberto, two years old, at the El Paso Emergency hospital. The child, whose parents are American citizens, was struck in the head this morning by a stray bullet from across the Rio Grande during the battle at Juarez.

The child was playing near her home in South El Paso when she was wounded. She died at 2 p. m.

Authorities said the only other American casualty so far as could be determined, was Louis Chavez, six years old, who was slightly wounded this morning by a stray bullet.

MEXICAN FEDERAL TROOPS INTERNED AT FORT BLISS

EL PASO, Tex., March 8—(AP)—Three hundred Mexican federals were interned at Fort Bliss tonight, in the carrying out of the truce terms under which the federals surrendered the City of Juarez.

The men were stationed in barracks and in a riding hall at the fort, under guard, until their disposition can be decided by the United States government. The internment was under the direction of Brig. Gen. Van Horn Moseley, commandant at Fort Bliss.

AMERICAN WAS KILLED DURING BATTLE OF JUAREZ

JUAREZ, Mex., March 8—(AP)—Teddy Barner, an American, was found dead by soldiers who set out to rehabilitate Juarez after today's battle. His body was found beneath several slain soldiers near federal headquarters where all the bodies were found lying in a heap at the Rio Bravo hotel. Barnes was a bartender in the Mint Cafe of Juarez.

WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP)—Application has been made by the Mexican government for surplus war materials and the American government has consented to supply such materials from the surplus now held by the war department.

TESTIMONY IN DEFUNCT BROKERAGE HOUSE CASE

NEW YORK, March 8—(AP)—Two witnesses who bought Canario Copper stock after receiving "high pressure" sales literature from Cameron, Michael and company, defunct brokerage house, today testified at the trial of John and Herbert Locke and four others on trial in federal court for using the mails to defraud in an alleged $5,000,000 stock swindle.

John Dolan of Wallace, Idaho, said that he purchased 3,300 shares of Canario at $1.25 per share and that although he sold it later for $2 per share, he lost all his profits and more when he bought other stocks handled by John Locke.

Mrs. Bertha L. Beckwith, a Jackson City, Mich., milliner, testified that after receiving a mass of literature through the mails she bought 300 shares of Canario at $7.25 and 300 shares at $7.12. She was on the stand when the trial was adjourned until Monday.

At the opening of today's session Judge Knox dismissed the indictment against Oscar Regel, former newspaperman and one of the defendants. The judge said there was nothing to show him implicated in the use of the mails to defraud or conspiracy to defraud. The jury returned a not guilty verdict in his case, on orders from the bench.

Witnesses had testified that Regel had been paid by Cameron, Michel and company to obtain publication of Canario quotations in a New York newspaper.

PROHIBITION STILL FAR FROM BEING A SUCCESS

HARTFORD, March 8—(AP)—Prohibition is still far from being a success, Deputy Prohibition Administrator Frank T. Putney asserted today on the eve of his retirement from the prohibition enforcement bureau after seven and a half years of continuous service in Connecticut.

"There is as much drinking as ever," Mr. Putney said, "as evidenced by the spectacles at the Yale-Harvard and other big football games and throughout the country on New Year's eve."

Mr. Putney terminated his affairs in the Hartford office today in preparation for the advent of Robert L. Sergle, recently appointed deputy administrator for Connecticut, who will commence his new duties Monday.

High praise for Mr. Putney and his work in prohibition enforcement was given today by U. S. District Attorney John Buckley, commenting on Mr. Putney's retirement.

SIX FINED FOR VIOLATION OF DEER LAW IN HAMPTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 8—Six cases involving Windham, Hampton and Killingly men on charges having to do with the illegal killing and possession of wild deer, were tried in three sessions of the Hampton town court this week. The arraignment of the men was the result of an intensive investigation by deputy game wardens who learned that the killing of deer in this section of the state had reached almost wholesale proportions this season.

Three cases were heard Monday before Justice of the Peace William E. Oliver of the Hampton court with Grand Juror Patrick Navin prosecuting. George Beecher of Windham, charged with possession of a deer, was fined $25 and costs, amounting to $30.97. Beecher had pleaded not guilty. In addition to the fine the accused was given a 30 day jail sentence to which he took an appeal to the next criminal term of the Windham county superior court. Adelbert Netherbee of Windham was charged with possession of a deer. He pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs amounting to $25.42. Bernard W. Edwards of Hampton was fined $25 and costs, amounting to $44.42 for possession of a deer.

There were two cases heard Thursday. They were Leonard Mallory of Windham, charged with killing a deer in Hampton, who pleaded guilty and was fined $15 and costs, a total of $28.22 and George Bridges of Hampton, charged with possession of a deer, fined $10 and costs, amounting to $23.87. Bridges also pleaded guilty.

Ralph Tracy of Killingly was charged with possessing wild deer meat at a court session this morning. He was fined $30 and costs, amounting to $36.72. All of the violations were perpetrated in Hampton within the past two weeks. The investigation was conducted by Chief State Game Warden A. J. Williamson, Special Deputy F. D. Healy and Deputy Game Warden George A. Willis of Chaplin.

TO COMPLETE DRIVE FOR C. OF C. BUDGET

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 8—Over 50 members of the chamber of commerce took up the unfinished financial drive for 1929 this morning and set to round out the goal which at present is lacking by $1,500. The 1929 drive was interrupted when the committees diverted their attention to doing whatever possible to bring the veteran's hospital to this section. The report meeting of the canvassers will be held next Wednesday. The sum of $1,500 is the amount stated as necessary for a continuation of the chamber of commerce work under an executive secretary this year. Many activities of the chamber last year gave conclusive demonstration of the benefits of a full time secretaryship and the workers are not expected to find any difficulty in completing the drive.

FINED FOR NOT SENDING CHILDREN TO SCHOOL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 8—A case of unusual nature was heard by Justice of the Peace Clarence Barlow in the Westford town court Thursday night when Joseph Jaroszka of that town was arraigned on a charge of failure to comply with the law in sending his three minor children to school. The case was prosecuted by Attorney William Larash of West Haven, counsel for the state board of education. Justice Barlow found the accused guilty and imposed a fine of $45 and costs, a total of $69 which the accused refused to pay in lieu of payment Jaroszka was taken to the lock up at Stafford overnight and today was remanded to the county jail at Brooklyn, being taken there in custody of State Policeman Zikas of Stafford. Jaroszka maintained that he would not send his children to school unless the town provided transportation directly from the house to the school.

Peter Nazormy, who operates the school bus in that section of the town testified that according to the terms of his contract he was to meet the Jaroszka children at a point about one quarter of a mile from their home unless the weather was stormy in which event he drove right to the house to call for them. It was to this walk, even in fair weather, that Jaroszka objected.

The accused, who resides in the Potter school district near the Willington town line, withdrew his three children Richard 14, Joseph, 9 and Jennie, 7 from the Westford school some four weeks ago. The teacher, Mrs. Alice Downes testified that the children had not registered in that time. Truant Officer Hulbert Williams stated that he had given Jaroszka two warnings that he must either comply with the law or face the court. It was stated today that the mother of the children resides in New Britain where she is employed.

Commander David Lorde of A. C. Tyler camp, No. 8, U. S. W. V., has named the following committees for the ensuing year: Memorial day, Jeremiah A. McCarthy, Frank Teevan, Louis H. The essays are to be written before the close of the school year, and the camp will be represented in this work by Adjutant Snow and Past Commander Teevan.

In completing renovations and alterations at the passenger station of the New Haven railroad, which were started following a fire which gutted the station over a year ago, the railroad restaurant has been relocated in new quarters occupying part of the waiting room. The restaurant was located at the west end of the depot for many years the change of location giving it easier access to patrons. The restaurant has been partitioned off from the lobby proper with panelling and glasswork. New fixtures have been installed and attractive booths provided for women diners. The depot restaurant was conducted for some years by the late C. S. Marshall, and has been in charge of M. A. Kuhfer since Mr. Marshall left this city a few years ago to enter into business in Rhode Island.

Lieutenant Carl A. Dixon of Hartford will deliver a lecture on the requirements of an aviator at an Aviation Night to be held in the Y. M. C. A. next Tuesday evening. Lieutenant Dixon is a veteran of the World war and an experienced flyer. In his talk he will explain construction, rigging, inspection, mapping, aerial photography, laws, use of instruments, navigation and meteorology. The lecture will be public.

The control of northerly traffic on Jackson street at the junctions of Spruce street and Maple avenue, by a red light signal will be made continuous in an experiment to be tried by Alderman Eugene E. Lewis of the police committee. There are no intersections on the northerly side of Jackson street at this point and observance of the flash signal was made effective as a protection to school children and pedestrians. Traffic in other directions at the triple corner will be regulated as heretofore by the signal. Alderman Lewis stated that it was possible that the red stop signal may be put into motion at such hours as school children are leaving or entering the Natchaug grammar school which is located at this point.

Rev. Edwin J. Norris, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal church, Norwich, delivered a sermon on Showing the Face of God at the weekly Lenten service at St. Paul's Episcopal church Thursday evening. Preceding the service the church choir was entertained by Rev. and Mrs. F. C. Williams in the rectory.

A rapid increase in the town of Windham's share of the state and county taxes is noted over last year. For 1928 the town paid a total of $20,340 toward this taxation. Of this amount $7,172.37 was for a county tax due in March and $13,167.75 for the state tax due in November. This amount is to be tripled this year as indicated in a notice received by First Selectman William A. Buck stating that the town's share of the county tax due this month is $23,335.57. The state tax due in November is not expected to be any less than that paid last year. Considerable of the $85,000 received as a county tax is to be used in making alterations at the county home in Putnam, it is understood.

Over 150 members of the Methodist church attended the annual reunion and social held in the vestry Thursday evening with a program in charge of Mrs. Charles H. Beebe and Mrs. Carl Rice. A playlet was presented with the following members of the cast: Mrs. Eldon Johnson, Helen Woodward, Richard Spellman, Mrs. Albert Spellman, Mrs. Walter H. Parkhurst, Mrs. Leslie Nichols and Mrs. Fred Williams. Rev. H. H. Critchlow delivered a brief address. Refreshments were served by a committee consisting of Mrs. Edwin F. Cross and Mrs. Eugene B. Lewis, assisted by members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Sorority.

The student board of the class of 1929 at Windham high school have selected Peg o' My Heart by J. Hartley Manners as the annual Senior play to be presented in the auditorium about the middle of April. Kerman Lavigne was chairman of the production committee. The play will be coached by Miss Veronica McQuillan of the faculty.

The abolishment of old roads and the levying of a tax rate will be among matters of importance to be taken up at a special meeting of the town of Hebron to be held next Monday afternoon. The corrected grand list totals $667,770, an amount less than that for 1927. This year the board of relief deducted $12,371 from the assessors' figures. It is expected that the 28 mill tax rate in force last year will be voted again this year.

Burton Slater of Hartford, Harry J. Blanchette, of this city and William B. Fryer of Baltimore, Md., the latter affiliated with the U. S. coast guard, were each fined ten dollars and costs for driving without an operator's license in their possession at the session of police court this morning. The arrests were made by State Policeman Charles Daley of the Stafford Springs barracks.

Mrs. Elizabeth Webster of North street entertained the employes of Worden's tea shop at a farewell party at her home Thursday evening. A delicious salad supper with hot biscuits and strawberry shortcake was served by the hostess. Games and music contributed to a jolly evening. The guests were Mrs. Roderic Jodoin, Mrs. Florence Lathrop, Mrs. Catherine Monahan and Miss Henrietta Hall.

Officer Albert Montie of the police department expects to return to duty next Monday after a ten day illness with the grip.

Maurice S. Leonard, president of Leonard Brothers Garage, Inc., of this city won the eastern Connecticut championship in the economy run staged Thursday by the Essex challenger dealers of the district. Mr. Leonard averaged 29.8 miles per gallon of gasoline in a drive of 141.6 miles, through all kinds of weather conditions.

JEWETT CITY

PAWTUCKET DRIVER FINED—EMPLOYERS TAKE AN APPEAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, March 8—The case of the J. S. White Co. of Pawtucket vs. the State of Connecticut was tried in Griswold town court before Judge John T. Barry Friday morning. During the forenoon of Thursday, Feb. 28, two big auto-trucks were in collision on the Quinebaug state highway bridge. William Raill driving E. Dufresne's big Mack carried a load of 13,000 pounds of coal bound from Norwich, consigned to Glasgo. John Hollis, of Riverside, R. I., was the operator of the J. S. White, Reo Speed wagon, bound south, light. Hollis was held by Officer Veigarde, charged with failure to grant right of way.

The case was continued until today. Hollis was fined $10 and costs. Judge Barry finding nothing in the evidence that did not point to the substantiation of the claims alleged by the state.

The court was crowded. Preceding the trial, Judge Barry disposed of a couple of ordinary drunk cases without delay. The J. S. White company was represented by Edward G. McKay of Norwich. A number of insurance men were present to see which way the cat was going to jump, with interest in relative issues which are to follow, in determining who will pay on in excess of $1,000 damage to the trucks and broken steel bridge trusses. Close to two hours were consumed in the trial. Several witnesses were called by the defense in the attempt to establish the blame on Raill. There was some speculation relative as to whether the mix-up occurred in Lisbon or Griswold. Maxey Seymour, 1st selectman of Griswold for 8 years stated that Griswold has always been responsible for two-thirds of the bridge repairs, this statement from others that in earlier times the Lisbon and Griswold line abutted in the center of the Quinebaug.

Hollis testified that he had covered one-third of the 180 feet of bridge roadway before Raill came onto the west end.

Raill took oath that both trucks came onto the bridge at the same time, both men claiming speed as about 20 miles per hour. The collision occurred about 30 feet from the Lisbon end, and, according to the testimony of Officer Veigard, after the Reo was taken away, and previous to the moving of the Mack, all ordinary cars, with small overhang, had sufficient space to pass on the 16 feet of bridge floor. Hollis claimed that Raill came onto the bridge in the middle of the planking. Raill clung to his first statement that he had straightened out properly after leaving the curve at the west entrance, and was well over to the right. Measurements by the officers who checked up the wreck were presented as evidence that Raill was close up to the timber guard on his side, even so that his right real wheel was close against it.

Hollis' attempts to stop his light truck were futile. Two Connecticut or New England busses have room to pass on the bridge. Judge Barry in giving his decision, called attention to the fact that the drivers' accounts were contradictory, adding, that evidence from casual observers of any bad wreck, like the case in question, observed from viewpoints after the trouble was over, were necessarily uncertain.

The White company took an appeal to the next term of the criminal court of common pleas, J. H. Cunningham stood for the bond of $200. Prosecuting Attorney Richard P. Dudkowski presented the case for the state.

WM. MORGAN, JR., DESPONDENT, PUT BULLET THROUGH BRAIN

The body of William Morgan, Jr., of West Newton, Mass., was placed in the receiving vault in Pachaug cemetery, Friday afternoon. The young man was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Morgan, the father being a native of Griswold and a frequent visitor at the Morgan homestead. Wednesday evening the young man drove into the garage at his home in West Newton. Failing to go into the house for so long a time, his sister went to the garage and found him dead. He had shot himself in the head with a pistol. Despondency was supposed to be the cause. For some time he had not been well and had visited the doctor that afternoon. He is survived by his parents and a sister Ruth. A number of the Morgan relatives live in Griswold and Lisbon, Daniel Morgan being a brother of William Morgan. The funeral and committal services were held at the West Newton home Friday. The body was accompanied here by Mr. and Mrs. William Morgan and daughter Ruth of West Newton. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morgan, Newton Center, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fergerson and sons Samuel and John, Goffstown, N. H., Mrs. Jesse M. Morgan of North Weare, N. H., and Mrs. Cummings of West Newton. Quantities of beautiful flowers softened the rigor of the vault, while as many more were left at the home.

Timber Blocked Main

Edward Murphy has completed the straightening out of a complicated sewer back-flow on North Main street. The trouble was located near the residence of James Blair Tuesday evening, when an over-flow began to show in the cellars of some of the Aspinook residences above this point. Mr. Murphy, in charge of the street department, with his men, and Warden E. J. Jodoin were on the job all night. The state highway had to be opened in a howling storm. When the sewer main was opened, and after several hours of flushing with the city water pressure, a heavy block of timber was located, wedged in the main.

Some one had crowded it into a drain at a point further up the street.

In investigating the trouble, it was discovered that several sewer connections had been made at right angles with the line, with the cement house pipes protruding into the main. Mr. Murphy will in the future personally superintend all connection work with the sewer system.

John Jacob's cellar was flooded with the overflow with some back water encroaching on the Blair property.

Blaze in Chimney

They were sent to them by Mrs. Thompson, of New Britain, who is touring abroad. They received a letter from her this week from Cairo, Egypt, the letter being en route for three weeks. Mrs. Blanchard and Mrs. Collins are graduate nurses and for a long time assisted in the care of Mrs. Thompson's aged mother.

GURLEYVILLE

May Geissler, who has been ill, is improving.

Owing to the storm Saturday evening there was a small attendance at the church supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Kurckle are at their home on Hanks' Hill, their furniture having arrived from New York.

The back roads down past the Wood place are very muddy and almost impassable at present on account of so much rain.

WESTERLY

LAWYER GIVEN DECISION WHEN FEES ARE OVERDUE

Friday morning in the Third District court before Judge Oliver H. Williams, the case of Attorney C. E. Roche vs. William M. Champlin to collect for attorney's fees in both superior and district court was tried. Judge Williams rendered decision for the plaintiff, to recover $164.15 and costs.

New writs entered — Underwood Typewriter company vs. Rhode Island Garage, brought by Attorney McKenna and continued one week. State vs. Stephen Percy. Answered by Attorney Kingsley and continued two weeks.

Civil docket—Ernest Panciera et al vs. Joseph Freeman, alias, Attorney Henry Harris for the plaintiff stated that the suit was one for labor and repairs in December, 1927 and January 1928, to an automobile which had been left in the garage. A copy of the writ had been left at the last known place of residence of respondent and had been returned with the notation "Moved, left no address." Judge Williams rendered decision that plaintiff recover $144.37 and costs.

Dr. John E. Ruisi, M. D., vs. William McGrath. Answered by M. Walter Flynn and continued two weeks.

Vivian Barnet vs. Antonio Gencarelli. Attorney Dunn entered his appearance and the case marked continued to March 15th when stipulations were to be filed.

Criminal docket—State Trooper Robert P. Butler, presented Joseph Girard of Hopkinton on the complaint that March 1st at Hopkinton on a state highway he operated an automobile without license, and at a time when his operator's license had been suspended by the Rhode Island state board of public roads. The defendant pleaded guilty but explained that with Roy Rawlings Tuesday last he had visited the state board to secure the return of his operator's license. At a previous time the license had been suspended and it was then necessary that he secure insurance. The insurance papers, he said, were delayed in the mail and had finally been received Friday, at which time it had been understood that his operator's license was to have been given him by the state board. In the meantime it was necessary for him to get his workmen to his sawmill at Woodville as he had a contract with the New Haven railroad which called for completion March 31st. The judge said the maximum penalty fixed by statute for the offense was a $500 fine and a year's imprisonment or both, but continued the case one week.

COLCHESTER

TOWN HAS THREE SITES FOR VETERANS' HOSPITAL

Colchester people are still in hopes that the federal hospitalization bureau may select a site in this section as a location for the new three-million dollar U. S. Veterans' hospital. According to a recent news dispatch from Washington, it is probable that a site within about twenty miles of Hartford will be chosen. The Colchester chamber of commerce has been making an earnest effort to induce the hospital board to select one of the several sites available in this vicinity. One of the recent letters to the chamber of commerce from Gen. Frank T. Hines, head of the veterans' bureau, said in part: "The data which you have furnished will be given careful consideration in connection with selection of a site for the hospital in the area involved."

There are several sites available on the outskirts of the village, which embody practically all the requirements of the hospitalization board. Two of the proffered sites are about a mile south of the village, one being a farm of about 120 acres and the other a 300-acre farm; both are about 400 feet above sea level. About two miles south of the village, another farm of 300 acres and 500 feet above sea level is offered. All of these proposed sites are within a short distance of fine grade and high schools. Transportation facilities are unequalled, Colchester being easily accessible to the nearby cities of Norwich, Hartford, New London, Willimantic and Middletown. Colchester is also geographically located in the center of the southern New England hospitalization district. One important factor in favor of the local sites is that they are offered at a much lower figure than similar sites in other parts of the state. The construction of the hospital here would be a great boom to Colchester and the local chamber of commerce believing no stone unturned in it's efforts to have favorable action taken toward that end.

Roy W. Downer, of Willimantic, elected exalted ruler of Willimantic lodge, No. 1311, B. P. O. Elks, is a native of Colchester and has a wide circle of friends here.

CHAPLIN

A special town meeting was held in the town hall Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock to lay a tax on the grand list of 1928, to defray the expenses of the town for the ensuing year. A 20-mill tax was voted. The net grand list of the town is $382,770.50.

The village minister's study is how to make both ends meet.

NOANK

MUST WEAR RUBBER BOOTS WHILE TENDING FURNACES

On account of the recent rains many residences have flooded cellars. In one celar a man measured and found just two feet of water. He pumped 24 hours to get rid of it. People have required rubber bots when obliged to go to the cellar and in a few cases householders have been unable to tend their furnaces.

The cause of overweight

Not due to any one food alone

THERE has been so much discussion in this country about the cause of being overweight that we decided to go to one of the leading scientific authorities on diet. We requested him to state the facts for the benefit of the public.

"It is the fashion to blame sweets for everything," he said. "Overweight is not due to sweets alone."

"If the dietary habits of overweight individuals are scrutinized," he went on to say, "it will be found that sugar is the foodstuff gorged by some, starches by others, fats and oils by others, and meats by others."

"Strictly speaking," he said, "the average increase in overweight cannot be attributed to increase in intake of sugar or any other single foodstuff."

Note that he speaks of gorging. How intelligent it would be if everyone in the United States would refrain from gorging any one kind of food, and ate in moderation a great variety of all kinds of healthful foods.

It is clearly up to the women in the home to see that all adults and all children are furnished a variety of appetizing foods and to remember that sugar is the mainstay for making healthful foods delicious and appetizing.

One excellent way to prevent gorging is to feed your family a varied and well-balanced diet. Sugar develops the incomparable flavors of cereals, vegetables, fruits and many meats. It makes vegetables taste fresher and improves their color. Nothing can take the place of intelligent cookery. The best cooks are generous with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

Now Comes a Bread

To Meet the Need of an Inexpensive Food with High Dietetic Value

Won't you please try a loaf?

It offers proteins, calories, vitamins to build you up and bring new vigor. Its flavor and freshness know no equal. To get it you ask for Wonder Bread

By ALICE ADAMS PROCTOR

BE prepared, Madam, to change your old ideas about bread. Now we offer you a kind that's new and vastly better.

It combines to a marked degree the very advantages modern domestic science has been seeking—namely, delicious flavor and high dietetic worth in a food within the means of all.

It is known as Wonder Bread. Please start with it today. But first let us tell you in detail what it offers.

It provides an abundance of calories. Enough, say several authorities, to restore as much as 50 per cent of all the energy used by the human body.

It provides many necessary proteins, too. The elements, as you know, that build sturdy muscles.

Thus if eaten daily Wonder Bread promotes family health to a marked degree.

It's splendid, too, from the housekeeper's point of view. It slices without crumbling. And keeps its freshness for days.

To maintain its quality day after day we go to great lengths. We specify a specially milled short patent flour. Only the heart of the wheat berry is used.

We use double the usual amount of milk.

We employ, too, a special method of baking. Slo-baking, it is called. A method that seals in the dietetic value of ingredients and improves their flavor.

Hence when you get Wonder Bread you get the best. It knows no rival. Millions have found this to be so.

So please try it at once, to prove what it offers you and yours.

Note its dainty flavor. See how evenly it toasts. How easily it slices.

But remember! Ordinary breads are not like this. Avoid them. Insist on Wonder Bread always.

SEVEN QUICK FACTS

About Wonder Bread

1. Slo-baked to seal in the delicate flavor and prolong the freshness.
2. Toasts quickly to an even golden brown.
3. Rich in vital food elements for growth and energy.
4. Made of specially milled short patent flour—heart of the wheat berry.
5. Double the usual quantity of milk. Pasteurized.
6. All ingredients are tested for quality, purity and nutritive value.
7. At grocer's oven fresh in the morning and afternoon.

DANIELSON

DARBIE EXPLAINS WHY SPECIAL MEETING NOT CALLED

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON March 3—Attorney L. L. Darbie, member of the special committee of the town to employ certified public accountants to audit the town records, came forward this morning with a statement to clarify a situation in which he has been held responsible for not calling a special town meeting to follow the adjourned annual town meeting next Monday evening to hear the auditors' report. Attorney Darbie says the report of which there is only one copy was taken from his office by Patrick Riley, of Dayville, another member of the committee, and that Mr. Riley has not returned it.

Attorney Darbie's statement is as follows:

The Norwich Bulletin:

In an article published Thursday in The Windham County Transcript, concerning the recent audit of the books of the town of Killingly, I notice that it is stated that two members of the committee, Patrick Riley and Frank J. Gorman, state that it was their understanding that I was to make the necessary arrangements for a special meeting on next Monday evening, but that I had not completed my study of the auditors' report and consequently was not prepared to appear before a town meeting with recommendations. The article, however, fails to state that the reason why I have not completed my study of the report is that I have not had an opportunity to do so, on account of the report being in the hands of Mr. Riley and his friends most of the time.

The report was received by me from the auditors on February 4th, and as I was to be out of town on business until the 8th, I had an opportunity only to read the report over hurriedly on the 4th. As soon as I returned to town I took the report up with the other members of the committee and we went over the text of the report but did not have time to make a study at that meeting of the various schedules that were presented with it. It is true that it was understood at that meeting that we would request the selectmen to call a special town meeting to be held on the same evening as the adjourned annual town meeting in March and then make our report. This committee meeting was held on Friday February 8th, and Mr. Gorman desired to take the report home over the week-end in order to give it more careful study. This he did and returned it to me on the following Monday morning, as agreed. During that week I was out of town on business for the state of Connecticut and on Wednesday of that week, while I was absent from town, Mr. Riley called at my office and requested the report, and as he was a member of the committee in charge of it, the report was given to him and since tenh it has not been returned to me, and I have seen nothing concerning it except what I have read in the newspapers.

On Wednesday, March 6th, I talked with Mr. Riley over the phone regarding this and he stated that he had loaned the report to a friend and would bring it to my office as soon as the party returned it.

This is the reason why I did not make arrangements to have a special town meeting called on Monday, March 11th.

A joint meeting of the Ladies' Prayer league and the W. C. T. U., is to be held at the Westfield Congregational church Tuesday afternoon.

The prospect of a tax rate of 29 1-2 mills has stirred things up considerably. That is as officials would wish it that a full discussion of the budget may be had at the adjourned annual town meeting next Monday evening. The chances are, it would appear today, that some items will be slashed deeply or almost wholly eliminated. This, of course, cannot be done with fixed expenses. The future will be to cut the tax rate below the estimated requirement and the forecast is that plenty will be said about the matter right out in the meeting.

State officers checking up as to how many drivers operating cars have new licenses have established that car owners and operators have been careful, as a general rule, to get the new licenses. No local driver who has been checked has been found wanting in this respect. State officers were checking again today. At Central Village two operators of cars were found to be without the new licenses.

Chief John McFarland, as he has to do periodically, again is engaged with an effort to keep boys from foraging about in the rear of business blocks and carrying off one thing or another that happens to come under their eyes. The chief has warned some of these boys that the practice must cease. He also desires that parents warn their children against indulging in such practices, held to be liable to result in thefts and court presentations.

Stories in the county press this week relative to a deer ring engaged in killing deer recalls a story that was in circulation here several years ago relative to the killing of deer for market. It was said that the men alleged to be engaged in the illegal operations had a market for all the deer they could get in Providence, and that the enterprise was quite profitable for a time. However, the subject remains just a story up to this time and nothing has been heard of the matter for many years.

Danielson members of the Putnam country club will attend the annual meeting next Tuesday evening when reports covering the past year will be presented and officers elected for the ensuing year.

COLUMBIA

The March meeting of Columbia grange was held Wednesday evening with a fine attendance in spite of the bad traveling, 39 being present. The general topics of the evening was "The Weather." The lecturer's hour opened with a roll call responded to by original poems some of which were very clever and were greeted with much applause. It would seem as if the members had varied talents, the previous meeting showing that they could draw pictures and last night's meeting that they could write poetry. There were various tableaux suitable to the different seasons, and papers were read on the general subject. A short sketch called "Ma Writes a Poem" was carried out by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hunt and Clayton Hunt, Jr., in which pa attempts to do a "simple little job" of mending while ma writes a poem. Ma has to do both finally. It is hoped to arrange a debate on some interesting subject for the next meeting.

PUTNAM

"TOM" TAYLOR RECALLS NAVAL BATTLE OF 67 YEARS AGO

(Special to The Bulletin.

PUTNAM, March 8—(AP)—On March 9, sixty-seven years ago, naval history was made at Hampton Roads, Virginia, when the famous battle of the first "ironclads" took place between the Confederate ram, "The Merrimac" and the Union steel semi-submersible, "The Monitor," in which the latter was a victor after an all-day fight.

This battle is of utmost interest to the citizens of Putnam and one man in particular, Thomas L. Taylor, an elderly colored citizen, living at his little home tucked away on the east side of Oak hill, who is the last survivor of nearly a hundred Union sailors who took part in the first conflict between iron ships. Each year it is Mr. Taylor's pleasure to be interviewed by various newspaper men who delight in hearing him relate the exciting adventures that took place in his life from the time he was born, in the bonds of slavery in North Carolina; his daring escape, in company with another Negro plantation-worker, from the grips of southern aristocracy, until he was enlisted as a powder monkey on the Monitor. Again this afternoon "Tommy" re-told a vivid account of the happenings that transpired more than a half century ago.

Mr. Taylor, now in his eighty-fourth year, was born in Currituck county, North Carolina, on the large cotton plantation of Colonel Caleb Ethridge, one of the wealthiest plantation owners of the old south. According to Mr. Taylor, his master suffered financial hardships and plunged deeply into debt while attempting to maintain his high social standing. In order to meet the demands of his creditors he was forced to part with his property. This caused little Tommy's first appearance in the slave mart. "My mother and I went together on the block," said the ex-slave, "several gentlemen bid on us. They wanted my mother but they did not want to pay for me too." At last Colonel Ethridge's mistress bought back my mother, and Major Eylington bought me." On the new plantation Tommy, then eight years of age, suffered the hardships inflicted upon the slaves by their masters. Mr. Taylor told of the stirring days leading up to the great civil conflict, and how the slaves eagerly devoured all the news they could obtain as the war clouds gathered.

He was fourteen when Fort Sumpter was fired upon, and passed all of the remained year waiting anxious for an opportunity when he could make a dash for the north and freedom. "We heard that Major John Ericson was building a funny boat in New York and was son going to bring it to Hampton Roads. We were determined to try to get there before he came," said Mr. Taylor in telling of the events leading up to his escape. It was about the first of March that Tommy and his friend stole a horse and team, the best in their master's stable and left the plantation for Hampton Roads, the Union naval station. Fortunately the Confederates had called off their pickets from service in the field. This point in their favor enabled them to easily gain admittance through the Union outposts.

After their arrival at Hampton Roads Tommy at once was taken into the navy as a messenger at a coaling station. Upon the arrival of the "Yankee Cheese Box on a Raft," he gained the favor of a Union officer on the ship and was taken aboard as a cabin boy. The ironclad Merrimac was then threatening the entire Union navy and had sunk a number of wooden ships. "We could see the death ship steaming out of Norfolk to do further destruction. Then came the command to board ship and go out to meet her. It was about nine or ten o'clock in the morning as I remember it," commented Mr. Taylor. "As the ships met there was a verbal warm exchange between the commanding officers. The Merrimac told the Monitor to "back water" and the Union chief returned, "Back water yourself." A third phrase came from the rebel ship, 'We'll sink you.' The Yankee reply was 'Sink and be d——.'"

"This opened the battle," said Mr. Taylor "and it continued until dark. The cannons raged from both ships, the shells taking little effect."

Mr. Taylor then described the manner in which the Union sailors fired at the rebel opponet through the turret of the ironclad in the midst of intense heat. Tommy was a powder monkey, throwing up shells and powder from the magazine. At last the final crash came, when the Merrimac attempted to sink the cheese box by opening its ram box.

"Just then we fired a shell and it entered the boiler room, causing an explosion and killing two men," said Mr. Taylor, as if he were at the moment re-living the events of the battle. The rebel's hope then withdrew and the battle was over.

Mr. Taylor was then taken to the Union hospital, suffering from sharpnel wounds. After his discharge from the institution he re-entered the navy serving on another monitor, "The Roanoke." From then until the end of the war, Mr. Taylor saw but a few skirmishes which took place with Confederate rams, camouflouged on the banks of the James river. On July 13, 1866 he was honorably discharged from the service. The war at an end meant the abolition of slavery and freedom for this now venerable old colored gentleman. He continued in the sea service, as a member of the crew of a merchantman. Following his retirement from the navy he came north to Boston and later to Salem. About forty-five years ago Mr. Taylor came to Putnam, working as a janitor in school, banks and office buildings here. As old age crept upon him the government allowed him to voluntarily retire on a war pension. His wife died a number of years ago, but he has a son William H. Taylor, who was last heard from at the time of the Mexican uprising previous to America's participation in the World war. Mr. Taylor believes that his son was killed while in service on the Mexican border as neither the government army authorities or himself have any trace of him.

Thomas Taylor now lives alone in Putnam, except for his house keeper, who is the widow of a Civil war veteran. Despite his advanced years Mr. Taylor is active about his home and delights in taking care of his property. During the summer months he manages to get into the city to acquire his newspaper and other necessities. He is an ardent reader and, like all former slaves, enjoys the accounts of the life of the great emancipator, Abraham Lincoln.

In recent years it was a common occurrence to observe a newspaper item in some metropolitan dailies the following head line, "Last Survivor of the Monitor Dies," but always Thomas Taylor was on hand to deny the truth of the statement. While he does not claim to be the last survivor of that famous crew, he says that he has not heard of any of his comrades in action being alive.

Edward Nichols of this city, a "car knocker" on the New Haven railroad while attending to a "hot box" on one of the fast express trains passing through this city yesterday, slipped on a tie coated with ice and severely wrenched his knee. Mr. Nichols was taken to the office of a local physician where the strain was given medical attention and he was later taken to his home. Mr. Nichols was substituting for his brother, James Nichols, regular car knocker, who himself is suffering from an abcess on the foot. He commenced his duties Friday only to have the accident befall him shortly after he entered the employ of the road.

William E. Sault, assistant superintendent of the New Haven division of the New Haven railroad, left for New Haven this morning to pass the day at his home in that city with his family. Mr. Sault received the congratulations of his numerous friends in Putnam Friday for having attained his 59th milestone of life, and was in New Haven today where Mrs. Sault observed her birthday.

In police court this morning Albert Duyer of South Main street was committed to the care of the city probation forces, after pleading guilty to the theft of magazines from the Putnam News company on Union street. Duyer was arrested Monday by Officer Joseph Page of the Putnam police after the proprietor of the newstand Leon A. Talbot had prevented him from leaving the store with the stolen magazine concealed within his overcoat. His term of probation will last one year.

Juvenile court was in session today in the law offices of Torrey and Geissler when Judge M. H. Geissler committed a wayward youth to the state school for boys in Meriden, Conn.

At last the Odd Fellows scored a victory over the indoor sport rival the Kaceys in the weekly tournament played last evening in the K. of C. rooms on Union street. The win was also a decisive one, the final score being 3-2 in favor of the straggling Odd Fellows, who have won but one encounter since the tournament opened late in the fall.

Whether or not the few remaining tenants occupying the houses formerly owned by the Guerin Mills Inc., in Mechanicsville will be given an opportunity to purchase their dwellings, by the new Boston owners who acquired the property this week in the wholesale real estate deal involving the entire village, was not disclosed today. It was stated upon good authority today that final plans for the closing of the deeds in preparation for the filing with the town officials in Thompson were being completed. The French river textile farm, which was not included in the sale of the village farm will later be disposed of, according to information obtained today.

Robert Bruce, a student at Northeastern university in Boston is spending a five week practical experience period of study in the service of City Engineer George W. Perry of Providence street. Mr. Bruce is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bruce of Walnut street.

Dog Warden E. L. Chandler reported today that he had checked up the report that residents of the north end of the city owning dogs were disobeying the rules of the dog quarantine by allowing their dogs to roam about the section of the city. Warden Chandler said this afternoon that he had toured that part of the city known as Rhodesville and had seen a few stray dogs at large, but prompt action and cooperation upon the part of the owners soon caused the dogs to be chained up. Prompt action on the part of the selectmen of the town will soon bring about the much needed dog pound, recommended by the state officials of the department of domestic animals. Dog Warden Chandler said this afternoon that the selectmen have furnished a sufficient sum of money to meet the expenses of constructing the kennel enclosures, to confine the suspected breeds during a period of observation. The dog pound, it was said today, would be located in the large barn on Centennial street owned by the Putnam Coal and Wood company.

Franklin Perry a student at Amherst college is spending a few days at the home of his parents Dr and Mrs Edward F. Perry of Grove street.

The trustees of the Putnam Savings bank have met and drawn up resolutions on the death of the late treasurer of the institution, Daniel J. Byrne. Until today the officials of the institution have taken no action in appointing a successor to Mr. Byrne. The bank commissioner of the state, Lester G. Shippee of Hartford has detailed an official of his department to assist the clerical forces of the savings institute, until a new treasurer is appointed.

The honor roll at Tourtellotte Memorial high school in North Grosvenordale has been announced by the faculty of the school. All students who obtained marks in the recent examinations above a standard of 80 per cent have had the names mythically inscribed upon the roll of honor.

It was announced today that a Well Child conference will be held at the Emergency hospital in North Grosvenordale on Wednesday afternoon, March 13. All mothers in the town of Thompson are urged to be present with the infants to undergo the state health examination.

Almus Dorman has taken up his residence with George Griswold in the grove for a while.

Repairs have been made to the Von Fellitz place in the grove, gutted by fire Dec. 31st. The family expects to move in shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Smith of New York were in the village Monday attending the funeral of the former's father, William Edmund Smith.

Mrs. Fred Sisson and daughter, Evelyn, of Westerly, were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rathbun.

Bruce Scalen and family have vacated the Clark house on Luce avenue and moved to Portland, Conn.

Bowling team "A of Niantic rolled team A of Clinton on the local alleys Thursday evening, last. "B" team of Niantic rolled Clinton B team at Essex Thursday evening. Both bowling teams are affiliated with the Middlesex County bowling league.

Don't wait until the good things of life go by before looking after them.

DON'T NEGLECT DAILY ROUGHAGE

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Will Supply It in Generous Quantities

There's danger in diets that lack bulk. This roughage is absolutely necessary to keep well. Without it constipation begins its deadly work. Unless prevented its poisons will ruin health, steal beauty, blast hopes.

Sallow complexions, headaches, listlessness are signs that constipation is present. But these can be banished—health and vigor can be regained by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran and is 100% effective. It is guaranteed to bring natural, sure relief. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily — chronic cases, with every meal. Doctors recommend it.

A delicious cereal to serve with milk or cream. Delicious in cooked dishes. Recipes are on the package. Your grocer sells ALL-BRAN. Hotels, restaurants and dining-cars serve it. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

What TWIN IGNITION Does

THE New Nash Twin-Ignition motor has two big aircraft spark plugs for each cylinder, instead of the ordinary single plug, as you can see in the simplified diagram above.

Both plugs fire simultaneously. The gas vapor is ignited at two points instead of the usual one. One effect is quicker combustion, which produces more power, more speed, much faster acceleration.

Another result is, more uniform combustion, which helps to create the very noticeable smoothness and rhythm of Nash motor performance.

And still another result of Twin Ignition is more efficient combustion, which prevents wasted fuel.

With Twin Ignition, instead of single ignition, higher compression is practical, and the same Nash motor produces 9½ more horsepower, 5 miles an hour more speed, and 2 extra miles from every gallon of gasoline you buy.

THE COUNTRY ROADS.

When it comes to the betterment of back roads, the manner in which country roads are frequently referred to, opinions differ as to what should be done. There are those who use those roads for pleasure, those who are obliged to drive over them as a matter of business and those who, because of their location, can start out on nothing else.

From the standpoint of those who like to drive or walk in the country E. Calkins in the Atlantic Monthly puts in a bid for the paving of the back country roads for the purpose of better accommodating the motorists.

There is no question but what all those who are obliged to use most of the country roads will agree with him to the extent that they ought to get more attention, but it is doubted whether there is any real demand for the hard surfaced road except that it be for a through line that would follow an existing country road.

The people in the country want better roads. They believe that they are entitled to them, especially in states where they are paying part of the special taxes for the construction and maintenance of modern highways, but they realize that they are not entitled to receive on the country roads what is required for the main thoroughfares. The fact is that they are not seeking such construction. They set forth that they would be satisfied with macadamized roads and in some instances with gravel roads provided they are properly constructed to take care of the bad spots.

Without a doubt the country people are entitled to better roads. They not only feel so themselves but those who drive into the country recognize it. There isn't anything much more delightful than a drive through the country districts, off the cement and away from the traffic, but the beauty of such drives need not be disturbed by the putting of the roads in proper condition. Make the dirt roads what they ought to be, improve them by filling the mudholes and producing a good gravel surface, or if the travel is sufficient to warrant build it of macadam. There is a need for it for the country people and for those doing business with them, the mailmen, the doctors and the tradesmen. The country roads ought to be taken out of their present state of neglect.

DEALING WITH THE PRESS.

Each president has a different way of dealing with the press. There have been those who have been inclined to be extremely liberal in their discussions and to talk freely. As the result of such a policy there have been those who have regretted their attitude because of the manner in which their statements have been used.

It is because of such experiences that other presidents have been disposed to follow a different course and to so guard their discussions with the newspapermen that there could be no direct quotation unless permission were given. It was in keeping with this that the idea of the "white house spokesman" developed.

As the result of his first discussion with the newspapermen after inauguration, President Hoover gives the impression that he intends to follow his own course, to be guided by experience and to talk as freely as conditions will permit. There is to be no spokesman. Whether this means that there will of necessity be more restrictions when it comes to quoting the president, or whether he will feel called upon to limit the statements that can be attributed to him, will depend upon results.

It is obvious that there are many matters upon which the president cannot talk, especially while they are under development, but there are opportunities for giving expression to his views from time to time. It must be understood that a president must be the judge in this respect. His is the responsibility and he must choose the time for making public his views.

President Hoover will not set forth all his policies or plans through the newspaper conferences. There will be plenty of other channels for such, but the newspaper conferences bring him in touch with the press of the country in a most intimate manner and there is much satisfaction over the fact that he has displayed so much frankness in the attitude he has taken. Every president is entitled to his method of dealing with such a matter, and it is only natural that Mr. Hoover should have a plan of his own.

THE S-4 TESTS.

No one can feel happy over the fact that the S-4 was struck during a maneuvre off Provincetown and sent to the bottom resulting in the loss of many lives. That was a deplorable tragedy, and yet it must be recognized that in all probability there would have been no such means of escape from a sunken submarine as have since been developed if that had not occurred.

It is with much satisfaction that we read of the reports concerning the experiments with the S-4 off Florida. Each time a new test is made it is found that the device works successfully, and it means much to those who go to sea in submarines that the additional safety provisions are accomplishing what was expected of them.

The escape chamber and the lung are meeting every requirement. It is possible for the men aboard the reconditioned S-4, now being used for experimental purposes, to get to the deck of the vessel, send a line to the surface and ascend beside that line in safety. They have done it from 40 feet, from 100 and this week proved that it could be successfully done from 150 to 200 feet. Both of these latter tests were at greater depths than was the S-4 when it was sunk off Cape Cod.

Thus we have reason to applaud the good work that is being done in reducing some of the danger involved in operations. The loss of the crew of the S-4, as well as that of the S-51, has not been in vain. There is sincere regret that they could not have had the advantage of such a means of getting clear from their trap on the floor of the ocean but through their sacrifice others are to have the advantages which should have been available to them.

As the result of the experiments now being made it is to be expected that changes will be made in future submarine construction that will permit of the additional safety equipment. It would be a happy step if an agreement could be reached for the abandonment of the underwater boat, but until that time comes it is necessary to surround it with as many safety devices as are practical for a war vessel.

ACTION THAT IS NEEDED.

It is not surprising that word comes from Washington that efforts will be made to obtain the passage of the Fenn reapportionment bill during the special session of congress which President Hoover has called for the 15th of April.

That measure should have received the approval of the senate in the 70th congress. It was the change which that body had to carry out constitutional requirements, and it is the logical step for the 71st congress in special session to take it up and pass it, even though it is not one of the things for which the extra session has been called.

The manner in which action has been refused in regard to reapportionment is disgraceful. The fact that previous congresses should have acted does not entirely eliminate the 70th congress from responsibility for failure to act. Neither is the excuse that there were features of the bill which were not favored sufficient ground for the opposition that was used to prevent a vote upon it. If it were it would never be possible to get action upon any bill which displeased any particular state, or group of states, even though there was a decided majority in favor.

The fact that President Hoover has declared in favor of the Fenn bill should carry weight, not only in bringing it up for action but in disposing of it. There is no question but what the matter has been delayed too long, but the opposition that has been disclosed simply serves to demonstrate the great need that exists for preventing such a situation from developing again. That is one strong reason for insisting upon early action. Otherwise the same difficulty may be experienced every time it becomes necessary to make a reapportionment.

ELIHU ROOT'S PLAN.

If we can judge by the reports which are coming from Geneva, Elihu Root is making a good impression with the plan that he has unfolded in regard to the adhesion of the United States to the world court. This occasions surprise only to the extent of the speed with which it is being accomplished.

Mr. Root went to Europe for the purpose of setting forth the American attitude and the reasons for the reservations that were adopted. His task was to overcome the doubts that existed and which stood in the way of the acceptance of our reservations, and to set forth a plan whereby the difficulties could be overcome that would be satisfactory to all.

There is no gainsaying the size of the job, but neither is there any gainsaying the ability of the man who was selected to do it. Mr. Root would get down to brass tacks and have the other nations understand that we are not seeking such powers and advantages as some may suppose.

Trouble hinges on the advisory opinions and those advisory opinions which concern this country. Mr. Root would have the league council and this government confer before requests for advisory opinions were presented to the court in order to learn the attitude of the United States. That would make it possible for this country to disclose that it had no interest in what would probably be most of the cases, but in case it should have it could withdraw from the court without any display of unfriendliness.

The aim is to bring about a better understanding of the situation in which the other countries as well as this country stand relative to the court, and the opinion still prevails that if anyone can accomplish it Mr. Root can.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Shouldn't we have heard before this as to whether the southern peach crop has been killed?

Now that it is announced that there are 14,000 millionaires in the country your turn may come next.

The man on the corner says: It is only occasionally that we experience the influence of the 1929 groundhog.

It will not be long now before it will be next to impossible to find some of the rural communities because of the mud.

Northampton made it evident that it was glad the Coolidges were back, and if we can judge from their pictured expression the ex-president and his wife were happy to be there.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

According to the papers they are now talking about diminishing the size of the current dollar bills. If this is stated by the daily press it must have some foundation of fact. The reason given for the suggested change in size is that with less amount of paper it will lessen the demand for raw material, and will not take up so much room in the pocket of the possessor. The writer of these notes cannot vouch for the inconvenience that others have found in this direction, but for himself there has never been any painful sense of discomfort either from the number or size of the dollar bills, and the amount of paper saved in this direction will have no visible effect on the field of raw material.

The writer begs leave of a much suffering public to air his mind in regard to those automobile drivers who splash water, slush and mud on unprotected pedestrians who have the gall to use the sidewalks. Is this done out of spite because these pedestrians are not exposing life and limb to something more serious than bespattered garments? Is not one justified in asking the question: Is it necessary to go rushing through space at the rate of 30 miles an hour in towns and cities where innocent pedestrians have still an ancient belief that they have some rights to sidewalk privileges, even in this age of automobiles? What is the game of stepping on the gas when an extra amount of slush lies near the sidewalk when the people are so crowded that there is no means of escape? The writer was splashed the other day but no damage was done to his $10 suit. But suppose he had on a fine gown from Paris!

In reading a religious magazine the other day I came across a paragraph so suggestive that I pass it on to you. Possibly you have seen it yourself: "When you wish to telephone you do not walk up to the instrument and begin talking toward it. First you make sure that you have the connection. You take down the receiver and hold it to your ear; you ask central to give you the number you want; you do not begin your conversation till you realize the presence, on the other end of the wire, of the person for whom you have a message or from whom you wish to hear. But when you pray, how many times do you shut your eyes and begin to talk without any effort whatever to secure first the realization of God?" Is this not true, perhaps not in the majority of cases, but at least in many cases? Without the realization that there is personality at the other end of the wire, can there be much power in such praying?

What do you think of this idea that a man is reported to have advanced quite recently while addressing the men of a certain order to which he belonged? This is the sum and substance of what he said: This America of ours—probably referring to the United States—is fast becoming a hideous monarchy more despotic than Russia under the rule of the czars. The poor workingman who never had a fair chance is compelled to bow the knee to the bloated plutocrats. They put so big a price upon their own manufactured products that they are beyond the reach of the poor laborer's pocketbook. They try to ease their guilty consciences by now and then making an advance in their workmen's pay. If the pay goes up 2 per cent, the price of their goods goes up at a larger per cent. And then they go to church, roll up their eyes toward heaven and sing in a deep bass voice, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

After a certain pastor's study had been thoroughly scrubbed up, so as to eliminate all danger of spreading infectious diseases, and the pastor was once more reinstated in his sanctum, he found on his study desk, usually devoted to sacred things, a tin can in a prominent position with this ominous label: "Concentrated Lye." At first a flush of anger spread over his ruddy countenance, because there might have been a sinister motive for putting it there as a reflection on the character of the work usually done at that sacred desk. But the spelling of the word relieved the situation somewhat; it was "lye" and not "lie." He regained his composure when the spelling of the word was made plain to him. Some comfort, however, came to him when he thought how perfectly those words "concentrated lie" applied to an article he had been reading. Every room ought to have at least two doors, so that when a scrubbing brush or a book agent or any other "concentrated lie" comes in at the one, he can slip out at the other.

While admitting that all business has not always been an expression of the Golden Rule, any more than all preaching has been Biblical, and all law practicing legal, and yet it is sheer tommyrot to say that the United States is or ever has been throttled by a bunch of plutocrats. Think for a moment what money, made in business, has done in endowing our colleges so that a way is provided for the poor man's boy to get an education! Think for a moment what is realized in taxes from the big corporations that make the splendid highways over which the poor man can run the Ford that he pays for in installments! Does he think of this when he and his family are having such a glorious time on Saturday and Sunday? If this is what you call being throttled, it is being greatly enjoyed.

We ought to rejoice at any honest attempt at reform whether it is in religion, politics, education, business, or the weather. Now this latter may seem to be an absurdity, as the weather is apparently beyond human control. But is it so far that man by the application of scientific methods cannot at least modify it? A subject which is of close relative to the weather is the calendar, which has been more or less a matter of controversy since the palmy days of Julius Caesar. It was quite appropriate that July should have been named after this Julius, for the world has had no greater man. But it made Augustus ripping mad that August, named after him, should have only 30 days, while July had 31. To get even with Julius he stole a day from June and added it to August. As June was named after Juno, a woman, Augustus knew if she got mad she would be helpless. But of all the thievery, poor February suffered most until Pope Gregory came to the rescue.

Do you ever say to yourself, "where has the winter gone to?" If so you are unconsciously paying yourself a compliment. If the winter has seemed short it is because you have not been everlastingly thinking about it. You have been more profitably employed than moaning over this day being so damp, and that one so windy, and another one so cold and still another one so stormy. If you want to get some idea what eternity is, just watch the clock for one whole day and do nothing else, and you will find out. When I hear a good housewife say "I don't see where the weeks go to!" I make up my mind that she doesn't bother much about the weather but cooks three good meals a day for her husband and sees that his clothes are kept on by buttons rather than safety pins. Just keep busy with something useful and turn over the weather to the Creator.

Here's where the children turn the hose on old Santa Claus

WHAT PRESIDENTS DO AFTER LEAVING OFFICE.

President Coolidge's retirement from office will lead many thoughtful Americans to ponder on what the coming years may hold for him. In doing so it will be natural to reflect on the experiences of his predecessors. The years of the presidents of the United States after retirement have been spent quietly in most cases; although a number of noteworthy exceptions must be made to this statement.

Washington resumed his work at his beloved Mount Vernon estate until July 8, 1798, when he reluctantly accepted command of the new army to participate in the threatened war with France. In the midst of such preparations he passed on in December, 1799.

John Adams devoted most of his last quarter of a century to literary work, although he accepted election as a delegate to the convention for revising the constitution of Massachusetts.

Jefferson's years after retirement were saddened by financial embarrassments, but he worked almost incessantly for the promotion of education in Virginia, and especially for the state university, of which he is revered as the "Father."

Among Books and Friends

Madison spent his last 19 years in tranquility among his books and friends. With his close associates, Jefferson and Monroe, he served as a regent of the University of Virginia.

Monroe spent part of his retired years at his home, Oak Hill, Va., and part of it in New York. He declined a nomination on the presidential electoral ticket on the ground that a former president should not be a party leader. He did, however, serve as a local magistrate and as a member of the constitutional convention of Virginia.

John Quincy Adams survived his term as president nearly 19 years and served valiantly in congress from 1831 until 1848.

Van Buren, during the more than 20 years after his term as president, remained in political life, and during the "Barnburner" and "Free Soil" campaign of 1848 he was an unsuccessful candidate for another term as president.

William Henry Harrison's one month as president is the shortest term in the history of the United States. His successor, John Tyler, completed the term, and for 18 years thereafter the latter's greatest activity was in connection with efforts to avert the Civil war. When those efforts failed he became a member of the provisional congress of the Confederacy. He was also elected to the permanent congress of the Confederacy.

Polk had practically no life in retirement, and Taylor passed on in office. Fillmore's span after the presidency was next to that of John Adams, the longest in the country's history, 21 years and five days. During those years he made two trips to Europe, where he was cordially welcomed. He ran for the presidency again in 1856 on the ticket of the American party, carrying only the state of Maryland. As the first citizen of Buffalo, he was frequently called upon to officiate on public occasions.

Traveling

Pierce spent his 12 years after the presidency by traveling in Europe for three years and then by advocating the support of the Union cause as the Civil war opened.

Buchanan spent a quiet retirement at his Pennsylvania home, "Wheatland."

Lincoln was assassinated. Johnson, who completed the term, remained actively in politics. He failed in his first efforts to secure election to the United States senate and to congress, but in 1875 he was elected to the senate and passed on shortly thereafter.

Grant made great use of his eight years after the end of his second term, his achievements including his famous tour around the world, his participation in the "Last Spike" ceremonies of the Northern Pacific railroad in September, 1883, and the writing of his two volumes of "Memoirs." The efforts of the "Stalwarts" to renominate him for the presidency in 1880 drew him again into politics. He aided in Garfield's election.

Hayes lived nearly 12 years after his one term. At his home in Fremont, O., he gave himself to service for military, educational and charitable reforms and organizations. He received honorary degrees from universities and praise from south and north for his efforts toward peace and general betterment.

Garfield was assassinated and Arthur, after completing the term, spent his remaining two years quietly at his home in New York city.

During the four years between his two terms, Cleveland resumed the practice of law in New York, and enjoyed the national leadership of the democratic party. At the end of his second term there remained for him a little more than 11 years. Most of it he gave to Princeton university in his native state of New Jersey. He lectured and took part in many academic functions.

Returned to Law

Benjamin Harrison, after March 4, 1893, resumed his vocation as a lawyer in Indianapolis, but gave much of his time to two avocations—work for the Presbyterian church and the authorship of a series of magazine articles which were collected into a book entitled "This Country of Ours," published first in 1897.

McKinley was assassinated and was succeeded by Roosevelt. After March 4, 1909, President Roosevelt entered upon the strenuous period of nearly ten years which remained and which were filled with characteristic activities. One of the chief events of this period was his candidacy on the Progressive party ticket for a "third cup of coffee," as he called it. He served as special American ambassador for the funeral of King Edward VII in 1910. He hunted wild game in Africa in 1909-1910; visited South America in 1913; explored Brazil in 1914; lectured before the Royal Geographical society, London, in 1914; experienced two libel suits; served as contributing editor of the Outlook, 1904-1914, and offered to raise an army division to serve in the World war in 1917.

No former president has given more important or more dignified service to the country after retiring from the presidency, than has William Howard Taft. In the year of his retirement, 1913, he became Kent professor of law at Yale university and continued in that work until he became chief justice of the United States on June 30, 1921. He is still serving in that exalted position. He is the author of a number of works on law, government and history, and has rendered conspicuous service as president of the American Bar association, 1913; of the American Academy of Jurisprudence, 1914, and of the League to Enforce Peace, and as chancellor of the Smithsonian Institution, 1923.

Advocated Peace Measures

Although President Wilson, retiring from his second term on March 4, 1921 had remaining nearly three years, he was unable to enter actively into any line of work. Through individuals and delegations who visited at his home in Washington, D. C., however, he continued to advocate measures for world peace.

President Harding passed on in office. President Coolidge has just retired. He has said that he is going to Vermont to "whittle for a year." He is in robust health and he will carry into his period of retirement the unanimous hope of Americans that he may enjoy long years of worth-while service in some field of his own choosing.

In addition to the periods of retirement in the years of the presidents, there are a number of other facts worth recalling at such a time. The frequent migration of American citizens from one state to another is shown by the fact that 12 of the presidents were elected while citizens of states other than those of their birth. That list includes Jackson, William H. Harrison, Polk, Taylor, Lincoln, Johnson, Grant, Arthur, Benjamin Harrison, Cleveland, Wilson, Coolidge and Hoover. One interesting phase of such migrations involves two states. North Carolina has had three of her native sons—Jackson, Polk and Johnson—in the presidency, but all three of them were citizens of Tennessee when they attained the office. North Carolina had no citizen chosen for the presidency and Tennessee had no native son so chosen.

Hoover is the first one chosen from any state west of the Mississippi, and this applies both as to birth (Iowa) and as to citizenship (California), and it is further significant that the new vice president also represents the west.

If one divides the states east of the Mississippi into groups called New England, middle states and southern states, one finds that the middle group furnished 17 citizens for the presidency, the southern states eight, and New England five. As to nativity the figures are: Middle states 12, southern states 12, and New England five.

Virginia has had the largest number of native sons (eight) in the presidency. Five of these—Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and Tyler—were citizens of the same state when they had attained the office. The other three had become citizens of other states: William Henry Harrison, Ohio; Zachary Taylor, Louisiana, and Woodrow Wilson, New Jersey.

The State of Presidents

Ohio had seven presidents—Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Benjamin Harrison, McKinley, Taft and Harding—born within her borders, two of whom had migrated to other states—Grant to Illinois and Benjamin Harrison to Indiana. The two Harrisons show the "westward movement," one from Virginia to Ohio and the other from Ohio to Indiana.

New York has had five citizens in the presidency. Three—Van Buren, Fillmore and Roosevelt—were born in that state, while Arthur had come from Vermont and Cleveland from New Jersey. The last-named state had thus contributed one native son and another adopted son.

Coolidge, by moving from his native state of Vermont to Massachusetts, gave the latter state its third citizen president. John and John Quincy Adams were both native sons and citizens.

The two presidents from Illinois were both adopted sons—Lincoln from Kentucky and Grant from Ohio.

New Hampshire and Pennsylvania each had one native son—Pierce and Buchanan, respectively—chosen while each was also a citizen of the state of his birth.

Louisiana had one citizen president, Taylor, and Indiana one, Benjamin Harrison, but each of them was born in another state, as mentioned above, as was also the case of Tennessee's three citizens.

Chester A. Arthur was so much identified with New York that it is seldom recalled that he was born in Vermont, the same state that gave to this country's service Calvin Coolidge.—Edmond S. Meany in Christian Science Monitor.

Sunday Morning Talk

Burdens.

What is the meaning of the lesson that every one must bear his own burden? It is not a qualification of love's duty—it is the declaration of a deep principle in life. We are never to stay our hand in the presence of need. We are to give as God would have us. Yet there is a life which all of us live in which no one can help. We must indeed bear our own burdens. No matter how eager love is.

When a child is sick or suffering, the mother yearns to lift the heavy load. Gladly she would bear the pain if the little one might be free. Love is ready and eager to do its part, but it can do no more than soothe and cheer. It cannot always give relief.

What is true of physical pain is true also of other experiences. We cannot bear any part of the sorrow of our friends. We may sympathize with them, but sympathy is only entering in a small way into the experience of those we love. The word means to suffer with. There is immeasurable help for sad hearts in true sympathy. It brings the sense of companionship to those who are alone in the darkness. It tells them that somebody cares, feels with them in their troubles and longs to be of use to them. A card, a little note, a handful of flowers, or other token of thoughtfulness, sent to one passing through a great trial, carries untold comfort. Yet even the deepest and most real sympathy does not take away the keenness of the anguish. The sufferer must bear the burden himself.

The truth has a wider application. No one can relieve us of our responsibility to God and to our fellowmen. Each one of us must answer to God for himself. To each us duty comes with its own requirements, its claims. We must bear our own burdens.

The only place to carry those burdens is to the One who has said: "Cast thy burdens upon the Lord and he shall sustain thee; he shall never suffer the righteous to be moved." There is always One who can help when all other help shall fail. He will still go with us, even through the valley and the shadows, where even no earthly friend can go with us. May we look to Him at all times for the help we need.

YOUR INCOME TAX

The tax on dividends is an important item in the returns of many taxpayers. As defined by the revenue act of 1928, the term "dividend" means any distribution made by a corporation to its shareholders, whether in money or other property, out of its earnings or profits accumulated after Feb. 28, 1913. If a dividend represents profits earned by a corporation prior to March 1, 1913, there is no tax.

A dividend may be payable out of current profits or accumulated surplus, but it has no legal existence until it is "declared" by a formal resolution of the directors of the corporation. The ordinary form of dividend is a periodical cash distribution of current profits. However, dividends may be paid in securities or other property. For example, a corporation may distribute among its stockholders securities in which it has invested its earnings. Such securities are to be reported as dividends by the stockholders at the fair market value on the date the dividends become payable.

The rate of tax on the income of corporations was reduced by the revenue act of 1928 from 13 1-2 to 12 per cent. The same rate applies to the income of insurance companies, the reduction with respect to this class of taxpayers being from 12 1-2 to 12 per cent.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 8—If an incoming president has time for detailed observation amidst the whoop and hurrah of his inaugural ceremonies, President Hoover must have felt a wee bit of humorous chagrin March 4.

Foremost of those "sons of the Stanford red" about whose might and prize Stanford undergraduates have made the Santa Clara valley welkin ring melodiously these many years, it must have seemed ironic to him to see his pictured likeness in the inaugural decorations looking down at him from draperies of blue and gold, battle colors of Stanford's traditional athletic rival, the University of California.

Fighting "Colors"

As a Stanfordite, Hoover no doubt recalls many a pitched battle of the football field when the very sight of those blue and gold colors was horrid to his eyes. His ears, perhaps, still tingle with painful memories of rival college hymns like "All hail, Blue and Gold," chanted in victory over a field where the cardinal of Stanford had been dragged in the mire.

His ardent love for his alma mater, that made him set his home upon the sacred campus no doubt carries with it strong reminders of the passionate enthusiasms of his undergraduate days. And, beyond doubt, affection for anything resembling a combination of blue and gold could not be among those enthusiasms.

Yet here was Hoover, at the very peak of his astonishing career, entering the white house with a halo of those hated colors of blue and gold about him. And all quite fittingly enough, in circumstances against which he could raise no voice of protest.

For it so happens that the fighting colors of California's great state university also are the official colors of the golden state itself. And it was the state of California which gave Hoover to the nation as president as it gave the republican party its first nominee for the presidency in 1856 in the person of John C. Fremont, the Pathfinder. What could Hoover or any other Stanford graduate do about it?

A Touch of Red

Which is all well enough as far as it goes. In talking the matter over with an emotional Stanford graduate, just before inauguration, however, the bystander was treated to this other view of the situation.

"Oh, it's all o. k. with me," said the Stanford man; "but Hoover will be a — of a Stanfordite if he doesn't have a bit of red ribbon in his pocket, or wear a red undershirt or something, just to be on the safe side."

"LENT AND MY CHURCH"

Memory Verse for Saturday

"But if ye have respect to persons, ye commit sins" (James 2:9). (Read James 2:1 to 9).

MEDITATION: The Carpenter's Son had access to the society of the rich and educated people of His time, but He chose His intimates among the lowly. In Paul's day, as he tells us, not many people of social distinction found their way into the church. It is most unfortunate for any church that it should become an exclusive church or that its sympathies should be alienated from those who labor and are heavy laden. Whatever my own condition, let me seek an especial friendship with God's poor. With the lowly is wisdom. They have more to give me than I them.

PRAYER: Most gracious Father who hast made of one blood all nations of men, may we never harden our hearts against any but grant us an universal charity towards all men. Let Thy laws be written in our hearts. May the mind which was in Christ Jesus be in each one that we may have a true affection for all Thy children. Amen.

Stories That Recall Others

One Way

Bobby and Billy were playing with the new kitten. Their mother heard the poor little thing mewing pitifully so she investigated. She found Bobby holding the front paws and Billy the back paws, each boy pulling as hard as he could. Mother stopped this and questioned the boys.

"Well, mother, we were just trying to make a cat out of it," said Bobby.

Bread, Eh?

Three year old Corinne's favorite pastime was to cut out pictures in newspapers. Her mother warned her not to let the scraps fall to the floor. One evening she excitedly ran to her mother and said: "Oh, mother! I dropped the newspaper crumbs on the floor!"

Modern Greeks Are Great Dancers

MEGARA, Greece (AP)—The peasants still practice the traditional steps of their ancestors. Thus the famous dances at Megara, which take place Tuesday in Easter week, and the equally interesting dances at Menidi, the ancient Acharnae, near Athens are the direct descendants of the classical exercises.

One dance in particular is said to be the ancient, warlike "Pyrhic dance" of which Byron, who had seen it in Greece, wrote: "Ye have the Pyrhic dances yet, where is the Pyrrhic phalanx gone?" In this dance, now called the Syrtos, a number of men form a line, shoulder to shoulder, while their leader holds out a handkerchief to the first of the line and, thus connected with them, dances in front. Each Greek province has its own special dances and peculiar costumes.

In the last two years examples of all these local dances have been exhibited in the stadium of Athens before immense concourses of people. There were Macedonian dancers, distinguished by the waving feathers of their headdresses; there were Cretans, daughters of a sturdy race; girls from Joannina, in Epirus, which is noted for the beauty of its women, as it was in the days when Ali Pasha ruled over it.

There, too, were matronly looking Athenians in the scarlet velvet jackets, trimmed with gold brocade, embroidered skirts and fezzes with long tassels, which have now, alas! given place to modern "European" clothes, but which the "Maid of Athens" wore 116 years ago, when she captivated Byron.

But on those great occasions in the stadium the chief applause was received by a group of girls in the costume of one of the 14 Aegean islands occupied by the Italians, for it was thought that the Italian legation might protest against this obvious hint that the island was Greek by race and formed a part of the great Greek family.

For years there have been dances at certain seasons of the columns of the Temple of Olympian Zeus. And the soldiers, who still wear the national dress, the petticoated evzones, as they are called may often be seen dancing together in their moments of leisure.

YOUR HEALTH

"Queer" Child May Merely be Tired

(By I. H. Goldberger, M. D. New York City)

A healthy child laughs, plays, runs and acts spontaneously, unaware of the existence of his heart, lungs, eyes or muscles. The tired child has to be urged to do what healthy children do naturally. He is conscious that he must exert himself, and the more he exerts himself the more tired he becomes.

A mild degree of fatigue occurring after play, exercise or school work, or appearing at the end of a day is considered a normal state. If, however, the child arises morning after morning languid and tired, cross and cranky, irritable and out of sorts, we should suspect that his body tissues are being broken down faster than they are being recreated during sleep. This latter is decidedly abnormal, harmful and dangerous.

If a previously well-behaved child gradually develops into a troublesome child, fretful and hard to handle, we should suspect fatigue. One should hesitate to call a child queer because the muscles of his face twitch, because he blinks his eyes, or sniffs; he is probably suffering from fatigue. Nor should we be quick to punish a child for laziness or indifference because he will not get up promptly in the morning, dislikes to go to school, and does not run around and play as other children do. Crying spells for no explainable reason in a child who has previously shown a courageous spirit may also be indicative of cumulative fatigue. If a child looks weary and pinched, does not eat well, vomits periodically and is restless at night, we should suspect fatigue.

The factors contributing to acute fatigue are faulty diet, insufficient sleep, physical defects, acute infections, extra activities outside of school requirements and lack of proper parental requirements.

For the prevention of fatigue, correct all physical defects. Prescribe an adequate and balanced diet, containing not only the proper proportions of protein, fat and carbohydrates but an adequate supply of mineral salts, roughage and vitamins. Rest the child in bed for at least two to four weeks. Provide plenty of fresh air plus direct sunlight or its equivalent. Keep the child from school until all signs of fatigue have disappeared. Continue rest periods during the day, and increase the number of hours of sleep at night, after the preliminary period of rest in bed.

LAID THE FINGER WHO REBELLED AT SMOKING

LONDON—(AP)—Musicians and fellow singers are united in a chorus of praise for Mme. Elizabeth Schumann, the Viennese prima donna, who walked off the platform during a municipal concert at Burnley because the audience was smoking.

Her action, they declare, was a courageous step on behalf of all singers who are generally annoyed by the thick smoke through which they have to sing at many concerts.

Smoking is permitted at the Promenade concerts in London and at many theatres where musical shows are held.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All Druggists.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Newspaper Night at Grange.

Ledyard grange held its meeting in Grange hall Friday evening, March 1st. This was newspaper night, different members taking different parts of the paper as their part in the program. Carl H. Holdridge took the front page of the paper explaining the principal subjects on that page; Mrs. B. H. Avery took the poetry page; Mrs. Virginia Tubbs read several humorous sketches; Andrew W. Avery talked on agriculture; Frederick Doolittle spoke on his seed sweet corn. A group of young people acted out the funny comic strips in the paper; Mrs. Barbara Holdridge spoke about library books; George Garrapye had a well prepared paper on beautifying the home. Refreshments were served at the close.

OBITUARY.

Leon F. Culver.

The passing of Leon F. Culver came as a great surprise to many friends. He had been sick with pneumonia and was a patient at the Lawrence hospital, New London. Mr. Culver was a member of the town school committee at the time of his decease, being upon the supply committee. He had been a member for several years and out of respect to him the March meeting which was to be held Wednesday of this week was postponed. Mr. Culver was liked by all. He had a pleasing disposition and made many friends. He leaves his wife (Lena Lamb) and a son Robert Culver, who is attending the Chapman Tech school, New London.

The many friends of George Clark who has been very ill and who underwent two operations in the Backus hospital are pleased to learn that he is improving as rapidly as possible.

George P. Main, one of the older residents of the town, lies in a critical condition at his home. Mr. Main is nearly 84.

TO SELL FAIRGROUNDS AT PUBLIC AUCTION

Unless something occurs within the next few weeks to alter proceedings the Norwich fair grounds, owned by the New London County Agricultural society will be sold at public auction on May 1, according to an order for such sale entered at Friday's short calendar session of the superior court in New London by Judge Avery.

Gilbert S. Raymond of this city was appointed permanent receiver of the society under bonds of $5,000 and A. J. Bailey and S. B. Palmer of Norwich were appointed appraisers.

Attorney Edmund B. Perkins, pressed all three motions acting for Martin E. Jensen, a stockholder in the society. The society has about 400 life members.

It was intimated in court that there was a possibility that a reorganization might take place, that perhaps interested parties might buy the fair grounds, and that it was quite likely that there would be a fair held next September.

Be sure you're right, before attempting to put your neighbor's right.

FUNERALS

Mrs. John J. Kelly

The funeral of Mrs. John J. Kelly was held at 8:15 o'clock Friday morning at her residence, No. 371 Laurel Hill avenue, with a requiem mass in St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock. The celebrant of the mass was Rev. Myles P. Galvin and the music was in charge of Henry J. LaFontaine, who was assisted by Roderick F. Sullivan and Mrs. Bernard C. Coyle. Chopin's Funeral March was played at the processional by Mr. LaFontaine and Messrs. Fontaine and Sullivan sang De Profundis as a duet at the offertory. As a waiting hymn Mr. Sullivan sang When Evening Comes. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery and the committal service was read by Rt. Rev. Mgr. Michael H. May. The bearers were Patrick McCann, A. Cochran, A. McGowan, J. McGrievy, John McGrievy and James Kearns. There was a large gathering of mourners and the floral tributes were most beautiful. Undertakers Cummings and Ring were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Alfred Vronowski

With a large gathering of mourners, many from out of town, the funeral of Alfred Vronowski was held at 8:30 o'clock Friday morning at the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Vronowski, in Montville, followed by a solemn requiem mass in St. John's church, Montville, at 9 o'clock. The mass was celebrated by Rev. J. A. O'Meara, who was assisted by Rev. M. J. Regom, as deacon, and Rev. Raymond O'Callaghan, as sub deacon, both of New London. The music was in charge of Miss Helen B. Gainer, organist, of New London. Burial took place in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, Montville, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Fr. O'Meara. The bearers were Ernest Gero, Alfred Gero, Peter Fitsky, Walter Lasiewicz, Edward Kozoczensky and Joseph Wlenczyk. There was a wealth of beautiful floral remembrances. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker J. Woitkowski.

H. G. L. Club Meets.

The monthly meeting of the H. G. L. club was held Friday evening at the home of Miss Mary Kerr, 106 Peck street. The members made gifts for a missionary box after which refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Miss Frances Hill.

Called for Grass Fire

At 4:47 o'clock Friday afternoon a call was received by the fire department for a grass fire on land in the rear of No. 65 Bentley avenue. The blaze was extinguished by Squad A. The land is owned by Mrs. A. C. Spicer.

NORWICH TOWN

Wolf Cub pack of scouts connected with Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church, held its weekly meeting at the parsonage, Friday afternoon, in charge of the cubmaster, Rev. George Warren Potter. The assistant cubmaster led the scouts in a facing period, also a song period. Inspection was a part of the program and the average cub ranked high. A story of adventure with a faithful dog as a companion, told by Assistant Scoutmaster Ralph Smith, was greatly enjoyed. Cubs successful in passing tests were Culver Floyd, John Yetke, Charles Browning, Billie Bentley and John Gibbs.

The meeting of Troop 2, Boy Scouts, connected with Norwich Town Methodist church, was held Friday night at the parsonage. A song period was in charge of Assistant Scoutmaster Ralph Smith. Scoutmaster Rev. George Warren Potter gave to each scout, a manual of Cookery, furnished by a big national company. Clayton Rose still heads the list in the efficiency contest with a score of 983 points. Scout Wallace Wagner, by a gain of 30 points for tests, has jumped from 4th to 3rd place. Dewey Kelley, a member of the troop committee, was present and was greeted with the Scout welcome song. There was an attendance of 30, including scouts, officials and visitors. Assistant Scoutmasters Lewis Aldrich and Ralph Smith aided in giving tests. Scout Edward Smith passed signalling and Scout Edward Gallagher passed on tree repairing.

The Sunday school board of the Methodist church is to hold its March meeting this (Saturday) evening at the parsonage. A delegation from the church attended the service Thursday evening, at Trinity Methodist church where the speaker was Georgiana Barbara Such, director of a medical, evangelistic and school center at Marches des Ouadhias, near the village of Taourirth Abdallah, North Africa. Miss Such gave a most interesting missionary talk.

During the winter, housewives about Norwich Town made it a point to see that the birds have been well fed. Once a feeding place is established, flocks come each day for rations. These have included mostly sparrows and starlings, with occasionally a beautiful blue jay. If the food is ever belated in being put out the birds will make the fact known by continually chirping from a near-by tree, until their call is answered. In the morning and late afternoon, especially when the ground was covered with snow, from five to twenty-five birds have taken advantage of the kindness shown them daily, for several weeks at local homes.

There is a United States civil service requirement for physician, $3,500 a year; associate physician, $3,200. United States Veterans' bureau. GOAL WITHIN SIGHT, CHAMBER CAMPAIGN EXTENDED UNTIL TUESDAY

With the $20,000 goal in sight, a total of $14,022 having been reported up to Friday night, the chamber of commerce campaign organization voted at the Friday evening supper meeting, to extend the campaign until Tuesday evening. At that time the final reports will be made by the various teams.

The gathering Friday evening around the supper tables, was by far the largest of the week. Frank R. Murdy, the commanding ace said the organization is now at the point where it is beginning to show real results. "I want to see you men come through," said Mr. Murdy. Rudolph Henschel, one of the campaign workers, immediately volunteered to back up Mr. Murdy in the effort to attain the $20,000 goal. Roy D. Judd quickly followed Mr. Henschel in voicing his willingness to "carry on" and at least 30 others volunteered to continue the campaign to a successful end.

The campaign organization then enthusiastically voted to devote Monday and Tuesday in a "clean up" effort and to make final reports at a supper meeting Tuesday evening. The consensus is that the $20,000 goal will not only be reached but exceeded by Tuesday. Several commercial houses and business concerns in the city have expressed a desire to make subscriptions and are now awaiting approval of their subscriptions by their home offices. These subscriptions, when they are approved, will considerably swell the total reported to date.

Mr. Murdy expressed the opinion that there is no doubt in his mind but what the goal will be attained by Tuesday night. Through the death of the Metropolitan Insurance company's president, at the opening of the campaign, Mr. Murdy was called out of town for two days, and the campaign organization was therefore deprived of his valuable services during that time.

At the supper meeting various team workers told of interesting experiences they have had during the campaign. Max Hanover, Rudolph Henschel and William J. Fitzgerald were among those who entered with stories of campaign experiences.

Courtland Yount of the American City Bureau, who is assisting the chamber in the campaign, and whose contract with the chamber expires today (Saturday) announced that he had wired his company that he was not through yet in Norwich and could not conscientiously leave until the campaign was brought to a successful close. James L. Case commended Mr. Yount for his decision to remain until the campaign closes, stating that this was one of the most important announcements of the evening. He moved that all present express their appreciation of Mr. Yount's decision to remain with the campaign organization, rise and give him a cheer. This was enthusiastically done. Mr. Yount in acknowledging the appreciation of the campaign workers, stated that he would reserve his thanks until the Tuesday evening supper meeting.

John P. Lyston's division captured all the honors Friday. His division won the flag for the best report in total amount of subscriptions, won the dollar sign for the best total report in collections. Plane No. 23 won the pennant for the best report of subscriptions secured and the same plane won the honors for the best report in collections. Plane No. 23 is a second division plane. Division 1, Abner Schwartz, ace, was in second place for the day. Division No. 3, E. O. Rodier, ace, third and Division No. 4, William G. Park, ace, was in fourth place.

Max Hanover was awarded the prize for securing the largest number of memberships. Mr. Hanover was given the privilege of selecting his own prize and he chose a copy of "Her Son" written by Margaret Fuller of this city.

Monday morning at 9 o'clock the campaign workers will assemble at the chamber headquarters to receive their assignments in the final cleanup. Dr. Hugh E. Campbell, general chairman, voiced his appreciation of the splendid spirit of cooperation shown by the campaign workers, Mr. Yount and the local press. Dr. Campbell also expressed his appreciation of the exceptionally fine meals and service rendered by the hotel management during the campaign. The standing of the divisions to date, follows:

The prizes were won by Miss Elizabeth McCord, Miss Esther Evans, Howarth Collins and David Morton.

INDIAN EXHIBIT IS NOW OPEN TO PUBLIC

Under the auspices of the Woman's City club and the Slater Memorial Museum a colorful exhibit of Indian craft and lore is being shown at the Converse Art gallery. Friday afternoon and evening there was a private showing for the members of the city club, starting Sunday and thereafter until March 22nd the exhibit will be open daily to the public from 3 to 5 o'clock. Children of the grade schools will view the exhibit at specially appointed hours.

The exhibition which is unique and most interestingly illustrates Indian craft and Indian lore, showing the contrast between tribes of Indians in different parts of the country. The galleries are divided between the Northwest Indian, Southwest Indian, Indians of the Plains and Eastern Indians, who as a race have vanished, having been citizens for 100 years. The long gallery is divided between Indians of the Plains and Southwest Indians.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Michael J. Sullivan

Alice R. Sullivan, wife of Michael J. Sullivan, died at her home in West Hartford, late Thursday evening.

She was born in Norwich, the daughter of Annie Murphy Rafferty and the late Patrick Rafferty. She is survived by her husband, Michael J. Sullivan, a son, Gerald Sullivan, her mother, Mrs. Annie Rafferty, and, a brother, Robert J. Rafferty, all of West Hartford. She also leaves a sister, Mrs. Thomas Riley, of Glastonbury.

Mrs. Edward A. Cropley

The death of Calista A. Bromley, wife of Edward A. Crapley occurred Thursday in Providence. She was a resident of Norwich at one time and was a niece of the late Mrs. A. D. Smith, Mrs. James Perry and Calista Davis. The burial is to be at Packerville.

Thomas F. Callahan

Thomas F. Callahan died at 8 o'clock Thursday morning at his residence, No. 125 McKinley avenue, following a period of declining health. Coming to Norwich as a young man from Ireland, where Mr. Callahan was born, he had spent the greater part of his life in this city and vicinity. In St. Patrick's church, Norwich, he was united in marriage by Rev. P. B. Shahan. Mrs. Callahan died about two years ago. Surviving Mr. Callahan are a daughter, Miss Mary Callahan and a son, Dr. John W. Callahan, both of this city. Mr. Callahan was well and favorably known and his death is deeply regretted by his many friends who extend heartfelt sympathy to the surviving family.

Fred W. Metcalf

Fred W. Metcalf, 65, of Fishers Island, N. Y., died suddenly Friday morning at the W. W. Backus hospital in this city. He was in ill health for three weeks and was a patient at the hospital for about two weeks. Surviving Mr. Metcalf is a sister, Mrs. Isaac Cook of No. 7 Hamilton avenue, this city

LECTURE ON LITERATURE AT THE OSGOOD MEMORIAL

In the series of lectures upon "Literature" by Dr. Jensen, the third, "Literary Forms and Conventions" was given on Thursday evening at the H. H. Osgood Memorial parish house.

Literature in its earliest form is always poetry—songs of heroes or love tales, he said in his address. The oldest form is the ballad, found among all primitive peoples and familiar to us in the English and Scotch ballad, short tales in verse.

Ballads have no known author, no ornament, no sophistication; they relate deeds of skill or daring, are concerned with brave sailors, bold warriors and knights. One of the early and well known is that of Sir Patrick Spence. One of local interest to us tells the story of Springfield mountain, Mass. It is a ture Yankee ballad, known far from its own locality, cowboys in Texas singing it at their merry makings. Another almost perfect ballad "Twas Friday Morn When We Set Sail," is familiar.

The epic form follows the ballad, is formed from it; but while the ballad is concerned with one incident in the life of its hero, the epic relates the whole story of his life and adventures. A well known illustration of the medieval epic is the "Song of Roland" which portrays his valor in the defense of his country during the reign of Charlemange. Beowulf was the man who fought dragons of the sea that his country might be freed from their ravages and is Teutonic, belonging to the Scandinavian nation.

The epic is always heroic and two styles are recognized—the true and the so-called false or literary. The real epic is Homer's but Virgil's Aeneid, Tennyson's Idyls of the King and Drake by Alfred Noyes are examples of the literary epic in which a writer deliberately plans a story and adorns it in his own style. The marks of a true epic are that it is dramatic and imaginative and transcends history.

The logical successor of the epic is the Medieval Poetical Romance, dating about the twelfth century. This Romance has three chief styles; first, stories of feats of strength; second, love of chivalry, and third, religion.

In the first group is found the French Metrical Romance, dealing with robbers, giants, Saracens and knights—a confusion of human and inhuman figures and including many stories from the Orient. They generally centered around Charlemagne.

The romances of Wales, Ireland and Brittany are Celtic material and center around King Arthur. It is not known whether they arose from Brittany or Wales. Among fine examples of French romances of the 13th century are Christian of Troyes and Marie of France, and an outstanding one in English is Sir Gawain and the Green Knight—probably 14th century. "Pearl," the greatest of medieval poetry in English is sometimes regarded as an allegory.

Medieval poetry sprang from the ballad, epic and romance. Examples of Narrative Verse are Chaucer's Canterbury Tales (middle English) and Spencer's Faerie Queene (1590).

Dramatic verse is commonly regarded as the highest form of poetry; the play puts life upon the stage with lights and other accompaniments to make it real.

Drama is of two kinds—the acting dramas of Shakespeare and the literary dramas of Tennyson, Shelly and Browning. Tragedy emphasizes the feelings of pity, fear, love or hate; it curdles our blood; it purges us by horror, but comedy, the lightest form of drama, tickles us for the time and is then forgotten. Compare Hamlet and Comedy of Errors. Lyrical drama is operatic; illustration, The Tempest. The historical drama, as Shakespeare's Henry IV or King John, may not be accurate history but is strong in its dramatic appeal and effect.

The golden age of drama in Greece, the age of all the great dramatists, lasted about a thousand years—approximately 500 B. C.—500 A. D.—and then perished. No connection seems to exist between this age and the re-birth of drama in any other country.

In England and France the church dramatized its services in medieval times, having representations of the holy sepulchre on Good Friday, the monks in the monasteries taking the parts and on Easter Day at the empty tomb saying, "He is not here; He is risen!" These representations began about the tenth century and lasted about four hundred years. Dr. Daniel Coit Gilman wrote home from Russia of his impressions of services held at the great church of Kazan on Good Friday, or Terrible Friday as named in Russia. An immense stage was erected in the square and spectacular performances given but the effect was theatrical rather than religious.

The successors of the early elementary church plays were the miracle plays—as Noah's Flood, and the morality plays—as Everyman. For interludes short farces were used in which characters called Pardoness, Palmers or Pedlers caused merriment. As these miracle and morality plays introduced more non-religious elements, the church felt they should not be given in the church proper so stages were erected in the church yard and as secularity increased they were removed to the town square.

Marlowe is a significant name in the development of English drama and to him Shakespeare is indebted. In France, Moliere is an outstanding name, succeeding Shakespeare in time.

Of Shakespeare it is said that he ran the whole gamut of human experience and drama has not materially changed since his day.

Lyrical drama portrays the inner world; the poem revolves around one thought, one event; the element of song must come into all lyrics; hence it is peculiarly fitted to survive because of the universality of its appeal and its simplicity. In these respects there is nothing in the world equal to the Negro song—an excellent illustration being "My Aunt Dinah."

In medieval English and French lyrics a song to the Virgin was a favorite. The Cuckoo Song or "Sumer is Acumen In" is recalled as one of the earliest English lyrics. Others are: Happy Heart by Decker, Gather Ye Rosebuds While Ye May by Herrick, Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes by Johnson, Black-eyed Susan by J. Grey is one of the finest of the 18th century. Robert Burns wrote in the whole range of love, hate, despair, as did Shelley. Selections—To the Night—Shelley, Little Lamb Who Made Thee—Blake.

In prose fiction the same expression cannot be expected. The term "novel" was first used about 1785 by Boccoccio but was first applied to an English tale of Robinson Crusoe. In Chausen these stories are called tales; Shakespeare calls them histories.

The novel must have plot form, climax and anti-climax. Its historical growth has been marked.

Novels may be of two classes—those in which character is important or those depending upon incident—the more enduring being those concerned with the development of character. The first really great English novel was Tom Jones by Henry Fielding. Though it may have some coarse language of its age, it can truly be said to have no moral taint.

Edgar Allen Poe was the earliest American writer of the short story which has since become so popular.

The next lecture will consider what literature can do for us in mind, heart and spirit.

DEMPSEY STILL UNDECIDED ABOUT HIS PLANS FOR FUTURE RING ACTIVITIES

By Edward J. Neil
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK March 8.—(AP)—If discussions, arguments and conferences will help Jack Dempsey land his feet on the path he will tread along the fistic trail in the future, then the old heavyweight champion must be fairly close to a decision as to his future activities.

For three hours today, the bronzed mauler considered offers for his services both in the ring and out, argued over his future with newspapermen, and discussed fistiuffs with more intellectual zest than fans who have viewed his beetle-brow and savagery in action would believe possible.

Before Dempsey makes an definite decision, he will talk Monday with Humbert J. Fugazy, metropolitan promoter who once offered rivalry for Tex Rickard. Tuesday he will confer with William F. Carey, the head of the Garden potentate. Both want Dempsey to join forces with their organizations as a promoter for either part or full times.

During the day's session, the former titleholder revealed several new "angles" in the promotion of Jack Sharkey's tussle with Young Stribling on the Miami Beach sands. Inadvertently Jack let slip that he never has intended to fight again, that Rickard knew all along that his boxing days were over, and in fact advised him never to return to leather slinging no matter what the inducement.

"Tex promised me fifty per cent. of the profits of the Miami Beach fight as well as a 20 per cent. interest in his other holdings there—the dog track, the Deauville casino, and the recreation pier—if I'd help him put over the Sharkey-Stribling fight. When the bout seemed off at Rickard's death I was ready to stage it myself. I went so far as to put up $12,500 to fill out the $100,000 purse. Tex guaranteed Sharkey after the Garden directors refused to carry on for more than $75,000 for Mr. Sharkey's end. Carey put up the other $12,500 but the directors changed their minds and agreed to give the Boston fighter the full $100,000 themselves.

"Tex knew when he planned that match I'd never fight again. He urged me to—that is he didn't think I'd fight again. The Garden gave me 25 per cent. of the profits and I'm well satisfied. I may promote for them again but I don't know. They haven't asked me. Certainly I won't be tied down to a desk doing office boy jobs for the $30,000 salary Tex got. I want to play with the big things and either fail or make good on my own merits."

Lesser fistic lights, hoping to come in for some attention with the magnetic Dempsey out of town for a few days, were disappointed when the newest promotional "big shot" found it necessary to go to Boston where a benefit show tonight was cancelled. Carey made the trip before he learned of the changed plans.

After Bud Taylor, Chicago featherweight, and Al Singer, New York youngster, settle their return engagement at the Garden next Friday, Jimmy McLarnin and Ray Miller, outstanding lightweights from the west, will close the big arena for boxing March 22, when the circus comes to town for five weeks.

Homans Wins Pinehurst Tourney.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 8—(AP)—Eugene Homans of Englewood, N. J., Princeton links star, won the 25th annual spring tournament of the Pinehurst Country club today by defeating Norman H. Maxwelle of Philadelphia, 6 and 1.

Maintaining throughout the series the fast clip that won him the medal in the tournament, Homans today went out in 37 strokes, one over par to stand two up on the Philadelphian, and coming back on even fours to the 15th landed the match.

AGGIE GIRLS CLASH U. OF M. THIS EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, March 8—The Connecticut Aggie girls left here tonight for the University of Maine where they will engage the Maine girls in the annual game. The Aggie co-eds have presented strong opposition to their opponents and should give the Pine Tree girls a stiff contest. In the last game played here, the Connecticut team showed improvement in their play against a much stronger Rhode Island team.

AL KOZIOL LOSES R. I. LIGHTWEIGHT TITLE

PROVIDENCE, March 9—(AP)—Seven Rhode Island amateur boxing champions were crowned here early this morning. They are:

Paris Apice, Providence, 112 pounds; Pat James, Brown University student, 118; Jerry Harring, East Providence, 126; Tony Catalano, Providence, 135; Chick Gainor, Providence college student, 147; Euclid Plouette, Woonsocket, 160; Manuel Taber, East Providence, heavyweight.

The only two defending champions, Al Koziol, 135 pounds and Benny Azevedo, 126 pounds, were eliminated in the early rounds.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

There is a rumor current in Waterbury that Jimmy Lee, present Wilby high coach, will take charge of Crosby dept. at the next school year, replacing Ted Bullen. Lee is a Crosby graduate, going to Wilby as the mentor. His teams have taken more than their share of victories in city title games and should be return to his alma mater it is to be expected that athletics will pick up.

Today at New Haven, the list of teams to compete in the state high school championship tourneys next Friday and Saturday will be announced. The tournament for A and B teams is at Yale university and that for C and D lives at Conn. Agricultural college at Storrs.

It is doubtful if any eastern Connecticut team will be named. Chapman Tech and Windham are the only ones to stand a chance at all, of the A and B teams. Tourtellotte will most likely be invited to Storrs.

The Chicago tournament to decide the national champs will be held April 2 to 6. The state champions of Connecticut will be invited.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould
Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, March 8—(AP)—Whether or not it is all a trick, Prof. Miller Huggins, who does the thinking but very little talking for the Yankees, seems to have confounded the expert's by solving his infield problems in short order.

Instead of making it a guessing contest, such as the heavyweight boxing situation the silent little leader of the world's baseball champions makes it all very simple by keeping Tony Lazzeri at second base, installing Lyn Lary, the Pacific Coast recruit, at shortstop, and moving Mark Koenig over to third. Quite naturally Lou Gehrig remains the guardian of first base.

Lazzeri's arm has met all of its early tests satisfactorily, the camp observers report, while the same critics put the stamp of unqualified approval on Lary as a finished product, ripe and ready for the big show.

So it seems the boys will have to worry about abe Ruth's legs again if there is to be any serious atmosphere of gloom around the camp of the Yankees.

If it hadn't happened before, they might be justified in being suspicious, but Huggins now qualifies as a past masher at finding the key to infield puzzles. He shifted his talent around skillfully in building together the champions of 1921-22-23. In 1926, he rebuilt three-fourths of the infield with successful results. Now the industrious Miller is at it again.

At least it can be said for the Amateur Athletic union that it dealt out punishment of late with a flourishing show of impartiality. At one and the same time it has under official ban the outstanding American Olympic champion, Ray Barbuti, as well as the greatest of Finland's runners, Paavo Nurmi.

The questions involved are whether Barbuti made some disparaging references to the A. A. U., hinting there was knowledge of some of the boys receiving more than ordinary expenses for competition, and whether Nurmi was too ill to take part in the national indoor championships. For the present, at least, the A. A. U. prefers to believe the worst.

These developments have no immediate bearing on the so-called struggle for control of amateur athletics between the A. A. U. and college groups but they illustrate that the ancient union has its troubles within as well as without the fold. Seldom has it been more in need than now of a dominating leader of the type of the late Jim Sullivan or the late Bill Front.

The ballyhoo is on for another beach as the scene of athletic contest. A lot of divorce will fly between now and next September, but the national amateur golf championship will keep Pebble Beach, Calif., as much if not more in the spotlight than the Stribling-Sharkey fight did for Miami Beach, Fla.

"Pebble Beach," says the official description of the California press bureau that is already functioning, "is situated at the edge of the Pacific ocean, on Monterey peninsula's famous seventeen-mile drive, with the blue waters of Stillwater cove in the foreground and the bluer bay and quaint village of Carmel-by-the-Sea, abode of artists and literati, in the backgrounds. Eight of its holes directly border the Pacific, 'greatest water hazard in the world.'"

The accompanying hole-by-hole description of the course where Bobby Jones will defend his crown this year presents a series of terrors for a duffer's imagination.

The fifth hole, for instance, "is a foursome one-shotter with a large canyon filled with trees on the left and out-of-bounds on the right." And the tenth "along the ocean brink and trapped with usual severity. The tee-shot trap, which is seldom carried, forces play to the edge of the cliff * * "but why go on? The echoes from the seacliffs will ring out September 2 to 7.

NAUGATUCK REACHES FINALS IN PENN TOURNAMENT

PHILADELPHIA, March 8—(AP)—Naugatuck (Conn.) High school, defending its title in the high school division of the University of Pennsylvania interscholastic basketball tournament, advanced to the final round tonight by defeating Salesianum High school, Wilmington, Del., 32 to 23.

The contest was one of the hardest fought of the tournament, particularly during the second half. At half time the Connecticut boys held a 23-18 lead, but Salesianum started a drive in the final period that brought the Wilmington team on even terms.

With less than one minute to play Rozint, Naugatuck guard, took the ball under his own basket, dribbled down the floor and scored a field goal. As he threw the ball a Salesianum player charged into him and as a penalty for this violation of the rules Rozint was given two shots from the foul line. He made good on one of the tries, giving Naugatuck a margin of three points at the finish.

CHAPMAN TECH DEFEATS PUTNAM TO TAKE LEAD IN BASKETBALL LEAGUE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 8.—Chapman Tech's basketball team soared to great heights here tonight in holding off the Noyesmen for three quarters, and then unleasing a brilliont dribbling attack that licked the Blue and White quintet to a frazzle, 22 to 22, in the final ten minutes to put them at the top of the Eastern Connecticut basketball championship race. The large Chapman Tech aggregation of rooters went momentarily mad as the final gun cracked that gave their team another league victory as well as practically clinching the championship for them.

There was nothing fluke about Chapman's success tonight. Robbed of their able captain, Johns, for three and a half periods, the Red and Black played skillfully, carrying out a clean-cut victory and proving beyond any doubt that it was not a one-man team. Every Tech man was a hero tonight. Quinn, who appeader to be a midget beside his teammates played a great game. Several times he single-handedly broke up the Putnam offensive plays and contributed 11 points to the scoring and started a rousing Tech rally in the second half. Chihowsky, responsible for the Putnam defeat at New London a month ago, again proved to be athorn in the side of Capt. Walt Cody's boopsters, as he crashed through the offense several times, successfully scooping shots under the basket. He tossed in 11 points and was a constant threat throughout the fray. McKelvie, the flashy New London forward and Snoesky, their towering center, contributed much to their cause tonight.

The Noyesmen opened with a man-to-man defense which proved inefficient before the Tech scoring onslaught early in the game. Carman Leo, the unexcelled forward of the league, proved ineffective against the visiting five. Leo tried in vain to rally and pull his team together for their last appearance but was unble to come into his own. He scored but nine points of the evenin's total. Bill Shann, Coach Noyes' only hope, sat on the sidelines for two periods, watching his team's opportunities tumble to earth before the Tech team. Shann, with is ankle wrapped in adhesive tape, finally coaxed the coach into sending him to his team in the third period. Shann showed the physical strain of the past week as he tried to match strides with the fast-stepping New London outfit. On several occasions he tried to exhibit his excellence in court work but always Quinn, of the vistors, was right on his trail and intervened when he tried to hoist the ball into the net. Shann contributed but one foul try to the Noyesmen's cause tonight.

At the close of the second half, the Blue and White were on the short end of a 14-11 score. The opening of the third quarter there was every indication of a Putnam victory as Capt. Walt Cody sank three consecutive shots from mid-floor to bring his quintet into a brief lead, the only one of the game. This proved to be of no avail for Quinn crushed the Noyesmen's scattered offense to score. Putnam tried desperately to close the gap in those final five minutes but Chapman had them licked as surely as any team has ever been defeated. The best the Noyesmen could do in those last fleeting minutes of play was a single-pointer by the shattered Leo and a long field goal from the side court by Cody.

GIANTS WILL SEE MEXICAN BULL FIGHT

ATLANTA, Ga., March 8—(AP)—Mexican revolutions notwithstanding, the Giants of John McGraw will not allow war stories to interfere with pleasure. The squad is planning special whoopee Sunday when a bull fight is staged in its honor at Nuevo Laredo, just across the border from the scene of an exhibition encounter.

The Giants will move from San Antonio down to Laredo for exhibition clashes Saturday and Sunday and enjoy the bull fight as a side attraction. They will play San Antonio of the Texas league both days.

McGraw is awaiting Terry and Roush, both overdue in reporting.

The White Sox training at Dallas, had a hard workout today with lunch served on the field.

Cox, Moore, Blackerby and Watwood are showing well in practice and fighting for places. Moore is working in Johnny Mostil's outfield position, the veteran being out with a bad foot.

Town in Florida, Grover Cleveland Alexander, 42 year old star of the Cardinal pitching staff, made his 1929 debut against Connie Mack's Athletics. Old Pete worked two innings against the A's at Fort Myers, and held them to a pair of hits and one run.

Manager Southworth is feeling optimistic also over the showing of his rookie pitchers yesterday against the Athletics at Avon Park. Three of the youngsters held the Mackmen to three hits.

Hafey has joined the Redbirds.

Thevenow appeared in excellent starting condition at shortstop.

INFIELDERS JOIN SQUAD OF ACADEMY BASEBALLERS

A squad of infields has been added to the Academy baseball candidates working out at the state armory. Not all of the regulars are yet present but it is expected that with the ending of the basketball season this week the number will be materially increased. The team will probably get outdoors in a couple of weeks, but until then the state championship Wildcats will continue to use the armory daily, except Saturday.

DAY COMPLETES HIS TRAINING FOR ELKINS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW HAVEN, March 8—Georgie Day, of New Haven, and Eddie Elkins, of New York, main bout principals on the card to be staged at the New Haven Arena Monday night, March 11, today tapered off their training and appeared to be in perfect shape for their ten round tilt. Day, working in New Haven, has spared no effort to be at the top of his form for he meets a formidable foe in Elkins.

Eddie has been doing all of his work in New York and will be at New Haven tomorrow to put the final touches to his workouts. He, like Day, has been working hard to reach the peak for he will try to finish off the Tornado by a knockout as he did against Irish Jimmy Kelly and Willie Hussey in his only two other appearances at the New Haven fight hall.

In fine card, made up of two eight rounders and two six frame affairs, back up the two main bout performers. In the semi-final Pete DeGrasse, little New York Indian, who recently scored a fine victory over Huzhie Devlin, of New London, will meet a tough nut to crack in Pete Lucci, formerly of Clinton, Mass., and now of New Haven.

In the other eight rounder, Tony Travers, of New Haven, who has won his last eight bouts—three of them by early knockouts—will attempt to continue the string with a victory over Joey Steinfeld, New York welterweight.

The opening six will show Rene Lebier, little French bantam, against Lucien Gregory, of Waterbury, and in the second round of the opening preliums Frankie Marino, hardy New Haven bantamweight, will trade blows with Tommy Francis, of New York.

HUNTER BEATS HENNESSEY FOR THE FLAGLER CUP

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 8—(AP)—Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y., became permanent owner of the Flagler cup here today when he defeated Johnny Hennessey, Indianapolis, in the singles finals of the annual Florida tennis championships. The scores were 1-6, 6-1, 9-7, 7-5.

Hennessey was away to a flying lead but Hunter easily took the second set. The last two were strenuous battles. Hennessey's placement shots were brilliant but he was overcome by the champion's steadiness.

Hunter won his first leg on the cup in 1923 when he defeated Dr. Phillip Hawks in the finals. His second was won last year at the expense of Hennessey, his final opponent in the match today.

Doubles finals will be played tomorrow afternoon with Hunter and Hennessey paired against the youthful combination of Wilmer Allison, Austin, Texas, and John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J. Sunday afternoon will see mixed doubles finals played off.

DUNDEE IN HOSPITAL WITH ARM INFECTION

BOSTON, March 8—(AP)—Joe Dundee, whose career as welterweight champion has been crowded with misfortune, was in a Boston hospital today suffering from a seriously infected left arm, which threatened to keep him out of the ring for many weeks.

The champion submitted to an emergency operation last night and his physician reported that his condition remained unchanged during the day. The infected surface, according to Dr John H. Cunningham, was large and the spread of poison had reached an alarming extent.

Dundee and Al Mello of Lowell were matched for the main bout in a charit boxing show set for tonight. As a result of Dundee's injury, the contest was postponed indefinitely.

Dundee told the physician that he caused the infection by irritating a small growth on his arm about a week ago.

Y SENIORS CLASH WITH SAYBROOK TOWNERS TONIGHT

One of the last games of the local basketball season will be staged at the Y gym tonight when the Y Seniors clash with the Saybrook Town Team. The Seniors have now won nine and lost eight games and are desirous of finishing the season with better than a .500 percentage. Therefore, a victory will be most welcome in tonight's combat.

The Seniors will present their strongest lineup against the invaders, who are reported as being quite fast and capable of extending the locals. A large crowd is expected for this fray, which will probably be the only one before the Seniors and Academy renew their city title warfare next Thursday night, at the Y gym. Brown and Pingree, at forwards, Capt. Harris, at center, and Kelly and Eccleston at guards, will, in all probability, be the team's starting lineup.

In the preliminary this evening, the Gammas and Baltic Methodists, two of the best teams in the Church league will get together. The main game will start at 9 o'clock.

CUBS BEAT LOS ANGELES IN EXHIBITION GAME

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8—(AP)—With the Chicago Cubs getting their first real competition of the season in an exhibition game with the Angels of the Pacific Coast league at Los Angeles today, the two other major league clubs in the far west tapered off their training for coming engagements. Chicago won 31 to 6.

At Paso Robles, California, Manager Donie Bush confined activities to batting practice. Burleigh Grimes had his spitter working perfectly and made the boys miss repeatedly. The Pirates will play the Seals of the Coast league here Sunday.

The Detroit Tigers, training at Phoenix, Arizona, had a short workout today in preparation for the first practice game between the regulars and the yannigans tomorrow. Roy Johnson, $75,000 outfielder will be in the lineup.

MISS HICKS BEATS GLENNA TO REACH THE FINALS

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 8—(AP)—Helen Hicks, 18 year old Tempstead, L. I., high school girl, established her right today to a place among godiom's mighty. She defeated the redoubtable Glenna Collett, of Providence, R. I., women's national champion, 2 and 1, in their semi-final match of the Florida East Coast championships.

Miss Hicks meets in the finals tomorrow Miss Virginia Van Wie, who defeated Miss Bernice Wall, Wisconsin champion, 4 and 3.

Georgetti and Debaets Hold Lead.

NEW YORK, March 8—(AP)—With most of the riders taking things easy and saving themselves for the finishing burst of speed tomorrow, Franco Georgetti and Gerard Debaets had little trouble holding their three lap lead in the six day bike race at Madison Square Garden tonight.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Nothing of importance in the news line happened 50 years ago in Norwich, but there was considerable interest in the 100-hour walk for the championship of New England at Treadway hall. A Norwich man was among those who was competing. Other news items taken in part from the files of The Norwich Bulletin beginning with the week of March 3, 1879, are the following:

Monday, March 3, 1879—An act giving to the Ledyard Monument association four captured cannon and balls has passed both houses of congress and is now in the hands of the president. The cannon are to be placed near the Ledyard Soldiers' monument, erected by the generosity of Ledyard Bill, a native of the town.

Charles Oliver, a lad about 10 years of age, lying on the Greeneville road, while handling a loaded pistol, Saturday morning, discharged it, the ball entering the fleshy part of his left leg above the knee. A physician extracted the ball.

The splendid portrait of Rev. Thomas L. Shipman, lately executed by Mr. Emmons, from nature, can now be seen at his studio, and many other excellent portraits painted during the winter.

The recent freshet strewed a multitude of firm, thick ice cakes and floes over the fields adjoining the banks of the Yantic river.

Tuesday, March 4, 1879—The 100-hour walk for the championship of New England and a purse of $500 begins in Treadway hall this evening at 7.30. The contestants are Law of Bridgeport, Dwyer of Willimantic, Elliott of Providence and O'Mahoney of this city.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Uncas National bank, held at the banking house yeserday, Lyman Gould, Esq., was elected president in place of the late Jesse S. Ely.

The thrilling spectacle of four balky oxen, a load of cordwood and a "gee, haw!" driver entertained Main street yesterday afternoon.

One of the city horses has gone crazy and refuses to work. His reason left him while a small boy was chanting the popular ballad "What, never? Well, etc." He is a total wreck.

Wednesday, March 5, 1879—Among the graduates of the New York Ophthalmic hospital, at which the 25th annual commencement exercises occur tomorrow night, is Dr. E. H. Lonnell of this city, who took the highest honors of his class in the examinations just closed.

The death is announced of Moses Tilcomb of Pelham, N. H., formerly a resident of this city and a member of Masonic lodge, No. 34, F. and A. M. He died at his home Feb. 20 after a long illness.

At the annual meeting of the Blackstone Hose company last evening the following officers were elected: A. S. Barbour, foreman; George D. McCarty, first assistant; Charles E. Rogers, second assistant; John H. King, secretary, and Fred R. Kimberly, treasurer.

It is about time to learn whether it shall be a Lebanon or Waterford hen which can sit the greater number of quarter hours and hatch out the smallest harvest of chickens.

Thursday, March 6, 1879—Dan Huntington, Esq., of Lebanon, Ct., who recently died at an advanced age at his home in that town, was for many years a well known and greatly respected business man of this city. He came to Norwich about 30 years ago and successfully prosecuted the dry-goods trade. He was a member of the Second Congregational church.

A jubilee has been proclaimed to the Roman Catholic world by Pope Leo III which commenced on Sunday and will continue until the first of June. The first anniversary of the pope's exaltation to the pontifical throne is the occasion selected for the proclamation of the jubilee.

A baby alligator, measuring about 12 inches in length, dried and stuffed, was received yesterday by a lady of New London from a friend in Florida.

Friday, March 7, 1897—Mrs. Patience Albro, mother of the late Job Albro, and grandmother of Frank D. and Thomas W. Albro, of this city, died in Foster, R. I., Feb. 27, aged 102 years and 3 months. For nearly three years she had been great-great-grandmother in a large family.

Coddington Williams, the genial and gentlemanly cashier of one of the Norwich and New York Transportation company's steamers, has accepted the position of cashier of the Metropolitan hotel in New York and will enter upon his duties next week.

Jacquimot roses sell for 30 cents apiece in Boston now, or 20 cents less than a week ago.

The Illinois senate has passed a bill which provides that persons stealing less than $15 may be sentenced to work on the highway in chain gangs.

Saturday, March 8, 1879—A St. Paul paper says: W. P. Jewett, son of Dr. Jewett of Norwich, Conn., has resigned his position as chief clerk in the state land office to accept a more lucrative place of the St. Paul and Sioux City Railroad company.

It costs a saloon keeper $10,000 to take out a license in Northwood, Iowa.—Exchange.

Whalebone for export is quoted at $3 per pound.

It is noted in the New London column that fish, of nearly all kinds, are very scarce this season. Oysters are plenty, but lobsters are very scarce.

ACADEMY DROPS HARD GAME TO STONINGTON

STONINGTON, March 8—Stonington high forced Norwich Free academy to share last place with them in the eastern Connecticut conference race by winning from the Wildcats here tonight, 35 to 27. This was Stonington's only conference victory.

Dimock and Adams two local guards, were the leading scorers for Stonington while Henschel was Norwich's best bet.

At half time Stonington held an 18 to 12 lead and kept up this margin for the remaining quarters.

This was Norwich's sixteenth defeat in 20 games while it was only Stonington's second victory of the year. This game closed the conference season for both teams.

FOUR RUNNERS NAMED FOR "CASEY 600" EVENT

NEW YORK, March 8—(AP)—Four of the six runners who will start in the "Casey 600" one of the feature events of the K. of C. track meet at Madison Square Garden, March 16, were announced definitely today as Bernard McCafferty, Holy Cross; Phil Edwards, New York university; Johnny Gibson, Bloomfield, N. J., Catholic Lyceum and Eddie Blake, Boston A. A.

Joe Tierney, big N. Y. A. C. quarter miler, will make a fifth if his suspension by the A. A. U. is lifted, and Norman St. Clair, Syracuse mile relay anchor man and track champion, is to be sent through a time trial tomorrow by his coach, Tom Keane, to determine whether he packs the necessary speed at six hundred yards to accept an invitation.

DEMAR TO RUN IN 44 MILE RACE TODAY

BOSTON, March 8—(AP)—Clarence DeMar will start his 1926 marathon campaign tomorrow by participating against an exceptional field in the 44 mile run from Providence, R. I., to Boston. DeMar won this race last year, when he covered the distance in five hours, 47 minutes, and 50 seconds, which bettered the course record by almost 21 minutes.

Among the other long distance stars in the list of 59 probable starters were Albert "Whitey" Michelson, of Portchester, N. Y., Bill Kennedy of the Cygnet A. C., of New York and Karl Koski, of the Finnish-American A. C., of New York.

Sonnenberg Throws Smith

SCHENECTADY, March 8—(AP)—Using his famous and disputed "flying tackle" to win the second fall Gus Sonnenberg world's wrestling champion, defeated Captain Jack Smith of Fort Worth, Texas, in two straight falls here tonight.

Sonnenberg won the first fall in 24 minutes, 10 seconds, with a headlock and the second in five minutes with his tackle. The champion weighed 199 and Smith 201.

Velvetmen at Goodyear Sunday

The J. B. Martin F. C., go to Goodyear this Sunday afternoon to play the fast soccer team of that town. The trip will be made by bus leaving the J. B. grounds at 12:30. The team will be chosen from amongst the following players: Orcutt, Greenhalgh, Headon, Labenski, Seidel, Joubert, Erickson, Doelles, Houston, Thompson, Hargreaves, Benker, Knowles, Mathers, Shaw.

CARDS TAKE ANOTHER GAME FROM ATHLETICS

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 8—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals made it two straight from the Philadelphia Athletics when the National leaguers defeated the Americans here today, 11 to 6. St. Louis won the opening game at Avon park yesterday.

Holm, Douthit and Selph, of St. Louis, and Simmons, of Philadelphia, had triples, while Boepper, Bottomly and Gelbert, of the Cards, made doubles.

Score:

St. L. Nat	3	0	0	1	2	0	0	2	3—	11	12	2
Phila. Am.	1	0	0	1	0	1	2	1	0—	6	11	1

FORMER BILLIARD KING INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

WATERBURY, March 8—(AP)—David McAndless, 35, of Chicago, former national and junior billiard champion, suffered two fractures on the top of his head when the car in which he was riding overturned on the Meriden road at 2:30 o'clock here this afternoon. His condition is pronounced as uncertain at St. Mary's hospital.

Diener Beats Daniels.

BERLIN, March 8—(AP)—Franz Diener, German heavyweight, outpointed Gipsy Daniels of England, in a ten round bout here tonight. Daniels' principal claim to fame in Germany came through a one round knockout over Max Schmelling in February, 1928, a months before Schmelling won the German championship from Diener.

Fields Kayoes Van Ryan.

DETROIT, March 8—(AP)—Jackie Fields, coast welterweight slugger, knocked out Al Van Ryan, of St. Paul, in the fifth round of their 10 round bout here tonight.

Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight champion, easily outpointed Cecil Payne, Louisville, Ky., in the other match of a double windup.

Bristol Wins Title.

BRISTOL, Conn., March 8 (AP)—For the third successive year Bristol high school won the central Connecticut interscholastic basketball championship by defeating West Hartford high school five tonight, 38 to 17.

Martin Beats Briscoe

WORCESTER, March 8—(AP)—Andy Martin, flashy little Boston Italian, proved too fast and too smart for Billy Briscoe, of Manchester, N. H., and carried off the decision in ten rounds here tonight. Martin weighed 128 and Briscoe 125.

Strub Kayoes Stein

ERIE, Pa., March 8—(AP)—Maxie Strub, Erie, knocked out Ruby Stein, New York, in the eighth round of a ten round bout here tonight.

A Challenge

The Texaco A. C., challenges the Mortville A. C., for a game to be played at their home court this coming week. For information call Jacobson's Service station, Phone 3122.

STUDENTS FORSWEAR "COLLEGIATE" CLOTHES

GAINESVILLE, Fla.—(AP)—Anyone believing that all college students wear wide-buttoned trousers, patent leather shoes and other "collegiate" clothes, need only to visit the campus of the University of Florida.

He will be more likely to find a group of serious young men in overalls. The students dress neatly and well when occasion demands it, but the average boy is too busy to be bothered by the extreme niceties of dress.

Cost is one of the factors. Many of the students are working their way through school. Military training is compulsory to a large number of students. The government issues uniforms which go a long way to cutting the clothing bill.

Agricultural, engineering and scientific students find the dungarees or overalls more adaptable to laboratory work than the latest styles of clothing.

POETRY

Treasure Trove.

When the sun far down on his ladder
Is tinting with gold the leaves,
I climb the stairs to the attic,
Up under the soft brown eaves.

For a moment I pause on the threshold,
As the creaking old door swings ajar.
A miser alone with my treasures;
The rest of the world afar.

A mist dims my eyes as I view them—
More cherished each passing year,
Since battered, worn and forgotten,
I gave them a refuge here.

There's a moth-eaten pup, and a dolly,
A "teddy" with rusty fur—
A train of cars, a gray pony
And a kitty that lost her purr.

Oh, once they were new and shiny;
The pride of their owners, wee—
Cuddled and loved, e'en taken to bed,
In that happy "used-to-be."

I sink in a low old rocker,
A rocker that long ago
To lullabies, crooned and tender,
Swayed babies to and fro.

The last stray sunbeams enter;
With shadows the beams are hung,
But I am back with the children
In the days when life was young.
—Winnifred F. Henderson, in The Pathfinder.

"Here".

Here, within the chambered loneliness
Of an outlook on the night,
I listen to it swell and sweep,
In wild and troubled might,
This January gale.
I follow its undulating stress,
As though upon some fogbound trail—
Its wandering, far and high;
Its approaching, near and deep.
Now it is like a smothered cry;
Now like a sinking into sleep.
Futilely it seeks a path of flight
Hither and yonder through the trackless sky—
Futilely, and yet there comes delight
From its sense of ultimate defeat—
Even as with bold, buoyant lunge huge breakers die
In paeans of glistening foam about a foreland's feet.
—William Struthers, in Boston Transcript.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Shouldn't wonder. What is syncopation but a quick movement from bar to bar?"—Boston Transcript.

Dealer—Smith, why don't you sell that rattletrap and buy a new car?

Smith—Nothing doing. It makes so much noise I can't hear my wife's directions from the back seat.—Motorland.

Parent — What rubbish are you reading, Lucy?

Lucy (aged nine)—It isn't rubbish, mather; it's a book on rearing children and I'm seeing if you've brought me up properly.—Moustique.

Inquisitive Old Lady—Where did those large rocks come from?

Tired Guide—The glaciers brought them down.

Inquisitive Old Lady—But where are the glaciers?

Tired Guide—They have gone back for more.—Exchange.

Mencken—Well, what did the editor say of your last contribution of free verse?

Blencken—He was very encouraging. He said that my poems were equal to Poe's except for the absence of any rime, rhythm or meaning.—The Pathfinder.

19th ANNIVERSARY OF THE SOCIAL CORNER

DO YOU NUMBER YOUR BIRTHDAYS WITH THANKFULNESS?

SOCIAL CORNER EVENTS

March 12—Club No. 2 meets in Buckingham Memorial.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES

R. H. H.: Letter sent as requested.

19TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE SOCIAL CORNER

Another year has rolled around and today we are observing the 19th anniversary of the Social Corner, and as it has added years, its new members and its many writers indicates that it has sustained but increased its readers. This is a demonstration of the appreciation that is felt for the opportunity afforded to exchange views on a great variety of subjects and for sociability through the several Corner Clubs.

The Social Corner is co-operative effort and the past year has been one in which the members have given special recognition to the fact that the success of the former depends on their efforts.

During the year the Corner has lost some of its old time active and loyal members. Their passing means a distinct loss. In their devotion they have maintained the Corner spirit most successfully. It is the spirit that has been so finely carried on by certain ones from the very beginning, those original members for whom the Corner has such a sincere regard.

The past year has brought many new and valued members to the membership roll, and as the Corner starts on the final year of its second decade it is to be hoped that its influence and the interest therein will continue to mount. That of course rests with not a few but the whole Corner membership.

SOCIAL CORNER EDITOR.

EXPERIMENTING WITH WATERCRESS.

Dear Social Corner Editor: Many thanks for the pleasant surprise. It does out today with an order for "Glad" bulbs to help beautify my garden.

I am experimenting with watercress this spring. I have put a thick turf upside down in an old water pail, and put in water to the top of the soil, then scattered on the cress seeds. When they germinate, if ever, I shall keep the plants standing in water. I have read that it can be raised in this way and as I like watercress, think it will be convenient if successful.

Some of my neighbors are planning rock gardens for this spring. This makes me think of the "rock" garden I had in my youth. We lived in the mountains of western Massachusetts, and while I do not think that the land was more stony than this part of Connecticut, yet that particular backyard was blessed with a number of boulders which seemed to me enormous, besides plenty of smaller stones. Most of these boulders were flat-topped and though some were difficult to climb, they made delightful places to sit and munch green apples. The apples were handy also as a number of trees were planted between the boulders, and made a lovely addition to the garden—huge, fragrant bouquets in the spring and not less beautiful to us in the autumn when hung with gleaming red and yellow jewels.

My flowers, mostly were planted at the bases of these big rocks, old fashioned perennials with old-fashioned names, polyanthus, sweet william, bee balm, spirea (Astilbe is now listed), bleeding heart, columbines, purple, blue and white monkshood, daffodils, a tangle of cinnamon roses and a blue flower known to me as Lady of the Lake, and which I have only recently discovered to be a veronica, were among them.

Tonsy: Sometime ago you asked for a way to clean bathroom porcelain. Did you ever try the Common Water sold for bleaching clothes. I found it took off stains in an enamel sink that neither soap or scouring powder would touch.

Antenna: Why don't you send in that letter you received describing the celandine? I think we'd all be interested. I do not think Wordsworth could have meant the same celandine which grows in my back yard. By calling it the little celandine I think he must have meant the lesser celandine, common name Pilewort, a plant I do not know and have no description of, except that it blossoms very early in the spring and then disappears. Please tell us what you learned about it.

BETSY BOBBET.

ANNIVERSARY GREETINGS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: As the anniversary is here once more I will try and add a few lines to the Corner page, also to say "Present!" to the roll call.

My writing days are over for a time, for having a baby in the house I am busy every minute during the day, and in the evening I am too tired to think of writing letters, but I will write more often later on.

I am pleased to see so many letters every week. I think it interesting to read about all the old-fashioned styles of dress. As for the latest styles, I like the short dresses at a reasonable length, but when it comes to showing the knees it is not my style. As for smoking, I have never seen a woman smoke as yet. I think it all right for a man to smoke cigars or a pipe, as much as a woman enjoys eating candy or ice cream, but I do not like cigarettes and chewing tobacco.

Today has been a terrible rainy day, but hope we will see the sun shining tomorrow. I want to thank someone for the lovely little bluebird calendar I received some time ago. Very kind of you. I also thank all who sent me Christmas and New Year cards.

This is the way I use up hubby's best shirts that are worn at the neck or under the arms: I make lovely little dresses for the children. I cut out the back of the shirt to make the front of the dress and sew the two fronts of the shirt together, and cut them one to make the back of the dress. The rayon shirts make beautiful little dresses.

ROSE OF NEW ENGLAND.

SUCCESS TO THE CORNER.

Dear Social Corner Members: It's some time since I have written but felt that I cannot let the Social Corner's birthday pass without writing and wishing it another bright and happy year. Carrying messages of goodwill and friendship to all its members also sympathy to those in trouble, helping each other when we can. If not too late I thank a Social Corner reader for my pretty and useful calendar, pardoning me for not acknowledging it before.

Aries: I received my cup and saucer and the coffee. I have it yet. It wasn't so I could attend Club 4's meeting in Moosup. Am sure you all enjoyed yourselves.

Papa's Boy: Not too late to call as I am still at 488.

Velvie: Think I know "who is who." I am a "Doolittle" just the same as ever.

Primrose: You are on the wrong track. I thought we were the only ones to use them, but it seems "there are others." Will write you later. Wonder if "J. D." knows anything about it?

1492: Were you snowed in Saturday and Sunday? I was out in the storm Saturday evening. You see I am getting giddy.

KEZIAH DOOLITTLE, Club 4.

WHY THE RAIN AND SNOW.

Dear Editor and Social Cornerites: As I am writing the sun is shining on the hills, the wind is blowing and the gray and white clouds are hastening across a sky of brilliant blue, making a beautiful picture if we can take time, in the rush of life, to view it. God surely has given us a glorious world in which to live; yet how many times we fail to appreciate His goodness. In the last few weeks, when the rain and snow made it disagreeable under foot, did we have a thought that it was best and that because of the clouds and storms we can better enjoy the sunshine? Is it not true that

"As a rule a man's a fool.
When it's hot he wants it cool;
When it's cool he wants it hot;
Always wanting what is not."

Next Tuesday, March 12, is our anniversary meeting and we hope to meet a great many of our friends at the Buckingham Memorial.

Scottie: Mrs. L. and her mother expect to be with us Tuesday and it may be possible to have Mr. L. too. I am glad you enjoyed them at the February meeting. They are fine entertainers.

Calla Lilly: We missed you last month and you missed several good laughs. The cold is better, thank you.

Milly: Hope you can be with us Tuesday. We were almost to your home one day but thought we were on the wrong road so came home.

Anastasia: It takes three bags for a dress for myself so you see what you save by being small.

Our best wishes to those who are shut in and sympathy to those who sorrow.

MAWB, Club No. 2.

A SENSIBLE VIEW POINT

Dear Sisters and Editor: I attended the meeting of Club No. 6 at Stonington and we had a very nice meeting. Beers and Mrs. Farmer gave us a very nice dinner and American Girl put on a program in her usual style. She seems right at home in that kind of work. We hope there will be a good crowd at our next meeting which will be the anniversary. This, I believe, will be held in Westerly in the Mechanics hall, the usual place.

I think a sister called Olive (wasn't it?) wondered how many of the members were members of the grange. I am a member of Westerly grange and I think it would be interesting to hear from others. I know there are several Nos. 6 ladies who belong. True Blue told me she took seven degrees in less than a year. Wonder who can beat that record.

I rather thought we had a cold winter but I had a letter from Northfield, Vermont and she said they had a very mild winter there, not much snow and that morning the thermometer only registered 10 below zero. Suppose it is all as one looks at it. I don't believe any one could make me consider 10 below zero as a mild day. I much prefer 90 in the shade.

Whoever started the discussion on short skirts and smoking certainly started a tempest in a teapot and how it has boiled over. I must add my opinion to the rest, as I try to have a finger in all the pies. It, like the weather, is all in the point of view. If the girls want to smoke and wear ridiculously short skirts, let them. The more said against them only makes them more set. They probably get a thrill in knowing they have been taken seriously. In my opinion the quicker we ignore the issue the quicker they will drop it. It is human nature for the younger generation to shock the older ones and if we stop to think we will remember some stunt or other we tried in our younger days for the same purpose.

I only hope the style of short skirts and bobbed hair is with us to stay. If some of the people who are so shocked at the suggestion of having their hair cut would only try it they would find how much more comfortable it is, how much easier to take care of and wash. I can wash and dry my hair in fifteen minutes where I used to spend a whole afternoon doing it before it was cut. I am sure a woman's reputation can not be hurt by cutting off her hair. The whole thing is "What will people say." If they are good friends it will make no difference how you do your hair and if it makes a difference to them they are hardly worth worrying about.

As far as the hysbands are concerned of course, each one is a problem in himself to be worked out by the one concerned. Most all of them like to see their wives look up-to-date and don't think they are really as bad as they like to have us think. I have one of the best, by the way. I hope I won't get thrown out of the Corner for this letter but I will hope for the best. Best wishes to every one and sympathy where needed.

SUMAC.

HOPES SHORT SKIRTS PREVAIL

Dear Social Corner: First of all I want to thank the Social Corner member for the pretty calendar. It is so nice to be remembered each year. I have just been reading the Social Corner page. How nice to have a full page and then some.

I for one certainly do miss Kitty Louise's nice letters. They were always so helpful. I did not know her personally but knew her son, as he boarded with me once for a short time. He was more than proud of his mother, and he well had reason to be.

How the sisters have gotten wrought up over the short skirts! I for one like them. They are so much more comfortable. I should hate to go back to the long ones again, and I do hope it won't be fashionable again.

As for smoking, I don't want to, but the women have gotten equal rights and if they want to dress like a man, as some of them do, let them smoke, too, if they want to. As Jennie says, it's a fad. It is more than a fad because when they get at it they cannot stop, and that's why I should hate to begin, for I don't want to do anything I have got to be a slave to. Habits are hard to break.

It's a waste of breath, for no matter how much is said or written on the subject, it won't be stopped.

I wonder if any of the sisters have ever made jellied apples? When you want something especially nice for a dessert.

Jellied Apples: Take one-half cup sugar and one cup water; boil in a shallow pan for ten minutes. Pare and core six or eight medium sized apples. Cook in syrup until tender, but keep their shape. Take up and add water enough to the syrup to make one cup. Have it boiling hot, pour over one package of lemon gelatin. When dissolved add one cup cold water. Then take one cup of brown sugar, one tablespoon of butter and one-quarter cup of milk. Cook until soft ball stage, add vanilla and a little salt. Arrange each apple in a sherbert glass, pour a little of the syrup over them, then fill glasses with the gelatin. Set in a cool place until hardened and serve with sweetened whipped cream and nuts. Cherries make them look attractive.

Here is another dessert which is inexpensive and good: To one pint of milk heated in a double boiler add one-fourth cup minute tapioca, one cup brown sugar dissolved in one-half cup hot water, one egg. Cook until done. It will thicken when cold. Add chopped dates and nuts before serving, one teaspoon vanilla and a little salt. Serve with whipped cream. Will serve six.

Beth C.: I wish you could get a branch started and come up for the 13th of March, if pleasant, shall look for a big crowd. Hope O. D. is better. Will try and write before long. My sympathy to all in trouble, and best wishes to all.

ELIZA JANE.

CORN CUSTARD

Dear Social Corner Sisters: What miserable weather we are having today (Tuesday). Hope it will be pleasant a week from today, March 12. Was not able to attend the last meeting but hope I will the next.

Calla Lily: You will have to excuse me for not sending the recipe you asked for in before now.

Corn Custard: One can corn or one pint of my own canned, two tablespoons flour, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon sugar, one teaspoon salt, two eggs, well beaten, and two cups milk. Bake about one hour in slow oven. Hope you will try it and enjoy it.

Best wishes to all.

MILLY.

A CORRECTION

Dear Social Corner Sisters: As I wrote a letter for last week, I will only write a few lines this week.

I hope none of the sisters tried the Brown Sugar Frosting, as I made a mistake. The recipe should be: 1 1-2 cups brown sugar, whites of two eggs, four tablespoons cold water beaten with an egg over boiling water for seven minutes.

March is certainly here, by the windy days we're having.

Hope to attend the next meeting of Club No. 6.

RAVENA (Club 6).

SMOKING, SHORT SKIRTS AND SHORT HAIR

Dear Social Corner Members: What a rainy day this has been. Glad it wasn't any of the anniversary days, and I do hope Club 5 has a pleasant day tomorrow. While "listening in" yesterday, was so sorry to hear that it was raining in Washington, but have just been talking with someone who was there, and they said no one seemed to mind it.

What a discussion there has been over short skirts. I certainly think short skirts are much better than those we wore years ago, but there is a right length, and I think it depends on the person wearing it. It is surprising if one will stop to look well, when trying on a dress, how much more becoming and stylish a dress will look if it is the right length. An inch or two either way will make or mar the beauty of it. Of course there are some who always go to the extreme in anything, and it seems they have reached it when the dress is above the knees. Personally, I think from 12 to 14 inches from the floor for a person of medium height.

As to bobbed hair: To some it is very becoming, but that is on a person who has a good shaped head and good features, but to some no matter what the style is they are going to have it regardless of age or size. It was amusing to hear so many say, when they first had their hair cut, they had to do it because they had such headaches. Just think how they must have suffered for years! Others would say they had it cut because it was so much easier to take care of it, but I don't believe they spent half the time combing and caring for the long hair they have for the short locks. The minute they get anywhere out comes the comb. Not long ago someone was invited out to spend the day and it would be hard to believe how many times the lady of the house combed her hair. She said she wanted to ask her if there was something there to comb out. People's heads are their own and if they want to make themselves look hideous that is their own affair, and that isn't saying that every one who has long hair is a picture of beauty by any means.

Topsy: Thank you for the recipe; will let you know what results I have. Yours was fine.

France L.: You are no sport at all. You missed a fine time at O. D's party. Some day, though.

Rose Lee and Effie M.: Hope to see you at your anniversary. Our anniversary meeting of Club 6 will be held March 19 in Mechanics' hall, Westerly.

Crimson Rambler: Accept my sympathy in your hour of bereavement.

I am sending a recipe which we like.

Whole Wheat Gems: Three-fourths cup whole wheat flour, one cup pastry flour, two tablespoons sugar, two teaspoons baking powder, one egg, beaten with one-half teaspoon salt (scant), one tablespoon melted shortening, one scant cup of milk. I sift the whole wheat flour to make it light, then add the siftings last.

As to ladies (?) smoking, it is too disgusting to think about. Not so long ago mothers were much concerned over young men smoking cigarettes, and now the girls are doing it. What a shame it is that we must change our opinion of women who have always been supposed to have finer traits and higher ideals than the majority of the men, and that is not knocking the men, either. It is just bringing the woman down to their level and many times below it. E. L. M.

SHORT SKIRTS BUT NO SMOKES

Dear Social Corner Sisters: All I have read lately on the Social Corner page is about smoking and short skirts, so thought I'd take a hand. Short skirts? I'm for them, and have been. I wear mine short and see nothing immodest about it. It is not the short skirts that are immodest, but the way in which they are worn.

My occupation takes me daily among the so-called "flappers." Skirts above the knee, but I seldom see any below the knee. Why not? We are comfortable, healthy and happy.

Of course, there are those who always go to the extreme; but wasn't it that way even in the days gone by? There is, and always will be those who go to extremes, and the rest are judged by those few.

But as to smoking, I draw the line. Let those who want to smoke do so, and I have noticed that there is a growing popularity for smoking. It is a habit once formed that is very hard to break. Men tell us so, so why start it?

If a girl wants to smoke, why not do it in the privacy of her room? But no, there is no fun doing that, so the girl goes out on the street to be stared at and laughed at behind her back.

Joan: How are you? Well, I hope. Haven't we had fine weather lately?

I will close with the last few lines of a poem that has a heap of common sense in it:

THE OLD FASHIONED GIRL

The old fashioned girl is the girl for me—
She of the apron and blouse—
The one that is handy with biscuits and pies,
And sweeping and dusting a house.
Her face assures you the moment you meet
There's a goodness heart-deep in her life;
And when you have settled on starting a nest,
You had better choose her for your wife.

TRIBUTE TO MARY SUNSHINE

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I was shocked Wednesday to hear of the death of Mary Sunshine, Mrs. Mary Whipple, of Auburn, R. I., whose funeral took place in Jewett City Tuesday.

I met her quite a few times when she came to the meetings with I. J. B., and she was always so cheerful even though she could not see, and it always pleased me when I spoke to her she would call me by name, as she could always tell my voice. I hope she is happy where it is always sunshine.

Crimson Rambler, too, has had a great sorrow, having lost her husband very recently. I'm sure she has the sympathy of all the Corner sisters.

We had a very nice time Wednesday at Club 5 meeting and was pleased to see again Theoda, E. L. M., Y. Y., Lonesome Pine, Olga, Bachelor Maid and Chocolate. It is good to meet so many we haven't seen in a year or more. I hope to meet many more next Tuesday at Club 2.

Well, isn't it about time that Rural Delivery, Jim, Uncle Charley and some of the other writers would send something to help fill up the Corner page, although it has been kept filled lately?

Practical Polly: How I did laugh when I read your letters. I have so often heard my mother speak of chignons and waterfalls; those were some sort of hair dressing, and then bustles and hoop skirts. Glad those fashions were before my time, but I do remember, when I was only 14 years old, of going into the store to buy a hair ribbon and a young woman standing next to me told me I ought to be buying hairpins instead of hair ribbons, and also that I should wear long skirts to cover my skinny legs. I never forgot that, for I thought it was so unkind, but it wasn't long after that, when I wore long skirts, and instead of looking like 16 I looked like 60.

When I look at my 16 year old niece and see how nice she looks with her bobbed hair and short (not abbreviated) skirts, I think why did not they have these styles when I was younger.

Now we can make a dress in a day; yes, and one that we don't need to be ashamed of, either in length or breadth.

Of course there are extremes in every age and generation, but we of the happy medium, why should we worry?

BLACK-EYED SUSIE.

MUST BE BRAVE TO KNOCK

Dear Editor: One of our writers in today's issue says "Stop knocking." That brought to my mind words quoted from a minister, "God bless the knockers," he said. He then explained that there were two types of knockers. One type "knocked" just to be disagreeable, and gained nothing for himself or anyone else. The other type "knocked" to try to bring before the people certain conditions that were not as they should be, or that were open to improvement. Almost all progress and reforms have been brought about by "knockers."

We need "knockers" to show us our faults. We need knockers to agitate for reforms. Anyone can be a "yes" man and agree with everyone and everything. But it takes a brave heart to stand out and "knock" any existing evil or condition. A "knocker" knows he will be unpopular in his day and generation, although later generations may look upon him as a deliverer. Would this land be a free country today if the forefathers had not knocked the British?

Would the blacks be free today if no one had "knocked" slavery?

Would we have a dry law today if people had not "knocked" the gin and rum?

Would we today have a free press if men had not agitated for it?

So ever since I heard about that minister's remarks I have respected the "knocker" if he were "knocking" to help bring about a constructive plan of development.

Someone has said "Faithful are the wounds of a friend," meaning they tell us our faults so we may correct the fault.

A New England Yankee: We are very glad to have you say the good words for California and Connecticut and all the other states. There is just one word I would like to say to set you right concerning Adam's letter. Adam has been in California this winter and there were four weeks of steady fog where he was staying and he was subjected to all the inconveniences of which he wrote. And I have a printed clipping before me from a California newspaper speaking on just the subject Adam spoke of in his letter to the Corner page. So there must be other people who visit California "with their eyes shut," as you suggest. California is a large state and the climate and people as varied as our eastern coast, no doubt. I correspond with a lady who lives near Santa Rosa, Calif., who tells me they have been having unusually foggy weather this season. When Adam left here for his trip to California he had neither flat feet nor cooties; of that I am sure.

I would advise you to join the Social Corner and learn tolerance. You will soon get into the habit if you mingle with our large family. I am sure Adam will enjoy reading your letter when he gets home, as he dearly loves to "get the girls' nannies" and hear them say something worth while. We hope your "blood boiling" process is ended by this time and you will smile with us, not at us.

ADAM'S WIFE.

SOME GOOD RECIPES

Dear Editor and Social Corner: I am sending several recipes for the Cornerites:

Sugar Cookies: One cup of sugar, one-half cup butter, two eggs, one-half cup of sour milk, with one-half teaspoon soda dissolved in it. Flavor with vanilla, three cups pastry flour, or more if needed; keep soft as possible; have just made these.

Chocolate Pie: One coffee cup of milk, two grated tablespoons of chocolate or cocoa, yolks of three eggs; heat milk and chocolate together; beat yolks and sugar to a cream; add milk and chocolate, flavor with vanilla. Bake with one crust. Beat the whites and three tablespoons sugar. Spread on pie, brown in oven.

Chocolate Pie: One cup sugar, two tablespoons cocoa, two tablespoons of cornstarch, 1 1-2 cups milk and two egg yolks; mix well. Cook in double boiler until thick, then add piece of butter and vanilla. Pour into baked shell and frost with beaten whites. I always use this recipe, as I always have an extra shell baked. But I don't like cornstarch, so use flour instead. Am sending my fig pudding recipe which I make about every week:

Fig Pudding: Two cups bread crumbs, one cup brown sugar, 1-4 pound suet chopped, little salt, 1-4 pound figs chopped, two eggs, rind and juice of lemon, one cup raisins, one tablespoon molasses, 1-2 teaspoon of soda dissolved in little water, tablespoon flour; steam three hours; serve with lemon sauce.

Be True: Did you want to trade your bird for a singer? Let me know, please.

SENDS MINCE MEAT RECIPE

Dear Social Corner Sisters: As I did not write last month as I intended to, I will write early in March. February seemed to just fly away and perhaps this month will go as fast.

Someone asked for my rule for mince meat, so I am sending it. Make in the proportion of three bowls of finely chopped meat and one of suet to eight bowls of chopped apples. Remove the rind and seeds from four lemons and chop with two cups raisins; add two cups seeded raisins, a little salt, one quart of sweet or boiled cider and brown sugar and spices to make it taste right. If not moist enough, add coffee to make of the right consistency. Cook slowly about four hours, stirring often. I often can this for future use.

A good remedy for a cold is one teaspoon of baking soda in a full glass of water once in three hours until three doses have been taken. This will not injure anyone, and will often break up the worst cold.

Cretia: I am glad that you are better and that you had good luck baking potatoes. My friends think the picture of normal students with long skirts and short waists is interesting. I am certainly pleased to have a picture taken in 1892.

Ann Tenna: Shall try your way of sharpening shears, as making rugs dulls the scissors.

Buttercup: Am still looking for your letter, but think I shall write again before you get to it, though I hope not.

ROSARY.

A SLIGHT ERROR

Dear Social Corner Friends: In the chocolate pie recipe which I sent last week there was a slight error as to measurement. Instead of four tablespoons of cornstarch, it should be four teaspoons of cornstarch.

I hope to try C. I. M. B.'s recipe, as it sounds O. K.

Very truly yours,

LUCILLE.

PLANNING FOR LARGE GATHERING

Dear Social Corner friends: I think it about time I answered the roll call and write a few lines, partly to enjoy the Social Corner page for the paper. Tuesday, March 12, is our anniversary meeting and we are planning for a large gathering. Do come, one and all, and bring your friends, and something good to eat. Come and see what you think about a young stylish miss deceiving an old maid.

Strawberry: We are hoping and wishing real hard for you to be with us.

Calla Lily: I hope you will be able to be with us this time; we missed you last meeting. Georgette has something up her sleeve and I wouldn't be surprised if Mawb and Red Rose didn't know something about her secret. Wish you could spend the afternoon with us, Lonefeather. I guess I will hang up and look for you all March 12.

LAHLEET.

AN ADVOCATE OF SHORT SKIRTS

Dear Social Corner Members and Editor: It has been some time since I have written for the Corner page. How neglectful I've been! I do think we as members should contribute a few lines once in a while and not leave it always to the few faithfulones.

We are now entering the spring month of March and I'm wondering if there are others as glad as I that winter is on the wane.

I was sorry to miss the nice dinner and social hour at Stonington Feb. 9th. I had planned on going and hoped to meet you there, Anna, but sickness in the family prevented.

Connie: How are you? I haven't met you of late. I've been quite interested reading the opinions of our members regarding the smoking among our girls and the way some of them dress. I for one do like to see the real young people in their short dresses. I can't think of a time when clothing has been as attractive as at present. I do think smoking for girls, or women, most disgusting. We should look for better things in our present generation. We are told that history will repeat itself, and I read only last week in a newspaper that Martha Washington, wife of our first president, smoked her pipe, so you can see that's going back into history, and then some!

Some member wrote in for a chocolate pie recipe. I have one that is rather nice:

Chocolate Pie: Put in double boiler one cup sugar, one cup hot water; two tablespoons cocoa, two tablespoons of cornstarch, or flour; stir to a smooth paste in little water; beat two egg yolks, add to cocoa and cornstarch and stir into the sugar and hot water; keep stirring until it thickens, then add butter size of egg and one teaspoon vanilla and put in undercrust that has been baked. Use whites of egg for meringue.

Zulieka: I trust ere long you will feel quite like yourself once more. You surely have been housed-in this winter.

Mrs. Farmer: I had missed seeing you at the club. I was wondering what had become of you. I was told that you helped Beers with the dinner, so now I know you are among the living.

TRUDA (Club No. 6).

ABHORS WOMEN SMOKERS

Dear Social Corner Members: It's about time I responded.

Jennie: I cannot say any more than has been said. I abhor a woman smoker. I turn my head away from some short skirts. I take a happy medium, but can't say I like flesh-colored stockings. But everyone to their own taste.

Practical Polly: I well remember when the style was you mention and how near I came to breaking my bones by wearing the hoopskirt when I went to get out of a wagon. The skirt got caught and I gave a jump. You can imagine how I landed, and my feelings! I think the older people had the same opinion of the young as we older ones have of them today, but I do believe the young are going a few paces faster, for there are more things to entice them nowadays. Not altogether young in years, either.

Well, the years have passed, and so rapidly, and here we are to celebrate the anniversary. What changes have been made. So many members have passed on, and several have lost loved ones from their homes. Now Mary Sunshine has left us. My sympathy goes out to them all, and Crimson Rambler, who buried her husband this week. It makes one wonder who might be the next.

Welcome to all the new ones.

AUNTY No. 1.

AN OLD MEMBER WRITES

Dear Editor and Friends of the Social Corner: I have not seen a Norwich Bulletin or Social Corner for a year, but if I remember correctly the coming Saturday is our Social Corner anniversary. To the new writers I am a stranger, but when last I saw a Social Corner letter there were still names of early contributors who seemed like old friends.

How well I remember when the Social Corner started so many years ago and how eagerly we of the rural communities looked for the letters each week.

Many splendid letters appeared and I think I am not alone in the feeling that many times the letters which inspired and helped us most were not always the prize winning letters.

Through the Social Corner many valued friendships have been formed and the different clubs started by its members have taken up activities which have been far-reaching in their influence and have brought hope, cheer and inspiration into many lives. May the Social Corner continue and may its influence grow even broader as the years pass.

With best wishes for the editor and all Social Corner friends.

GLENWOOD.

Milldale, Conn.

WISHES GODSPEED TO MEMBERS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: For two months I have been promising myself I would write to our Corner, but it seems the faster I work the slower I grow. I would not miss getting my letter in for March 9th for a good deal. If I can find time to write only one letter in the year, it will always be on our anniversary day. So here I am, all safe and sound, just half way between where I started from. I wish to thank the one for my pretty calendar. I welcome all new members. All that have lost dear ones have my sympathy. I shall miss White Dawn. She was always so nice to meet. So far this year I have had the pleasure of calling on Aurty, No. 1, Nelly Bly, Arbutus and Sweet William.

Calla Lily: I have broken the silence. Thank you.

Anastasia: I am very well, thank you. I am pleased you remember me.

I trust to see a full line of names we have missed next Saturday.

As we go on our way holding another year, I wish Godspeed to all members.

I remain as ever, SISTER READY.

LOOKING FOR BOARDING PLACE

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: If anybody is desirous of a place to board, they can find a nice place with Miss Mary Simpkins. She has a competent cook and a tabby cat. She has one boarder for the summer. She will be at the anniversary meeting of Club No. 2 at the Buckingham Memorial Tuesday, March 12, 1929.

THE PERUVIAN TREASURE.

Dear Editor and Social Corner: M. Irving gives us some interesting statements about a treasure of Peru.

In 1922 the Peruvian government, fearing the Spaniards would capture Callao and the national treasure would fall into their hands, intrusted it to Captain Smith of the American schooner "Black Watch," knowing the Spaniards would not dare to search an American vessel. The treasure consisted of jewels, church plate and several barrels of gold and silver ingots, and was valued in all at fifty million dollars American money. Captain Smith sailed out of the harbor under the batteries of the Spanish gunboats. The crew, in spite of his precautions, discovered the treasure was on board and threatened to seize the ship if he did not divide it. The sea settled the meeting by breaking the "Black Watch" to pieces on Cocos island in a gale. Captain Smith alone was saved; he salvaged the treasure from the wreck and buried it on Cocos island before he was rescued by a fishing boat and taken to the mainland whence he returned to Salem.

Soon afterward he died, leaving the man of the treasure hiding place to his son who went after it accompanied by a man named Brown. They took out five million dollars, of which one million went to Brown for financing the expedition. Young Smith was afraid to leave the rest on Cocos island, so he took it to Tahiti and hid it in a cave on one of the small islands. All the crew died of a mysterious malady on the homeward voyage; the ship was destroyed by fire and Smith perished with her. Brown was the sole survivor; he took the five million dollars and went to England where he became a wealthy ship broker.

ADAM.

CUSTOMS CHANGE.

Dear Social Corner Folks: Here I am after a long rest but I am still alive. I am a very poor one to do any writing that will be of help and interest.

Thirty years ago we saw infants' clothes costs, too, nearly two yards long. What a blessing to the one who has the laundry work to do to have the short clothes. It is half that work. It used to be plenty of wool and flannels, not so today. It seems today I find a lot more happy babies than many years ago. People do not spoil the tiny ones now by rocking them by the hour. Those little ones learn quick and get where they are discontented if they find they are even left alone a few minutes.

Most of my friends do not allow the baby to be tossed in the air or trotted up and down on one's knee until the head fairly swims. Then when they are put to bed they rest quietly until they fall asleep. Otherwise it is apt to make the baby restless.

I attended Club No. 6 and had a good time. They had a nice entertainment and wonderful dinner. I can't relate all we had, because I can't remember as the list is too long.

Some of the letters about short skirts are good sense. The fashion in any fashion is the one that puts on the extreme to be smart. They are the ones that spoil it all. If people would only get a genuine back view of their own legs in a big mirror and used their own judgment instead of believing what this and that one thinks, they would look a lot better to other folks. I have a reason of my very own why I don't wear my skirts above the upper calf of the leg. If I were some people I know I would never wear them above the ankles, reasons untold.

So sad to lose White Dawn. She was lovely indeed if you only knew her. The name seemed perfect for her. Our sympathy goes to her family.

Crimson Rambler: Where, O, Where? We are coming some time to look you up so the boss says. Get that? He wants to see the old place again as he can't just remember all he would like to about the scenery.

DEARIE.

ENJOYED ENTERTAINMENT.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: February is bidding us farewell and in such a way. I hope the twelfth of March won't be anything like this as some people have so far to come. Besides March is the anniversary month.

am so sorry so many had to miss our surprise entertainment last meeting. It was the best ever.

Mawb so kindly brought Mr. and Mrs. Libby to Quaker Hill to entertain us. Rev. Mr. Borden also was a guest.

Mrs. Libby sang two pretty pieces for us with Mawb at the piano. Then Mr. Libby recited numerous pieces which kept us either spellbound or in hysterics. His impersonation of the life of a Dutch boy and girl were fine, so true to life; also the trials of the Irish woman who tries her luck out on roller skates and, believe me, her luck does not encourage others to try their's. They all were fine entertainers.

I'm sure that all who were lucky enough to hear them enjoyed themselves immensely.

Rev. Mr. Borden spoke on the air of sociability and friendship he noticed among those attending. Let's hope it will always be found there. Mr. Borden also announced that Mr. Libby can be gotten for church or other social gatherings for a very small charge.

I think a good big "thank you" ought to go to Mawb for her thought in getting for us two such fine entertainers as Mr. and Mrs. Libby.

Has anyone any ideas to pass along to an old maid who finally decides she wants a husband? If so, kindly bring those ideas to our next gathering, as Miss Simpkins, I am sure, will appreciate them. I want also to say there is going to be there some one you haven't seen for a long time and whom you'll be glad to see. So be sure and come.

Another sister has gone from our midst. White Dawn. Her husband and children have our heartfelt sympathy in their loss.

Strawberry: I understand you might come down. Don't let anything prevent you. You've been absent too long.

Catnip: Don't forget crab salad. They all look for it.

Aunt Mary Jane: Put a big circle around March 12th on your most used calendar. That might help.

GEORGETTE.

AGREES ON SHORT DRESSES.

Dear Social Corner People, One and All: Here comes the better half of me at Twin Oak cottage. You are all so busy talking about the ladies' short skirts, and smoking that you never thought I had a better half.

I agree with all you ladies say about smoking, drinking and short skirts. I mean above the knee, and the worst is that what we say, don't count with any of them. The ones that could set a better example "don't choose to." They adopted the motto of our late president, but not the method he went by. They make me think of small children. When you tell them they are not to do certain things, my, as soon as your back is turned, what happens? And like so many things in life how little we seem to be able to change it, either by word or deed, at least.

POWERFUL SPECULATIVE FORCES WERE IN CONTROL OF THE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, March 8—(AP)—Speculators for the advance took complete control of the stock market today after an opening break had carried many popular issues down 2 to 8 1-2 points. Disregarding the surprisingly large increase of $140,000,000 in brokers' loans and the warning statement of Paul Warburg, international banker, powerful speculative forces bid vigorously for stocks, pushing more than a score to new high records.

Radio issues were the outstanding feature. The old stock soared 38 points to a new high record for all time at 455, after having dipped to 398 1-2 on the first outbreak of selling, and the new stock closed 7 1-4 points higher at 89, also a new peak. More than 600,000 shares of the new stock changed hands during the day.

Except for a slightly easier undertone in call money which dropped from 10 to 9 per cent., there was little in the day's news to explain the sudden change in speculative sentiment. Earnings and trade reports continued favorable and a flurry of buying developed in the oil shares on reports that marked progress was being made in negotiations for a curtailment of crude production.

The seeming defiance of the federal reserve authorities by stock market operators continued to be a source of uneasiness in conservative banking and brokerage quarters. With loans only $23,000,000 below the record high total for all time, an unusually heavy mid-month turn-over of funds due next week and expanding agricultural and commercial demands for funds, many of the large financial houses continued to urge a cautionary policy on the part of their customers.

Much of today's buying is reported to have been for the account of the short interest, which assumed large proportions when the credit stringency first began to make itself felt. Because speculative accounts generally are heavily margined, and no signs of a general recession in business activity are apparent, there has been relatively little liquidation of long holdings. Wall street heard that the Cutten and Fisher interests, which have been big factors in the "Bull" market during the past few years, have temporarily withdrawn from the market, at least to the extent of making no organized effort to mark up their favorite stocks.

Concurrent strength of the radio and Western Union issues today revived rumors of consolidation plans, but President Harbord of the Radio company said that merger discussions havebeen abandoned for the time being. Western Union rose up to 216 3-4 and then dropped back to 212 up 2 points net.

Some of the other outstanding strong spots in today's market were Advance Rumely, Allis Chalmers, Davison Chemical, Grand Stores, Midland Steel Products Preferred, National Cash Register, Rossia Insurance Stromberg Carlson and Victor Talking Machine, all of which closed 4 to 10 points higher. U. S. Steel Comman, which sold down to 182 3-8 in the early trading, closed at 186 1-4 for a net gain of 2 points and General Electric rallied from a low of 231 1-8 to 238 1-2, closing within a point of the top.

There were a few soft spots. Adams Express broke 20 points and rallied 5. Cast Threshing dropped 10 points and Burroughs Adding Machine 5.

Establishment of another new 1929 low by the Canadian dollar at 99.32 cents featured the easier foreign exchange market. Sterling cables ruled a shade lower around $4.85 1-16.

Cotton rallied about $1.25 a bale. Wheat declined a fraction of a cent a bushel and coffee futures rallied 25 to 38 points.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

BRIAND HELD BLAMELESS IN DEATH OF ISABEL CAMPO

(Special to The Bulletin)

STAFFORD SPRINGS, March 7—Leon Briand of 511 Springfield street, Chicopee, Mass., was exonerated from criminal liability in a finding issued by Deputy Copper M. D. O'Connell Thursday. Briand was in the employ of H. L. Handy company and was carrying a load of provisions from Springfield to Norwich when his truck ran into and killed Isabel Campo, age 8, on West Main St. Stafford Springs on the afternoon of Feb. 15th. The little girl was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Campo and that afternoon had been with her mother and two other women visiting at the home of Mrs. Aldo Peloni. On their way across the little girl with Mrs. Lena Thigpit walked on the north side of the street and Mrs. Campo and Mrs. Mary Chipatti were on the south side of the street. The child started to run across the street to her mother. When more than half way across she hesitated and the truck driven by Brian came along and struck her. The truck was going at about 20 miles an hour and the coroner finds was not excessive, as there was very little traffic on the street at the time of the accident. The brakes on the truck, which were not used by the driver and which had not been driven by him for two weeks previous to the accident, were found to be defective. But as the accident could not be actually traced to the defective brakes, the coroner finds that there was not such gross negligence or willful negligence as would make the driver liable in a criminal action. It is probable that the driver will be presented in court charged with operating a motor vehicle with defective brakes and one or two other minor offenses.

Miss Ruth Mullen, of Wellesley college, was at her home on Crown street recently.

May Have New Industry.

A sub-committee of the Stafford Business Men's association is making an effort to interest local people in subscribing money for the erection of a building in which to house a silk manufacturing concern which will probably locate here if the building is erected. The Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company is also interested in the affair and all feel assured there would be an ample supply of high grade labor if the concern considering the project should locate here. The plant will require 20,000 square feet of floor space to commence operation. Local people, especially the merchants, are very much interested in the matter as it will make a considerable addition to the present pay roll in town and will mean increased business for the merchants.

LEFFINGWELL

The March meeting of Leffingwell School Improvement league was held Friday evening at the schoolhouse. The president, Stanley C. Spicer, presided. The school children gave a three-act play "The Magic Ring," directed by the teacher, Miss Doris Generous. The cast follows: Queen, Helen Spicer; king, Herbert Spicer; nurse, Pearl Johnson; pages, Sau. Caroline, Paul Wenzel; fairies, Ruth Caroline, Lucie Spicer, Louise Bedat, Nina Lathrop, Olive Wenzel, Walter Johnson; Zin-Zin, Marion Wenzel; giant blunder, Paul Wenzel; prince truth, Raymond Murray; princess, Margaret Bedat. Milton Caroline and Raymond Johnson sang a duet, accompanied by Miss Mildred F. Leffingwell. The committees for April are: Entertainment, Herbert E. Beard, Harry E. Bedat; refreshments, Mrs. Edward Caroline, Mrs. Roy L. Beard.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason F. Comeshall of Trading Cove were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Taylor Sunday.

A flock of wild geese was heard going north Monday noontime, so spring must be on the way.

Cards have been received from Mr. and Mrs. Nathan E. Whiting from Orlando, Fla.

An all-day meeting was held by the Ladies' Aid society and Missionary circle Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Silas W. Leffingwell.

SOCIAL CORNER

that has been my experience all through these many years of sorrow and gladness. GRANDMOTHER. at Twin Oak Cottage.

REMEMBER, YOU WERE YOUNG ONCE

Dear Cornerites: Today, Tuesday, being such a stormy day, and having time, I decided it was a favorable time to write a letter to the Corner. Our page has been filled and running over the past three Saturdays. So I guess all are awake to the fact that young people are under discussion.

One thing I noticed was that the ones who are accusing them of all sorts of evil are the women who have no daughters, while the ones who are defending are the mothers—who love them.

Really, I don't think the world will go to perdition yet a while. Every so often we have these upheavals. Smoking is an evil, and I hope the fad will die out before it gets to be a habit.

Short skirts and powder and rouge are not limited to the young girls; some of our older women should stand before a glass and note how they look in short skirts, and I am sure they would not be so hard with the younger ones.

Really, I think some folks hate the idea of growing old and so unconsciously jealousy is aroused, and they write and do things that normally they would never do.

"Faith, hope and charity, but the greatest of these is charity." Let us all be charitable in our thoughts and dealings, and remember that probably we caused our elders as much anxiety when we were young.

Let us pledge ourselves that if we cannot say something good about anyone, why just don't say anything.

As the fellow said: "If you can't boost, don't knock."

Red Rose: When I read your letter I smiled. It was just you, and so much was said in so few words. It seems such a long time since I have had one of our nice long talks. I hope before long we can meet. My, how our tongues will wag!

Prudence: I think of you often I hope some time to see you, and am glad you are well and happy.

Stabby: What a good time we had at your party. You are an ideal hostess. Add, last, but not least, "such a good cook."

Alexandria: I was so pleased to read in the news that you are once more at home. I am sure you are all happy to be together again. Your courage and unfailing cheerfulness will be a great help to all of us.

Marigold: I have not heard whether you are out of the hospital. I hope so, and on the road to complete recovery. [illegible] Your card about Marigold was received and I called at the hospital. It was so kind of you to write. I wonder if there are any small "Gooseberries" yet? Those clippings were fine.

Fern: I was so pleased to spend the day in your company. It had been such a long time since we had met. Am glad your general health has improved, and hope it will continue.

Pearl: I am sorry you have not been well. We miss you at the meetings at the Buckingham.

Wurdy Belle: I think you must be ill as you have not attended any gatherings for a long time. We always miss the bright, cheery members.

Black-Eyed Susie: I was so happy to have you and Mayfair out to a gathering of the clans. I hope you will be able to come next week.

To R. E. M. and Members of Club 6: I wonder if I will ever be able to meet with you again? I hope so, as you are all very dear to me.

Rural Aunty: I was sorry I could not attend your good time, but it just does not happen so I can.

Hubby and Helpers: I know you are enjoying yourselves in the sunny south, but it will soon be spring and you will be among us again. OLGA

GREETINGS FROM ARBUTUS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: It seems good to see the sun shining once more after so much rain, which makes one feel good to think spring is near. I do not like the winter weather, there is so much sickness with so many deaths this year.

I love to read the Social Corner page each week, but I am not much of a writer myself. I thought I would answer the roll call and to feel I was one of your great family. I send my sympathy to those who have had trouble in any way and to those who are sick. I hope they will soon be well.

It will soon be time for these lovely little flowers to come up. They are so sweet. ARBUTUS.

DON'T EAT AND RUN

Dear Corner Friends: How faithful to the memory of our late Kitty Lou we are in keeping the Corner page up. Let us continue to do so, if we do write more than one letter a month. For one am willing to be pigeonholed until needed to fill a page. It wouldn't serve me to know I was held up until wanted to help out. I was sorry to learn the morning that Crimson Rambler had met with the loss of her husband.

Elsoda: I see your club also has the same point to make, that we all do, out of respect to our hostess, to make a Corner day of it. Go to the pictures another day. It was started for a day to get together, visit, do fancy work and your mending. Do not eat and run. It's no restaurant. Some enjoy staying until almost 5 p. m. to chat and visit. Why can't they all make an afternoon of it? This coming in at 11.30 a. m. and leaving at 1.30 p. m. isn't the Social Corner way at all.

I am told that at the last meeting that some did not bring food and only paid the dinner price. How could we expect a dinner if they all put down the same 25c extra? The dinner fee is required if one comes empty handed, but we prefer some food of substantial size and quantity. I'm sorry to have to repeat this, but it's the rule.

Georgette: How is the play coming on? I'm told I was to be a hostess as at the usual anniversary meetings in the past few years. If such is the case (I wasn't present last month) I shall need some helpers, so bring your aprons and willing hands.

Mayfair: I saw something in the paper about "my blue ribbon girl." Congratulations.

I turned the leaves of a book and in it was a picture taken in front of The Bulletin S. C. tent at the fair in 1915. Those I could see plainly were Dom Pedro and Remember Me, also Lucinda and Lucy Acorn.

The others were not so clear in print. It does not seem as though we had been writing 19 years. I for one thank The Bulletin Co. for our gift of the page, and our editor and the printers for their part in deciphering our letters to print, for I surely have made a lot of very dear friends through the Corner.

With peace and harmony that prevails and love and friendship of each member and writer,

CALLA LILY (Club No. 2).

INTEREST NEVER LAGS

Dear Social Corner Friends: Once more Old Glory is flying at the head of the Corner page. It is anniversary again for the Social Corner. It is worth while for all the Corner family to extend our thanks to the editor, who has had a trial to keep the whole Corner family in harmony from year to year. My interest in the Social Corner is as strong as when I first began to send in a letter weekly, when there were less than a dozen writers who were willing to make the Corner page a success.

Our sympathy goes out to all the Corner family who have passed through the trouble of sickness and death the past year. While it is hard to lay our friends away and to see the vacant chairs in the home, it is worth while to remember the hymn "Sometime We Will Understand."

It is pleasing to see how nicely the young writers keep the Corner page well filled with letters of interest. Wishing the editor a wonderful success by the help of his faithful writers to keep the Corner page up to the standard the coming year, I remain very sincerely yours,

RURAL DELIVERY

GREETINGS TO CORNERITES

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Once again the time has come for me to greet you all. Just a few lines to get in on our anniversary number. I can hardly realize that another year has rolled around. The time passes so quickly. All new members who have come in during the year, I welcome them at this time.

To the sick I send best wishes for speedy recovery. The family of White Dawn have my sympathy.

Arbutus: I was very much pleased with your call.

Rose of New England: I should like to call sometime.

Sister Ready: I'm glad to hear that you are so well this winter.

Aunty No. 1: I am glad you are better.

Best wishes to all.

SWEET WILLIAM.

EPITAPHS

Dear Friends of the Social Corner and Editor: This certainly is a very dark gloomy day, and February is almost gone for this year. It doesn't look very much like "gentle spring" to me, but I will try and write a few lines.

Bella Dee: I am sending a few epitaphs for your collection. Many grave markers bearing humorous inscriptions have to do with one's spouse.

"This dear little spot is the joy of my life, it covers my flowers, and covers my wife."

and

"Here lies my wife, so let her lie.
She's now at rest, and so am I."

"Sacred to the memory of J. A. R., who died Aug. 6th, 1909. His widow, who mourns as one who CAN be comforted, aged 24, and possessing every good quality for a good wife, lives at 140 Chatham street, this village."

ANN TENNA.

LOVE THE BIRDS.

Dear Editor and Cornerites: Have you built a bird house yet? Now is the time to build or buy one and have painted and ready to put on post or tree when spring arrives. The seventh and eighth grade boys can build one for you for a small sum, then you can doll it up yourself. To love the birds, to appreciate their place in the landscape, is one of the most important things, it adds another pleasure to our lives.

In forming a perfect garden, many things are requisite, namely, birds, flowers, bees and butterflies, bird houses and a bird bath. If you doubt the truth of these assertions, take a seat in a retired spot during a beautiful day in the month of roses and listen to the song of the birds, careling as they sway on the branches over your head, or near your feet, or hidden deep in the heart of a flower bed.

Birds are everywhere, they flit in and out of the garden, sipping nectar from the blossoms and flaunting their bright colors, catch the sunshine as they dart by. God made nothing more beautiful and interesting than birds and we should care for them; giving them a distinctive place in our garden, realizing that through their industry they help free the plants of injurious insects and slugs. The birds may surely be coaxed into your garden if care is taken in proper planting, giving them trees and plants they love. Place the bath under the rose bushes in a way that the thorns will keep out intruding cats. William Penn, John Burroughs and Bertram Bartran were great men who lived and attracted the birds.

So let us strive to create a home-like atmosphere so attractive to the little songsters that they will delight in revelling among our many flowers and trees. A barren waste of land has no pleasure for them, neither has a garden shorn of their favorite plants. Plant the vari-colored miniature sunflowers, the wild canaries love the seed. I have many a time watched them destroy bloom after bloom in order to get seed in the right stage. While other birds prefer seeds of larkspur, coreopsis, portulaca and poppies. Our little brown-headed chipping sparrow likes grass seed.

A bird-bath need not be expensive, just a shallow box about 18 inches square, zinc-lined and painted to correspond with the surroundings. The birds are not fussy as to the exterior, all they wish is comfort and a cool drink on a hot summer day when the sun is high in the heavens and all nature is panting from excessive heat. This zinc-lined box filled with fresh water daily is as satisfactory to them as a marble pool standing in the midst of a large formal garden of brilliant flowers.

Place this pan in the center of a grassy knoll at the edge of the garden and watch results, that is, if you cannot go any farther, I would prefer to place this on a post well set in cement under a climbing rose or out in the open on a rather high post so the little fellows can see if there are any enemies approaching. Any one and every one can have this kind of a bird bath and let's see who will have a better one. Oh, joy! I have seen two blue birds today. Let us hurry out the houses. With hopes and best wishes CANTERBURY BELL.

APPRECIATES SISTER'S HELP

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: If not too late, I want to thank the sisters and American Girl who helped Mrs. Farmer and I with the dinner and program Feb. 19, of Club No. 6. Sorry not to have written last week. I had too many irons in the fire. I see by the letter every one had a nice time. Glad that they did as we had plenty of good eats.

Betsy Bobbet: Don't forget to have asters and cosmos in your garden collection as they bloom all summer till frost comes. This fall I took up some sweet Alyssum and mignonette. They have been in bloom all winter. Last winter I had snapdragons.

Canterbury Bell: I am going to make the flower bath. I spray my plants every three weeks and water them every week with ammonia water, a teaspoonful to a gallon of water. When it's very cold I take the chill off of the water. Be careful not to get any on the foliage as it turns it yellow. March 12, 1888 came on Sunday and it was cloudy and very cold all day. It commenced snowing about 5 p. m. and continued till Wednesday, with the wind northwest. The sun came out two or three times. The drifts were from four to eight feet deep and the trains did not run for several days. Telegraph and telephone wires were all down and everything was at a standstill.

Olive: Hubby and I belong to the grange. I have been a member 18 years and over 30 years of the W. C. T. U. When Mr. Gardner visits Westerly grange this fall it makes his 86th consecutive year.

Scones: 3 cups flour, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 teaspoons cream tartar, 1 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup of milk. Pat out 1-2 inch thick and cut with biscuit cutter. Put in a hot frying pan and cover with lid. Cook on top of stove with slow fire. Turn them in 10 minutes.

Fancy Roast: 1 pint of oysters, 4 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons butter, salt and pepper. Cook altogether 10 minutes and serve on buttered toast.

Cabbage Salad: Shred 1 pound cabbage, 1 cup of crushed pineapple, canned or fresh, 2 tablespoons mayonaise dressing. Garnish with 1-2 cup of cocoanut. Beers (Club No. 6).

GETTING TIME TO SEW.

Dear Social Corner Friends: This has been one lovely day for this time of the year. I have been to church and Sunday school and had a long walk this afternoon. I visited an old friend and had a nice chat, something to think over while at work this week. I have attended two meetings of Club No. 4 and had a nice time at both. I think I will have to join that club as it is nearer than Norwich. I hope I will know in time when they intend to meet again.

I like dresses short enough to clear the floor, not too short. I always liked plain clothes, nothing fussed up. The styles suit me all right, as there have been times when they were much worse. I don't believe in women smoking and, I am glad I have to put up with it at all.

I have often wondered if it would do any good to write to young housekeepers and tell them how I manage about my dinners so I can get more time to sew. Well, I get up early, get breakfast out of the way, dishes cleared up, floor swept and other little things done. Then quite often I make a stew, a piece of fresh beef, two pounds or more washed and put over in cold water. Clean and cut up two turnips, 2 carrots and 2 onions and put on by ten o'clock. One hour later add 6 potatoes cut in pieces and let cook till noon. Now you can sew, your morning's work is done. Dinner will be ready at noon and will be good and hearty and if your family is not very large there will be plenty for supper. So you will have two hours in the forenoon to sew and all afternoon. I have followed this plan years and it has been a good one. Yours for the Corner, AUNTIE JANE.

THE FLOWER GARDEN.

Dear Social Corner:

"Ah, March! We know thou art
Kind-hearted, spite of ugly looks and threats,
And, out of sight, art nursing April's violets."

This little quotation by H. H. Jackson seems to give us a certain measure of encouragement, at this time of year.

Speaking of quotations reminds me, I wanted to say I think it was splendid of Cassagnac to give us the whole of the quotation by Burns. In this speed-up time in which we live, we quite often quote a line or two, that is familiar to us, sometimes not knowing from whence they came. Her stand on the costume question is quite true — "Worth makes the man (or woman) not dress!" A great many people do not recognize their great truth. They go so much by appearances.

I think Nonesopretty gave us some splendid sentiments in her letter, Give Mr. Hoover a Chance. "Them's my sentiments," too.

I think we have been having some mighty good letters in the Corner page lately. Eveline Burr's habit of a happy choice of words for her composition, is most interesting. Betsy Bobbet spoke about plants for our flower garden. Last year I tried some mammoth zinnias. They are fine, so showy, and the blossoms last such a long time. I tried the crested cosmos. They were lovely but do not last; marigolds blossomed all winter (those I potted and saved from frost). Geraniums are my standby. They always do well. We should try to raise some plants whose blossoms have perfume. Heliotrope, mignonette, sweet peas and tuberose have perfume. You will want a few Kochia (summer cypress) to remind us of our brother in the Social Corner. The large Chinese lantern (Physalis) and strawflowers (Helichrysum) are ornamental when dried for the winter bouquet. Also Lunaria (Chinese money plant) is a novelty dried for winter bouquet. Has any one an Aspydestria root to exchange for some plant I have. Only 21 days until spring! Surely this will cheer us on our way. Best wishes from, ARIES.

Burgess Bedtime Story

The Cunning of Howler the Wolf
By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The very right to live, 'tis plain,
The hunted must by cunning gain.
—Old Mother Nature.

"Reddy Fox is smart," said Peter Rabbit.

"Yes," replied Wanderer the Evening Grosbeak. "Most members of the Fox family are smart."

"Is Howler the Wolf smarter than Reddy Fox?" Peter demanded.

"Well," replied Wanderer, "I don't know how smart Reddy Fox who lives here is, but I have seen a good many smart Foxes and none as smart as Howler the Wolf."

Peter thought this over a moment or two, "What makes him so smart?" asked he.

"Being hunted so much," replied Wanderer. "You know the more one is hunted, the smarter one becomes."

"What makes him so smart?" asked he

"But I thought you said that Howler is a hunter himself," persisted Peter.

"So he is," replied Wanderer. "But the hunter is often hunted, you know. And man is always hunting Howler the Wolf. He is the one and only enemy whom Howler fears. If Howler were not smart, he wouldn't live long. You see, out where he lives there are always traps set for him. And they do worse things than that. They use poison."

"What is poison?" demanded Peter.

"It is something," replied Wanderer, "which, when eaten, kills almost instantly. Man puts it in pieces of meat and throws the pieces of meat where he thinks Howler will find them. Some young Wolves are killed that way, but I have seen Howler, when he was starving, walk around one of those poisoned pieces of meat and then deliberately trot away without touching it. There is said to be no scent to that poison, yet somehow Howler finds out when it is there. I have seen a hunter set traps all around the piece of meat and bury those traps, covering them with dust so that not a trace of one could be seen. I have seen Howler come trotting along until almost up to where the first trap was hidden and then stop. Somehow he knew that that trap was there. I have seen him with his stout hind feet kick clumps of earth until they would fall on the trap and cause it to spring. Oh, Howler the Wolf is a cunning fellow, I tell you!

"I have seen him hunted with dogs and I have seen him lead the dogs far away and then turn on them and bite them. I have seen him hunted by men with terrible guns and have seen him keep just out of reach of those terrible guns. Somehow he seems to know just how far they can hurt. He is hunted all the time, summer and winter, but he manages to live just the same and to outwit the hunters. No one loves Howler the Wolf, but all the people who live where he does have great respect for him."

Peter thought this over for a minute. "I'm glad," said he at length, "that I don't live where Howler the Wolf lives."

"If you did, I'm afraid it wouldn't be for long," said Wanderer. "But I can tell you one thing, Peter, and that is that Howler doesn't waste much time hunting Rabbits when there is something bigger to be obtained. You wouldn't be much more than a bite for Howler. Still, I have seen him hunting Mice. Yes, sir. I have seen that big fellow hunting Mice, and even a fat Mouse isn't more than a taste for him."

"Have you ever seen relatives of mine out West in your travels?" inquired Peter.

Wanderer laughed right out. "I should say I have, Peter Rabbit," said he. "Many a time I have seen your cousin Jack."

"Jack?" repeated Peter. "Jack? Who is my cousin Jack?"

"I'll tell you some other time," replied Wanderer. "Just now I'm hungry and want to get something to eat."

WESTMINISTER

SURPRISE FOR TEACHER IN ATTRACTIVE SCHOOL ROOM

Omitted in last week's items was the surprise party tendered their teacher, Mrs. Happy Tracy, by the pupils of Westminster Hill school, Feb. 22. Cake and other goodies were brought by the children and a social good time was enjoyed. In the Westminster school dainty curtains are at the windows and potted plants do much to make pleasurable the hours of study in the school room.

Douglass Deane is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic.

The recent heavy rains have caused many washouts on the dirt roads.

Charles Dewing has moved into the house of the former Burling farm now owned by Miss Wilhelmine Linnell.

Will Davis of Elm Arch farm has been ill for the past week.

The comparatively low prices for eggs received by the producers and the high cost of production during the winter have sent thousands of laying hens to market from Windham county this winter.

Mrs. Agnes Wood was a visitor at the home of Mrs. Hattie Palmer, on Pleasant street, Willimantic, one day this week.

Ray Green, with a party of friends, motored to Providence Sunday.

Salve Olsen, employed in New York this winter, is making a short stay at Broadview, his farm in Westminster.

Several local farmers have purchased new horses in anticipation of spring work ahead.

The new term began Monday at the Westminster school after a week's vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodraska and Mr. and Mrs. Plesson of New Rochelle, N. Y., were recent visitors at the home of E. A. Gooding.

At Inauguration.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Troland and Miss Katherine Troland of New London have returned from Washington, where they attended the inauguration ceremonies. They were guests of Capt. and Mrs. Girard B. Troland.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS

The regular meeting of Clara Barton Tent, No. 1, Daughters of Union Veterans, was held at the Buckingham, Tuesday evening with the president Miss Florence Hoffman presiding. Final plans were discussed concerning the dedication of the room at Noroton Soldier's home, March 13th, by the department daughters. For the benefit of this room, a pinochle party is to be held with Mrs. Lucy MacDougal and also one at the home of Mrs. Ethel MacDougal. The card parties will be open to the members and their friends.

It was voted to hold a food sale this week, in place of the regular public supper.

After the routine business of the evening was finished, the tent closed in regular form with the salute to the flag.

The next meeting will be a social to celebrate the birthday of the tent.

LADIES AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Ladies' auxiliary A. O. H. Div. 54, was held Wednesday evening. The president, Miss Nellie McCarthy, reported that the arrangements for the annual United Hibernian St. Patrick's night dance are completed and the usual large crowd is expected. Mrs. J. O'Neil and Miss Mary Fallon, chairman of the two recent weekly whist and pinochle parties, made excellent financial returns.

This week's prize winners were: Mrs. J. McKenna, first, whist; Miss A. M. Smith, second; Miss Mary Quinn, third; E. Sullivan, first, whist; H. Collins, second and Mr. Webber, third.

The pinochle winners were: Mrs. M. McCarthy, 7010; Mrs. E. Spencer 6,720; Mrs. J. J. Casey 6,640; J. Fallon 7,310; Wm. Horsor 7,270 and C. Perkins 6,850. Mrs. H. Wickham has charge of next week's card party with the assistance of Mrs. Annie Connelly, Mrs. Julia Breen, Mrs. M. V. O'Neill and the Misses Mary Fallon, Catherine Toomey, Dolly Tobin, Jane Breen.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May has invited all the members of the Hibernian societies to receive Holy Communion in a body at the 7:30 mass on Sunday, March 17th in honor of St. Patrick, their patron saint.

ODD FELLOWS

The regular meeting of Shetucket lodge, No. 27, I. O. O. F., was held on Tuesday evening in Odd Fellows hall with Noble Grand Eugene Wood in the chair. A large number of members were present, indicating an ever increasing interest in the affairs of the order. Reports from the various chairmen of different committees were heard and discussed. Chairman Staubley of the entertainment committee hinted that his committee was hard at work which leads the members to believe that he has something up his sleeve besides his armand that no doubt in the near future there will be an entertainment out of the ordinary provided for the faithful.

Communications from the grand secretary were also read and acted upon by the members, after which a social hour was enjoyed. A. A. Gulle had the rare privilege of actually winning a pinochle game.

WOMANS RELIEF CORPS

The regular meeting of Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps No. 16 was held in Buckingham Memorial Friday at 3 p. m. with the president, Mrs. Althea Brown in the chair. At recess all enjoyed refreshments and a social time. An invitation was read from the Rev. Mr. Parkes of Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, inviting the members of the corps to attend memorial services in Grace church. The invitation was accepted. The hope chest was awarded Mrs. Newell Bliss.

The corps acknowledged the gift of the hope chest by the Interstate Furniture Co. and to the merchants of Norwich who gave so generously to it. All sick members were reported improving.

The meeting closed with the salute to the flag.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

The Norwich Grange auxiliary will meet Wednesday afternoon in Steiner's hall for election of officers. The sum of $25 was given by the auxiliary towards the building fund at the last meeting.

The auxiliary also reported on collecting three cents per member toward a Charles M. Gardner fund. It was announced that there would be an all day meeting on March 27th.

Miss Ruth Russell, farm bureau demonstrator will be present to instruct in dress making. Any one desiring to attend should notify Eliza Walker who has charge of the dinner arrangements.

The Grange will meet March 13th in the evening, opening at 8 o'clock for business and at the lecturer's hour there will be a competitive play with other selections as time permits.

B'NAI BRITH AUXILIARY

Rose of New England auxiliary, No. 40 B'Nai Brith, held an afternoon card party on Tuesday at the B'Nai Brith rooms, Shetucket street. Those who won prizes at bridge were as follows: Mrs. A. Levine, Mrs. F. Herman, Mrs. H. Libby, Mrs. H. Bruckner, Mrs. B. Cohen, Mrs. H. Markoff, Mrs. H. Davenport and Mrs. J. Rosenberg. The hostesses were Mrs. Benjamin Lahn and Mrs. Harry Markoff. After the play delicious refreshments were served.

REBEKAHS

Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 31, I. O. O. F., held its regular meeting Wednesday evening with Mary L. Dow, N

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. W. F. Chamberlain of Taftville wishes to thank all those who sent her cards and letters and all the kind remembrances she received while she was at Dr. Allen's Health Resort in Ridgefield, Conn.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of our Dear One, Hattie Emily Miles Pike, Who Passed to Her Reward Seven Years Ago Today.

It seems we scarcely knew her in her few short years on earth,
Nor realized, till she had gone, her sterling woman's worth.
Too much she gave, too freely toiled for others all the while,
Too much we blindly let her give,
forgetting thanks or smiles.
With aching hearts, we know, too late, there never was another
So good and true, the whole way through, as she whom we called Mother.

HER FAMILY.

NEW LONDON GETS OFF WITH 27 FIRES AND ONLY $50 DAMAGE IN FEBRUARY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 8—Twenty-seven fires during February in this city caused damage of only $50, according to the monthly report issued today by Fire Marshal Calvin N. Edmonds. Twenty-four out of this number were still alarms and all of the damage was to buildings and not their contents.

Water Shut Off

The water department of New London during the past few weeks shut off the supply to 46 houses owing to failure of lessees to pay the tax due. The shut-offs were made only after many notices had been given. A large number of the shut-offs were at Ocean Beach in properties untenanted.

The room at the northwest corner of the municipal building on the second floor has been divided into two offices by the erection of a partition. This will provide quarters for the engineering office and both the building and plumbing inspector.

The annual father and son banquet of the Y. M. C. A. is to be held next Thursday night at the Association building. The principal speaker will be J. Harold Williams, scout executive of Providence Boy Scouts. He is one of the outstanding characters in the Boy Scout movement of the country. The program, as usual, will be rounded out with an entertainment.

BULKELEY SUSPENSION ENDS AS STUDENT CONFESSES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 8—The twenty-five students of the senior class at Bulkeley school, who were suspended indefinitely yesterday, will return to their studies Monday. The lad who was guilty of throwing an ill smelling dose of Hydrogen Sulphide in the French class room has come forward and confessed. Accordingly Headmaster Homer K. Underwood has recalled the boys.

Women Members Due To Win

At a meeting of the Faire Harbour club held last night the members of this organization obtained a lead over male members of the Harbour club to the tune of 14,000 points. As there is only one more evening to play in the tournament it is obvious that the women members are to be victorious.

The T. I. E. G. club was entertained last night by Mrs. Edgar Bourdeau of Pleasure Beach. Miss Martha Revetti and Mrs. J. E. Norris took the prizes.

Students of Spanish at Connecticut college are to write essays on Don Cervantes, famous author of Don Quixote. The winner will receive a bronze medal.

At the meeting of members of St. Joseph's club held last night at St. Joseph's hall, plans were made for the holding of a banquet sometime next month. Mrs. Josephine F. Fitzpatrick was made chairman of the committee appointed to arrange for the affair.

The Doric club members Monday night will bring wives and young women friends and an evening of bridge will be enjoyed. Sidney B. Mendell is in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Luther F. Creswell and Mrs. Frederick W. Minson entertained the teachers and officers of the primary department of the First Baptist church at the home of Mrs. Croswell yesterday afternoon.

The Young People's Branch of the W. C. T. U. is to hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. George F. Cramer of Broad street.

Members of the auxiliary to the Carpenters' union held a business and social meeting in Dart hall tonight, in charge of Mrs. Fred Harris.

Members of Joint assembly, Catholic Ladies' of Columbus had a New England supper in Eagles' hall, last night, following the business meeting. Attractive table decorations were a feature and more than forty members were present. Following the supper singing, instrumental music, dancing and refreshments completed the evening's program. The committee in charge was composed Mrs. John F. Horan, Mrs. Joseph M. Sullivan and Mrs. Mary Martin.

The regular bi-weekly meeting of the T. N. T. club was held last night at the home of Howard Smith. The hosts were Guy F. Radway, Frederick H. Southworth and F. M. Greene.

Buys Fairview Cattle

W. H. Meyers, owner of Cove Neck farm, near Noank, has purchased a Guernsey bull from aFirview Odd Fellows' farm for $2,500 and two Guernsey heifers for a like amount. The sales were made by L. E. Tucker, herdmaster of the home.

Union Lenten Services

At the union Lenten services of the Methodist church tonight, Dr. H. P. Tweedy of aTle Divinity schol delivered an address on the Christian Use of Fear. The program opened with an organ recital after which Rev. E. G. Page, who began the program with the announcement of the hymn to be sung. The lesson was read by Rev. R. W. Ferguson, pastor of Montauk Avenue Baptist church. Prayer was offered by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth of the First Church of Christ. Benediction was pronounced by Rev. J. B. Wallace.

The Bulkeley-W. M. I. Symphony orchestra will give a concert in the auditorium of the school this month following a custom inaugurated in 1921, when Howard T. Pierce, present musical director, first came to the school.

The final trips of the ferryboat Mohican between New London and Groton will be made Saturday night although the time limit for the releasing of the lessees, Captains George Crandall and David Sheehan does not expire until Sunday noon. For several months the boat has not been operated on Sunday forenoon, so that with the running of the 10 o'clock trip Saturday night transportation by ferry will come to an end, at least temporarily. There are those in New London and Groton who believe that an arrangement will be made before summer whereby the ferry will continue to run.

Meyer H. Hollanderskv has returned from a business trip to New London.

Leroy Potter, of 52 Thames street and Eugene Sullivan, 348 Bank street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

The northwest gale today lashed the shores of the Thames around Groton to an extent not seen this year, however, no damage was done.

CITY'S AUTO ACCIDENTS IN 1928 NUMBERED 518

According to the report of the motor vehicle department today there were 518 auto accidents in this city during 1928. This represents about twenty per cent increase over those during the previous year.

Markev attached to the destroyer McCall has been ordered for duty on board the destroyer Argus; Boatswain Otto Bentz of the Argus is transferred to the patrol boat Legare, stationed here; Boatswain Edwin C. Erickeon has been detached from the Legare and is assigned to Division No 4 of the destroyer force. Boatswain Ralph Whitehouse has been ordered from the Marion to duty as recruiting officer in Chicago.

Prepare for St. Patrick's Day

Father Jovnt branch, Ancient Order of Hibernians voted at a meeting last night to donate $25 to the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service. At the meeting arrangements were also made for the annual St. Patrick's day ball at Plant hall. It was also announced that members of the organization will attend in a body the 8 o'clock mass at St. Mary's church, Sunday morning, March 17.

Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander today issued a release of tax warrant against Marie C. Alviani. A warrant was issued several weeks ago calling for the sale of real estate of Mrs. Alviani because of taxes not having been paid, but since then payment has been received by Collector Alexander.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Ira Watson

The funeral of Mrs. Laura K. Watson, wife of Ira Watson, formerly of New London, who died in Hartford, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of her son, Frank A. Epps, 29 Phillips street, the services being conducted by Rev. Dr. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the Second Congregational church. The bearers were Frank Drago, Harold Geer, Thomas Drago, Hartford; and John Heikel, John Bates and George Whittaker. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. Samuel C. Allen

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah I. Allen, wife of Samuel C. Allen was held this morning at 10 o'clock at 8 Shapley street, the services being conducted by Rev. Dr. J. Beveridge Lee. The body was forwarded to Mrs. Allen's former home in Stafford Springs where burial took place this afternoon.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Albert G. Reynolds

Mrs. Lucy D. Reynolds, 71, wife of Albert G. Reynolds, died this morning at her home, 22 Center street, after an illness of several weeks. Besides her husband, Mrs. Reynolds is survived by a sister, Miss A. E. Daniels, of Waterford; two nieces, Mrs. H. Decker and Mrs. William Mavnard, of Waterford and by two nephews, Tillotson Daniels of this city and William Gray of Mystic. Mrs. Reynolds was born in Waterford, July 8, 1856, the daughter of William and Elizabeth Shea Jones Daniels.

Christos Ganos, former Bank street merchant, has returned to New London after having spent several months at his former home in Greece.

CHARLES INGRAM CAUGHT WITH STOLEN NOANK CAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 8—Charles Ingram, former United States Coast Guarder, is under arrest at Oneida, N. Y., charged with automobile theft and the car that he stole in this city, is in possession of the Oneida police. Ingram will be brought back to New London for trial although he will not return except extradition papers are issued; this was done this afternoon when Acting Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer prepared the necessary papers that will assure Ingram being delivered into the custody of the New London authorities. The papers were delivered to Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith and that officer will go to Hartford Monday, obtain the signature of Gov. Trumbull to the papers, then process to Albany, where the signature of Gov. Roosevelt will be obtained after which demand will be made upon the Oneida police for the delivery of the prisoner.

Ingram deserted from the federal service March 2 and the same night stole the Buick auto, 1927 model, owned by W. R. DiBiasi, of Noank, which was marked on State street. No trace of the stolen auto was obtained until this morning when the police were informed by the Oneida police that the car and driver had been picked up last night.

Ingram's home is in Middletown, Ohio. He has a police record there. Among the crimes for which he has been arrested are automobile theft and robbery. He has represented that he is heir to an estate of $40,000, but the police of Middletown declare that representation false, also that Ingram is naturally criminally inclined.

JOSEPH YACHANOSKI STRUCK BY AUTO-TRUCK

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 8—Joseph Yachanoski, 60, of 11 Congdon street, was struck and seriously injured this afternoon by an auto truck driven by John B. Tourjee, of High street. Yachanoski is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital suffering from head injuries, the extent of which will not be determined for a day or two. Yachanoski was walking on Main street and when between John and Douglass streets started to cross the street. Yachanowski had reached a point on the tracks of the Connecticut company and did not observe the approach of the heavy truck. Before Tourjee could bring the truck to a stop, Yachonowski was struck and hurled to the pavements, his head striking the bricks with such force as to render him partially unconscious. Yachanowski was assisted to a passing automobile by Patrolman Lawrence Fardy and was taken to the hospital. No arrest was made.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Moving Picture at Y. M. C. A, Sunday.

The adult public are specially invited and young people fourteen and over will be admitted at the Y. M. C. A. service on the coming Sunday afternoon at 4 oclock in the big gymnasium.

The moving picture feature titled "Grass" will be shown in seven reels. This is the story of the migration of the lost tribe of Persia, filmed in the near east. Novel, gripping, picturesque, "Grass" is a spectacle that will enthrall any audience, for it touches the very heart of life—life in the raw, with its hardships and sorrows and sordidness and heartaches. It is a picture that commands respect and compels attention.

It recalls to mind the memorable pilgrimage of Moses through the desert and the cheering vista of the promised land. In much the same way these pilgrims forge on from the sun-baked plains into a barren and frigid region, through mountain passes and over gigantic peaks, sustained only by the thought of a land of plenty at the end of the journey.

This feature has been shown in a number of churches and under other auspices, and always has made a very deep impression.

A brief talk will be given and a silver offering will be taken.

United Cong. Church

Services and meetings next week at the United Congregational church will include: The Sodalitas meet at 7:30 o'clock on Monday evening, in the junior department rooms of the church school, to work on children's party favors.

The Ladies' night of the Brotherhood will be held at the Community house on Tuesday evening, with supper at 6:30. Members and their ladies will listen to a talk by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, New London.

The Haviland class meets on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Flora O. Noyes, at 22 Church street.

The B. O. H. club meets in the junior department rooms of the church school at 2:30 p. m. on Saturday afternoon, to continue work on the doll's cradles.

Park Cong. Church

Meetings and services next week at Park Congregational church will be as follows:

Sunday the Young People's service at 7 o'clock with the Rev. E. Wallace Archer of Yale Divinity school as the speaker.

Tuesday, Troop 12, Boy Scout's meeting at 7:15 p. m. Wednesday, the home service sewing unit will meet with Mrs. William Douglas at her home on Warren street. All the younger ladies of the congregation are welcome to attend.

Central Baptist Church

At the Central Baptist church next week meetings have been arranged as follows:

Monday—6:30 p. m.—C. F. C. meeting; 6:30 p. m.—Council of Girls' Workers' supper meeting in Park Congregational parish house; 7 p. m.—The pastor's instruction class for Intermediate boys and girls.

Tuesday—3 p. m.—Woman's prayer meeting, leader Mrs. Harold A. Johnson; 7 p. m.—Complete chorus rehearsal of the C. F. C. minstrel.

Wednesday—3:30 p. m.—Sewing school; 4:30 p. m.—Board of religious education meeting; 6:15 p. m., council of Sunday school workers.

Thursday—4 p. m.—The pastor's instruction class for junior boys and girls; junior week-day school.

7:45 p. m.—Meeting for prayer and conference.

Friday—2:30 p. m.—Ever-Ready circle meets with Mrs. Emery Davis, No. 55 Palmer street. 7 p. m.—Pioneer club.

Grace Episcopal Church

The usual Friday evening Lenten service will be held next week at Grace Episcopal church. Rev. E. P. Spencer of St. Mark's church Mystic will preach.

Broadway Theatre.

The Wolf of Wall Street, starring George Bancroft, will be preesnted at the Broadway theatre tomorrow as an all-talking motion picture.

This announcement is notheworthy due to the fact that it will mark the first time local audiences will be able to hear as well as see Bancroft in action in a dramatic story so full of tense drama that it may be classed as one of the season's most outstanding productions.

Like many other stage stars now in motion pictures, Bancroft has never had the opportunity to bring his voice to the screen until now. The Wolf of Wall Street is an ideal film for this purpose, inasmuch as it abounds in tense situations dealing with stock-market manipulations which offer gripping moments for dialogue. Rowland V. Lee directed the film from an original story written expressly for Bancroft by Doris Anderson.

The star is fortunate to have such an exceptional cast of supporting players in this picture. There are Baclanova, a product of the Moscow Art theatre; Paul Lukas, called the Barrymore of Hungary, who speaks flawless English; Nancy Carroll, from musical comedy; Arthur Rankin, nephew of the famous trio of Barrymores, and an experienced stage actor; Brandon Hurst and Crauford Kent, both veterans of the stage; The Wolf of Wall Street marks a monumental step forward in the filming of all-talking motion pictures.

St. Mary's Players.

A boob is an awful thing, we are told. Young men, never try to make a hit with the flappers if you wear a celluloid collar, baggy trousers, go around with your vest unbuttoned, and only wash your hands and the back of your ears once a week. You're a dumb-bell, an outcast if you do. Spruce up. Put on a decent collar, wear a tie that is a tie, press your trousers—under a mattress if necessary, button up your vest, and use soap frequently. You'll knock 'em cold—at least sometimes. What is this all about? Well, in this play there is a freak. And some ice-cream and cake if you do not laugh loud and long at him. Take a night off and come and see. The whole town's talking.

Palace Theatre

Occasionally a picture comes along that, through some new twist or some novel method of treatment, causes the jaded movie fans to sit up and take notice. Such a picture is The Road to Ruin, which opens at the Palace theatre tomorrow for four days.

In addition to being wonderful entertainment, and a story of compelling interest, The Road to Ruin deals with a subject that is close to the heart of every normal American—the welfare of our girls—and as such, it has been endorsed by juvenile authorities and police all over the country. From the moment the two lovely girls start their trip down the primrose path that leads to the Road to Ruin until the final fadeout, there is not one uninteresting moment and the audiences sit spellbound.

Rarely in the history of the screen has a picture been so beautifully cast and perhaps never has a subject dealing with such a delicate topic as sex delinquency been so cleverly handled. The thrill seeker will get his full quota of emotion, the sensation seeker will not be disappointed, yet the thoughtful will leave the theatre feeling that they have seen a masterly presentation of the most serious problem facing the American people today. The Road to Ruin is well worth while.

On the same program will be shown The Cleanup, heralded as a melodrama in modern dress. In the cast are Charles Delaney, Betty Blake, Lewis Sargent, Harry Myers, Charles Hickman, Bruce Gordon.

The story, it is said, gets its charm from the wholly familiar tale it tells. It is a story which has happened and does happen in many cities.

The hero is a young newspaper editor who has vowed to clean up the town. Gangsters, racketeers, emboldened by past successes, have figuratively shackled the city. Decent citizens are afraid to turn around; they meet the menace of organized banditry at every turn.

Things have come to such a pass that the editor swears to clean the town up, even if it costs him his life. He organizes the forces of law and order and sets out to do battle with the gangsters.

The chicanery, the battles, the onslaughts that meet his decision only harden his determination. Even the pleas of his affianced, who fears for his safety and would have him drop the campaign, do not weaken his insistence.

The Cleanup pictures the incidents as well as the major events and paints in broad brushstrokes the fight a community must make when it is enmeshed with vicious avarice. It comes with a reputation already made; a reputation for thrilling entertainment; said to be a melodrama true to the modern tone; reminiscent of many of the front-page stories which newspapers display so frequently nowadays.

GREENEVILLE

The Mission Study circle of the Third Baptist church will meet in the home of Mrs. Lund on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. The mid-week service of the Third Baptist church will be held next Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The subject will be "Sheltering in God." On Friday evening at 7:15 o'clock the Boy Scouts will hold their regular weekly meeting in the chapel of the church.

The regular weekly meeting of the I. B. Sewing class of Auxiliary No. 13, A. O. H., was held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Rose Grady on Laurel Hill avenue with a large attendance. After sewing the members enjoyed a social hour during which several piano and vocal selections proved a pleasant feature. Mrs. Graham made a delightful hostess and served a lunch, consisting of fruit salad, sandwiches, cakes, coffee and ice cream. She was assisted in serving by Mrs. Heath. The class will meet again March 14 with Mrs. Grace Mumford. This will be in the nature of a house-warming.

The Women's auxiliary of St. Andrew's Episcopal church held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Amell Brosofski at 36 Twelfth street Tuesday evening. Regular business was transacted after which a social time was enjoyed.

At the regular meeting of the Ladies Aid society of the Greeneville Congregational church the outstanding feature of the evening was a mass parade. Most of the members came in costumes, old and new, and everyone had a very enjoyable evening. It was also a birthday meeting and every member was asked to contribute her age in pennies. Mrs. Thomas Serjeant who is eighty-five, had the largest age to pay because she was the oldest member present. The entertainment was furnished with a stunt from each member. Refreshments were served consisting of wafers, tea and coffee to the forty members present. The hostesses for the evening were: Mrs. Charles Levitsky, Mrs. Jabez West, Mrs. George Turner, Mrs. George Detscher and Mrs. Alfred Smith.

The Ladies guild of St. Andrew's Episcopal church held their regular weekly meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles C. Perry at 552 Boswell avenue Thursday afternoon with a large attendance. Regular business was transacted with Mrs. Charles Erwen presiding. It was voted at the meeting to hold a food sale in the near future. After the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

FUNERAL

John N. Anderson

The funeral services for John Nelson Anderson of Quinebaug, Conn., formerly of Page street were held on Thursday afternoon, February 26, at 2 o'clock from his late home. The pastor of the Swedish Congregational church of Woodstock, Conn., was in charge of the service and paid tribute to the long useful life of Mr. Anderson and his upright Christian living. Mr. Anderson, who died suddenly on Feb. 24th from a heart attack, was in his 81st year. He was one of the first Swedish settlers of Windham county coming to Woodstock direct from Sweden where he was born. He was united in marriage to Inga Frederickson at Woodstock, who died thirteen years ago. Eleven children were born of this union, nine of whom are living, namely: Charles A. Anderson, of Norwich, Ida C. Dexter, of Poquonoc Bridge, Rev. Henry E. Anderson, of Woodstown, N. J., Nellie M. Sheldon, of New London, Mary F. Lund, Greeneville, Nora E. Austin, of Quinebaug and Lillian, Arthur and John Anderson, also of that place. The body was laid to rest in the family plot at North Woodstock and there were many beautiful floral pieces. While in Norwich he was employed as a carpenter for a number of years by the Hugh Blackledge Co.

The girl guides met at the home of Miss Marion Clarke of Margbrie St. Many articles were embroidered. Refreshments were served by the hostess. It was decided to change the society name from the Jolly Eight to the girl guides owing to the increase in membership. Among those present were Mildred Turner, Marjorie Flynn, Ethel Disco, Lois Flynn, Rose Morton and Marion Clarke. There was one visitor present, Miss Doris Seidel of Taftville. The next meeting will be at the home of Miss Mildred Turner of Prospect street.

FIVE YEAR OLD CHILD WAS DROWNED IN YOUNG'S RESERVOIR

James Herbert Young, 5 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Burton Young of No. 76 Palmer avenue, was drowned in Young's reservoir, off Palmer avenue, about 4.45 o'clock Friday afternoon. The body was recovered about a half hour later by George Maloney, call man of the Norwich fire department.

The child had been playing on the ice with his cousin, Robert Young, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Young of No. 76 Palmer avenue, and were near open water, only about half of the pond being covered with ice. He is said to have slipped on the ice and plunged into the water, which is about 14 feet in depth at that point.

Realizing the plight of his playmate Robert immediately ran to his home and told to his mother what had happened. She immediately notified the fire department. Squad A, Acting Chief Henry R. Taft and Acting Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan, responding with the H. H. Inhalator.

As the ice, two to three inches in thickness and of a spongy quality, would not bear the weight of the firemen they hurriedly procured a 25 foot extension ladder. This was placed from the shore across the open stretch of water to the edge of the ice and on the ladder several planks were arranged. Walking out on the ladder Mr. Maloney recovered the body with the aid of an ice pike. Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve viewed the body and pronounced death due to accidental drowning.

The youth was born in Norwich, Nov. 13, 1923 and attended the Bishop school. Besides his parents he leaves a brother, David Linwood Young and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Lumis of this city.

FOURTH IN SERIES OF LENTEN TALKS

The fourth in the series of Lenten talks by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London, Friday noon at the local Y. M. C. A., was classified by the large number of men present as the most impressive in the series so far.

Shepard P. Palmer, chairman of the "Y" religious work committee presided at the service. The hymn used was "I Am Thine, O Lord" and this was followed by a prayer by Rev. Joseph Cooper of the Trinity Methodist church, and while yet bowed, the audience sang a verse of "I Need Thee Every Hour." Louis Mell officiated at the piano. Rev. Mr. Danforth's topic was "With Christ on the Sea of Galilee" and he spoke in part as follows:

"Progress is not always measured by miles. It is not so many of them from Nazareth to the Sea of Galilee. And it is down hill too. But Christ went a long way between the one place and the other.

"First He went down the road that led to the Jordan and was baptized by John. It was not that he needed to repent, but that he wanted to travel on the same pathway of the soul along which you and I must go that we may be freed from all that hinders us in the march of men toward God.

"Then He went into the Battle of the Wilderness, and came back victorious over temptation and the tempter. He would not ask others to follow him along that rugged way until he had blazed the trail alone. And so through water and through fire he came to Galilee.

"To every Christian traveler that blue lake brings its joy. Here is something which has not changed with all the rolling centuries. A few carved stones show where some ancient village stood and where its place of worship invited its inhabitants to prayer. At one spot are hot springs where once the Romans bathed in splendor. Ruins are the tombstones of towns. The lake is still the sheet of living blue which long ago gladdened the eyes of Jesus. It is shaped like a great pear, and from its shores rise high and rounded grassy hills.

"Do you remember the oleander your grandmother had growing in the green tub? There are clumps of those lovely bushes growing wild along the shores of Galilee. There are ruinous stone docks where pleasure boats once lay. And there are pebbly beaches where the boats of fishermen draw up for mending of the nets after a night of fishing. It is done yet. The fish have not changed their habits: neither have the men who catch them.

"It was to these men that Jesus came, men never too busy to lend a helping hand and furnish a floating pulpit from which words of most gracious truth could be heard by multitudes who crowded all too closely along the shore. And it was to fishermen that he gave the commanding invitation, "Follow Me." They had the kind of education that He wanted for those whose further instruction He himself would undertake. They knew the outdoor world and the people along the shore. And He who knows man and nature knows much. So He called them to learn something else which He knew best of all. They learned it by following him.

"Christ went fishing with those men. He showed them some things in their own life work they had never seen before. Then they began to realize his power. It reached them in reaching their work. A boat sinking from its cargo of freshly caught fish made Peter feel not that he was a rich man but that he was a sinful man. Christ had reached right into that great man's soul. And that is one thing that makes disciples.

"Another was that He gave them a share in his own work, in addition to taking a share in theirs. On one of those grassy hills one day thousands of people were listening to His words. It takes a great teacher and a great lesson to make people listen out of doors. Try it sometime yourself. They listened all day long. They needed to be fed. He fed them. But He had the disciples' help. They could not multiply the bread and fish, but they could pass them around to all the companies seated on the grass. They could help and He let them. However new one is in following Christ there is always something he can do. By learning, and by doing, those men became disciples. They could not preach a sermon on the Mount, but they could pass the bread and fish, and later gather up the fragments.

"Christ loved the Sea of Galilee. The motion of its waters lulled Him to sleep in the stern of the boat. And the Sea of Galilee loved Him. When He said, "Peace, be still" there was a great calm. And now, wherever you find a place where land and water meet you find a place where time and eternity can also meet as in your heart of hearts you too meet Christ and hear Him say to you, "Follow Me".

PHILATHEA CLASS HELD DELIGHTFUL MASQUERADE

The Philathea class of the United Congregational church held a masquerade party Thursday night at the home of Mrs. A. C. Freeman. Mrs. Freeman and Miss Gertrude Bisbee were hostesses assisted by Mrs. Don Houghton. There were 18 guests present, each one appearing at the door in masked costume. Among them were clowns, old fashioned ladies, an Indian maiden, a Swedish dame, a young Negro couple, a gypsy girl, a daffodil and a boy friend. A policeman in full uniform was master of ceremonies. The company balloted for the best costume and the prize was awarded to Miss Louise Fitzpatrick, a "peculiar old lady."

Games, stunts and jokes were enjoyed by all. Refreshments of punch, sandwiches and candy were served. After a short business meeting the class adjourned, voting the masquerade a delightful event.

TRINITY CHURCH COLLECTION FOR STARVING CHINESE

Rev. Frank H. Bigelow, principal of the Rectory school, Pomfret, gave a stirring address Friday evening at the Lenten service at Trinity Episcopal church upon Sin. Announcement was made by the rector, Rev. J. Eldred Brown, during the meeting that a special collection would be taken to be used in aiding the millions of Chinese people, who are dying from famine.

"If we confess our sins, God will be faithful and just and forgive us," is a scripture we hear over and over again in the church during the Lenten period, said Rev. Mr. Bigelow. "There was a time when the people were accustomed to sidestep sin and talked about sin. We want to talk about virtues and not sin. We want to talk about good virtues and progress."

"But I think of late we are coming back to it by devious side-roads. Almost everybody knows about sin, its meaning and its consequences. Most people want to be saved from their sins. The great trouble with many of us we are never converted to Christian religion. If we confess our sins He is faithful and just and will forgive us. "If we rid ourselves of our sins we would be different," Rev. Mr. Bigelow said.

BAPTIST WOMEN'S LEAGUE HOLDS MONTHLY MEETING

The monthly meeting of the Women's league of the Central Baptist church was held Friday evening in Bushnell chapel with about 75 in attendance. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. H. H. Pettis, who called upon the officers and committees for their reports. The report of the secretary and treasurer showed a balance of $162.84 in the working department and the reports of the various committees showed unusual activity in all the departments. The business session was followed by the devotional service in charge of Miss Bessie Grimes.

The delightful programme presented after the meeting included a vocal selection by Miss Amie March and a playlet entitled, "Getting Acquainted With Our Neighbors," given by members of Welcome and Mizpah circles of the league. Those participating in the play, which depicted some of our relations with Mexico, were Mrs. Lee Coles, Mrs. Walter Block, Mrs. George Phillips, Mrs. Emery H. Davis, Miss Eugenie Dean, Percy Coles and Phyllis Oat.

Cake and ice cream with strawberry sauce was served by the domestic committee, Mrs. H. H. Tefft, Mrs. Jennie Davis, Mrs. Charles Hewitt and Miss Nellie Rathbun.

MONTHLY MEETING OF PARK CHURCH MISSIONS DEPT.

The monthly meeting of the Missions department of the Woman's Federation of Park church was held Friday afternoon in the Hugh Henry Osgood Memorial parish house. The president, Miss Edith Bliss, had charge of the devotional service. Mrs. Dwight Avery, the speaker of the afternoon, read interesting extracts from letters received from her daughter, Miss Gertrude Avery, giving glimpses of the many sided life of a missionary at Bombay, India. Park church is especially interested in the work of Miss Avery, where it is representative on the foreign field. Tea was served, Miss Alexandrine Trumbull pouring.

TROLLEY RAN INTO TRUCK PARKED ON TRACKS

A Connecticut company trolley, due in the square at 4:45 o'clock Friday afternoon, collided with a truck owned by the Connecticut state highway department, near the Meadowbrook farm, at Quaker Hill shortly before 4 o'clock. The truck was parked on the tracks, and was being loaded with tree limbs, when it was struck in the rear by the trolley which was in charge of Motorman James Rutherford.

The accident happened at a sharp turn and was apparently unavoidable, as the machine was not noticed by the motorman until the trolley rounded the corner. A step on the truck was damaged and there was some damage to the front end of the trolley. acrsis e-lwr ae

SUDDEN DEATH OF NORTH CLIFF STREET MAN

Thomas D. Radigan died suddenly early Friday evening at his residence, No. 36 North Cliff street. Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve, who was summoned, pronounced death due to heart trouble. He was born in Norwich about 65 years ago, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Radigan and for many years was employed at the Crescent Fire Arms company. He continued in their employ up until about 10 years ago. In 1883 at St. Patrick's church Mr. Radigan was united in marriage with Margaret Meehan, who died about six years ago. Mr. Radigan is survived by a son, Thomas F. Radigan of Hartford and a brother, William, of New York. Mr. Radigan was well and favorably known in the city and leaves a host of friends, who extend sincere sympathy to the surviving members of the family.

TO ENTERTAIN NEW LONDON AND MYSTIC PATRIARCH

Palmyra Encampment, No. 3, I. O. O. F., will entertain the Patriarchs of New London and Mystic, March 28, when those caravans are to converge here in the first of a series of interdistrict meetings. Mystic encampment is to confer the Royal Purple degree on a large class of candidates and in view of well known excellence of their work in conducting the candidates across the burning sands the S. R. O. sign will no doubt be in evidence on that night. Massatuxsett Encampment of Westerly is also planning to send a large delegation. A supper is to be served previous to the meeting by Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21, I. O. O. F.

C. E. STATE CONVENTION AT WILLIMANTIC NEXT MONTH

The tentative programme for the 33rd annual convention of the Connecticut Christian Endeavor Union Inc., to be held at Willimantic, April 5, 6 and 7, was announced Thursday evening by Vice President Harold H. Muttart of Preston, a member of committee in charge of arrangements.

The main address at the convention will be delivered by Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling, internationally known New York preacher and present head of the International Society of Christian Endeavor. Rev. Mr. Poling is also editor-in-chief of the "Christian Herald," pastor of the Marble Collegiate church in New York and chairman of the J. C. Penney foundation.

Dr. Alexander Converse Purdy, professor in the department of the New Testament at the Hartford Theological seminary, is one of the principal speakers. Also taking part in the convention programme will be Prof. A. J. William Myers, of the department of education at the Hartford School of Religious Education, who will conduct one of the group discussions. The conference are for the presidents of the several young people's organizations throughout the state. About 400 young people are expected to attend the sessions at the convention.

Rev. Vere W. Abbey, pastor of the North Methodist church, Hartford, who is under appointment to sail for India to take charge of the Christian Endeavor activities, will have a part in the programme. The convention will be in the nature of a farewell conference. Rev. Mr. Vere is president of the Connecticut Union of Christian Endeavor. Group conferences will also be led by Russell O'Brien, student at the Hartford School of Religious Education, who is president of the Willimantic Christian Endeavor Union and pastor of the Andover Congregational church.

The tentative programme is as follows:

MEX. FEDERALS AND REBELS ARE MOBILIZING ARMIES

Government is Organizing and Arming Home Guards in Several States—About 6,000 Soon Will Be on a War Footing—Some 2,000 Men Under Rebel General Cruz are Advancing Along the Southern Pacific Railroad Toward Mazatlan, Where the Federal Troops Are Strongly Intrenched.

MEXICO CITY, March 10—(AP)—War preparations continued today in the northwest of the republic where both rebels and federals are mobilizing armies to decide upon the field of battle whether the present federal government shall continue or shall be taken over by the group of army generals who a week ago began a revolution.

Home guards, consisting of civilian volunteers armed by the government are being organized in several states. Press dispatches today said that 6,000 home guards soon would be on a war footing in the state of Michoacan and that two battalions already were armed and ready for the field in the state of Guanajuato.

Circles close to the government continued to indicate that much satisfaction was felt at the attitude of the United States government in permitting the federal government to purchase arms and ammunitions while continuing the embargo on such shipments to the rebels.

About 2,000 men under the rebel General Roberto Cruz were reported to be advancing south along the southern Pacific railroad in the state of Sinaloa from Culiacan toward Mazatlan. Federals were said to be strongly intrenched and ready for battle at the latter city.

A federal victory there would be a severe blow to the rebel western campaign but should General Cruz be victorious and continue on to Guadalajara the federals would be placed in a serious position. Cruz then would threaten the capital and force the federals to use for its defense troops needed in the northern campaign.

Secretary of War Calles is in the field in command of the largest federal army, which is centered around Zacatecas and Aguascalientes. He apparently continued today to prepare these forces for a movement northward toward Canitas and Torreon. The rebel General Urbalejo holds Canitas, a railroad junction of strategic importance, while the rebel General Escobar holds Torreon, a similar junction further north.

Defeat of these two would leave the way open for a federal campaign directed against any or all of the rebel states of Chihuahua, Coahuila and Sonora.

No further word has come from the rebel General Jesus M. Aguirre who was fleeing through the wilds of the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. One of his supporters in the state of Vera Cruz, General Vidal Lagunes was reported to have been captured and executed at Alvarado.

Jose Basconcelos, presidential candidatew hose campaign committee has denounced the revolution, arrived here this afternoon and was greeted by a peaceful demonstration by more than 10,000 followers. The capital population follows with much interest such information of the situation as the newspapers publish, which is chiefly confined to the communiques of the government.

200 U. S. INFANTRYMEN READY TO ENTRAIN

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 10—(AP)—Packed and ready to entrain on a moment's notice, presumably for the Mexican border, approximately 2,000 United States infantrymen were encamped at Fort D. A. Russell tonight, without official information as to their destination or when they will move.

Out of a maze of numerous conflicting rumors, it was difficult to determine even the probability of an order being issued for the soldiers to depart. But the rank and file of two infantry companies, the First and the Twentieth, stood ready, shou'd the order come.

Commanding officers at the military post declined to discuss the situation.

There has been no denial that preparations for an immediate trip to the border have been completed. However, all other reports pertaining to the probability of service in connection with the Mexican revolution were termed "mere rumors" by high officers at the post. Brig.-Gen. Frank C. Bolles is commanding officer at the post. Late last night a flurry was caused when a soldier from the post informed other soldiers at public places in Cheyenne that an order had been received from Washington to move immediately. The rumor gained wide circulation and soon every soldier in the city had returned to the fort, only to learn the information was false.

From more official sources came the opinion that the preparations here constituted a precautionary step and that the 2,000 men would not be called upon to leave unless the situation at the border becomes more serious.

The opinion left with the unofficial observer was that now that the infantry is in readiness to leave, the departure hinges entirely upon developments in the conflict and the extent to which American life and property at the border is affected.

Numerous freight, stock and flat cars have been moved to a siding near Fort Russell, placed there after the order had been received for the military to prepare for movement.

VICTORIOUS REBEL TROOPS KEEPING JUAREZ QUIET

JUAREZ, Chihuahua, March 10—(AP)—Victorious rebel troops who contested Juarez in a sanguinary five-hour skirmish last Friday, were entrenched today to reinforce the revolutionary army near Torreon, in southern Chihuahua, where a decisive clash is expected within a few days against a large government force.

Three troop trains departed for the south during the night to join the concentration, under command of Gen. Miguel Valley, the rebel chieftain who led the assault on Juarez. Reports received through Mexican National railway sources in Juarez declared that two trains of rebel troops were en route to this city to replace those assigned to duty in the south.

Quiet reigned Sunday in Juarez, the "city" of the conflict in Chihuahua, where bullets whizzed down the principal thoroughfares in the battle for possession Friday. A large vacant lot which quartered cavalry forces yesterday was the scene of a baseball game today. Streets were crowded, but few Americans were seen mingling with the Mexicans.

Historic Guadalupe Mission, in which no services have been held for more than two years, was visited by many Mexicans and some American sightseers. There were no services. Rebel officials in control of the city announced they were not opposed to services being held, but one authority declared today that the clergy would be required to comply with certain regulations before the resumption of services is permitted.

Revolutionary authorities today were reorganizing the official staff of the city. Albino Frias, former colonel in the forces of the late Pancho Villa, and former chief of police here, was appointed collector of customs. Francisco Perez was appointed director of National railways.

U. S. WATCHING MEXICAN REVOLUTION DEVELOPMENTS

WASHINGTON, March 10—(AP)—Mexican revolution developments today continued to hold the attention of the American government officials who watched with interest the advance of former President Calles at the head of 18,000 federal troops from the Mexican capital toward the rebel strongholds, especially at Torreon, in the state of Durango.

It was expected that within the next few days a decisive battle would be fought in that region unless the rebels withdraw their forces into the state of Chihuahua, which is indicated as possible by the transfer of rebel headquarters from Torreon to Chihuahua, the capital of that state.

Torreon is regarded as a key position in the conflict between the loyal territory of central Mexico and the rebellious area of the north. It is toward this town that former President Calles is leading his army. His forces, however, are traveling through the mountains by railroad and by truck and they will have to make their attack on Torreon after a long journey.

The Mexican embassy declared today that this attack will be launched in two days. If Torreon is taken, the next objective will be the pacification of the state of Sonora, northwest of the key city.

There was little information of importance reaching Washington today through official channels.

REBEL GENERAL V. LAGUNES CAPTURED AND EXECUTED

VERA CRUZ, March 10—(AP)—A dispatch to El Dictamen from Alvarado today says that Gen. Vidal Lagunes, who launched an uprising against the government on the Sotavento coast, was captured and executed by government forces commanded by Gen. Cejudo Juzgada. General Lagunes, the dispatch reports, was caught at Alvarado, south of here, and convicted by a court martial of having conspired to aid General Aguirre, now fleeing southward after retreating from Vera Cruz.

Federal troops are continuing their pursuit of General Aguirre's band, the newspaper declares, and have captured some prisoners.

The port of Vera Cruz is again open to international shipping and foreign vessels are beginning to arrive here.

10,472,024 MILES COVERED BY AIR TRANSPORT COMPANIES

NEW YORK, March 10—(AP)—Air transport companies in the United States covered 10,472,024 miles on scheduled routes in 1928 with a fleet of 294 planes and carried 52,934 passengers, according to aircraft year book figures made public today by the aeronautical chamber of commerce. The 1928 figures embrace an increase of 420 per cent in passengers and 100 per cent in mileage over 1927.

New passenger routes totaling 6,451 miles were added during the year, and 16 mail lines were established or extended, an aggregate of 5,928 miles. Nine express lines covering 2,151 miles were launched.

The great increase was attributed by the chamber to the trebling during the year of air mail poundage, which advanced from 1,222,843 pounds in 1927 to 3,622,059 in 1928.

The total number of air miles under operation at the close of 1928, aviation's silver jubilee, was 15,128, two-thirds of which were lighted or otherwise equipped for night flying. Twenty-two companies were operating 33 air mail lines, and four new air mail routes were planned for 1929.

MEETING OF MASONIC CHARITY FOUNDATION

MERIDEN, March 10—(AP)—At the monthly meeting of the Connecticut Masonic Charity foundation, held Saturday at the Masonic home in Wallingford, announcement was made that funds are now available for an extensive building program, and it was voted to go ahead immediately with three projects in accordance with plans to be drawn by Architect Walter T. Arnold, of this city.

A new wing to be known as the North wing, and four stories high, will be constructed for the use of the nurses, hospital staff and matrons. There will be 48 rooms in this wing, besides a lecture room and new stairways and sun parlors.

Another plan calls for an extension to the dining room with sufficient seating capacity for sixty more persons.

The third project will be the building of the first cottage in the children's village, the funds having been donated by the grand chapter, Royal Arch Masons of Connecticut.

This cottage will be erected on a tract of land just north of the main buildings of the institution where it is planned eventually to build thirty four, six room, cottages for the use of widows of Masons and their children.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

WARSAW, Poland, March 10—(AP)—Seven persons, including three children, were reported to have been slain by Lithuanian bandits who crossed the border and raided an isolated farm near Dubno.

MADRID, March 10—(AP)—Her royal highness, the Infanta Isabel Alfonsa of Bourbon, a niece of the king of Spain, Saturday was married to Count Zamoisky, Polish nobleman, to whom she had been engaged for several months.

PARIS, March 10—(AP)—The Paris newspapers published reports that Queen Marie of Rumania, who is planning to leave Bucharest on March 14 for a ten days' stay in Brittany, will meet her exiled son, Prince Carol, in Paris.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, March 10—(AP)—Capt. Filippo Zappi, navigator of the ill-fated Italian dirigible Italia, and one of the two survivors of the Malmgren party, married Mademoiselle Le Coultre in the little village of Le Sentier.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 10—(AP)—Leon Trotzky, former soviet war yord who is now in exile, and his wife and son, have left the soviet consulate where they have been confined since their arrival from Russia and are living in a hotel in Pera.

WOMAN FATALLY SHOT PRIEST IN CANTON, OHIO

CANTON, Ohio, March 10—(AP)—Shot down by a woman as he stood in the doorway of St. Anthony's church here where he had just concluded 9 o'clock mass this morning, Rev. Joseph Riccardi, 34, parish priest, died at a hospital late this afternoon.

Bullets entered his neck and abdomen, and death was caused by loss of blood from the wound in the abdomen.

No motive was given. Mrs. Mamie Guerrieri, 27, arrested and denied bail, was questioned by Prosecutor Perry W. Harter, Jr., of Stark county, but he would make no statement. The priest, just before he died, is said to have told the prosecutor that he "could not understand what the motive was." No charges have been filed.

The woman, during mass, sat near the rear of the church with her five-year old daughter. After mass the priest went into the church vestibule to baptize a baby. The woman followed according to witnesses, and exchanged a few words with him. She then drew a revolver and fired five shots. Three went wild. Hurrying into the street, she was arrested, and the revolver taken from her.

The theory was advanced by Bishop Joseph Schrembs of Cleveland, who during the day conferred with church officials here, that the shooting resulted from dissatisfaction over removal of the church from its old location. A dispute over the removal had caused some bitterness.

TWO DOCTORS HELD AFTER DEATH OF 12-YEAR-OLD BOY

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn., March 10—(AP)—Dr. W. H. Longmore and Dr. Murret Pinson, under bond on charges of murder, today reiterated that they had no statement to make "until the proper time" about the death of 12-year-old Elbert Grindstaff, of Sciotha, near here, who died after an operation.

Coroner W. T. Ferguson announced he had evidence that an operation for appendicitis was performed on the boy by the two physicians and that they were intoxicated at the time. His report was supplemented by statements of two physicians whom he had called in to help with an autopsy. They said they found evidence of an operation for appendicitis and took from the viscera of the body, which was exhumed Thursday, an appendix which they said was normal.

The boy's father, Jim Grindstaff, said the two physicians had told him his son needed an operation for appendicitis and that after operating they said they were "unable to find" his appendix.

The formal charge of the coroner is criminal negligence and intoxication. The physicians who aided in the autopsy were Dr J. B. Shoun and Dr. J. L. Cottrell.

The two accused physicians will be arraigned Tuesday before Magistrate R. T. Johnson, Jr., and meanwhile were at liberty under nominal bond.

DRIVEN FROM HOMES IN GREY BULL, WYO., BY FLOODS

GREY BULL, Wyo., March 10—(AP)—Forced by rampaging flood waters from the Big Horn river to abandon their homes in the dead of night, hundreds of citizens of this little oil town today returned to take toll of their property damage after spending the night in the refuge of the nearby mountains.

One life was lost and property damage amounting to approximately $200,000 was left in the wake of the "flash flood" which rolled over the sleeping city last night when an eight mile ice gorge in the river backed the water into the streets and inundated homes.

A Japanese boy was struck down and killed by a motorist who was making a hasty exit from the town to the hills to escape the rushing waters.

Late last night the gorge formed south of Grey Bull in Sheep Canyon, near the junction of the Grey Bull and Big Horn rivers. Gradually the water backed up until more than four feet of water flooded the town streets.

STUDENTS IN MADRID HAVE BEEN DISORDERLY

HENDAYE, France Spanish Frontier, March 10—(AP)—The student disorders in Madrid during the past few days, which have provided the latest worry for the regime of Primo De Rivera, appeared today to have developed into a waiting game to determine whether the police or the university authorities shall have the right to maintain order. The Madrid situation has had very little response elsewhere except in Barcelona.

Several hundred girl students are among the most enthusiastic supporters of the boycott which has been declared on classes until the police are withdrawn.

PRINTERS IN ALBANY HAVE SETTLED STRIKE

ALBANY, N. Y., March 10—(AP)—Composing room employers of the Knickerbocker Press, who have been on strike since November 23, last year returned to work today, employes of the Albany Evening News, also owned by the Press company, will return tomorrow.

Terms of the agreement were withheld.

A settlement was made about two weeks ago between the Union and the Times-Union, the third paper affected by the strike.

Settlement Of Roman Question Equitable

Premier Mussolini So Informed the Quinquennial Assembly in Rome.

ROME, March 10—(AP)—There is neither victor nor vanquished in the settlement of the Roman question, Premier Mussolini told the quinquennial assembly in the packed opera house this afternoon, "but only absolute equity which led to the accord, restoring reciprocally the de jure situation which had become dangerous and irksome."

This, his first pronouncement on the conciliation of church and state, was the principal point in his speech and attracted the most attention and provoked the loudest applause.

The premier emphasized that peace between the Italian government and the vatican is an event of supreme importance not only for Italy but for the entire world. He pointed out a date which will remain famous in history when on February 11, 1929, by the Lateran treaty the holy see "at last solemnly recognized the Italian kingdom under the House of Savoy with Rome as its capital."

"We, on our part, loyally recognized the sovereignty of the pontiff and the holy see which in reality already existed de facto," the premier added. He especially pointed out the generosity of Pope XI who, he said, asked for the smallest possible territory, because territory no matter how tiny took nothing away from the greatness of another nature which was characteristic of the supreme head of a universal religion in which capacity he could not be a subject of any state.

After having recognized the preeminence of the Catholic church in the religious life of the Italian people which, he said, was perfectly natural for Catholic people and under a regime like fascism, the premier said it was superfluous to affirm that all other cults which heretofore were, according to the constitution only "tolerated" would be neither persecuted, suppressed nor simply annoyed. "A Catholic state does not mean that citizens will be submitted to any pressure to follow a given religion or determined faith even though that be the same as that professed by a majority of the people."

Mussolini appeared in excellent health and his voice was strong.

WOULD MAKE JACKSON NOTES ADMISSIBLE AS EVIDENCE

HARTFORD, March 10.—(AP)—Application was made to the judiciary committee of the general assembly here Friday for an act amending the criminal code which would make the suicide notes left by Mrs. Gertrude Jackson, suicide wife of the murdered county detective, William E. Jackson of Willimantic, admissible as evidence at the trial of Deputy Sheriff Trenor A. Rice, who is now in Brooklyn jail under a first degree murder indictment for the slaying of Jackson. Judge Raymond A. Johnson, of Manchester, house chairman of the judiciary committee tonight verified the fact that such an application had been made by William A. King and Samuel B. Harvey, Rice's counsel.

Judge Johnson said that a hearing on the application would be held by the committee Tuesday, March 19.

The bill, Judge Johnson said, would also make it the duty of Coroner Arthur G. Bill to release Mrs. Jackson's notes to the defense counsel before the opening the trial.

LIFE INSURANCE SHOWS GAIN IN NEW YORK STATE

ALBANY, N. Y., March 10—(AP)—The volume of life insurance issued in 1928 in New York state gained 5 per cent over risks in force in 1927, according to the annual report of Albert Conway, state superintendent of insurance, prepared for submission to the legislature tomorrow.

In 1928 insurance business continued unbroken increases for seven consecutive years, said the report. The 1928 gain was made over the more than $10,837,000,000 ordinary and more than $3,027,000,000 industrial risks in force in 1927.

Mr. Coolidge was a member of the church through out his term as president.

Lindbergh Carries Mail To Mexico City

Inaugurated Opening of the Southward Mail Service From Brownsville, Texas.

MEXICO CITY, March 10.—(AP)—Miss Anne S. Morrow waited with her mother in a stiff cold wind and light rain at the Valbuena civil aviation field this evening to see her fiance, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, land after completing a round trip flight in two days to Brownsville, Texas. The young couple smiled at each other, but exchanged no salutation that was audible to spectators before they entered an automobile to drove to the embassy residence.

About 200 persons braved the unpleasant weather to await the arrival of the aviator. With his flight today, Colonel Lindbergh set in motion both northward and southward airmail service on the Mexico City-Brownsville route. He had flown north without incident on Saturday.

Leaving Brownsville at 10.32 this morning, he landed at Tampico for a brief stop at 1 p. m. and finished his flight here at 3.50 p. m.

After landing, the colonel turned to his passenger, George F. Rihl, president of the Mexican Aviation company which holds the contract for the route, and asked, "Anything else, Mr. Rihl?" Rihl answered, "No, thank you very much, colonel."

CONVICTS WHO ESCAPED HAVE BEEN CAPTURED

WATERTOWN, N. Y., March 10—(AP)—With the arrest here today of Edward Larkman, the three long-term convicts who escaped from Auburn prison just a week tonight, were back in the hands of the police.

Corp. Mark Thaler of the state police and Patrolman Leon Dundon, riding through the factory town came upon Larkman, on a street. Larkman dashed down an alley and into a building, bolting the door after him. The corporal broke a window, covered Larkman with his revolver and forced him to climb through the window.

Ernest Favesi and Henry Sullivan, Larkman's companions in the jail break, were captured here last night after the sheriff's office had been told they were hiding in a locomotive in the railroad yards.

Larkman slept last night in an empty car and was going in search of food when Thaler and Dundon ran across him.

Sullivan was taken to a hospital to be treated for a broken rib injured in a jump from an automobile in Syracuse in the dash for liberty. This injury hindered his progress in trying to leave this section of the state. At times he had to be carried by his companions.

The three men escaped from Auburn by scaling the wall with a rope made of bedding. They fled in an automobile after kidnaping the driver, Stephen Westlake, and engaged in a gun fight with three pursuing guards in the west end of Syracuse Sunday night. Later they fled after their stolen car was forced to the curb by the officers.

Larkman, of Buffalo, is a life-term murderer who was saved from the electric chair by former Governor Smith. Sullivan, also of Buffalo, was sentenced in 1926 to 20 years for robbery, and Favesi, of Brooklyn, was sentenced to 40 years for robbery.

BELIEVE MAN IN BOSTON DIED OF POISON LIQUOR

BOSTON, March 10—(AP)—Police tonight were working on the theory that Michael Conley of Charlestown, whose body was found under the terminal docks Saturday, died of poison liquor, although Medical Examiner George B. MacGrath had made no report of his findings. Francis J. McAvoy, Charlestown, alleged proprietor of a near beer shop where police said Conley was last seen alive, was held by police as a suspicious person.

Superintendent of Police Michael M. Crowley and Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson have ordered a thorough clean-up of the district.

McAvoy, police say, has denied he was in the place in which Conley was alleged to have visited, longer than 15 minutes. He has denied a sale of liquor to Conley and any knowledge of the latter's actions.

UNFAVORABLE TO PROPOSED $85,000,000 TOLL HIGHWAY

Special Committee of Connecticut Chamber of Commerce Reports at Meeting of Directors—One of the Reasons is That It Would Affect the Income of the New Haven Road, Whose Prosperity Closely Involves the Industrial Prosperity of Connecticut.

HARTORD, March 10—(AP)—The unfavorable attitude of a special committee of the Connecticut chamber of commerce to the $85,000,000 toll express highway proposed for the state to form a link of a highway running from New York to Boston, was announced tonight.

The committee made public its con- President Kimball of the state chamber following a meeting of directors and local chamber representatives in the Hotel Bond here February 25, when former State Highway Commissioner Bennett, as engineer for the financial interests backing the proposed highway, explained the idea behind it. W. L. Barnett, New Haven road counsel, attacked it, and State Highway Commissioner Macdonald declared he had no point of view on the matter at all.

The committee maden ublic its conclusions as follows:

"The sentiment appears to be unanimously opposed to the highway as at present planned in house bill 575, because of its taking control of of state highways out of the hands of the state of Connecticut through its being an inter-state proposition; because of the broad rights conferred under eminent domain and the possibility of their abuse; because of its almost inevitable affect on the income of the New Haven road, whose prosperity closely involves the industrial prosperity of Connecticut and because of other minor possibilities too minor to detail."

The committee consists of Frank Cheney, Jr., chairman of the board of Cheney Brothers, Manchester; F. S. Chase, president of the Chase companies, Waterbury, and J. W. Curtiss, of Greenwich, president of A. G. Spalding and Company, New York, all directors of the state chamber.

At the meeting in Hartford, the directors and representatives present voted unanimously as opposed to the "proposition as presented," its sentiment being taken for the express purpose of "guiding" the committee which President Kimball was directed to appoint. The gathering also authorized the executive committee of the state chamber to act on the special committee's report, its decision to be the final attitude of the chamber itself toward the proposition.

If the executive committee votes to oppose the toll express highway, as is expected, officers and representatives of the state chamber will appear before the judiciary committee of the general assembly when that committee meets to hear the bill proposing that the power of eminent domain being given six Hartford men as incorporators of the New England Express Highway company to condemn property for a highway 200 feet wide, running from an unnamed point on the Fairfield county-New York state line to an unnamed point on the Windham county-Massachusetts line. Tolls of about 4¢ would be charged one motorist the entire length of the line.

The New Haven road attacked the proposition as giving the right of eminent domain to a group which would prove inimical commercially to the railroad, the state's largest taxpayer, and yet would not pay taxes until it was a "going concern, and all expenses and liabilities were paid."

FOUR MEN UNDER ARREST FOR ROBBERY IN MERIDEN

MERIDEN, March 10—(AP)—Arrested last night in Naugatuck, four men were brought to this city this afternoon and charged with the theft of two suits from a local store. The police indicated that the men are sought by the police of New Haven and Thomaston for similar thefts.

The men described themselves as follows: Walter Reilly, 29, of 159 Wolcherstield avenue; James Tyler, 27, of 18 Denison street, and William Walsh, 28, of 65 Capitol avenue, all of Hartford; and George Edwin, 26, of 91 Union street, Waterbury.

When arrested the men had three suits in an automobile. Two were identified as coming from a local store and the other is believed to have been stolen in New Haven. A fourth suit, worn by one of the men, was identified as one stolen in Thomaston.

Thomaston and Winsted merchants, who have been missing clothing, came to this city today to confer with the police.

After the arrest of the four men, the local police were informed that two youths, with 14 suits in their possession, had been arrested and were being held at the Danielson barracks by the state police. The four men who are being held here disclaimed any connection with the men who are in the custody of the state police.

BURGLARS OPENED SAFE AND ESCAPED WITH $15,000

NEW YORK, March 10—(AP)—Burglars entered the basement office of a Fifth avenue dress shop today, ripped open the safe by what police described as the "can opener" method and escaped with approximately $15,000.

A policeman discovered the burglary when he found the door of a millinery shop on the 42nd street side of the building open. The burglars had entered the millinery shop, cut a hole 14 inches square in the floor, dropped to a washroom in the rear of the George Block dress shop, and traversed the winding corridors to the shop office.

Police found the safe had been turned over on a pile of coats and the door ripped open by the "can opener" method. The burglars had ripped out the combination and handle of the door, drilled two holes in the upper left corner of the safe and ripped off the outer sheathing of the door. They chiseled out the solid concrete with which the safe door had been filled and then opened the steel inner door. Police estimated that the operation required three hours and said the work was done by experienced men.

WOMAN WITNESSED FATAL SHOOTING OF WALSH

NEW YORK, March 10—(AP)—The Daily News tomorrow will say that a woman witness to the fatal shooting of Thomas (Fatty) Walsh, in Miami, Fla., was located by their representative here today and that she told them the shooting was the result of a sudden quarrel between Walsh and one of his gambler associates.

The Daily News will quote Demaris Doore, night club hostess and enter- of Miami twelve hours after the shooting, as saying she was spirited out of Miami and taken by automobile to Palm Beach where she boarded a train for New York.

"Yes, I was there," the News will quote Miss Doore as saying, "but you'll get nothing out of me."

The paper will say that under questioning, however, she said the killer was one of three of Walsh's associates in a gambling syndicate who had become angry because Walsh and Arthur L. Clarke, who was wounded, joked about his manner of speech. No one but the killer among the four was armed, the Daily News will quote the woman as saying.

OBITUARY

ALBANY, N. Y., March 10—(AP)—Ledyard Cogswell, Sr., 77, financier, died today at Charleston, S. C., of pneumonia, messages received here said.

Mr. Cogswell retired a few months ago after serving 25 years as president of the New York State National bank here. He had served as president of the American Bankers' association and as a member of its executive committee.

PRESIDENT HOOVER SPENT A QUIET SUNDAY

WASHINGTON, March 10—(AP)—President Hoover today abandoned the strenuous program which has characterized the opening of his administration and devoted his first sabbath in the white house to worship, relaxation and the company of a small group of close friends.

With Mrs. Hoover, he motored in the morning to the small, old Quaker meeting house at Thirteenth and Irving streets where he heard a sermon on overcoming the obstacles of life through faith and divine grace, preached by Augustus Murray, the minister of his own church in Palo Alto, Cal., during the afternoon, he rested at the white house, read for a while and took a short automobile ride about Washington. This evening some of his old neighbors from S street were invited in for Sunday night dinner.

The president was accompanied to the church by his son, Herbert Hoover, Jr., and the latter's wife, his sister, Mrs. Mary Leavitt, of Long Beach, Calif., Mrs. Hoover's sister, Mrs. Eugene Large, of Palo Alto, and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Requa, of San Francisco, all of whom have been house guests at the executive mansion since the inauguration.

Informality prevailed throughout the day. In respect to the tenets of his Quaker faith and their insistence upon avoiding display or showiness, Mr Hoover left behind him the high silk hat and formal morning clothes which form the customary presidential attire for church attendance and instead wore a dark business suit and slouch hat.

TO BE CRUCIAL WEEK FOR REPARATIONS EXPERTS

PARIS, March 10—(AP)—The discussion of the experts committee on reparations today entered upon a crucial week in the long drawn out negotiations. Injection of the political element into what has been more or less exclusively financial discussion is coming before the French parliament on Thursday.

Premier Poincare was reported to have made up his mind to leave President Moreau of the Banque of France under no misapprehension as to what is the policy of the government of France. On the other hand Finance Minister Cheron has a little speech ready to deliver which mentions occupation of the left bank of the Rhine as an operation that might be dispensed with. The premier was said to insist upon guarantees for fulfilling German obligations.

Dispatches from Berlin today revealed the possibility, already suspected, that the work of the experts committee may disintegrate into nothingness because of fundamental disagreement betwene the German delegates on one hand and the allied and associate experts on the other.

FABRE LINER ALESIA HAD TEMPESTUOUS VOYAGE

PROVIDENCE, March 10—(AP)—Picked up in the Azores where they had been stranded after being six days at sea on a storm-buffeted and disabled ship, 22 Belgians today stepped off the Alesia, Fabre line steamship, when that liner, itself two days overdue because of a constant battle with the elements, docked at the state pier here.

The group had passed almost a month together on the water. During that time, one of their number, a 19 months old infant, Lilia Ducrus, making the trip to America with her parents, was stricken by pneumonia and died. She was buried at sea. Another passenger, a woman, had been so badly frightened that she suffered a nervous collapse and became paralyzed on one side of her face.

NEW FLYING MACHINE CALLED A "HELICOGYRE"

LONDON, March 11—(Monday)—(AP)—The Mail today says that a flying machine called a "Helicoavre," is being built at the order of the British air ministry and is nearly ready for tests. It is a development of the helicopter and was invented by Vittorio Isacco, who in 1917 collaborated with Pescara in making five helicopters.

The new machine is designed to ascend and descend vertically and to hover motionless in midair.

FIRST WARD VOTERS ASK COUNCIL TO NAME HANNA

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 10—Some 25 residents of the first ward, representing political leadership in various nationalities for that district named Robert A. Hanna of Mansfield avenue as their definite choice to fill the vacancy in the ward office left vacant by the murder of County Detective William E. Jackson, at a ward meeting held today.

The ward leaders drew up a petition requesting the common council to elect Mr. Hanna and then set out to secure the signatures of the voters of the district to the petition. According to the city charter the choice of an alderman to fill the vacancy rests with the council which has the sole power to elect. Of two or three names that have been prominently mentioned as the tentative choice of the common council members who remained as active aldermen during the winter season and since the death of Alderman Jackson, that of Chauncey E. Macfarlane has been the choice of two republican members.

Since the matter of filling the vacancy has been at hand there have been but four of the six remaining aldermen in active office. Aldermen O. L. Willard and A. J. Dubreuil having gone to Florida. The four remaining aldermen were Aldermen William E. Webber, Eugene B. Lewis and Cyril A. Lamoureux, republicans and Alderman John Reilly, democrat. Alderman Willard, republican has been expected to return here in time to attend the March meeting of the council Monday night while the return of Alderman Dubreuil, democrat, remains indefinite.

The meeting of the first district electors held today was called to order at 7 o'clock in the store conducted by Carl Tripp on Mansfield avenue. Alfred R. Handfield, member of the republican ward committee convened the meeting and Constable Ralph J. Lussier was elected moderator. Eugene Handfield and Harry Demas acted as tellers and William W. Palmer, Jr., was checker.

Just what effect the first ward petition, if presented, will have on the council remained somewhat of a question today although one prominent alderman stated that he did not feel that it would alter the plan to elect Mr. Macfarlane. The choice of Mr. Macfarlane, it was explained was based on the fact that the proposed candidate has had experience in the council, having served on the board prior to 1904 when the dual system of an aldermanic and common council boards was in effect. When questioned today Alderman Webber stated that insofar as he knew the plan of the council was to take action on the matter of filling the vacancy at Monday night's meeting.

The element of mystery will contribute much interest in the spring opening of the Willimantic stores the last two days of this week, as the result of an arrangement to have all windows unveiled and flooded with lights at a given hour Friday evening. This hour has been set for 7 o'clock and the uncovering of the merchandise-laden windows will be made as simultaneously as possible.

Information secured on the plans for some of the special window decorations indicate that the shoppers who are on hand for the unveiling event at 7 o'clock Friday evening will receive a real surprise. The merchants are bending every effort to give as complete and beautiful a display as possible of what will be in vogue during the spring season. Not only will these windows show the latest newest goods but will present fashion's decree with supplementary decorations that are bound to please. Even the weather man has joined in this cooperative movement by predicting "fair and warmer" for these spring opening days. Large quantities of new merchandise, much of it personally selected by the merchants in the metropolitan centers, are arriving here daily. Easter goods will be the prominent position.

Five cases of violation of the automobile laws, coming as a result of the state police campaign being staged by officers of the Stafford Springs barracks in this section were presented in the Columbia town court Saturday morning. All of the accused pleaded guilty as charged.

The cases: James A. Murray of Putnam, operating a truck on which there was no mirror, fined $3 and costs, total of $12.18.

Joseph Kresowitz of Columbia failure to have a driver's license fined $2 and costs, total of $11.18.

Adelard Brousseau of Willimantic, operating a truck having defective brakes fined $2 and costs, total of $11.18.

Burton Gelba of Forestville, failure to have a driver's license, fined $2 and costs, with fine remitted, leaving balance of $9.18. Extenuating circumstances to the effect that Gelba was at the wheel of a car being towed were presented in this case.

Arthur Gamache of Willimantic, defective brakes and no mirror on the truck he was driving, fined $2 and costs on each count, amounting to $13.18. The arrests were made by Officers Henry Heinold and Frank A Starkel. Justice of the Peace Mrs Fannie Dixon Welch presided at court and Grand Juror Joseph N Clarke prosecuted.

Hearings by the judiciary committee on resolutions naming the judge and deputy judge of the Willimantic police court have been set to be held in the old senate chamber of the capitol at Hartford, next Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The listing on the legislative bulletin follows: Appointing Frank H. Foss, judge of police court of Willimantic. Appointing Russell A. Andrews, deputy judge of police court of Willimantic. (Mr. Lincoln). (By request) Appointing John H. Harvey, deputy judge of police court of Willimantic. Judge Foss has held the position for over ten years with Russell A. Andrews as deputy judge for over seven years.

At a session of the Mansfield town court held with Justice of the Peace Byron Houston on the bench Friday, Arthur Osterhoudt and Joseph Gintick, both of this city, were charged with violations of the automobile law. Osterhoudt was charged with not having an operator's license and with markers not properly attached. He pleaded guilty and was fined $2 and costs on the first count and $1 on the second, a total assessment of $16.55. Gintick was charged with operating a truck in which the load projected beyond the rear a distance of one foot provided as the limit by law. He was fined $5 and costs amounting to $16.70.

FUNERAL.

Mrs. Mary J. Bassett.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Jane Bassett was held with services at 62 North street Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Harold H. Critchlow officiated. Burial was in the Willimantic cemetery. Arrangements were in charge of Avery and VanZandt.

AMSTON

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Goodman of New York are visiting at the home of Mr and Mrs. I. C. Turshen.

P. Gross and grandson, Richard Turshen, have returned to town after a month's stay in New York city.

Friends of the Robert Dean family are extremely sorry to hear of the death of their eldest son, Douglass, 26, Thursday at St. Joseph's hospital. Mr. Dean was 26 years of age and was well known here, as the family had resided in this place for a number of years before moving to Canterbury. Several weeks ago Douglas Dean visited his sister, Mrs. E. W. Raymond, and a short time after returning to his home he was taken to the hospital.

Norman H. Rathbone was an interested spectator at the hearing in the capitol regarding the proposed game law.

Miss Lillie Jones has been taken to St. Joseph's hospital for treatment.

Miss Ruth Raymond spent several days last week in Canterbury.

The Schmid home is being wired, also redecorated.

A meeting of local milk producers was held in Amston hall Wednesday afternoon.

The warning for a town meeting to be held Monday, March 11, has been issued

JEWETT CITY

E. H. FORBUSH DEAD AT MASSACHUSETTS HOME

A number of local bird lovers who have from time to time forwarded arriving dates and unusual observations to Mr. Forbush, received the following notification Saturday. One at least of his last publications on the Birds of New England, is in the State library:

It is with the deepest regret that we announce the passing of Edward Howe Forbush, for many years connected with the Massachusetts department of agriculture as director of the Division of Ornithology, at his home in Westborough, Mass., at midnight, last night. Funeral services will be held from the Congregational church at Westborough, at two o'clock Sunday afternoon, March 10.

ARTHUR W. GILBERT,
Commissioner.

John B. May, Director, Division of Ornithology, March 8, 1929.

NEW GRANGE AT LISBON ALREADY NUMBERS 76

Lisbon grange, No. 195, held its first meeting and installation Friday evening. There were 120 grangers and their friends present, with official visitors from Norwich and Preston. The charter membership was increased from 53 to 76.

In addition to this number, 13 have signified their desire to transfer from other granges, which will bring the roll to 89, a record figure for any town in the state, with a population comparable with that of Lisbon.

The committee of arrangements for the annual banquet and ladies' night of Mt. Vernon lodge, No. 73, A. F. & A. M., has set the date as Thursday evening, April 18th, at the new Community hall in Newent.

A delegation from the borough was in Norwich Sunday evening at the Central Baptist church, to be present at the religious dramatization of "The Master," impersonated by Miss Rosamonde Joyzelle, of Hollywood, Cal. Evening service at the local Congregational church was omitted to permit attendance in Norwich.

Mrs. G. H. Prior was in Hartford on Sunday and addressed a King's Daughters' meeting in Hockanum. Mrs. Prior who is the president of The King's Daughters in Connecticut, will speak in Norwich this (Monday) afternoon.

During Saturday night, one of the snappiest nights of the winter, the mercury dropped to 8. A reading from South Main street at 1 a. m. is proof that in the Quinebaug valley's local section the temperature fell to 6 above, a record for March 10.

Good Year For Ice.

A year ago, the big Dorrville ice houses were closed after a futile attempt to secure a harvest. Today after securing 5,000 tons of 10-inch ice a month ago, an equally big harvest could be cut again in the same place. This winter 21 inches of snow, counting flurries and squalls, is the precipitation record to date. Last winter there was less than a foot altogether.

A Hoover Baby.

Martin S. Davis received a telephone message from his son George Davis, of Boston, telling of the arrival of Herbert Hoover Davis, March 4th. George said that the youngster's name must have been pre-arranged for, just in the beginning of the inaugural ceremonies at Washington, and even as the radio was announcing, "I, Herbert Hoover, do hereby and hereon most solemnly, etc.—the inaugural shout of the newly arrived Hoover, mingled with the nation's broadcast applause.

Without intention, except in the recent case, the given names of three illustrious presidents are to be noted in the Davis family. The father is Martin, the son, George, and the grand-son, Herbert.

Dorcas circle of The King's Daughters is to meet at the home of Mrs. N. B. Parkhurst on Tuesday evening.

Miss Nellie Franklin is spending a week in Boston.

A copy of the Browning geneanology has been presented Slater library.

WHEN THE NORWICH FAIR INSPIRED LOCAL FARMERS

A visitor in the borough said he could hardly believe his eyes, when he read in The Bulletin that the one time Norwich Fair grounds were for sale. He could recall when that once flourishing institution was in its prime, adding that when he was allowed to go down to the Norwich fair for a day, it seemed that everything he ever wished or could hope for was realized. He told of the fine part that Lisbon and her sturdy men and model farmers, had played, signally contributory to the many years of the Norwich fair's success.

Many a local farmer stood to prove the fact that success can follow in special lines, as has often been proven in Lisbon, where the soil seemed not the best, but rocky and unpromising.

He had among other interesting data concerning the activities of Lisbon's hard toiling farmers, the copy of a letter written in 1903, dated.

Round Hill Farm,
Norwich, May 2, 1903.

To Mr. Henry F. Bishop, New York.

My Dear Sir: Yours at hand. In reply, will say I went in for blooded stock 17 years ago when I had a debt of $8,000 on my farm. I paid $600 for two cows and $100 for a bull six months old; also $150 for three sheep. This was my foundation of a herd and flock. Since then I have bought and sold both cattle and sheep in almost every state. Have shipped stock to Illinois, to California and to Kansas. I have sold cows for $250, and bulls for $200, and lots of sheep for $20 and $30 each. Have shown stock in all the leading fairs in New England for the past 12 years, and have many thousands of dollars, besides valuable medals of gold, silver and bronze. In fact, today, my stock has very nearly paid off the debt on the Round Hill farm. I have a herd of cows with a butter record of 16 and 18 pounds in seven days. I could have sold them for $200 a piece, and their calves bring $50 each, as fast as they are marketable.

For the past four years I have taken each year, $200 in prizes from the New London county fair at Norwich.

JAMES B. PALMER.

The man again speaking of the Norwich fair, and the for sale advertisement, wondered, "What would Jim Palmer think, and what would he say? He was president once, its leading exhibitor, and all only 25 years ago."

Finn's tonight, White Shadows in the South Sea, with Monte Blue.—adv.

NOANK

RESULT OF LAST GAME OF NUGGETS-WHIRLWINDS

The Noank Nuggets defeated the local Whirlwinds at the town hall at the last game before a record crowd. The score was 24-19. The score at the end of the first quarter was 5-4 in favor of the Nuggets. The second quarter proved fatal for the Whirlwinds when the Nuggets out-scored them 12-2. The score at the end of the half was 17-6. The Whirlwinds made a spirited last half rally and had the crowd on edge all the time. They out-scored the Nuggets 13-7 in the last half. DANIELSON

PROVIDENCE YOUTHS WANTED IN THREE STATES ARRESTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 10 — Two youths with records, arrested by Rhode Island troopers on the Putnam pike near Chepachet Saturday, have since been going the rounds between the state police departments of Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Connecticut. Rhode Island troopers turned over Raymond F. Kelly, 22, and Peter DeRitta, about the same age, and both of Providence, to Massachusetts troopers at Webster Saturday night, and today the Massachusetts department turned them over to Connecticut state police at the Danielson barracks for questioning relative to stolen clothing they had in their car, the presumption being that this clothing was stolen from stores in Moosup and Putnam. Grilling of the prisoners at the local barracks served to disprove their stories relative to obtaining the clothing in breaks in either Moosup or Putnam, though this afternoon the possibility developed that the loot might have been obtained in some Willimantic store, and State Officer Royal Scranton was ordered over to that city to check up on the chance. Having quizzed them at length, the young men were turned over this afternoon by state officers here to the Massachusetts state officers.

Kelly and DeRitta are known to Massachusetts police as "boosters," and they were arrested Saturday night at Chepachet after a general alarm had been broadcast for their apprehension by police of Worcester county. When stopped in front of the Chepachet barracks, a few miles northeast of here, the car in which they were riding was found to contain 12 suits of clothing. Both gave fictitious names to the arresting officers. They were taken from Chepachet to headquarters of the police in Providence and promptly identified as Kelly and DeRitta. Providence police say that Kelly was released from state prison only two weeks ago after serving a sentence of one year. DeRitta also has a jail sentence charged against him.

The hunt for Kelly and DeRitta started Saturday afternoon following their activities at DuFault's department store in Oxford, a few miles north of Webster. It is said that while one of the young men engaged a salesman at the rear of the store, the other helped himself to clothing near the door. A passerby saw two youths carrying suits from the store to a car nearby and became suspicious. He took the number of the car and when a few minutes later the robbery of the store was discovered he gave the number to the police. It was then that the alarm for Kelly and DeRitta was broadcast. When captured the young men had 12 stolen suits hidden in the rear of their car.

Kelly has a record dating back three years and has been sentenced both in Rhode Island and Massachusetts. In February, 1926, he was given a small fine for petty larceny, and two months later was sentenced in Taunton, for the theft of clothing, to two months in the house of correction. In October of the same year he appealed a fine of $300 in the Sixth district court on a charge of larceny of clothing from a Providence department store, and later was given a deferred sentence in the superior court. A year later for stealing clothing in Springfield he was given a three months' sentence. About a year ago, on another charge of larceny, he was sentenced to 11 months in jail and fined $300. On still another charge of larceny he was sentenced at the same time to serve a year in jail and pay a fine of $200, these sentences running concurrently. He was released from prison the latter part of last month. DeRitta has served one sentence for breaking and entering and another of 11 months in the Providence county jail for larceny.

Every effort will be made by Connecticut state officers to connect them with any thefts of clothing in this part of the state. Incidentally, local clothing men would relish having a look at them, for suspicious young men have been chased out of this town after apparently attempting a robbery such as was committed at the DuFault store in Oxford.

Maybe there will be an avalanche of talk at the adjourned annual town meeting, Monday evening, maybe not so much. It is always difficult to forecast anything like that by what one hears about town. However, if all of those who have discussed taxation, pro and con, in town the past three days, do even a most modest and cryptic bit of talking, the meeting should last for hours. Again, probably it will not. Experience of many years has been that comparatively few people talk in town meetings however much they may talk outside. It so happens this year that there is something to talk about though. Hunt for a citizen who is strong for the estimated 29 1-2 mill tax rate, and the quest will be about as successful as though one were hunting a rhinocerous up around the Mashentuck district. It is not wanted. But there is the budget and some picking to pieces and readjustments of estimates must be made if the rate is to be any less. It will be interesting to see how the citizens go about pruning down the list of items. The selectmen have submitted the budget merely for discussion. They are in no sense insisting upon its tentative schedules.

A few weeks back there was more or less community worry in Danielson as to ice dealers getting an adequate crop for serving the public the remainder of the year. That worry was dissipated when January and February produced such consistently cold weather that a bumper crop was housed. In the light of these early March days this worry was entirely superfluous. On this 10th day of March one hears of ice varying from 10 to 12 inches in thickness on some of the smaller bodies of water within a few miles of Danielson. There has been nothing spring-like about March to date, yet buds are showing on trees in Danielson and calendars appear to be perfectly all right.

The word is seeping around through underground channels that bootleggers do not like the provisions of the recently enacted federal Jones bill to enforce prohibition. Conviction under the provisions of it may mean a five years penitentiary sentence and a $10,000 fine. From across the border in Rhode Island, where the prohibition laws have been openly flouted for years, comes word that numbers of places purveying one sort of intoxicant or another have closed up. That indicates the effectiveness of the bill. Against this is the sinister danger of clashes by confirmed bootleggers who will not be stopped short of death with enforcement officials. The big money for those who successfully evade the law is the magnet that men in official circles feel means rough work ahead with the reckless gentry who may want to fight it out with the law. It is not believed that these men will be numerous, but that they will be the worst of their types—and very dangerous.

There will be no special observance in Danielson the coming week-end of St. Patrick's day, just a few social gatherings and one or two public dances.

A well child conference in Danielson is to be held Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock at the town hall building.

Cards came to friends here today from William McDermott of High street, in Oklahoma City on a business trip.

Depending entirely upon which particular thermometer one looked at about 6 o'clock this morning, temperatures in Danielson ran from 10 above zero to 2 below, cold enough, in any event, for a March day.

A number of persons from this section will be in Willimantic an evening this week to attend the dinner to be given for prominent citizens by the county commissioners.

Some dogs that have completed a 21 days' quarantine period after being vaccinated for protection against rabies are now at liberty in Danielson, and more will be freed from day to day during the current week. Owners of these dogs had them quarantined and vaccinated ahead of the restricted period.

Thomas Monohan of Norwich was a visitor here today with his sister, Miss Alice Monohan.

Asa G. Williamson of Springfield was a visitor over the week-end with friends in Danielson.

Danielson people motoring between Boston and Providence Saturday had as an additional bit of interest a chance to watch the marathon runners plugging over the route between the two cities.

Right on the heels of the adjourned annual town meeting comes the annual borough caucus at which officers will be nominated for consideration at the borough election in early April, a matter that has received little or no general consideration up to the present time.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harrington of Church street, Brooklyn, where they have been residents on a beautiful farm place for years, have purchased from his estate the home of J. Edward Allen, on the West side. It is understood that Mr. and Mrs. Harrington are not to occupy their new home for some time to come.

Joseph N. Lavallee of Maple street has been in Philadelphia to consult with a specialist relative to his eyesight.

Within an hour from 12:20 this afternoon the department was called out to deal with two chimney fires, one on Main street, opposite the south end of Davis park, the other in the Riverview section. There was no damage in either instance.

Upwards of 300 girls employed in the curtain department of Powdrell & Alexander will be transferred from the Main street plant of the concern to the mill formerly owned by the Connecticut Mills to the north of the borough when the newly purchased plant is put into operation in the late spring season.

Attorney E. L. Darbie said today that the report of the certified public accountants that made an audit of town records recently was returned to him on Saturday by former Selectman Patrick Riley of Dayville. Attorney Darbie now will have an opportunity to make a careful study of the report, and present his own report on it to a special town meeting to be called in the near future.

Mrs. F. R. Tibbles and children, John and Lillian of Hartford, are spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anderson, and family.

Edward Anderson of Danielson spent last week at the old homestead on Allen Hill.

Alice Tourtellott of Brooklyn spent the week-end in Pomfret.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anderson and family were visitors in Providence recently.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Tourtellott of Brooklyn entertained relatives from Hartford.

Mrs. James Harney of Danielson and Mrs. F. R. Tibbles of Hartford visited in Moosup this week

PUTNAM

PUTNAM CITY HOTEL TOTALLY DESTROYED BY FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 10—The City hotel on South Main street, one of the city's oldest rooming houses was totally destroyed by fire shortly after 4:30 o'clock this morning. Fire loss this afternoon was estimated by authorities to be between $10,000 and $20,000. How the blaze originated is undetermined. It was said by guests that the fire was in progress shortly after four o'clock, but it was not until 4:30 a. m. that the first round of four alarms was sounded. The dry and well seasoned timbers made excellent tinder for the fire and soon the entire structure was enveloped in flames.

Panic stricken guests, aroused by one of their roommates, and startled by the flames which momentarily cut off their means of escape, gathered a few of their belongings and rushed to the street in bedroom attire—making their way out through a side exit.

The firemen responded in short order but were handicapped by two frozen hydrants from whence the source of water supply was to be obtained and streams were not trained upon the burning building until. Supt. of Fire Alarm Chas. T. Thayer had loosened the ice clogged fire plugs by pouring boiling water on them. A headway of five minutes because of this serious setback gave the flames a greater opportunity to break into the upper stories. With five lines of hose available, supplemented by excellent water pressure, the firemen attacked the blaze from the street, the hotel alleyway and from the nearest and adjoining structure. The fire fighters were then forced to cope with another disadvantage, that delayed the efforts, as the water turned to ice as it hit the sun walls.

Willimantic Man Rescued

Every fireman was a hero this morning and three are outstanding. Fully fifteen minutes after the arrival of the apparatus a cry for help came from a third story room. Deputy Chief Dumas quickly organized a rescue squad composed of Firemen Harry E. Morse, Frederick Dinsdale and John Peters, to go to the aid of the man trapped by the flames. A giant ladder was run up on the street side of the building. As the three firemen gained the roof Fireman Morse fought his way into the hallway through a window and creeping through the hallway reached the extreme rear of the building where he found the panic stricken man, who was Michael O'Neil of Willimantic. O'Neil in a fit of terror resisted the valiant fireman who had gone to his rescue and would not leave until overcome with smoke. Fireman Morse dragged him to the roof and his comrades assisted him down the ladder to the street, where he was examined and rushed to the Day Kimball hospital for medical attention. At noon today O'Neil was reported as suffering from slight burns about the face and hands. His condition was said not to be of a serious nature.

Minor Injuries to Firemen

Hidden dangers constantly lurked in the path of the fast progressing blaze and in several instances firemen narrowly escaped serious injury when charred ruins crashed to the street. Elizear Guertin, a member of the No. 1 hose company barely escaped from a plank, which fell from the roof to the street where the fireman was playing a nozzle. Other firemen who battled the blaze received slight burns and still others were slightly injured when they lost their footholds and slipped on the ley coating covering the street.

The firemen started to fight the fire from the street frontage and from the side; another crew attacking the blaze from the roof of the store of Wentworth and Holt, after every available foot of hose had been laid.

The fire assumed spectacular features as the flames enveloped the hotel and reached their height when the third floor of the dwelling went crashing through to the second story. The progress of the fire was punctuated by the crashing down of the topmost story and roof, the incessant snappings of heated window panes and a number of explosions which shot purple flames into the street. The explosions are still a mystery, which Deputy Chief Dumas and company captains were endeavoring to solve this afternoon.

Hose lines were laid from a plug at the corner of Grove and South Main streets, about three hundred feet distant and from another plug a few feet away from the hotel. The progress of the fire was so rapid that for a spell the entire line of houses on South Main street north of the Grove street intersection were threatened, including the Masonic club, and the homes of Thomas Duffy and Dr. M. J. Bullard, all of whom were prepared to evacuate at a moment's notice.

For nearly four hours the firemen matched strides with the sweeping flames, the outcome in doubt until eight o'clock when they had the fire completely under control.

The Salvation Army corps under the direction of Captain and Mrs. Robert Stickley scored again in the hearts of the firemen, when they too, ventured within a few feet of the burning structure to furnish the battling firemen with coffee and sandwiches. Similar acts were performed by residents of the threatened fire district.

Deputy Chief Dumas Directs

Deputy Chief Alphonse Dumas ably directed the efforts of the combined fire companies in the early morning blaze today, in the absence of Fire Chief R. E. Thurston who was away from the city. The deputy chief exhibited much skill in the direction of the firemen and the clever work of tackling the flames after the streams were laid. Deputy Chief Dumas is to be commended for his ability as a leader and it was only through his direction coupled with the fine cooperation of those under his command that a great portion of the city's residential section was saved from complete destruction by fire today.

The fire was at its greatest height about 20 minutes before dawn, but burned quite freely for several hours after daybreak.

Old Putnam Landmark

The City Hotel was an old Putnam landmark, it being in existence under a different name as far back as 1854, according to the recollection of and old citizen of the city this afternoon. Its location on South Main street was one of the most advantageous offered in Putnam at the time the New Haven railroad constructed their line through this city and at one time enjoyed the fruits of a flourishing patronage. The original structure was one story in height and was at the time level with the street. After the New Haven laid its tracks the wooden rooming house was joined with another building in the rear and was raised to a higher elevation. Shortly after two more stories were added. Since this was accomplished the hotel has been a constant fire threat and several times narrowly escaped destruction when fires were discovered and extinguished before any damage resulted. The hotel was owned by Zephrel Harquoit, who acquired it a few years ago. Mr. Harquoit was at a loss today as to the cause of the fire that destroyed his property and was unable to furnish the investigating authorities with any explanation as to its origin. Insurance on the property will form only a partial restoration of the loss as policies held by Mr. Harquoit were only to the extent of about $18,000 it was said this afternoon.

The recall was struck shortly after 11:30 o'clock this morning.

street died suddenly Saturday morning

Miss Agnes M. Mason of 50 Pomfret following a heart attack, suffered while at her work in the sewing room of the Putnam Woolen company. Miss Mason became stricken with the sudden illness about nine o'clock and at once was dismissed and allowed to leave for her home opposite the textile plant. As she reached the boardwalk leading to the front door of her home she collapsed. She was taken into the house at once but expired before the arrival of a doctor.

Miss Mason was a lifelong resident of Putnam, having been born here on Dec. 31, 1877, the daughter of Michael and Katherine (Morrison) Mason. She attended the schools of the city and entered the employ of the Putnam Woolen company as a young woman, retaining her position there since.

She was a member of St. Mary's church, being highly devoted to the practice of her faith. Miss Mason was also active in the church societies. She is survived by a sister Miss Mary Mason who made her home with her on Pomfret street.

Putnam sustained the loss of another of its well known citizens Friday evening by sudden death when Mrs. Lydia Bibeault, wife of Alexis Bibeault of Bridge street fell a victim of heart disease shortly after eight o'clock Friday night. Like Miss Agnes Mason, Mrs. Bibeault died shortly after a heart attack. Mrs. Bibeault being a devout member of St. Mary's church left her home late in the afternoon to pay a visit to the church, in the act of completing her missionary duties. She was about to leave the edifice when she dropped to the floor. She was removed to her home living but a few hours.

Mrs. Bibeault was born in St. Dennis, Canada, on July 3, 1851, the daughter of Jean B. and Vitaline LeFort. The little Canadian village of her nativity was her home until her marriage to Alexis Bibeault, a native of the same place. The couple came to the United States settling in Warren, Mass. Later the family removed to Mechanicsville and thence to Putnam where Mr. and Mrs. Bibeault made their home. Mrs. Bibeault was well known in Putnam and has many friends who will regret to learn of her sudden death Friday.

Surviving her besides her husband are three daughters, Mrs. Alfred St. Maries of this city, Mrs. Joseph Riley of Niagara, N. Y., and Miss Anna Bibeault, principal of one of the public schools of Middletown and one son Eugene Bibeault of Munson, Mass.

Dog Warden Ernest L. Chandler of Livery street said that he had further checked up the report that dogs were being allowed to run stray in the North End of the city during the period of quarantine and learned that yarns related last week concerning this section of the city were grossly exaggerated. Mr. Chandler said Saturday that he was well pleased with the cooperation being extended the authorities during the period by the residents of Rhodesville. Mr. Chandler also intimated that while the quarantine is still in effect the crisis is about over and there is no further cause for any great alarm, although the dog owners must still obey the regulations of the quarantine.

Warden Chandler said further that the dogs which have received the Pasteur vaccination treatment when the quarantine first applied three weeks ago completed their 21 days of confinement Saturday and after that period of days specified has passed the animal may be allowed its freedom. Mr. Chandler expects that a number of dogs will be released during the coming week.

Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Williams of Center street left this morning for Boston, where Dr. Williams will attend the convention of the members of the New England Optometric association. During the session clinics in this profession will also be held. Dr. and Mrs. Williams expects to return on Thursday.

Miss Mary Vale of Hartford formerly of this city is visiting friends in this city today.

POETRY FOR THE WIDEAWAKES

Bluebell—Harebell.

When I think about cuckoo-flower,
(lady-smock) cowslip;
Of wildwood anemone and the wild
hyacinth;
Primrose, horse daisy, or kingcup;
I think of such ever in clouds
Of deep and light yellow, of lilac, of white;
Of blue that is not blue.
Like wood smoke at sunup.

But harebell, the bluebell of Scotland,
I think of but singly—
Campanula blue, not a turquoise nor mist blue;
(It differs in shade and in shine;)
That baffles all blueness—
Wire-stemmed like black wire of the florist;
With cup like a cap for a fairy.

The places where harebells are found.
(What though they be many.)
Hold glamour;
The child and the poet may feel it—
None else.

—Douglas Hurp.

Fire-Flies.

To-night I watch the fire-flies rise
And shine along the air;
They float beneath the starry skies,
As mystical and fair.

Above the hedge where dimly glows
The deep gold of the Persian rose.

I watch the fire-flies drift and float;
Each is a dreamy ame.
Star-coloured each, a starry mote,
Like stars not all the same:
But whiter some, or raintly green,
Or wannest blue was ever seen.

They cross and cross and disappear,
And then again they glow;
Still drifting faintly there and here,
Still crossing to and fro,
As though in all their wandering
They wove a wide and shining thing.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES

Here are a few of the highest and lowest points in the world that might be of interest to the members of the circle, especially those interested in science.

The maximum difference in elevation of land in the United States is 14,777 feet, according to the United States geographical survey. Mount Whitney, the highest point, is 14,501 feet above sea level and a point in Death Valley is 276 feet below sea level. These two points, which are both in California, are less than 90 miles apart. This figure is small, however, as compared with the figures for Asia. Mt. Everest rises 29,002 feet above sea level, whereas the shores of the Dead sea are 1,290 feet below sea level, a total difference in land heights of 30,292 feet. Mt. Everest has never been climbed.

The greatest ocean depth yet found is 32,088 feet below sea level, at a point about 40 miles north of the island of Mindanao, in the Philippine islands. The ocean bottom at this point is therefore more than 17 1-2 miles below the summit of Mt. Everest.

The difference in the land heights in Europe is about 15,868 feet.

LETTERS OF ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Frances Kapuscik, Norwich Town—I received the book you sent me and thank you very much for it. I have started to read it and find it very interesting.

Thelma, Goldberg, Colchester — I want to thank you for the book you sent me. It is very interesting.

Bennie Kerachsky, Leonard Bridge—Thank you for the books you have sent me. I enjoyed reading them.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

Lord Higginbottom's Luck

Dear Uncle Jed: The seventh and eighth grades of my school were asked to write a story, taking as our subject a picture on a magazine cover. It was a hunter dressed in hunting togs, gun in hand and dog between his feet. There was a rabbit to the right of him, but it was quite evident that he was a poor huntsman, as he did not see the rabbit and seemed to be looking for something to shoot at. I am sending my story to you and I thought you might be interested, as I won the prize of $1:

"My word! 'Ere I've been out since sunup. I'v tramped the fields until m'feet are sore and I'm all fagged out, and not even a rabbit have I spied. Well, I suppose I'll have to call it a day, but I know the boys back at camp will joke me until there's no rest for me. By jove! I'll not try the trick I did once. I got in a conversation with another hunter and 'e seemed a friendly sort of a chap and perfectly willing to sell me two of 'is rabbits. Aye, but 'e was a tricky 'ard 'E beat me back to the lodge and kept out of sight until I had told my story. Then 'e appeared and laughed with the rest as 'is own joke."

Lord Chauncey Higginbottom has a very high opinion of himself. He never misses a chance to start out with his gun. Although he has never shot anything yet, he furnishes a great deal of amusement for the other hunters.

When Chauncey was a little boy he was never allowed out without his nurse or tutor; in fact, he was a big boy before he was allowed to think for himself. His mother made the mistake that so many mothers are inclined to make with their boys. He was petted and pampered until he was spoiled for anything useful and it has really made him very stupid, as you will see by the picture.

My Tom Cat

Dear Uncle Jed: Since I am so fond of my tom cat, I think I will tell you about it.

This domesticated male cat, or tom cat, as it is more often called, is of a singular colors. Its fur resembles that of a raccoon. It is brown, with a thick black bar running from the neck to the hind feet, and short horizontal bars running across its back. The tail has black rings and a black tip. The cat's stomach is white. It is about three feet from its nose to the tip of its tail.

Its nose is like an iodine spot; it is double pawed. When it goes hunting it is sure to bring home its prey, if it gets any. Most of the time its prey is a small bird. It catches the larger by hiding in some shrubbery and mimicking a bird. When another bird comes to see what is in the shrubbery the tom cat pounces on to its victim and kills it. But sometimes Tommy (as I sometimes call our kin) is not lucky and comes home with an empty stomach. Then I give it some milk.

Tommy is not an ordinary cat. It is a pet, and a very good one at that. When I wish its company I put it on my lap and pat it. When I do this it purrs and lies still. If I put it on my shoulder and go for a walk it will stay where it is put and enjoy the ride.

I have had the tom cat for two years and do not know what I would do without it.

Her Doll

Dear Uncle Jed: I have a very pretty doll. Its name is Theresa. I love Theresa. It has red cheeks and blue eyes. It walks, talks and sleeps. It has a yellow dress and a yellow hat. Its socks are silk. Its shoes are white. I must take good care of it.

DOROTHY KENNEDY, Age 8.
Norwich.

About Clothing

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write you a short story. In school we are studying about clothing for geography. Usually in winter you need warmer clothing than in summer, such as wool. But in summer you wear cotton or silk. Cotton is made from cotton plants which grow in the south. Wool comes from sheep. Silk comes from silkworms, while linen comes from flax which grows in Ireland. I am in the third grade and I like school very much.

George Washington

Dear Uncle Jed: George Washington never told a lie. When he cut down the cherry tree he said; "I cut down the cherry tree." His mother and father were proud of him. He was our first president. He led the army. He won the war. He was a brave man. We keep his birthday Feb. 22.

My Pet Dog

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. My story is about my pet dog, and I hope you and the Wide-Awakes will enjoy it.

My pet is a dog. It is a terrier. It likes to play with me. One day I took a piece of paper and I made it wiggle. It ran after it because it thought it was some kind of an animal. It jumped for it, but every time it jumped for it I pulled it away, so that it could not get it. We had lots of fun. We have another dog. One day the terrier went to the other dog and started barking at it. When I came there it came nearer because it knew I would not let the other one fight with it.

The Thames River

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to you and I think I will enjoy writing to you. I am going to tell you about The Thames River Near Twickenham

A few years ago while passing through Twickenham I was very much fascinated by the scenery and environments of the Tahmes river.

Along the banks of the River Thames are rows upon rows of stately pines. Drooping over the banks are a few weeping willows.

Throughout the day one can see boats with their white sails spread to the winds; also men and women rowed for fishery, and peasant women washing clothes. A scene of calmness and placidity reigns throughout in this country in the realm of the old world.

Makes Snowman

Dear Uncle Jed: There was a big snowstorm last week. I made a snowman. I put eyes and nose and mouth on it and I put a pipe in its mouth. I call it Uncle Jed. I am 6 years old.

A Birthday Program

Dear Uncle Jed: I have written to you and enjoy writing. I am going to tell you how we spent the afternoon in school before Washington's birthday.

We sang some patriotic songs and then we had two poems about Washington. We had a few stories about Washington. We sang another song and had a few more stories and poems. We read many stories and we had some pictures of George Washington to look at.

And then it was time to go home. I think we enjoyed ourselves very much.

THELMA GOLDBERG, Age 11.

The Snowman.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about the snowman we built. School was dismissed for the day and a crowd of girls and I ran out for a frolic. We proposed to build a snowman, for the snow was deep. At least a dozen girls joined in the fun.

A large snowball was made which later took the shape of a man. We put two marbles for the eyes. His face troubled us very much, at least the nose. We put sticks for a nose, an old hat on his head, a cane in his arms and a pipe in his mouth.

At last the snowman was finished. He had a happy-go-lucky air about him, though his face in particular was not handsome.

For three days the weather was cold and our snowman was as firm as ever. On the fourth day the sun shone out brightly and the snowman began to lose his shape.

One day we came to see Johnny Gorgid (that was his name), but all we saw was a pool of water, an old hat a broken pipe and a cane. We are eagerly waiting for another snowstorm, when we can build a new snowman.

SABINA BERNACHI, Age 13.

Trapping

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you, and I am going to tell you about my winter's trapping.

I have 12 traps set, seven skunk traps and five muskrat sets.

I have already trapped eight skunks and 11 muskrats.

Let me tell you, boys, it's a lot of fun and great sport. Next year I expect to set about 25 or 30 traps.

My Trip to Boston

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and I hope you and the Wide-Awakes will enjoy my story. I am going to tell you about my trip to Boston. My sister went with me. We stayed with my cousin. She took us to the zoo. We saw many strange animals. They were very interesting. We stayed a week and were very sorry when we had to come home.

Picking Blackberries

Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you about picking blackberries and I wish you'd like and enjoy my story.

One day in summer my friends and I went in the woods to pick blackberries. While we were picking we suddenly heard a noise in the bushes. We went to see what it was and saw a squirrel picking nuts and acorns. We were surprised to see a little creature like that jumping from one branch to another.

EVA PERKA, Age 13.

The Baseball Game

Dear Uncle Jed: I have written to you before. The name of my story is The Baseball Game.

One day Thelma, Beatrice, Annie and Frances came over to my house. They wanted to play baseball. We got our bats, mitts and balls and went down to the pasture to play ball. Annie represented Babe Ruth; Thelma, Lou Gehrig; Beatrice, Andy Cohen; Frances, Bob Meusel.

Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig chose sides. Babe Ruth chose Andy Cohen and Lou Gehrig chose Bob Meusel. Then they chose for first. Lou Gehrig's side was first. Babe Ruth's gang was called the Rinkydink gang. Lou Gehrig's gang was called the Topay Turvy gang.

When Babe Ruth was up he made 30 home runs. Lou Gehrig made 45 home runs. Andy Cohen made 36 home runs. Bob Meusel made 35 home runs. We couldn't finish the ball game because we had to go home for dinner. I will let you know about the next ball game.

My Dog's Surprise

Dear Uncle Jed: I have a dog named Rex. He is a good watch dog. It is snowing today. My dog and my cat are in the house. Before it snowed I took my dog for a long walk up to the rock. It was trying to get a drink and he fell in. Oh, how I laughed!

MILDRED G. BOYNTON, Age 9.

A Snowball Fight

Dear Uncle Jed: I hope you will like this story. I am about to tell you of our snow fort fight at school.

When we came to school in the morning we started to build the forts and then we divided into two teams, with two boys and one girl on each side; then the bell rang. At noon hour we made snowballs until both of the teams had gathered together ammunition. Then we started to fight and of course my side won. We had a glorious time while the battle was on and felt very proud of our victory.

The Aquarium

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter, and I am going to tell you about my trip to the aquarium in New York city. The tanks in which the fish are kept are built around the walls of the building, which is round. We got there just in time to see the fish being fed.

The prettiest fish of all are the Japanese goldfish and the angelfish. The sharks are small. The swordfish have a long sword at the end of their mouth which is almost as long as their body. The fish I enjoyed most was the jewfish, because it was the largest fish I ever saw. It acted so sleepy all the time until the keeper fed it. We enjoyed watching the seals playing with the wooden balls in the water. They also had quite a few alligators. On the walls are mounted quite a few skeletons of the jewfish, which are very large. You can buy little seahorses mounted on pins. The upper part or head is shaped like a horse's head and the body part is like a fish with the tail.

Next time I will write about my trip to Bronx park.

Liked Book

Dear Uncle Jed: This time I will write and tell you about the book I received from you. On Christmas of 1927 I received a book, "An Aviator's Luck," from one of my friends. I wrote a story to you twice and each time you sent me a copy of "An Aviator's Luck." Now I have three books. I am going to give one away to a boy who is very interested in reading such books and stories. I have enjoyed reading the book and wish to thank you for them both.

Read Several Books

Dear Uncle Jed; I enjoyed "Doctor Dolittle And His Circus," by Hugh Lofting. Doctor Dolittle would speak all kinds of languages. There was a walrus which wanted to go back to the north pole. So Doctor Dolittle told Jip, the dog, to tell the cat's meat man to have charge of the gates. Doctor Dolittle put the walrus in a hole. The people found its tracks and were tracking him. Finally the walrus got out and the doctor took it on to the north pole. Hugh Lofting has written other books on Doctor Dolittle. I have read David Blunsey Putnam's books, which are very good. He was an explorer. The G. P. Putnam and Sons published Deric in Mesa Verda. These are very good books for boys.

Undergoes Operation

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing to tell you about my operation in 1928. It was the day after Christmas.

I went to Dr. Lund's hospital. I was sitting in the hall when a nurse said to me, "Come with me." She took me into a bedroom and gave me a nightdress and bathrobe. Then she said that when I had undressed to put on the bathrobe and nightdress and then go and sit in the hall. After a while a nurse told me to go to the operating room.

When I got there the nurse put a mask on my face. I kicked the nurse in the stomach. Then I said that I would be a good girl if she would not hold the mask so close. Then she said that she would not hold it so close.

When I woke up I thought I was dreaming so I went to sleep again. The next day I went home.

Mother Knows Best

Dear Uncle Jed: When I was in Springfield last summer my mother bought me a new hat of which I was very, very proud. It was a pink felt hat with a rhinestone kitty pinned on the front.

One day on the bus with my mother I sat near an open window. I was wearing the pink hat. My mother cautioned me against sticking my head out of the window which I was very fond of doing. One of my mother's friends got on and she began to talk to her. Making sure that my mother was not watching I stuck my head out quickly telling myself it was only for a moment and would not matter. Alas! off came my hat and sailed merrily down the road behind me. I screamed. My mother and several passengers turned to see what was the matter. The kind conductor saw immediately what had happened and stopped the bus. Once more in my life I learned that mother knows best.

Pupils Make Chairs

Dear Uncle Jed: I hope you will like my story.

I go to school at Ledyard Center and I'm going to tell how our teacher, Mrs. Mansfield, taught us to make chairs for our four little boys and girls.

First we brought four orange crates and the older boys knocked the head out, sawed the side pieces down to the middle, dividing the board, then nailed the head to the back to make the back strong, and the chair was done. Each chair was given three coats of jade green paint and we older girls made cretonne cushions and ruffles for each chair. Mrs. Mansfield pasted an attractive little picture on the back of each chair and our orange crate chairs were done.

The children liked them very much and they proved strong enough for even the older boys and girls to sit in.

Wheat

Dear Uncle Jed: Wheat is so commonplace that we give scarcely a thought to it, yet it is one of our important foods. Millions of acres of land are devoted to raising wheat. Millions of dollars are invested in wheat.

Wheat can be raised in the north because it can stand the cold. Wheat is threshed by machinery. When it grows up a few inches they weed it. When the weeding is done it begins to grow taller. It grows four feet in height.

My Neighbor's Cat

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have ever written to you. Would you like to hear about my neighbor's cat? Gee, it certainly is a beauty. Its name is Kitty. Kitty's fur is as black as coal. There is not a white spot on it. It is always licking its fur. Kitty is very intelligent for it knows when it is called. Kitty is very fussy about its food, for if the plate is dirty it will not eat out of it. This is all I have to write about my neighbor's cat.

The Sand Box

Dear Uncle Jed; I am writing to tell you about the sand box we are making to use in the first grade. They are going to build little cities to represent the life of the Indians, Eskimos and Japanese. Our teacher got a sewing machine frame and brought it to school. The boys are going to make a large box on top of the frame and as there are casters on it the children can move it around. The smaller grades like to build many things in the sand box.

Winter

Dear Uncle Jed: This morning I took my sled and went sliding down the hill. When I was on top of the hill, I took a run. I was coming down the hill fast. Soon I was near the corner. I took a nosedive. My mother took me to the doctor and he fixed me all up. When I came home I went to bed. I fell asleep and dreamed that I lost my nose. When I got up I ran to the mirror. I looked in it and saw my nose. Wasn't this a surprise to me?

To Build Birdhouses

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing to tell you that we are going to build some birdhouses at our school. There is a post in front of my schoolhouse and we are going to put a birdhouse on top of it. This morning some of the older boys brought their tools and we are going to build the birdhouse this afternoon.

The little birds will be hunting for places to build nests in, in a few weeks and we hope some little bird will find and like our house.

I have heard quite a few different kinds of birds already.

Shall Never Trap Birds

Dear Uncle Jed: I will tell you and the Wide Awakes how I used to catch birds.

Oneday when I woke up early, I saw the ground covered with snow. In the chicken coop there were many blackbirds eating bread. I went down stairs and dressed up quickly. I went out, and scared the birds away, then I took a box and made a trap. In a couple of minutes the blackbeards came back. When about two dozen were under the box, I pulled the string. Then I took them out and put them in a big cage. When my brother, Mike, came down stairs he said, "Do not trap the birds. They help the farmers by eating the bugs on the plants."

From that time I have never trapped them again.

A SEAT IN THE CABINET.

When President Hoover decided to invite Vice President Curtis to sit with the cabinet at their meetings he was not establishing a precedent. He was doing what has been done before and the indications are that he believes that Vice President Curtis will be of assistance to the conferences and will be kept in touch with what is going on, as he should be.

Opinions as to the value of such action differ. It will be recalled that at the opening of the Harding term the late president invited Mr. Coolidge, then vice president, to join the cabinet meetings and he did so. That practice continued until the death of President Harding without any definite knowledge as to the advantage gained. It was noted, however, that when the time came for Mr. Coolidge to assemble his cabinet that he did not invite Vice President Dawes to become an ex-officio member. That left it open to inference that inasmuch as he failed to do so he did not consider his experience at cabinet meetings of sufficient value to continue the practice.

At the same time it is to be remembered that President Hoover was also a member of the Harding cabinet and he had a chance to observe the working of the idea and it is therefore noteworthy that he has decided at his first opportunity to bring the vice president into his cabinet.

That gives the vice president something more to do. It doesn't necessarily mean that his presence is required or that it is necessary for him to come in such close contact with cabinet discussions but it is quite evident that Mr. Hoover attaches value to it or it wouldn't be done. He apparently regards it as a good move in connection with his organization and he is noted as an organizer.

It is perfectly evident that Vice President Curtis has had long and valuable touch with legislative practices and senatorial methods. That he can be of help in the seat of an observer, a listener or an adviser must be taken for granted from the very fact that he has been appointed. It is also a move which should tie him up closer with the administration if such a move is ever considered necessary.

MUNITIONS FOR MEXICO.

This government is acting in accord with its established policies when it accedes to the request of the Mexican government and orders a certain amount of arms and ammunition delivered to the Mexican government headed by Portes Gil.

It is a well known fact that the United States is opposed to the idea of changing government by means of revolutions. It believes that whatever changes are made should be accomplished by constitutional methods. For that reason it was some time ago set forth that support would be given to lawfully established governments when subjected to attack by revolutionists. That is done by the maintenance of an embargo on arms and ammunition and the lifting of it only so far as it operates to the benefit of the regularly established government.

It was under such conditions that the Obregon government benefited and now, under the attempt to wreck the Gil government, further assistance to Mexico is being given.

That the attitude of this government in behalf of peace and against revolutions is beneficial to a properly constituted government cannot be questioned. The United States has not undertaken to come to any decision as to the merits of the dispute between the Gil government and the revolutionists. It rests its decision on the fact that there is a regularly established government and that the attack is being made upon it by methods which this government doesn't recognize. Therefore it is ready to respond to the appeal for munitions in order to protect the lawful government.

It is possible that various grounds for grievances might be pointed out by the revolutionists, or that it could be shown that the Gil government is not perfect, but that would not break down the fact that it is a constitutional government and it is not likely to create the impression that conditions in Mexico would be bettered if that country were to return to conditions which have existed there during revolutionary periods.

With all its troubles the probabilities are that Mexico can deal with them in a far more satisfactory manner than by resort to revolution.

BUILDING BIG SHIPS.

Competition in the building of battleships may have been suspended but there is as yet no end to the competition in the building of big passenger carrying vessels. This is true both as to size and number. Hardly does shipping corporations of one country put forth a record breaker as to size and speed than others set out to go it one better.

That contest for supremacy is still underway. Several of the European countries are either building or planning vessels that will outdistance in size, equipment or speed, and possibly in all respects, the best vessel crossing the Atlantic today. It has gotten to the point where ocean liners are enormous structures with all degrees of luxury obtainable but in spite of it there is the cry for something bigger and better just the same as there is a demand for something faster.

Thus when it is declared that the British are contemplating a vessel over 1,000 feet in length and with an engine of 100,000 horsepower to be driven by oil fuel it can be taken for granted that not long after it makes its appearance and proves its worth that it will be the target at which others will aim with the idea of beating it.

It was only a few months ago that much interest was being stirred in this country over the possibility of building several great vessels that would eclipse anything thought of and the idea was to accomplish the crossing of the Atlantic in four days, with mails being delivered to the ship and carried ashore on the other side by airplanes. Such vessels were conceived under the belief that there would be sufficient demand for the faster crossing to pay the additional cost which such a service would command. Little has been heard from it of late but it may be one of the developments of the future.

Big ships create good advertising and keep the name of its line before the public. If we can judge by the Leviathan there is some question as to whether they can command sufficient business throughout a year to make their operation profitable. In countries where subsidies are paid this might be taken care of, but on this side it is a consideration that cannot be overlooked.

THE INCREASING DEER.

When the superintendent of the state board of fisheries and game, John T. Titcomb, reports that there have been deer killed in Connecticut at the rate of almost one a day for the past two years up to the first of last July, he deals, we suppose, with those which have been reported to his department. He shows figures to show how they met their death and just over half of them were shot by landowners who discovered them doing damage. That is in accord with their right under the law. How many have been killed against the law and such killings not reported no one knows. Prosecutions from time to time indicate that the number is sizeable.

If sentiment throughout the state were to be gathered today from those who have had an opportunity to witness the operation of laws protecting deer, it is believed that it would be against that step which was taken years ago. It was then that Connecticut was made a great reservation for deer. They are a pretty animal and it is a pleasure to see them on the countryside, but as time has gone on and those who have furnished their fodder and experienced their depredations have had a chance to consider the actualities there has been a realization that their propagation ought not to have been encouraged as it was. They have increased in numbers rapidly. They have come to be a nuisance to many farmers and the large number distributed throughout the state has brought recognition to the fact that they ought to be reduced.

We haven't gotten to the point as yet where they can be openly hunted but it has come in Massachusetts and if they continue to multiply it is one of the possibilities here, although such hunting in a state as thickly settled as Connecticut can hardly be commended. It opens the way to too many human fatalities.

DECREASED COAL PRODUCTION.

Statistics kept by the hard coal industry reveal the fact that there has been a decrease of about 15 per cent. in anthracite production. It is a situation which has been dawning upon the coal operators and miners for some little time. They know that there hasn't been as much demand for the product and therefore there has been reduced activities and a lessened income.

This situation is given due emphasis in the demand that is being made of the Pennsylvania legislature for the repeal of the tax on anthracite. No one is going to be swayed by the belief that the removal of this tax is going to restore the lost business of the anthracite industry, start up the mines to increased production and increase the transportation of more hard coal into New England.

It was not solely because of the imposition of the coal tax that New England reduced its orders for hard coal. That was what might be called the straw that broke the back of the coal consumer. He has been experiencing hardships because of shortages, he has been facing a steadily advancing cost for that commodity and then came the addition of a tax for the benefit of the state of Pennsylvania.

The coal consumer who could, turned to other fuels. The 15 per cent. loss in hard coal production is the answer. The removal of the coal tax will not restore anthracite where it has been given up, for there must be more attractions in the way of price reductions, but it is one of the steps that can be expected to help in the restoration of part of the former business. It would be a small beginning.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

With a third of March gone the terrors that winter is holding in store cannot be many.

The man on the corner says: Now for your big blizzard recollections if you have any.

This is the time of the year for rehearsing the tales of that famous blizzard of '88.

The income tax cannot be sidetracked much longer. The next ten days should see some scrambling.

The threats of severe punishment in Mexico did not serve to prevent the revolution. Breaking the people of that country of an old habit is not easy.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Fresh air in the kitchen will make the work seem easier.

Vinegar will remove tarnish from copper, brass or bronze.

Stick the points of scissors into a cork to prevent making holes in your bag.

Season the dressing for roast meat with fresh chopped mint.

A little sugar will improve the flavor of stewed tomatoes.

Beeswax will fill in the cracks of furniture so that the marks will hardly show.

Macaroni forms a foundation for many salad combinations.

Potato balls are nice in thin white sauce, sprinkled with parsley.

For afternoon, tea biscuits filled with chopped nuts and honey are nice.

If eggs are kept in sanitary places they will have a good flavor.

Milk may be pasteurized by cooking it in a double boiler for 20 minutes.

A safety razor blade will be found useful when cutting fur apart.

Eggs are delicious poached, served in baked potato shells, partially refilled.

Cook any fruit which is underripe before serving.

When the furniture looks sticky or smeary, too much polish has been used.

A small stepladder that can be converted into a chair should be found in every well equipped kitchen.

Drying dust will keep waxed floors immaculate. Dirt can not work into it. It just settles on the surface and works off easily.

Put the knife in boiling water just before cutting rich cheese and the slices can be cut as thick or think as desired and will not crumble.

To open windows easily when they are stuck with paint, because of wet weather, etc., brush over the inside of the frames with ordinary blacklead. They will then slide without the least difficulty.

To polish brass handles on furniture, first remove them from the furniture, then put into a dish with 1 tablespoon of salt and 1-4 cup of vinegar and water enough to cover. Boil 15 minutes, then polish with a good brass polish and they will look like new.

EXCELLENT MEDIUM FOR FRYING

Since lard has little flavor it is an excellent medium for frying. Many like a mixture of two-thirds lard and one-third clarified suet. While lard smokes at a lower temperature than some of the other fats, it is never desirable nor is it necessary to reach so high a temperature for any kind of deep fat frying.

The smoking point of lard is around 220 degrees C., in a kettle which will expose too much surface. The temperature required to fry uncooked foods, such as doughnuts, French fried potatoes, etc., is from 175 degrees C. to 190 degrees C.; for cooked foods, such as croquettes, 185 degrees C. to 205 degrees C., and for cold, wet, uncooked foods, such as fritters, 190 degrees to 195 degrees C. All of these temperatures are well under the smoking point of lard. Uncooked foods require a lower temperature than cooked foods because they must be cooked through before they are browned; while cooked foods only need to be heated through and browned.

CULINARY CULLINGS.

Nine good-sized eggs weigh about one pound.

An excellent dish for the invalid is an egg poached in milk.

Toasted raisin bread is delicous served with afternoon tea. Dried out cinnamon bun is also good, sliced, toasted and buttered.

Layers of sponge cake may be put together with jam or preserves and the whole topped with slightly sweetened whipped cream for a change in deserts.

POT-BOUND HOUSE PLANT.

Along about this time of year some of the potted plants which have been growing in the house since autumn are quitely likely to have developed to such an extent that their roots are crowded and both leaves and blossoms suffer in consequence. A general appearance of unthriftiness is an indication of such a condition and should be investigated by turning the plant out of its container and examining the root balls for signs of cramping.

The remedy for being pot-bound, as the florists express the situation, is to reset the plant in a fresh pot a size or two larger than the old one, with fresh soil both around and underneath the root ball. This soil ought to be presed down firmly while it is being filled in, instead of waiting until the job is finished and then packing it down from on top, the way most people do.

SHOE-LEATHER STAINS.

Try borax water to remove shoe-leather stains from light-colored stockings. Soak them, then wash as usual. If this is not effectual, add half an ounce of oxalic acid to two cupfuls of water. Rinse in this solution and wash thoroughly afterward. Repeat until stain disappears.

BUTTONS.

In making children's clothes, use buttons at least three-fourths of an inch in diameter and make the buttonholes large enough to button easily. This will help the child who is learning to dress himself.

COCOANUT.

The cocoanut is a baffling object to the new cook, and it might be well to tell her how to go about coaxing it out of its shell. To open a cocoanut, bore a hole in the eye and empty the milk. Then place the nut in the open and the heat will crack the shell so the meat can be removed readily.

DRAWER THAT STICKS.

Before sending for the carpenter to fix the drawer that sticks, rub a little soap on the inner edges of the drawer and see if that does not remedy the trouble.

EVERYDAY USAGE.

A small fern in a glass, silver or pottery bowl is one of the best centerpieces for a dining-room table for everyday use. It is cool-looking and restful to the eye and looks just as well between meals, besides being economical.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Spring will find lavenders, rose, green and orange in many gatherings of young people.

Pajamas of checked gingham fill a long felt want in the wardrobe of the young person. They may be had in many colors.

Irregular hemlines have not been overlooked, and an occasional puff and long sash ends lend the sophisticated touch so valuable to young eyes.

Black frocks will be animated this spring by large off-white collars, touches of fine lace, vestees of rose beige and other lingerie touches.

Sashes are prominent again. Hair ribbons have gone, but bows are smart, hence stand out on the young junior. Flat crepes are pleated and ruffled. The up-in-front line featured for the grown-up silhouette is not overlooked.

Spring leather wind-breakers and other smartly cut jackets for sports-wear show a preference for plaid lining or vivid checks. Straps and buckles divide honors with ornamental buttons for fastenings.

Widened flat collars extending to such extremes as to be veritable berthas enhance the grace of many a spring frock. Sometimes tiny ruffles add to the rippled lines and suggest the quaint fichu accordingly as the collar is draped or tied.

THE LONG SLEEVED FROCK.

A frock admirably designed for restaurant dining has long sleeves, a very new and chic feature. One very charming model has a short silk slip covered with lace, with a skirt which reaches below the ankles in back. The long sleeves of lace are wonderfully flattering.

TAFFETA AND TULLE.

An evening frock for the young girl, which has everything to commend it in the way of chic, is made of flowered taffeta, with an irregular hem-line edged with tulle. A huge butterfly bow of the taffeta is placed at the right hip. The waist is sleeveless and has a deep V decolletage in the back.

BICORNE HAT

Most attractive is the bicorne hat of flet from Roe Valois seen at one shop. The rim turns up about the crown but ends sharply at either side, at a point near the eyebrows, and the crown edge above the forehead is bound by a twisted bit of ribbon which forms a decoration. Many tricorne shapes are seen in spring models.

EVENING SHAWL WRAP.

A large square shawl in a two-color combination is shown in the city. One side wears a little roll cowl collar which terminates in ties. In this way the shawl is carelessly tied about the neck and the lower corners are caught in closely about the hips, thus makinga very attractive wrap. Chartreuse shawls have black borders and similar contrasts make for effectiveness.

SPANISH RUGS.

Interesting rugs of hooked wool, made in Spain, are just the thing to use with the Spanish interiors so much in vogue at present. Both the colors and the designs are interesting.

LAUNDRY HINTS.

If you add salt to your starch, your iron will not stick.

Use peroxide of hydrogen to remove perfume stains from bureau scarfs.

Lemon juice softens water and renders washing less difficult. It helps to remove dirt and grease, whitening and freshening white clothes. Do not use in washing colored fabrics.

The mother who has several children usually has several washdays a week. A convenient tip for her is to make an abundance of starch on Monday, her real washday, and bottle some while hot for use during the week. It will prove a big time saver and convenience.

CLEANING BRASS.

Housewives often complain that while lemon and salt or oxalic acid will cleanse brass beautifully it is not lasting. This is probably due to the brass being polished without first washing it.

Tarnish on brass, copper and bronze will readily disappear, if lemon and salt is applied. Warm vinegar, buttermilk or oxalic acid solution are also excellent for this purpose, but all traces of these cleaning agents must be removed, otherwise the metal will tarnish again very quickly. This is effectually done by washing the metal after the cleanser has been applied, then drying it by rubbing it with a little dry whiting. This will not only absorb all moisture but will give a high polish.

Faucets cleaned once a week with the acid remover, as directed, require only a daily rub with a polishing cloth or a cloth sprinkled with a bit of whiting.

FOR THE WELCOME GUEST.

The guest-room bathroom is just the place to put a box containing a dozen small flower-pots with variegated flowers. These turn out, upon closer inspection, to be individual bath-salts.

SUNDAY SUPPERS.

If there are many young folks in the house and Sunday night suppers usually serve more than can be accommodated, get cheap tin trays, paint gaudy colors and serve cafeteria suppers. It is an easy and altogether delightfully informal way to do it.

COMFORT FOR BOOK-READERS.

Real comfort can be obtained for the literary member of the family by the purchase of a silvered stand to hold a book, and a small blue electric lamp to clamp to the top of a book to give the necessary light upon the printed page.

BABY'S OWN CLOTHES HAMPER.

Baby's own hamper for soiled clothes is oval in shape, very small of course, and painted rose color, with gay soldiers marching across the surface.

JELLY GARNISH.

When cutting jelly into squares or other shapes for garnish, use sharp scissors instead of a knife. It is easier to shape them, quicker and neater. Dip the scissors into cold water before each bit is cut.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

Dr. Opitz, a German woman physician, has been appointed ship doctor for the Graf Zeppelin, the passenger-carrying dirigible.

A woman will be the next ruler of the Indian state of Bhopal and its 5,000,000 Mohammedan subjects.

The Swiss Federation of Business Women has a membership of 2,500, with branches in seven or eight cities.

The League of Women's Commercial and Clerical Workers in Germany has a membership of more than 60,000 persons.

Mme. Sakhnovskaya, the only woman general in the Soviet Russian army has been decorated with the Red order for bravery.

No single woman under 25 is permitted to leave Spain unless she is accompanied by her parents or guardians.

Miss Mary Gibson, secretary for a Vancouver, B. C., realty concern, completed a real estate deal recently which netted her a profit of well over $100,000.

RUBBER PLANTS.

The gloss of a rubber plant is greatly increased is a teaspoonful of sweet oil is worked into the ground around the roots about once a month.

NEVER SCRAPE PAN.

It is unwise to scrape food from any sort of saucepan. It is almost certain to scratch or mar the utensil. Use steel wool and a reliable cleanser—but never a knife.

RECIPES.

Lemon Shortcake: Wash two lemons well and grate enough of the yellow outside skin to make two teaspoons. Slice the lemons, rejecting seeds and the hard ends. Combine thees slices with the grated rind and cover with two cups of water. Bring to boiling point and cook slowly until peel is very tender, from 25 to 30 minutes. Add one and one-half cups of sugar and two tablespoons of cornstarch rubbed to a smooth paste with a little cold water. Cook slowly three minutes. Pour this (hot) over prepared shortcake or a sponge cake, if preferred. Serve hot.

Cheese Croquettes: Add half a cup of grated cheese to one cup of thick white sauce. After the cheese is melted, add one minced hard-cooked egg, half a teaspono of salt, one teaspoon of onion juice and a little paprika. When cold form into balls, flatten them out roll in crumbs brown them in a small amount of fat. Serve with tomato sauce.

The sauce: Melt one tablespoon of fat, remove it from the heat, add one-fourth cup of flour and stir the mixture until it is smooth. Then add two cups of strained cooked tomato juice with onion and spices, one teaspoon of salt and a little pepper. Boil this sauce for about four minutes, stirring constantly.

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

"LENT AND MY CHURCH"

Memory Verse for Monday

"The things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal" (II Corinthians 4:18). (Read: II Peter 3:1 to 9).

MEDITATION: I love my church because it is old. Its worship links me with a mighty and sacred past. When we sing the old hymns I am "tuning in" with my sainted dead for generations back. These Scripture lessons have strengthened and comforted God's children through a troubled but triumphant history. These prayers in their phrasings echo the yearnings of the devout in all ages. I think of these things and learn that while light dawns and opinions change my faith is venerable with an age incomputable. It has stood the terrible testing of time.

"O where are kings and empires now
Of old that went and came?
But Lord, Thy church is praying yet,
A thousand years the same."

PRAYER: God of my fathers who trusted in Thee and were not put to shame, I pray that Thou wilt preserve me from the illusions of this passing show and fix my heart in comfort and peace upon the unseen and eternal. Amen.

YOUR INCOME TAX

The period for filing income tax returns made on the basis of the calendar year 1928 ends at midnight, March 15, 1929. When by reason of illness or absence from home additional time is required, an application for an extension should be addressed to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer files his returns, together with a full recital for the causes for the delay. Except in the case of taxpayers who are abroad, no extension may be granted for more than six months. The request must be made before the return is due.

American citizens residing or traveling abroad, including persons in the military or naval service on duty outside the United States, are granted, without the necessity for filing a request, an extension up to and including the 15th day of the sixth month following the close of the taxable year—June 15 if the return is filed on a calendar year basis.

An extension of time for filing returns does not extend the time for payment of the tax, or any installment thereof, unless so specified in the extension. The commissioner of internal revenue may extend the time of payment of the amount determined as the tax by the taxpayer, or any installment thereof, for a period not to exceed six months from the prescribed date.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Steel Traps and Foxes.

Mr. Editor: I would like to tell the supposedly seasoned old trapper, from Griswold, that he has something to learn, when he says that foxes cannot be caught in steel traps and that it is mostly rot. I have, and others known to me have, caught foxes, both red and grey, in steel traps, and they were not baited, covered with dirt or any kind of blind.

None of us, either old experienced trappers or those less experienced in the same game, like to see, or cause any animal to suffer.

I cannot see where the steel trap, if it is attended as the law requires, and proper methods are used in setting, are any worse than some other devices used. As for muskrats, a steel trap can be set so that they will drown soon after being caught, which will avoid much suffering.

The figure four, or any dead fall device is certainly a sure and humane way of trapping, but must be set properly to insure best results.

The skunk is more or less of an inquisitive animal and is not very hard to trap, which accounts for so many being caught in many ways.

These facts I have learned from actual years of trapping.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 10—When President Hoover completes his diplomatic slate, that Pennsylvanian of less than a year's service in the political wing of the corps, David E. Kaufman, may rate something good.

As minister to Bolivia, Kaufman did pioneer work in cultivating Latin-American good will that hardly can be overlooked. He came home on leave just before inauguration under circumstances that seemed to indicate in a definite and highly practical way the value of that policy of friendly rapproachement in the western hemisphere to which the Hoover administration had committed itself even before it took office.

To some degree, without doubt, Kaufman's personal popularity with the government and the people of Bolivia played a part in averting actual warfare between Bolivia and Paraguay.

Special Interest

As he was the first Jew selected by President Coolidge for diplomatic appointment, Kaufman's career has aroused special interest. He promptly displayed traits that won him affection.

"You have conquered the love of all my countrymen," President Siles told the diplomat during a banquet in his honor just before his return to the United States. "Official courtesy does not enter into this feast. The admiration we have for your country is great, but in this moment we are won by the personality of Mr. Kaufman."

A well equipped orphans' home at Cochabama, paid for out of the pocket of the American minister, is one of the things for which Kaufman long will be remembered in Bolivia. But that is not all. The poor children of the capital will miss him every time an American holiday rolls around. He never forgot them, be it Fourth of July or Christmas. And last year Bolivia took official note of his work making the American Independence day also a national holiday of Bolivia.

Honored Mother

Kaufman's mother was born in Lithuania. He has erected in the town of her birth as a tribute to her both a synagogue and a Catholic church. He combed the markets of the United States for toys and candy for the poor children of the Bilivian capital last year to make the season of Christmas good will memorable to them as never before.

So it was not surprising, when Bolivia burned with war spirit in the border clash with Paraguay, that Kaufman's urgency for peace and acceptance of the Washington conference mediation proposition was hearkened to. His ground work as a good will ambassador already was laid.

YOUR HEALTH

Tooth Irregularity Caused By Neglect Of First Set

By Franklin W. Hollister, D. M. D., Portland, Oregon.

If parents could realize how much the future health of their children depends upon the start that is given them in the early years, and especially just how much the future of their children depends upon the mouth, my honest conviction is that the present number of dental colleges would be inadequate to supply the demand for dentists to do children's work.

If the teeth are allowed to become discolored or stained, and this discoloration or stain is neglected, it will be but a very short time before decay will start. Then, as the decay progresses, the teeth will naturally become sensitive, the child will neglect to masticate his food properly because it hurts to do so, and the food will therefore be swallowed not thoroughly prepared for digestion.

In a short time decay will encroach upon the pulp, or nerve of the tooth. A toothache will ensue, followed by an infected pulp that terminates in an abscess, from which infection is either taken up by the blood stream and distributed by it over the entire body, or, if drained into the mouth, is swallowed and mixed with, to become a part of, the nourishment. It will be distributed then in the form of slow poison, throughout the entire system.

Consider also the standpoint of deformity. We know that these baby or first teeth are replaced in due time by permanent ones; but if lost too soon, or before the permanent ones are far enough developed to erupt, the spaces will close up, caused by underdevelopment of the bony tissue, due to the loss of nourishment which should be supplied by the blood and nerve tissues that are destroyed with the loss of that tooth. The result will be that the permanent tooth will not have room to erupt where nature intended it should, and malformed jaw bones with a set of irregular, unsightly teeth will result.

Here are three simple rules that I would suggest be followed closely by parents who have the welfare of their children at heart:

1. Find out from an authority what they are and then feed your children good nourishing foods; especially ones that require lots of mastication, as exercise gives the stimulation that will cause the proper development of the jaw bones.

2. Clean the child's teeth regularly, until he is old enough to do it himself, and then see that he is properly schooled to keep it un.

3. Consult with your dentist at regular intervals so that he can remedy any decay before it may prove serious.

In conclusion, remember that neglect of the child's teeth means neglecting the gateway to his entire future.

CHILD TRAINING

Junior's Party

Anna Mae Brady

"I'm giving a party for Junior," Mrs. Jordan said to her neighbor. "Won't you come over for the program?"

"The program?"

"Well, I've asked each child to do some little stunt—sing, dance, recite or play the piano. I couldn't stand the usual games. I'm too nervous."

The neighbor, having healthy, lively children of her own, did drop in, for she was interested to see the result of substituting formality for natural play.

The children were seated in little chairs as if they were in kindergarten, but their attitude was decidedly different. They wriggled and twisted, or they sat tense and uncomfortable.

"Mother, please may we have a relay race?" begged Junior.

"No, Junior, we are going to have the program."

"After that, Mother?"

"No, I told you we would have no running games."

"Mrs. Jordan, may we play Hurdy Gurdy?" asked a little guest. "That isn't running."

"Mercy, no, John. Someone might get hurt."

"We don't get hurt at school."

"Well, you might here. I can't take the responsibility."

The neighbor noticed that each child was interested inly in his part of the program. When the others did their stunts he was indifferent and sometimes he was plainly bored. But all were well behaved. No one moved from his chair. It was so quiet a little girl went to sleep.

"Are we going to have ice cream?" asked an inquisitive guest as they sat down to the table for refreshments.

"Yes," Mrs. Jordan told them, "and the child who does not talk gets a second helping."

Mrs. Jordan beamed with satisfaction at the result of her bribe. "Notice how quiet they are," she whispered to her neighbor. "Why, at Jackie's party they all talked at once."

The hush lasted until the children had said their formal goodbyes and departed. Even then, Junior sat quiet in his chair, seemingly uninterested in his gifts. The neighbor stopped to chat with him, for she saw what his mother did not—saw that Junior considered his party a flat failure. Something had gone wrong, and he knew what it was.

It almost seemed to the neighbor as it Mrs. Jordan had planned this party with the idea of saving her furniture rugs and nerves instead of giving pleasure to her little son and his friends.

It is one thing to restrain children from unsocial conduct and quite another to repress their natural inclinations. It is not necessary that children should shout or be rough in order for them to have a good time, but to repress normal activity and desire is bound to dim their pleasure and, if continued, to bring disastrous results.

INJURED FINGER WHILE CRANKING HIS MACHINE

Lawrence Bernier of New Britain received a bad laceration on the third finger of his right hand Sunday evening while cranking his automobile in his city. He was taken to the W. W. Backus hospital in the ambulance and after the injured finger was attended by Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve he was discharged.

ARTHUR MILLARD DESCRIBES N. LONDON REPEATER STATION

The Telephone Bulletin for March has an interesting article by Arthur M. Millard, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Millard, of New London, former Norwich residents. Arthur M. Millard is now transmission engineer in the New Haven office of the S. N. E. Telephone company and writes clearly and informingly on "Our Repeater Stations." In particular he takes up the station at New London, the fourth main point of the S. N. E. Telephone company in Connecticut. The company is now renting from the long lines department of the A. T. & T. company repeaters for certain of its toll circuits at their stations in the telephone buildings in Stamford, New Haven and Hartford exchange buildings. One repeater station for the Bell system at each point is the economical solution, Mr. Millard declares.

He writes: Up to the present time, telephone repeaters or vacuum tube amplifiers at the above points along their Washington, D. C.-Boston underground cable route (commonly referred to as the subway) have been sufficient for providing commercial transmission on our longer toll circuits.

Repeater stations on open wire circuits are only required every two or three hundred miles. For this reason we do not require them on the all-open wire circuits within Connecticut. But since cables are more fatiguing to the voice currents which prance back and forth through these tiny highways of copper, it is necessary to locate them about every 50 miles when the open wire is superseded or supplemented by cable.

The latter condition will prevail early this next summer when the New Haven-New London "A" cable will be completed. This explains why the job of pushing building and repeater equipment is keeping step with the construction people who are pushing the outside plant work on this backbone route. This equipment will be required before the cable can be used as planned.

S. N. E. T. circuits from Bridgeport, Waterbury and New Haven to New London, Norwich and Westerly will be routed permanently through this cable. These toll links can, of course, be used in connections across the southern part of the state. In addition, we plan to route temporarily the Hartford-Saybrook and Hartford-New London "via" circuits through the New Haven repeater station and thus cable to postpone toll cable and open wire work between Hartford and Saybrook and toll cable between New London and Willimantic respectively. When this latter cable and the New Haven-New London "B" cable have been placed in 1931, a relief route from New Haven to Willimantic and Danielson, through the New London repeater station, will be provided to augment the facilities in the railway route via the Hartford repeater station.

The long lines department will use this New London station to provide their long-haul circuits from New York to New London and points north and east. The initial installation in New London will be 34 two-wire and 30 four-wire repeaters with ultimate requirements of one thousand for both companies.

Mr. Millard's story is illustrated in a very helpful manner.

The Danish minister of justice has ordered that the police must not become members of trade unions, as it is claimed these are of a semi-political nature and consequently would interfere with the non-political character of the police, which, however, has its own organization, according to the American-Scandinavian Review.

FOX HILL HOUSE DESTROYED BY FLAMES THIS MORNING

A story and a half frame dwelling, the old Sholes homestead, owned by John Vars and occupied by Edward Mondou, on Palmer street extension was destroyed by fire early this (Monday) morning. Most of the furniture in the house was saved by Mr. Mondou with the assistance of neighbors. The damage is estimated at $3,000. The fire started around the chimney in the kitchen on the lower floor and within a short time the building was a mass of flames.

The fire department was notified about 1.30 o'clock and Squad A and Acting Deputy Chief D. J. Brennan responded, but as there was no available water supply nothing could be done to save the building. The firemen stood by with pails of water in case burning embers started the grass on fire. Mr. Mondou said that the fire started in the chimney and that there was a fire in the stove during the day. The blaze was evidently caused from a defective chimney. Mr. Mondou has lived there for the past three years.

HEARINGS TUESDAY ON TWO NORWICH BILLS

Before the legislative committee on cities and boroughs, hearings on two Norwich bills will be held Tuesday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock in room 62, fourth floor of the capitol at Hartford. The bills on which the hearings will be held are: An act concerning the revision and codification of the charter of the city of Norwich and an act amending an act authorizing the city of Norwich and the town of Norwich to create zoning districts.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Gustave Schwetner.

Mrs. Catherine Taft Schwetner, 69, widow of Gustave Schwetner, and mother of Acting Chief Henry R. Taft of the Norwich fire department, died at 10.35 o'clock Sunday morning at her home, No. 20 Hamilton avenue, following an illness of four months. She was the daughter of Henry Dearing, well known Bath street business man, and Anna Catherine Rahn Dearing and was born in Jewett City, July 23, 1859, and came to Norwich as a young girl. For a time Mrs. Schwetner was a resident of Bridgeport. She was twice married.

Forty years ago in Danielson she was united in marriage with Orlando Taft, who died in that place in 1886. Five years later she was married to Gustave Schwetner in this city. She attended the First Lutheran church. Surviving Mrs. Schwetner are a son, Henry R. Taft, a daughter, Mrs. Marshall Hicks, and a half sister, Miss Mary Dering, all of Norwich. She also leaves two grandchildren, Anna and Helen Taft and several nieces and nephews. Mrs. Schwetner was a woman of true Christian character and was well and favorably known in the community, where she will be greatly missed. Her many friends extend heartfelt sympathy to the surviving members of the family in their bereavement.

Mrs. John Whalen

Mrs. Mary Whalen, widow of John Whalen, died at 9 o'clock Sunday evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Bugbee, of No. 531 West Main street. She was born in Ireland and lived in Norwich for the past three years, coming here from Englewood, R. I. Mrs. Whalen is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Arthur Bugbee and Miss Annie Whalen of Norwich, and Mrs. William McTigue of Buffalo, and a son, Thomas Whalen of Buffalo. She was a devout member of St. Patrick's church. Mrs. Whalen leaves a wide circle of friends who were deeply grieved to learn of her death.

Mrs. John M. Bray.

After a lingering illness, during which she was tenderly cared for by her sisters, Mrs. Julia Lynch Bray, widow of John M. Bray, who was for years a member of the local police force, died Sunday morning about 5 o'clock at her home, No. 25 Sturtevant street, Norwich Town. Mrs. Bray was born in Norwich and was the daughter of Michael and Mary Fenton Lynch. She was a member of the Sacred Heart parish.

Surviving are the following sisters and brothers, Mrs. Jeremiah Healy, Miss Nellie Lynch, Miss Elizabeth Lynch, John, Patrick, Jeremiah and James Lynch and several nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Bray was well known to many Norwich people, by whom she was highly respected, and who extend heartfelt sympathy to the surviving members of the family.

Willard A. Church.

Willard A. Church, for many years connected with the grocery business in Norwich, died Saturday afternoon at 3.20 o'clock at the W. W. Backus hospital. He was born in Preston, March 15, 1873, the son of William A., and Hannah A. Church. He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. James N. Bussey of Hartford, a son, Frederick E. Church of Boston and three grand children, Lois and Wilfred Bussey and Doris Church. There is also a sister, Mrs. Anna Smith of Poquetanuck.

John Welch.

John Welch, 89 civil war veteran and a native of Danielson, died Thursday at his home in Brighton, Mass. Mr. Welch, with his father and brother joined the Fifth Connecticut Regiment and returned from the war alone, his father and brother falling in action. He went to Boston directly afterwards and until 20 years ago was a buyer in a Boston department store. He married Miss Ann Kelly and had nine children, of whom a son, Joseph C. Welch of New York, and three daughters, the Misses Agnes, Grace and Mary Welch of Brighton, survive.

The March Telephone Bulletin has the item: Norwich has a newly organized bowling team and we are all ready to take Willimantic over the ropes after which we hope to meet New London. Our hand-picked team includes Freeman, Driscoll, Holden, Bakanowsky, and Connors.

GAVE VIOLIN AND PIANO RECITAL HERE

A violin and piano recital given by the junior and intermediate pupils of the Drago musical studios of Hartford and Norwich, assisted by an ensemble of advanced students and faculty, was held at the music rooms of the Hanover-Curland Co., Sunday afternoon. About 150 pupils and their relatives attended the recital. Dr. Frank Drago was in charge and was assisted by Miss Helen Frances Drago.

Before the beginning of the recital Max Hanover was called upon for a few introductory remarks. Mr. Hanover spoke about the interest in musical education in Norwich and in his remarks he said: "In our great country of opportunity we are enjoying the fruits of our labor and industry, and in our advanced and civilized life we have come to a realization that a knowledge of music is one of the cherished values in life, bringing happiness to its possessor and joy to his or her friends and relatives. You can verify this statement whenever one who is a master of the piano or other musical instrument is present among a gathering of friends. You can observe how they lionize the possessor of the magic charm of musical performance for his or her ability of bringing entertainment and enjoyment to the entire party.

Music speaks a language understood by all people, bringing a soul-stirring thrill to all and making for the refinement of the sensibilities and for the nobler expressions of the human soul."

The recital began at 3.30 p. m. and the program was as follows:

The recital is one of a series held in Norwich in the interest of music lovers and of parents interested in the musical education of their children. The next recital will be held at Slater Hall in the near future.

HOLLYWOOD ACTRESS THRILLS CENTRAL BAPTIST CONG.

In an impressive dramatization of The Master, Miss Rosamonde Joyzelle, Hollywood actress, thrilled a near capacity congregation Sunday evening at the Central Baptist church. Miss Joyzelle impersonated 16 Biblical characters winning undisputed praise in her presentation of an entirely new form of dramatic art production. These episodes, as interpreted by Miss Joyzelle, are an innovation in the portrayal of Bible stories. She is a pioneer in the theatre-church movement and in her productions combines the art of the theatre with the sacredness of the church. Miss Joyzelle's programme was as follows:

The Organ, Fughetta, Pache; prologue, Miss Joyzelle; service of worship; choir, Fairest Lord Jesus, Matthews;

Scene one—First episode, By the Sea of Galilee; Healing the woman who touched the hem of His garment. Second episode, The Bethany Home of Mary and Martha. The Raising of Lazarus.

Scene two—First episode, Bethany street scene. Second episode, In the Shadow o fthe Cross.

The characters portrayed by Miss Joyzelle, follow:

First Pharisee, Unbelief; Second Pharisee, Suspicion; John the beloved, Devotion; Peter, Strength; James, Discretion; Jairus, Despair of Pride; Woman who was healed, Faith; Friends of Jairus, Fear; the organ, March of Priests; The Master; First Bethany Maid, Compassion; Second Bethany Maid, Cheer; Martha, sister of Lazarus, Grief; Mary of Bethany, Understanding; Friend of Lazarus, Obedience; A Young Shepherd, Curiosity; Gearfig Maiden, Jealousy; Judas, Ambition.

The lighting effects were beautiful. Joseph C. Adams operated the spotlight and Miss Louise Fuller rendered the difficult organ accompaniments. The Palace theatre kindly provided the spotlight, Manager Unger and the theatre moving picture operator supervising the installation of the light.

Speaking of her chosen career, Miss Joyzelle said, following the service:

There are 44 characters in my company—and I am the company. I change from one character to another, making the necessary changes in costume, without leaving the stage. To accomplish this, I attire myself in a base costume, and effect my changes merely through the shifting of my veils.

Miss Joyzelle was born in England and with her parents, came to the United States when a child of six. Southern California beckoned and there the family settled. Possessed of a striking brunette beauty, Miss Joyzelle attracted the attention of the famous actor, Frederick Ward, and was asked to take part in his California mission play. She also was selected to play the role of The Madonna in "The Life of Christ." Two years ago, Miss Joyzelle took up the portrayal of Biblical stories and, as she said Sunday evening, intends to make it her life work. She has no manager, works through no booking offices and travels over no circuits. "My art is so new that I could not trust its explanation to a manager—I must handle those details myself."

The committee, Mrs. Rollin C. Jones, chairman, Mrs. Witter Kinney Tingley co-chairman, Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr., Mrs. Charles V. James, Mr. Willis Phipps Austin, Mrs. Bruce Falconer Rogers, Mrs. John Dixon Hall, Mrs. Harry E. Prentice and Mrs. Wallace S. Ellis has completed arrangements for W. W. Backus Hospital week.

Mrs. Charlotte Fuller Eastman, Miss Margaret Fuller, Miss Louise Fuller and Mrs. Robert Bolsson of Norwich, with Mrs. Robert Williams of New London were members of an informal party at tea at Lighthouse Inn at the week end.

CHAMBER CAMPAIGN WORKERS IN FINAL CLEANUP EFFORT TODAY

Workers in the Norwich chamber of commerce campaign will meet at 9 o'clock this (Monday) morning in the chamber rooms, at the call of Frank R. Murdy, commanding ace of the teams, to revamp the work for the clean-up which will be staged today and tomorrow. The total is now well past the $14,000 mark and it is expected that the $20,000 goal will be reached by Tuesday night. Mr. Murdy and Dr. Huth B. Campbell, general chairman, have issued a call for every worker to be at the chamber headquarters this morning at nine o'clock. The material to work on includes old members who have not yet been reported on, business houses with headquarters in other cities, additional prospects, and several call-backs.

The activities committee, of which F. Russell Smith is chairman will meet at a 12.15 noon luncheon with the board of directors in the chamber in the Waureagan hotel, to lay plans for finishing up the work in that division. This committee has several large corporations to hear from in the next two days.

The activities fund committee and all teams will meet at a 6.15 dinner at the Waureagan Tuesday night to make their reports on the clean-up. The office force worked all day Saturday and late Saturday night making preparations for the final drive.

So far one division and three teams have reached their quotas. Division 1, commanded by Ace John P. Lyston, has secured 105 per cent. of its quota, team No. 11, Max Hanover, pilot, has signed up 189 per cent. of its quota, team No. 23, Wm. J. Fitzgerald, pilot, has secured 157 per cent. of its quota, and team No. 41, B. H. Palmer pilot, 105 per cent. of its quota. Seven other teams—31, pilot, Henry D. Johnson, 14, pilot, Earl Taggart, 24, pilot, John B. Caron 21, pilot, William A. Pitcher, 34, pilot, C. E. Smith, 22, pilot, Francis T. Diggins, 42, pilot, John J. Morley, are within striking distance of their assigned quotas.

The following telegram was received at headquarters Saturday night from the Providence, R. I., chamber of commerce, which is staging a similar drive to increase its membership and budget:

"May great success be yours in putting over your campaign. We need strong chambers as centers of thought and action to keep our communities in step with modern civic needs."

Dr. Campbell and Mr. Murdy have mailed the following letter to the business and professional interests of Norwich and community:

"You are aware of the effort that is now being made to increase the membership and income of the Norwich chamber of commerce. We do not have to remind you that this organization is doing a very necessary work in the community which is either directly or indirectly benefiting every business and professional man located here. Neither do we have to explain to you that it costs money to carry on its activities and that these funds must come from the business and professional interests of the community.

"As has been stated before in this campaign this is not a movement in the interests of the chamber of commerce, but in the interests of the city and people of Norwich."

Y SENIORS LOSE TIGHT BATTLE TO SAYBROOK TOWN TEAM, 37 TO 35

The Y Seniors lost a heart-breaking 37 to 36 basketball game to the Saybrook Town team Saturday night at the Y gym before a small crowd. The local boys were beaten in the last ten seconds of play by a beautiful shot from Trask.

The Seniors appeared to be on their way to their tenth victory with only a few minutes to play but probably the Yers were just a bit too confident in these last moments as they had shown a tendency to be through most of the game for scarcely before you knew it, the visitors flashed from behind, on the short end of a 36-31 score to win. There was just time for a tap-off and short scrimmage before the game ended after Trask's basket.

It was a free-scoring affair and one of the best games of the season. Capt. Roland Harris, Jim Kelly and Aubrey Brown were the stars for the Seniors while Trask, inserted after Connors twisted an ankle, and Cone at center helped the visitors along greatly. Connors also played very good before being forced to the sidelines. Trask and Connors furnished the spectacular shots of the evening.

The Y was headed only once or twice before the final and fatal rally of the visitors. The locals held the upper hand just as they pleased, although Saybrook was a strong threat. After Connors was put out, it looked like nothing but a Norwich victory but his substitute, the coach of the team, gave just as classy an exhibition and was mainly responsible for the Y team's ninth victory in 18 starts. Brown, of the Y was put out of the game in the third quarter on personal fouls.

The Y had a 24 to 19 lead at the half and a 34 to 27 one at the end of the third quarter. They maintained this margin for so long into the last quarter that local fans began to feel easier, but alas, the sudden end.

In the preliminary the Baltic Methodist church team bested the Gamma club, 23 to 19, in a stirring clash. Economous of the losers was the star, chipping in with several brilliant shots and showing a strong floor game.

NURMI IS RESTORED TO GOOD STANDING

NEW YORK, March 10—(AP)—Paavo Nurmi, Finland's phantom of the tracks, is back again in the official fold of the amateur athletic union. After being barred from running for two weeks because his failure to appear at the National championship meet, Feb. 23, he was reinstated to good standing yesterday by the registration committee of the Metropolitan association of the A. A. U.

The flying Finn's reinstatement came almost as quickly as his suspension, which was imposed at an impromptu meeting of the committee on the floor of Madison Square Garden. A special meeting late yesterday afternoon, which was attended by only three members, put Nurmi back in good standing.

Although few explanations were given as to the reason for Nurmi's sudden reinstatement, J. J. Diegnan, chairman of the committee said that Nurmi's explanations for his failure to run had been investigated and that when the "information they sought" was received yesterday, the reinstatement was made as a matter of course. The doctors' certificates affirming the Finn's illness and "other things," the nature of which were not explained, were the subjects of the investigation.

Nurmi had offered plenty of good reasons for his non appearance at the championships, saying that he had contracted a severe cold in Detroit a few days before and had sent letters to A. A. U. headquarters withdrawing from the meet. The letters were not received until after he had been put under the bank.

Nurmi celebrated the lifting of the suspension by appearing with his countryman, Ove Anderson, at the seventh regiment games last night and asking permission to run in the two mile team race, which they subsequently won. Only a few days before, when Nurmi appeared at the meeting held to consider the charges made by Ray Barbuti and asked to have his case taken up, the seventh regiment officials also had asked to have him reinstated in time to run in their meet.

Paavo's two weeks of inaction evidently had done him no harm for he was able in his half of the novel race, in which the members of the teams alternated on each lap, to make up the ground lost by Anderson, who did not get the hang of taking the baton, and beat out Venzke and Staggenborg of the Swedish-American A. C., in the good time of 8 minutes, 17 seconds.

ACADEMY AND Y SENIORS PLAY ON THURSDAY

Norwich's basketball title series will be resumed Thursday evening at the Y gym when the Academy and Y Seniors clash in the second game of their three game series.

The Seniors won the first game a week ago last Saturday after a stern struggle and another stiff battle is expected Thursday evening. If a third game is needed, it will be played on Saturday.

The Academy is the present titleholder as the result of victories over the C. F. C. and Taftville Crescents last season.

This series will probably close the basketball season in Norwich.

BIKE RIDERS SPLIT PURSE OF $75,000

NEW YORK, March 10—(AP)—Approximately $75,000 in guarantees, bonuses and prize money was distributed today among riders in Madison Square Garden's 46th international six day bicycle race which came to an end last night.

Franco Georgetti and Gerard Debaets, who won the 46th grind by the overwhelming margin of five laps, split about $10,000 between them.

Premiums put up by spectators during the week amounted to $2,980. The Georgetti-Debaets and Cognot-Blanchonet teams each got $600 of this total.

SCHMELING AND PAULINO MATCHED FOR JUNE 27

NEW YORK, March 10—(AP)—If all goes well, the next big heavyweight battle will take place at the Yankee Stadium June 27 with Max Schmeling of Germany in one corner and Paulino Uzcudun, Spanish woodchopper, in the other.

Tom McArdle, matchmaker at Madison Square Garden, announced tentative plans for the fight today. No contracts have been signed nor has the Garden definitely committed itself to the bout. The directing heads of the corporation may attend to that at a meeting scheduled for tomorrow.

There is a big question of whether Schmeling can clear himself of a plethora of managers in time to go through with the match. Herr Max, whose stock took a remarkable jump when he stopped Johnny Risko, now is in Germany. He is convinced that he has too many managers for his own good and he plans to cut down the number in some way even if it means fistic idleness for a year or so.

However if Schmeling signs there seems to be little doubt that the Garden will be able to make the match without difficulty.

Under present plans the winner would be sent against Jack Sharkey in a big outdoor match in September. McArdle, however, is not so sure about that angle. He is waiting to see whether Otto Von Porat, the heavy punching Norwegian, can decisively beat Tom Heeney at Chicago on Tuesday night. If Von Porat knocks out "Honest Tom" or beats him decisively he may get a match with the winner of the Schmeling-Paulino battle. The ultimate survivor then would meet Sharkey.

PROFS TO HAVE 18 EXHIBITION GAMES

NEW HAVEN, March 10—(AP)—Gene Martin, newly appointed manager of the New Haven Profs, Eastern baseball league champions, announced today he had arranged 18 spring exhibition games for his team before the season opens.

SCHAAF WINS INDIVIDUAL BASKETBALL SCORING HONORS

NEW YORK, March 10—(AP)—Joey Schaaf, captain of Pennsylvania's Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball league champions, has won the individual scoring crown for the second successive year.

Joey closed his season against Princeton last night, scoring seven points to bring his total for the league season to 114. Schaaf failed to break his own record of 125 points, he set last year, but he broke the field goal record of 43 set by Orson Kinney of Yale in 1917. Schaaf got two field goals against Princeton to set a new mark of 44.

PENN IS CROWNED COLLEGE BASKETBALL CHAMP

NEW YORK, March 10—(AP)—For the second year in succession and the sixth time since the league, as now constituted, was organized in 1911, the University of Pennsylvania has won the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball league championship.

The Quakers, who won the title last year only after a play-off with Princeton, successfully defended their laurels during the regular playing season this time but it took a final game victory over Princeton at Philadelphia last night to turn the trick.

The standing, to date, follows:

Team	W.	L.	Pts.	O.P.
Pennsylvania	8	2	278	247
Dartmouth	7	3	299	277
Columbia	5	4	271	276
Cornell	4	5	248	225
Yale	4	6	257	278
Princeton	1	9	219	275

SCRIBNER INCREASES HIS LEAD OVER MORT LINDSEY

NEW YORK, March 10—(AP)—Joe Scribner, of Detroit, increased his lead over Mort Lindsey, of Stamford, Conn., in the fourth block today of their 60-game bowling match for the world's match championship.

The first thirty games, rolled in Detroit, found Scribner with a lead of 332 pins. In their ten-game block this afternoon, Scribner rolled 1945 to Lindsey's 1926, giving the Detroit star a total lead of 381 pins. The totals for 40 games were, Scribner 8719, Lindsey 8338.

Game scores of today's block follow:

Scribner: 181, 202, 181, 191, 180, 179, 214, 229, 159; total, 1945.

Lindsey: 191, 187, 189, 231, 212, 184, 197, 182, 170, 183; total, 1926.

Bernasconi Beats Blouet

MILAN, March 10—(AP)—Domenico Bernasconi, of Milan, featherweight champion of Europe, defeated Petit Blouet of Liege, the Belgian titleholder, on points in a 15 round match here today.

A Challenge

The Baltic Independents challenge the Montville A. C. for a game to be played in Baltic Friday, March 15. Call 2162 or answer through The Bulletin before Wednesday.

UNDEFEATED SWIMMING TEAMS TO MEET THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, March 10—(AP)—The unbeaten swimming teams of Yale and Rutgers will clash for the intercollegiate championship Friday night at New Haven in the final week of tank competition in the 1929 Intercollegiate Swimming association campaign. Four other meets this week will bring the dual-meet season to a close, while the annual individual championships will be held at Princeton on March 22 and 23.

Both the Elis and the Rutgers swimmers have seven consecutive victories to their credit over all of the other members of the league. On the basis of these performances, the meet Friday should produce some of the best exhibitions of the season. Yale is given a slight edge to vanquish the Rutgers mermen.

Navy's undefeated water polo team will have to beat Syracuse, Princeton and Dartmouth this week in order to win the championship which seems assured, since the three Middle opponents have not much of a chance to upset the strong Annapolis sextet. Yale's water polo team maintained its position in second place by trouncing Princeton yesterday by 54 to 9.

Two Dartmouth representatives have taken the topmost places in the individual swimming and water polo scoring races. Captain Johnny Bryant of Dartmouth forged ahead of Win Mergott of Syracuse and has 74 points, garnered in seven meets, while the Syracuse star was held in the Rutgers meet and now has 68 points. George Kojac of Rutgers stayed with these two by scoring 21 points to give him 65 points gathered in six meets.

NATIONAL BASKETBALL TOURNEY STARTS TODAY

KANSAS CITY, March 10—(AP)—Forty-six basketball teams, representative of the best cage talent in the nation, will begin play for the national title here tomorrow morning. A champion will be crowned Saturday night.

The entry list, said by Dr. Joseph A. Reilly, tournament director, to be the most formidable since the national court classic first was staged here in 1924, shows teams from all sections of the country although the mid-west has the most teams entered.

Defending the title won last year will be the Cooks of Kansas City. They will play the first night, meeting the Trulocks of Northboro, Iowa.

The Leland Athletic club of Springfield, Mass., the lone representative of the east, drew a bye in the first round.

No representative of the Big Six, Missouri Valley or Big Ten will enter, the conference refusing permission for competition in the national classic.

BIG TEN BASKETBALL LEAGUE ENDS IN TIE

CHICAGO, March 10—(AP)—For the sixth time since 1918, the annual struggle for the Big Ten basketball championship has resulted in a tie. This time, Michigan and Wisconsin ended their campaigns deadlocked for the title.

Each team won ten games and lost two, while runner-up honors fell to Purdue, co-champions in 1928 with Indiana. The Boiler-Makers won nine and lost three. Northwestern was next with seven victories and five losses, while Ohio State and Illinois tied for fifth and sixth with a .500 percentage.

Wisconsin, which lost its only games to Michigan during the race, climbed into a tie for the championship last night by defeating Chicago, 19 to 15, at Madison, in the solo curtain lowering event of the conference campaign. Murphy of Purdue was highest scorer for the season with 145 points while McCracken of Indiana was second with 100.

THE BABE WINS 12-MILE YACHT RACE AT SAN PEDRO

SAN PEDRO, Cal., March 10—(AP)—The Babe, owned by Owen Churchill, of the California Yacht club, Wilmington, Cal., was sailed to victory here today in the second race of a series of five for the national championship of the eight meter class and the King of Spain trophy.

The Babe led the Marin, skippered by Ralph Ellis, of New York, across the line in the 12-mile race. The Marin won the first race yesterday.

C. K. Hunsaker's Pirate of the California Yacht club, captured the second race of the national "R" class competition. Yesterday's race was won by the Angela of San Diego, Cal. The Nutibel, with Samuel Dauchy at the helm and sailing for the Chicago Yacht club, was second today, while the Alert IV, skippered and owned by Charles Wiman, of the Corinthian Yacht club of Marblehead, Mass., was third.

ERRORS LOSE CLOSE GAME FOR DALLAS

DALLAS, Texas, March 10—(AP)—Two wild throws by nervous youngsters in the infield cost the Dallas Steers a run and gave the Chicago White Sox a 6 to 5 victory in 11 innings here today. It marked the Sox third straight win.

Twice the Steers came from behind to tie the count and once they forged ahead, but in the end they threw the game away. Fifteen hundred fans braved a chilly wind to see the hard-fought game. Score by innings:

HENNESSEY AND MRS. STENZ FLA. MIXED DOUBLES CHAMPS

WEST PALM BEACH, March 10—(AP)—John Hennessey, Indianapolis, and Mrs. G. F. Stenz, New York, won the Florida mixed doubles championship today by defeating Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y., and Miss Genevieve Fox, Southampton, L. I., 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 at the Palm Beach Tennis club.

Both teams of finalists entered the championship round with victories in the morning, the champions winning from John S. Millen, Forest Hills, L. I., and Miss Virginia Hillardy, Philadelphia, 6-2, 6-3. Hunter and Miss Fox defeated Fritz Mercer, Bethlehem, Pa., and Miss Dorothy Andrus, New York, 5-7, 6-1, 6-3.

FLETCHER POST TO LAUNCH MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN FRIDAY

A membership committee has been organized by the Robert O. Fletcher Post No. 4, which will start a drive for members on March 15th continuing the campaign up to April 6th when it is hoped that the local post will have doubled its present membership. By an increased membership much more can be done along the lines prescribed for the post and in justice to themselves and those dependent on them every ex-service man in the city should get this time join says a statement issued by the officers of Fletcher post. Those eligible to membership are men and women who served honorably under military oath in any branch of the service combatant or otherwise, of the army navy, or marine corps, for any length of time between April 6th, 1917 and November 11th, 1918; men and women who served in the naval, military, or air forces of any nation associated with the United States in the war, provided that at the time of their entry into this service they were American citizens and that they have resumed their American citizenship by the time they apply for membership in the Legion.

Organized on March 7th, 1919 at a caucus held in Paris, The American Legion is taking particular note at this time of its tenth anniversary. Throughout the country it is placing its record of ten years service to God and country before the people of the nation and to those ex-service men who have not as yet joined its ranks. It is a wonderful record—a record that will stand the test of the closest scrutiny. Going into the year 1929 with the largest membership in its history, close to a million members, it hopes that this year will bring many more of the eligibles into its ranks and that when the national convention is held at Louisville, Kentucky on September 30th, the records will show a healthy increase in membership over the year of 1928.

The idea behind the formation of the American Legion was to provide a vehicle or agency through which the inherent good that is in every man might be used to the advantage of the country in time of peace as well as in time of war.

The American Legion has been of inestimable value to its disabled comrades and their children in addition to giving service to the various communities and assisting in national legislation. It has performed services that are of value to the country as a whole. It has hewed close to the line in making the country a better place to live.

It represents a cross section of American life and has within its membership men and women from all walks of life. It is non-political and non-sectarian. It has posts in over 11,000 cities and hamlets. It is more than a national organization, in fact it is an international organization. Within the United States there are 48 state departments and the department of the District of Columbia, in addition there are departments with at least a post in practically every foreign nation. In all there are 57 departments of the American Legion. Its auxiliary consist of practically 3,000 units with a total membership of approximately seven thousand women who are the wives, mothers, daughters and sisters of Legionnaires. Every American Legion member is a stockholder in a sound financial organization that is conducted along the most approved business lines.

The national organization has deposited in the banks of Indianapolis assets worth over a million and a half dollars. Employed in the national organization headquarters are over 75 persons who are either members of the Legion or its auxiliary.

Through its numerous posts the Legion is working in two directions to combat the forces which would try a quick and dangerous cureall for national ills, real and imaginary. It is spreading that principle of American progress, which calls for the correction of unsatisfactory conditions by the ballot instead of force. It is working to remove the causes of unrest, such an unemployment under-privileged childhood and illiteracy, which are giving the sower of unsound creeds their most fertile soil.

"The men of the American Legion will be summoned with confidence to deal with the problems of today and the possible crisis of the future" predicted the late President Harding at the Omaha convention, a short time before his death. Already the men of the American Legion have been summoned to deal with the greatest problems facing America's present and future. The two most vital problems with which the Legion has grappled are the menace of destructive forces within the nation and the establishment of secure external peace.

The work of the organization along the lines of Americanism, rehabilitation, legislation and emergency is each a story in itself, possibly stories not as well known by the general public as they should be but a story that every Legionnaire knows and in the knowing takes a justful pride in the fact of his being a member of such an organization.

March 15th has been designated by national headquarters as the date for the celebration of its tenth birthday and in every city and hamlet a determined effort is to be made to increase the membership of the organization.

TWO MEETINGS FOR POULTRYMEN IN COUNTY

The New London County Farm and Home bureau has arranged two poultry meetings for poultrymen of the county. The first meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock, in the North Stonington Grange hall at North Stonington. The second meeting is to be held at Fireman's hall in Jordan Village, Waterford, on Wednesday evening, March 13, at 8 o'clock.

The meeting is open to the public and poultrymen are urged to attend, particularly those interested in brooding chicks, as most of the discussions will be on that subject.

Prof. R. E. Jones, extension poultry specialist at Connecticut Agricultural college, will give an illustrated talk on "Some of the Advantages to be Gained by the Grow Healthy Chick Program." Nearly all New London county poultrymen know Professor Jones and what he will have to say will be of great value to those brooding chicks in either small or large numbers.

Prof. F. L. Hannaford, who formerly was located in New Hampshire, but now with the Worthmore Grain Co., will give an illustrated talk on "Coccidiosis" which is one of the worst enemies of the poultrymen.

Professor Hannaford has done considerable investigation on this disease and has a good knowledge of it. He will show the necessity of sanitation in brooding chicks. Professor Hannaford was scheduled in Waterford in January but because of illness he could not attend.

E. G. Mills, rodent control specialist for New England, will show motion pictures on brooding chicks which will be of interest to many poultrymen. Mr. Mills and County Agent Clark will also give short talks.

NORTH STONINGTON CHURCH PROPERTY GREATLY IMPROVED

The North Stonington Congregational church parish has for about four years been improving its property. The parsonage has been modernized in every detail, and the outside repaired and reshingled. The steeple and roof of the church have been put in perfect condition; the roof being covered with the finest grade of asbestos shingles. The fine Tiffany windows have been straightened and re-cemented, and the beautiful interior painted and decorated by an ecclesiastical decorating firm of Providence, R. I.

Mrs Henry M. Pendleton, of North Stonington, completed the work by presenting the church with very beautiful and harmonious lighting fixtures in memory of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Miner.

The improvements of these last four years came to a climax in a very fitting and devout re-dedication service recently. Rev. S. M. Cathcart, Westerly, R. I., preached the sermon, and Dr. J. Beveridge Lee, New London, led the large congregation in the dedicatory prayer. Rev. G. F. Bailey and Rev. C. E. Reeves, both of Norwich Town, and Rev. F. S. Robbins, Preston City, assisted in the service. Willard Kingwin, Mystic, was the soloist, and C. W. Beckwith, Old Mystic, was at the organ.

The entire cost of the interior work was defrayed by Arnold G. Dana, New Haven. Mr. Dana is of the Fish-Silliman line, and the gift was made in memory of his mother and her sister, and a sister-in-law, who were daughters of Prof. Benjamin Silliman of Yale college, and great-grand-daughters of the Rev. Joseph Fish, who was pastor of this church from 1732 to 1781. They are: Maria Trumbull, (Mrs. John R.) Church, 1810-1880); Keith Wadsworth, (Mrs. Oliver P. Hubbard, 1812-1887); Henrietta Frances, (Mrs. James Dwight Dana, 1828-1907); Julia, (Mrs. Edward W. Gibson, 1823-1892); Susan Forbes, daughter-in-law, (Mrs. Benjamin Silliman, Jr., 1819-1873).

BOONVILLE, N. Y., BANS PREVENTABLE STATICS

UTICA, N. Y.—(AP)—Boonville, a village 20 miles north of this city, has become radio conscious.

The village board, a few days ago, adopted an ordinance prohibiting the use within the village limits of any electrical device liable to cause preventable interference with radio reception. The ordinance particularly listed such devices as fishing electric signs not equipped with condensers, and electric pianos.

Violet ray and X-ray machines may not be used between 6 and 10 o'clock at night, "except in emergencies."

A fine not exceeding $100 is provided as a penalty for violation of the ordinance.

Bird Fight Record.

NATAL, South Africa—(AP)—The longest flight ever recorded for a banded bird has been made by an Arctic tern, banded at Turnevik Bay, Labrador, in 1928, and found dead on the of Port Shepstone.

TEGUCIGALPA GETS AN AIRPORT

An airport may be built at Tegucigalpa, Honduras, before its inhabitants hear the whistle of a railroad engine. It is rumored that the Honduran capital will be made a base on an air route between the United States and Central American republics.

"Tegucigalpa, which lies in the hills of Honduras, due south of Chicago, is one of those cities which, though somewhat isolated, keeps travel writers revising their notes," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarteers of the National Geographic society.

"Slightly more than a decade ago a correspondent of the society, describing his visit to Tegucigalpa, wrote, 'From Amapala (a port on the Pacific coast of Honduras) a launch is taken to San Lorenzo, where necessary mules should be arranged for in advance since they have to come from a town some miles away. If a light pack is all the traveler has, it can be taken with him on a mule; otherwise it is better and cheaper to send heavy baggage forward by oxcart. Tegucigalpa should be reached in three days.'

"While the same route now is taken by the traveler who approaches it from the Pacific coast, the three days' trip has been cut to but a few hours. Three hours after boarding a boat at Amapala, the traveler arrives at San Lorenzo and is comfortably seated in an automobile for the trip over the Honduran hills to the capital, 61 miles inland. The mules and ox carts still plod the highway but truck and automobile traffic is replacing this antiquated mode of transportation.

"Tegucigalpa means 'Silver Hill.' Silver and gold mined in the neighborhood brought the city into the spotlight many times during the past two centuries. Between 1778 and 1820 $200,000,000 worth of these precious metals was produced. Intermittent political trouble threatened the city's growth from time to time, but between disturbances it prospered.

"Today Tegucigalpa has 39,000 inhabitants, who are noted for their hospitality. Commenting on his visit to the Honduran capital during his South American flight, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh wrote: 'For two days I visited with the friendly people of Tegucigalpa and it was with regret that I took the air on Jan. 5.'

"The city, nestling among the fertile Honduras hills, basks in the tropical sun. No railroad yards or ship docks are there to disturb the eardrums of the natives, but the noise of the market place furnishes excitement aplenty. Here the rural folk attempt supersalesmanship by word of mouth and wild gestures, while the city folk, Latins that they are, wait for an opening to drive home a bargain.

"Most of the buildings in the capital are but one story, forming monotonous rows along narrow, cobbled streets. Now and then the streets open into parks but the real beauty spots of the city are to be found in the courtyards which many of the houses surround. A peep into some of them reveals artistically laid out gardens and walks, forming colorful frames for splashing fountains.

"Modern buildings, rising above the old tiled, housetops, are appearing, but the outstanding structure is the Casa Presidencia, the Honduran 'white house.' It is a magnificent stone building of two stories with a fortresslike wall nearly surrounding it.

"While the airplane reached Tegucigalpa before the steam engine, railroads are pushing their way from the Atlantic coast inland toward the city. Nearly one-third of the trip from Puerto Cortes on the Atlantic coast to Tegucigalpa now may be made by railroad which connects with a good highway."

NEW GRANT FOR SOLAR STUDY

Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic society, has announced an additional grant of $10,000 voted by the society's research committee to continue the support of the solar radiation expedition stationed at Mount Brukkoros, South West Africa.

This grant assures another year's work of one of the most unusual scientific expeditions ever sent into the field—an expedition whose members live in a cave-sheltered shack, on a Hottentot reservation, for the purpose which has been popularly described as "taking the daily temperature of a sunbeam."

Went on "Sunshine Search"

The original grant for the expedition of $55,000 was made in 1925 and the first step was to select the best site in the world for setting up an observatory for taking a daily measurement of solar radiation. The leader of the expedition, Dr. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of Smithsonian Institution, went on a "sunshine search," visiting the Atlas mountains of Algaria, the mountains of Egypt and Baluchistan, and finally settled on Mount Brukkaros, in South West Africa, a 5,200-foot elevation, 60 miles from Keetmanshoop.

To this barren, isolated, almost rainless location were shipped instruments which it had taken 20 years or more to devise; these were mounted in part in front of a tunnel some 35 feet deep, excavated in solid rock, so that the delicate apparatus would have nearly constant temperature conditions.

William H. Hoover and Fred A. Greely, two scientists, took over the work of making the daily observations at this lonely post, where the nearest neighbors are Hottentot tribes living very much in the primitive fashion described by Vasco da Gama when he first encountered them, and where the only diversion is an occasional springbock or ostrich hunt.

The South West African government assisted in the construction of the unique laboratory and later erected a telephone line 20 miles long, connecting with the railroad telephone system, by which the expedition can cable its observations to Washington.

In a letter to Dr. Grosvenor setting forth the reasons for applying for an additional grant Dr. Abbot said the prospective value of the observations has increased. He explained:

"About two years ago I discovered an important regular periodicity of 2.15 years in the variation of the sun and subordinate periodicities of 15 months and 11 months, beside the well known periodicity which we discovered some years ago attending the 11-year march of the sunspot cycle.

"The important 2.15 period has also been recognized in the meteorology of Europe for the last century in the yields of crops such as wheat and corn; and lately has been noted in the advance and retreat of glaciers over the past 10,000 years.

"It now seems probable that, with the aid of these periodicities, the principal variation of the sun and the behavior of all that hangs upon it can be predicted for several seasons

SHORT PARAGRAPHS

An innocent man should be paid $25 a day for serving a prison sentence, in the opinion of Benjamin F. Collins. Last October he was sentenced to state prison and served four days before it was discovered that he was the wrong man. The Massachusetts state legislature has been asked to pay him $700 for loss of wages and impairment of health.

Jeff Davis, namesake of a famous American and the smallest and youngest freshman in Washington State college, has achieved a new distinction—he has won a place on the college glee club and will sing soprano in the women's section. Jeff is 17 years of age, five feet one-half inch in height, weighs 104 pounds and is said to have a beautiful soprano voice.

"The world's champion sleeper" is the title claimed for George H. Taggart, Baltimore traveling salesman. He won the title in the wreck of the fast Vicksburg division train near Jackson, Miss. Searchers in the ruins of the wreck in which the Pullman cars were piled up found Taggart several hours later sound asleep and snoring. He had not heard about any wreck, he said.

SOME "PI" FROM THE PRINTERS' SHINDIG

Discovers "Perfect Anesthetic"

UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD, N. Y.

Dr. Miguel Garcia, who has astounded the medical world with his revolutionary discovery of a new anesthetic—the intravenous injection of ethyl alcohol. Some authorities have stated the new discovery 1,000 times superior to chloroform or ether—calling it the "perfect anesthetic." The find is the result of years of work—four years alone were taken to obtain permission to experiment with human beings. He has refused a fortune for the formula, wanting the glory of his work to belong to Mexico, and the actual benefit of it to the whole world.

WEEKLY REVIEW SHOWS AN INCREASE IN INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY LAST WEEK

NEW YORK, March 10 (AP)—A further broadening of industrial activity characterized the first week of business under the new national administration. Unsettled weather retarded trade and crop activity in some sections of the country but retail business generally has received added stimulus from an early Easter this year.

High money rates continue to be the darkest cloud on the business horizon. Time money, commercial paper and bankers' acceptance rates hold firm around the higher levels since the post-war deflation crisis of 1919-20, and a flurry in call money this week sent the rate to 12 per cent for the second time this year. To date business apparently has not been seriously handicapped by the high monetary charges but with the season of expanding commercial and agricultural demands at hand, fears are entertained in many quarters that business will suffer.

Steel output continues between 90 and 95 per cent. of capacity with the price structure firm. There has been a marked increase in railroad buying this year, and consumption by the automotive industry shows steady expansion. Last month's pig iron output, with one exception, was the largest of any February on record.

The demand for copper continues high despite the recent sharp advances in the prices of the red metal. Some uneasiness developed during the week because of the possibility that revolutionary disturbances in Mexico might interfere with shipments from that country.

Following the example of the United States Steel corporation the Anaconda Copper company announced this week that it would retire its funded debt through the issuance of additional common stock.

Some progress is reported to have been made during the week in the movement for a curtailment of crude oil production to relieve the chaotic conditions prevailing in that industry. A bill sponsored by the American Petroleum Institute, has been prepared for submission to the California legislature. If enacted, this would prevent new wells being drilled within 150 feet of the property line, thereby eliminating wasteful effort on the part of small lot owners.

Lateness of the southern cotton crop resulted in a brisk demand for cotton futures which rose to the highest levels since last July. The market for textiles continued active, with print cloth mills doing a record business.

Railroad traffic continues to run above last year's levels. February mail order business fell below January, due to the smaller number of business days, but ran 20 per cent. above February of last year. Chain and department store sales also make favorable comparison with last year.

Southern cigar and cigarette factories are reported to be operating at capacity. The coal trade continues fairly active and a moderate improvement has been reported in the lumber business. Employment generally continues at fairly high levels, with no widespread or serious labor disturbances reported. Profit margins are relatively small in several of the highly competitive lines.

Peter Rabbit's Cousin Jack

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Relations, it is very plain,
Will seldom prove a source of gain.
—Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit was impatient. Yes, sir, he was impatient. Wanderer the Evening Grosbeak, who had come on from the West, had aroused Peter's curiosity. You know, it doesn't take much to arouse that. Peter had asked Wanderer if he had ever seen any of his relatives, and Wanderer said "Yes," he had seen Peter's cousin Jack often. Perhaps you can guess how this awakened Peter's curiosity. So Peter couldn't keep away from the Old Orchard.

At last Peter's opportunity came. Wanderer and Mrs. Wandered were sitting in the old apple tree nearest to the old stone wall, and that was the place of all places that Peter would have chosen. You see, he always feels safe when he is close to the old stone wall. Peter is bashful sometimes, but not when he wants to satisfy his curiosity. So as soon as he discovered Mr. and Mrs. Wanderer, he reminded Wanderer of his promise.

"You said you would tell me about my Cousin Jack," said Peter.

Wanderer looked down and his eyes twinkled. "So I did, so I did, Peter," said he. "Just what is it you want to know about your Cousin Jack?"

"All about him," replied Peter.

Wanderer pretended to be surprised. "You don't mean to tell me that you don't know anything about him?"

Peter nodded. "That's just what I mean," said he. "I have never seen him, so how should I know about him?"

"Hasn't Old Man Coyote told you anything about him?" inquired Wanderer.

Peter grinned. "I don't have much to do with Old Man Coyote," said he. "We merely pass the time of day when he happens to peek into the dear Old Briar-patch. Now about my Cousin Jack—does he look like me?"

"Yes and no," replied Wanderer. "He looks a lot more like your Cousin Jumper the Hare. You see, he really is a Hare, not a Rabbit."

"Has he long legs like Jumper?" demanded Peter.

Wanderer gave a throaty little chuckle. "Of course, you mean the impolite," said he. "His legs are longer than those of Jumper. You think Jumper is pretty good when he is in a hurry, but you ought to see Jack. My, my, my, how that fellow can travel! He can travel as much faster than Jumper as Jumper can travel faster than you. That fellow is built for speed. He has to have speed. If he didn't, he wouldn't live long. You see, he lives right out in the open. If you want to know how fast he can go, ask Old Man Coyote. Old Man Coyote can travel pretty fast himself, but your Cousin Jack can beat him. It's fun to see him go up in the air."

Peter's eyes were opened very wide and he was sitting up with his two long ears standing straight up. "What do you mean by 'going up in the air?'" asked he.

"Just what I said," replied Wanderer. "Every once in a while he jumps way up high to have a look around over the tops of the grasses, to make sure no enemy is near. My, how that fellow can jump! That's where those long hindfeet come in."

"Has he got long ears?" asked Peter.

Once more Wanderer chuckled that throaty little chuckle of his. "Peter," said he, "you don't even know what long ears are. No sir, you don't even know what long ears are. Why, Jack Rabbit's ears make your Cousin Jumper's ears look small. Yes, sir, Jumper's ears look small compared with Jack's. You really ought to see your Cousin Jack."

"I'd like to," said Peter, "but how can I? Does he have a white tail?"

"In some parts of the country he has," replied Wanderer. "He has a white tail just like yours. In other parts of the country he has a black tail. Those with white tails are called White-tailed Jacks. Those with black tails are called Black-tailed Jacks. Any more questions, Peter?"

But just then Bowser the Hound came sniffing along the old stone wall and Peter dodged down between the stones out of sight.

EDWARD BENOIT, NORWICH, SEEKS MISSING SISTER IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 10.—Edward Benoit, 246 Yantic avenue, Norwich Falls, was in New London Saturday night and today seeking to ascertain the whereabouts of his sister, Laura, who is missing from her home and who, it is believed, is in New London. No trace was found of the girl, however. Benoit described his sister as being 15, about five feet three inches in height and weighing about 115. When the girl disappeared from home she had a light coat and black hat trimmed with gold braid. She carries an identification mark on her right cheek. The girl, it was learned, had applied for employment at a Linden street house

NEW POLICE CAR BANGED BY LESTER MARTIN'S AUTO

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 10. — The Ford automobile purchased for the police department a week ago was badly damaged Saturday night when crashed into by an automobile driven by Lester Martin, 24 Keeney lane. Martin was arrested on a charge of reckless driving and will be in the police court Monday. The police car was towed to a garage where repairs are being made and will probably be back in service tomorrow. The auto, which is used by Patrol Officer Clarence Martin was on its way north on Bank street with Acting Sergeant John Courtney in it. As the car was about to pass Howard street, the machine driven by Martin suddenly speeded from the right hand side of the street, across Bank street, in an effort of the driver to enter Howard street before the police car had passed and the crash resulted. The front end of the police car was so badly damaged that the machine had to be towed to the garage.

Saturday night was one of the coldest of the winter for the mercury dropped to 4 above zero. This was registered at 7 o'clock this morning and in a sheltered place. At Quaker Hill at 5 o'clock the mercury showed 2 above.

One of the Connecticut company's large cars was derailed Saturday night, corner of Williams and Main streets, the derailment causing an interruption of traffic about half and hour, for it required that length of time to replace the car on the iron.

WOMAN ON EARLY JOY RIDE REFUSES TO PAY FARE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 10.—Mrs. Mary Burke, colored, was arrested at 2:45 o'clock this morning charged with evasion of taxicab fare and will be in court Monday. The woman furnished a surety on her bond of $35. Mrs. Burke hired a Union cab about 2 o'clock and when she concluded her ride, refused to pay the driver, Louis Ramistella. The latter made complaint to Patrolman George McCaskey and the woman was locked up.

COASTGUARDSMAN IN BRIG FOR ABOUT 10 HOURS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 10.—Lester C. Muller, U. S. Coast Guard, state pier, was arrested in Waterford at 1:45 o'clock this morning charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and driving without a license. He will be in Waterford town court Monday. Muller was driving through Waterford when the course taken by the machine attracted the attention of State Police Officers George Webber and Peter Busch. The officers signalled to Muller to stop and when he did so it was ascertained that he was intoxicated and did not possess a license. He furnished a surety on his bond of $150 after having been a prisoner at police headquarters ten hours.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Henry Clay

The funeral of Mrs. Alice E. Clay, widow of Henry Clay, was held Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock at her former home, 38 Fremont street and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. The body was forwarded to Springfield, Mass., and will be cremated, in compliance with the wishes of Mrs. Clay.

Mrs. John J. Penders

Funeral services for Mrs. Ellen S. Penders, wife of John J. Penders of 11 Mountain avenue, were held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, the high mass of requiem being sung by Rev. Michael Reagan. The bearers were Michael, Harold, Gerald, Thomas and Stephen Shea and Justin McCarthy, all of Westerly, nephews of Mrs. Penders. Burial was in Westerly where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Fr. Leo Weston.

Herbert E. Turner

The funeral of Herbert E. Turner was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home at Lakes Pond, Montville, the services being conducted by Rev. Charles Smith, Uncasville. Burial was in Comstock cemetery, Montville.

Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander has issued a release of tax warrant served several weeks ago on Richard E. Belden. Mr. Belden owed a tax of over $200 and his property was ordered sold. Since the issuance of the warrant payment has been made.

Rob Store of $2.40

Thieves gained entrance to the grain store of F. S. Simpson, 11 Mill street Friday night, but the plunder obtained did not reward them for their labor. The break, which was evidently perpetrated by youths, was discovered Saturday for business and was reported urgent when the establishment was at police headquarters. Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray, who investigated, found that entrance was obtained by forcing a rear window and the only loot obtained was about $2.40.

Going to Norwich

Orion encampment of this city and the encampments of Mystic and Westerly will go to Norwich on March 28 when they will be entertained by Palmyra Encampment No. 3 I. O. O. F. A large class will receive the royal purple degree from the degree team of Mystic encampment.

Fifty-eight members of the Girls Reserve held a candle lighting service at the Jennings school the other afternoon. The ceremony opened with a salute to the Christian flag followed by the singing of the national anthem. Rita Callahan, of the Dependable Blue Triangle club was in charge of the affair. At the conclusion of the program refreshments were served.

At a meeting of the recently organized Candle Light club, held at the Y. W. C. A., plans for activities during the coming months were made. Officers of the club are: President, Luella Pollard; vice president, Emily Elias; treasurer, Angeline Marion; secretary, Victoria Demoniski.

Spoke Upon Schools

Homer K. Underwood, headmaster of Bulkeley school, gave an interesting address before about 30 members of the Women's League of the Second Congregational church, at the week end in the church parlors on "The Moral Condition of Our Schools." Later Mrs. Edward P. Calvert of Groton entertained with vocal solos.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregorio Scarpa of 21 West Colt street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Tessie, to Harry Jewitt, of 25 West Colt street. The wedding will take place in June.

Members of the Cinderella club were entertained at the week end by Miss Elizabeth Ann Devine at her home in 65 Coleman street. The evening was spent in bridge and dancing.

CROWLEY CLUB WINNERS RECEIVE SILVER CUPS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 10—Winners in the bridge tournament of the Crowley club which has been progressing for the past five weeks were: Theresa Smith and Josephine Sullivan who in the final match defeated Bessie Lyons and Alice Quinn. The winners and runner-ups were presented silver trophy cups.

Mrs. George R. Morris, 143 Ocean avenue entertained at a bridge party in honor of Mrs. William H. Osborne and daughter Doris, Mrs. Douglas and Miss Virginia Reynolds were winners of the prizes.

A successful whist and bridge party was held the other night by the recently organized boys club in Eagles hall. The prize winners were A. Itzkowitz, John Leahy, James Sullivan, Mrs. William Guerin, Mrs. Quill, Mrs. George Dennison, and Mrs. St. Jean.

At a meeting of the auxiliary to Home Memorial hospital, it was voted to hold regular meetings beginning April 12, at the community house of the Connecticut Power company on State street. Fourteen members of the organization were present at the meeting.

MACRINO, BOOTLEGGER, IS FINED $200 AND COSTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 10—The only case to claim the attention of the police court Saturday was the continued case of Salvatore Macrino, former proprietor of the club room, 30 Green street charged on two counts with violation of the liquor law and maintaining a gambling machine. Macrino pleaded guilty to the liquor charges and was fined $200 and costs. The charge alleging keeping a gambling device, was nolled. Macrino was arrested 10 days ago when the police raided a half dozen club rooms and residences, the proprietors and proprietresses of which, were arrested and convicted.

The police have been requested to be on the lookout for Helen Kusanski, 26, and Mary McCormick, 22, who escaped Friday from the State Farm for Women. The Kusanski woman had a gray coat. A comparatively short time ago after having escaped from the farm, she was found at 97 Truman street. The McCormick woman wore a green dress and a tan colored lumberjacket.

The Ford Motor company's transport No. 2, Captain Hazard, put into port Saturday to escape the fury of the gales on the sound. The steamer was en route from Providence to New York. Captain Hazard for several years was master of the steamer Block Island when that craft ran between Norwich, New London and Block Island.

Not New Haven Thief

Stephen Kosko, who resides in New Haven, and who was employed until a few months ago at the Lawrence-Memorial hospital, was arrested by Patrolman Cornelius Moriarty Saturday charged with being a suspected fugitive from justice, but investigation proved that Kosko was not the man sought. Kosko was on Bank street a long time and when questioned by Moriarty he said that his name was Anderson and that he was employed at the hospital. Inquiry at the hospital revealed that Kosko had not been employed there in a long time and that Anderson was a fictitious name. Kosko was arrested as he tallied with the description of a thief who entered an apartment house in New Haven earlier in the week and stole a quantity of men's clothing. An officer was sent to New London and upon seeing the prisoner declared him not to be the man wanted, so Kosko was discharged.

Girl of 16 Missing

Marjorie Plaskett, 16, daughter of Mrs. Marjorie Plankett, 61 Allen street, Groton, is missing from home and the state police and New London police have been requested to assist in finding the girl. Complaint was made to the state police Saturday of the disappearance of the girl, who has been missing two days.

Kimball Shop Unlocked

Patrolman Michael Dorsey in making his rounds Saturday night discovered the entrance of Kimball's Textile store, 20 Meridian street, unlocked and with the key in the lock. The key was brought to police headquarters after the store had been secured for the night. Acting Sergeant John Courtney also found the entrance to the Reo automobile station, MacDonald street, unlocked and was able to secure the place.

Burton S. Taylor, 19 Pratt street, Essex, was arrested by Patrolman Michael Dorsey Saturday night charged with violation of the city's parking ordinance, in parking his car on a crosswalk. Taylor was ordered to present himself in the police court Monday.

SPEEDING UP WORK ON PIERS AT SUB-BASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 10—Four of the five new piers at the submarine base have been completed a month ahead of the specified contract period. One more is to be constructed and about fifty per cent of the work on this has been accomplished. The piers are of the finger type and are replacing five of the eleven old type piers.

Patients dismissed today from the Lawrence Memorial hospital were Miss Rita Gaynor, Clarke Lane, Waterford; Arthur Aubin, 294 Main street; Byron Morse, 20 Summitt avenue; Mrs. Robert Ferguson, 598 Montauk avenue; Albert Sommers, steam trawler Fern; George Taggart, Brandegee avenue, Groton; Miss Ruth Lee, Lyme; Mrs. Ella Wentworth and daughter, 21 Huntington street; Mrs. Daniel Sullivan and son, 34 Brewer street; Mrs. Theodore Russell and son, 33 Garfield avenue; Mrs. George Czikowsky and son, Hadlyme; Mrs. Leo Flavell and son of Groton; Mrs. Thomas Dorsey and son, 10 Maple avenue, Mrs. Frederick Rogers, 151 Mohegan avenue.

A. B. Dawson, physical director of the Y. M. C. A. returned to this city yesterday from Montreal, where he was called Tuesday owing to the illness of his mother. During his absence Harry Rafferty attended to his duties at the Y.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

George Bancroft was heard as well as seen for the first time at the Broadway theatre when the Paramount all-talking picture, The Wolf of Wall Street, was presented last night. The picture is 100 per cent talking, augmented by startling sound effects.

Followers of the legitimate drama will recall George Bancroft's name blazoned along Broadway for several years as one of the outstanding stars of the stage. Paramount was reluctant to present the star in an all-talking picture until the right kind of story could be secured for him. The Wolf of Wall Street was considered ideal, inasmuch as the plot includes all the elements that the star has been accustomed to be seen in, with the additional feature of being easily adaptabaleto dialogue. The story was written by Doris Anderson; the film directed by Rowland V. Lee.

The story centers around the New York stock exchange which has captured the interest of the public so much in the past year. Bancroft portrays the role of a stock broker, who brings ruin upon himself voluntarily when his domestic life is dashed on the rocks of unhappiness. The story offers innumerable opportunities for gripping drama and dialogue throughout which have been captured in an exceptional manner by action and voice, on the par tof the star and his supporting cast, which, incidentally, is made up of players who have had previous stage experience. The supporting players include Baclanova, Nancy Carroll, Arthur Rankin, Paul Lukas, Brandon Hurst and Cranford Kent.

Breed Theatre.

It would be hard to imagine a more ideal vehicle for the effervescent team of Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall, than the farce comedy, Waterfront, which opened last night at the Breed theatre.

Since the advent of movie "teams" the hardest work on the part of the producer has been finding a story that shows off both members to equal advantage. Miss Mackaill and Mulhall have been more fortunate in past opuses, but in Waterfront they have reached a goal that will be hard to surpass.

Miss Mackaill is cast as the daughter of a tugboat captain, who yearns for a life on the bounding main. Her father (Knute Ericson) has seen enough of the waterfront and wants to spend the rest of his life on a farm. Dorothy seems doomed for just such a life after years around the breakwater, when Mulhall, in the guise of a seaman, enters her life. She falls for the handsome sailor, partly it must be admitted, because she sees an opportunity to stay by the sea. Everything is knocked into a cocked hat, however, when her sailor boy confides in her that his greatest ambition is to buy a farm and desert his ship.

Waterfront was directed by William A. Seiter, considered by many to be an outstanding director of farce comedy. This picture is by far the best he has ever made.

Palace Theatre

Liquor, dope, white slavery—all these bugaboos of a past generation have given way to a new menace that threatens the very life of the nation—the menace of juvenile delinquency.

Liquor affects comparatively few families, dope still fewer, while white slavery as symbolized by red lights and segregated districts, has practically ceased to exist. But juvenile delinquency as expressed in the amazing and unexplainable moral decay of modern youth is a problem that reaches into every community and threatens every home. It is difficult for many parents to understand the freedom of modern thought and conduct, and it is hard for them to believe that their child could be in danger.

All such should see "The Road to Ruin," at the Palace theatre today, Tuesday and Wednesday and which is described as "A Flaming Warning to the Parents of America."

"The Road to Ruin," which is based on an actual case, is an amazingly frank story of the temptations confronting the children of today and contains a tremendous lesson, while at the same time, because of the extremely able handling of a delicate subject, it is first rate entertainment.

Charley Delaney, that young man with the "million dollar smile," came brightly into town yesterday as the star of the movie thriller at the Palace theatre. He smiled his way through countless dangers and in the end vanquished the villains and married the girl he loved. So with many other movies, but this one, entitled The Cleanup, is extremely modern in its treatment, even if the story follows the familiar tenets.

The Cleanup tells of a youthful editor who has determined to make his city safe and secure for all. He meets the harsh opposition of the racketeers against whom his editorial fire is aimed. Both sides tighten their belts for a finish fight. The editor organizes the police forces of the community and the gunmen accept the challenge.

Thus come the machine gun gangsters of whom we read so much about and no end of thrilling incidents. The end of the story you can guess; right and love triumph, but until this climax is reached the audience is treated to a display of thrills which cannot be beaten.

It really is exceedingly well done and the theatre could well afford to give with each admission ticket a guarantee of the season's best thrills. Besides Mr. Delaney, the cast includes Betty Blake, Lewis Sargent, Harry Myers, Bruce Gordon, J. P. McGowan, Charles Hickman. All do their parts splendidly.

MONTVILLE

The funeral of Alfred Vronowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Vronowski of Montville, who died Tuesday at the New Haven General hospital, was held this morning at 8.30 o'clock from the home of his parents. Requiem high mass was celebrated in St. John's church, Montville, at 9 o'clock. Interment was in the family plot in St. Patrick's cemetery, Uncasville.

The Montville Community Association held their regular meeting Monday evening at the Community house, with Mrs. Grace Melcer, presiding. After the singing of several popular songs, about 25 members were served with a delicious baked ham supper by the refreshment committee. After matters of interest were discussed plans were formulated for a clean up week, to take place in the early spring. Signs designating the town of Montville are now being completed and will be erected as soon as the frost is out of the ground. Matthew Geary entertained with a vocal selection and other entertainment contributed to make the evening enjoyable. The next meeting of the association will be held Monday, April 8th, at the Community house.

Mrs. Mae E. Speirs of Oakdale was the guest of Mrs. Charles Kolb of Main street, Friday.

Mrs. Henry Jenckes of Church street who has been very ill with the grippe, is improving slowly.

John Bozumn has moved his family from the Palmer tenement on Hurlburt hill to a tenement in Uncasville.

William Gardner of Hurlburt Hill visited at the home of his brother, George Gardner of Greneville, Tuesday.

Mrs. Martin Butler of Hyde Park was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kolb of Main street Thursday.

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation, that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breadth, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

W. B. Caldwell M.D.
AT AGE 83

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles. A trial is sure to convince any household of the merits of this famous prescription.

POETRY

The Universal Prayer

Father of all! in every age,
In every clime adored
By saint, by savage and by sage,
Jehovah, Jove or Lord!

Thou great First Cause, least understood,
Who all my sense confined
To know but this, that Thou art good,
And that myself am blind;

Yet gave me in this dark estate,
To see the good from ill;
And binding nature fast in fate
Left free the human will;

What conscience dictates to be done,
Or warns me not to do,
This, teach me more than hell to shun
That, more than heaven pursue.

What blessings Thy free bounty gives
Let me not cast away;
For God is paid when man receives,
To enjoy is to obey.

Yet not to earth's contracted span
Thy goodness let me bound,
Or think Thee Lord alone of man,
When thousand worlds are round.

Let not this weak, unknowing hand
Presume Thy bolts to throw,
And deal damnation round the land
On each I judge Thy foe.

If I am right, Thy grace impart
Still in the right to stay;
If I am wrong, O teach my heart
To find that better way!

Save me alike from foolish pride
And impious discontent
At aught Thy wisdom has denied,
Or aught Thy goodness lent.

Teach me to feel another's woe,
To hide the fault I see;
That mercy I to others show,
That mercy show to me.

Mean though I am, not wholly so,
Since quickened by Thy breath,
O lead me wherese'er I go,
Through the day's life or death!

This day be bread and peace my lot,
All else beneath the sun
Thou know'st if best bestowed or not,
And let Thy will be done.

To Thee, whose temple is all space,
Whose altar, earth, sea, skies,
One chorus let all being raise,
All nature's incense rise.

—Alexander Pope.

The Crucibles of Life

The crucibles of life oft prove to be Refining fires, burning out the dross,
Leaving the metal pure. What we thought loss
Is of a broadening thought, the Master-Key
Unlocking hidden chests of wealth, which we Might otherwise have never come across;
And though in adverse waves we seem to toss,
Strength we accrue from out Life's troublous sea.

The crucibles of life—Gethsemanes—
May be God's way of showing our bruised hearts
The path whereon He wishes us to tread,
Schools of Attainment, these—wherein degrees
Are mastered, fitting for the better parts
Which is His plan He has for us outspread.

—Ida A. Lyall, in the Detroit Free Press.

Father—Oh, baby does, does she? Well, baby'd better come across with some bright sayings that'll sell, or baby'll go barefoot.—College Humor.

"Had my fortune told today, dear."

"What a waste of money," protested her husband.

"Not at all. I gave the woman $1 and she told me I would soon inherit $99,000. Wasn't that a bargain?"—Exchange.

"What kind of a car have you?"

"I got a Wreck."

"A wreck?"

"Yeah. Every time I park it a dozen people come up and ask me if I've reported the accident yet."—Motorist.

Four-year-old Bobby was much interested in the story of David and Goliath which his mother read to him. When she was through, he asked:

"Mamma, where is David now?"

"In heaven, I suppose."

"Will I go to heaven when I die?"

"I hope so, dear."

"Mamma" (the little voice was very eager now), "do you s'pose when I get there David will let me hold his sling-shot a little while?"—Boston Transcript.

GREENEVILLE

CHIMNEY FIRE CALL ON SUNDAY MORNING

Engine Co. No. 2 responded to an alarm call Sunday morning at 11 o'clock for a chimney fire in the house owned by Mrs. Rose Ouellet, located at 27-29 Sixth street and occupied by Andrew Boyd and Mrs. O. M. LeBlanc. Six gallons of chemical were used to extinguish the blaze in the chimney. There was very little damage done. Second A end Acting Deputy Chief Dennis Brennan also responded to the call.

The members of the Greeneville N. M. Sewing circle were entertained Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Alvin Barrows on Tyler avenue with a large class present. The evening was devoted to sewing of fancy articles followed by a social hour. Piano and vocal solos were rendered during the evening. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Harry Richmond and Mrs. Thomas Harrington, which consisted of assorted sandwiches, fancy cookies, cakes, fruits, candies and hot chocolate. The dining room was artistically decorated for the occasion with the color scheme of pink and white, the circle colors being used. The circle will meet next Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Helgo Erickson, on Golden street.

The many friends of Reynold Gorton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Gorton, of Eleventh street, will be pleased to learn that he is gaining rapidly at the W. W. Backus hospital, where he is a patient after having undergone an operation for appendicitis last week.

Month's Mind Masses

Month's mind requiem masses at St. Mary's Memorial church this past week were as follows: Monday morning, for Mrs. Julia Pratt; Wednesday, Mrs. William Campion; Friday morning, for Ellen Donovan. These three masses were offered by the pastor, Rev. William A. Keefe. The musical part of the masses was in charge of the organist, Mrs. Michael J. Farrell. Relatives and family friends were present at all the services.

RUN OVER BY TRAIN, 14 YEAR OLD BOY DIED FOUR HOURS LATER

Four hours after he had been run over by a south bound freight train on the New Haven railroad tracks below Second street, John Shemth, 14, died Saturday afternoon, about 5.30 o'clock at the W. W. Backus hospital. The boy was struck by the train while playing on the railroad tracks. It is said he was attempting to "hop" the freight and went under the wheels. His leg was severed above the knee.

Police headquarters was notified of the accident and Dr. E. J. Brophy responded to an emergency call. The physician administered first aid and the boy was rushed to the hospital. He failed to rally from the loss of blood and shock.

The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sergej Shemth of No. 75 Fourth street. He was born in Norwich, July 30, 1915 and attended the 8th grade at the Greeneville grammar school. He was a member of the Sunday school of the Russian Orthodox church. Besides his parents he is survived by a sister, Natalie Shemth.

LENTEN VESPER SERVICE AT ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH

At the Lenten vesper service Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock at St. Patrick's church the Rev. Fr Hubert, of the Passionist Monastery at West Springfield, Mass., gave a stirring sermon before a large congregation. God tells us He is the only God and yet they do. He said "thou shalt not tell us there is no God, he said. God has said "thou shalt not steal". And yet them do. He said "thou shalt not commit adultery". Christ came on earth advocating poverty, chastity and obedience and the world laughs at it. People say don't let the Catholic church tell you what to do. Don't listen to the priest. What right have they to tell you what to do?

The real fools are the worldly fools, said the preacher. "I will punish them with infernal punishment, said God. Jesus Christ was considered a fool and a madman. They could not see in Him the life. The saints of God were considered foolish to follow in His footsteps. Have you been fools in the eyes of the world or in the eyes of God?"

"My belief is this life is not the end. We are destined on earth with eternal happiness or unending woe. If the soul is to cater to his or her passions, to that soul you, too, one day will meet this Christ whom you rejected."

The musical part of the service given under direction of Organist Henry J. LaFontaine was a feature, the choir singing in beautiful voice the Rosewig vespers in G. Following is the programme:

Confiteor, Dixit Dominus, Horace Corning; Beatus Vir, Misses Blanchette, Pre, Bulaile Allaire, John Kelly, Walter LaFontaine; Laudate Dominum, Mrs. Bernard Cole; Magnificat, Mozart, Miss Sadie A. Driscoll; Veni Creator, Himmel, Miss LaPre; Ave Maria, Kahn, Miss Sadie A. Driscoll; Gregorian Benediction.

GRADE SCHOOLS TO SEE INDIAN EXHIBIT

Today (Monday) the Norwich grade schools will begin their trips to the Slater Memorial museum to see the Indian material which has been arranged in the Converse Art gallery by the art committee of the Woman's City club. The Samuel Huntington school will be the first and will have this morning reserved for them. During the two weeks that the exhibition is to run, each of the schools is to send children who are studying the American Indian. These classes will be sent during school hours, and the exhibition will be free to the public from 3:30 to 5 p. m.

When the children enter the gallery, they will find that it has been arranged to show the contrast between four different types of Indians. The first object to rivet their attention, will, of course be the smoke stained tepee which has been set up in one corner. Stooping to look in at the aperture in front, one finds it fully furnished with the Indians bed of skins, the bed rest, baskets and implements scattered about, and some typical forms of food. In the center is the camp-fire with it's glowing coals. This draws the first attention to the Indians of the Plains, who are represented at that end of the long gallery, the tepee being their typical dwelling.

Nearby is a case full of implements and objects connected with their daily life, which are loaned by the American Museum of Natural History, in New York. In other cases is shown a private collection of the fine beadwork in which these people excelled. Costumes, elaborately beaded, cover screens, and the adjoining small gallery is devoted to the costumes and war bonnets of Reginald Laubin of this city.

At the opposite end of the long gallery from the tepee, the southwest Indians are represented. Dwelling of Indians are represented. Dwellings of the Pueblos and Navajos are shown in photographs. A series of these photographs showing the types of wigwams and tepees used in different parts of the country are hung each with the section of the country in which it is found. They were given to the museum by the department of ethnology in Washington. The loan collection from the Natural History Museum, includes also articles from the every day use of the southwest Indians, and a case of Navajo jewelry, a private collection of baskets, Navajo rugs and weaving and some pottery, show the art of this division of the country, where culture reached the highest development of all.

The northwest Indians were the skilled carvers, their material being both wood and ivory, and work of this kind is shown together with their skin garments, their beautiful basketry, their strange fishing tackle, their tom-toms.

The eastern Indian section looks gray beside the others, for the dust of the years has settled down upon their ancient civilization. They have been citizens for a hundred and fifty years, and little remains except relics in stone. Of these the Slater Museum possesses the largest collection ever made of the relics of eastern Connecticut. Adjoining these cases are shown some relics from the Mohegan tribe which have been loaned for this occasion and which are a very central feature of interest in the whole exhibition.

A model of a wigwam shows a typical form of Connecticut habitation.

WESTERLY MAN POSTOFFICE INSPECTOR 40 YEARS

Several years ago Postoffice Inspector Charles Pendleton of Westerly was exempted from the operation of the compulsory retirement law at the age of seventy and although seventy-seven years of age, he is actively engaged in "checking up" the accounts of the Boston office with others of the staff of Chief Park D. Colvin of the New England district. Mr. Pendleton was appointed to the postal service in 1872, as a clerk.

He became a postoffice inspector forty years ago and he has also been a railway mail clerk, between Boston and New York. He served as assistant postmaster at South Framingham and Everett before the latter office was made a part of the Boston postal district.

An enemy is a person who declines to forgive the injury you did him.

MERCIER ASSEMBLY HOLDS SUCCESSFUL BEAN SUPPER

Mercier assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, opened T. A. B. hall to the public on Saturday evening, for one of the most successful bean suppers ever served in Norwich. Three large tables decorated with yellow and white, the assembly colors of crepe paper, candles and flowers had covers for over 125 persons at a single setting. The tables were constantly filled between the hours of 4 and 7 p. m. The waitresses in charge wore white uniforms with yellow French caps and served about 500 patrons.

The menu served was as follows: Baked beans, potato salad, home baked ham, pickles, catsup, rolls, brown bread, cake and coffee.

The success of the affair is due to Mrs. Joseph Burke, chairman of the committee and her assistants. The decorations were in charge of Miss Mary O'Neil. The young ladies who acted as waitresses were the Misses Catherine Finnegan, Eleanor Ludwig, Julia Ulrich, Madeline Fitzgerald, Mary Hamill, Catherine Lynch, Marguerite Delaney, Mary O'Neil, Jane Sullivan, Elizabeth Mahoney, Margaret R. Sullivan, Catherine Wagner, Mary Weiler, Elizabeth Sullivan, Elizabeth Barry, Agnes O'Neil, Helen Stanley, Josephine Rinella, Mrs. Leonard Desmond, Marie Desmond, Germaine Rochette, Marion Duhaime, Louise Duhaime, Blanche Richards, Mary Burns and Mazie Maloney.

Those in charge of the kitchen were Mrs. James O'Neil, Miss Elizabeth Hoar, Sarah McInnis, Lucy Murphy, Mrs. T. Hagan, Mrs. Silas Sandberg, Miss Esther Meyer, Mrs. Mary Farrell, Mrs. Bridget Williams, Mrs. Lena O'Brien, Mrs. John Carney, Miss Catherine Wheeler, Mrs. Harry Richmond, Mrs. Mary Wickham, Miss Marie Gadle, Isabelle Finnegan, Helen Twomey, Francis Kingberger, Mrs. Bernard Breen, Mrs. Charles Gay, Lena O'Neil, Agnes White, Mrs. Timothy Driscoll, Miss Alice Lonergan, Mrs. James Casey, Katherine Buckley, Margaret Noyes, Fannie Longo and Nonie Nagle.

The door ticket sale was in charge of Mrs. James Dutton and Mrs. Hannah Elerman.

Miss Loretta Gadle was in charge of the floor.

Courtesies were extended by the T. A. B. society, St. Patrick's Boy Scouts, Loyal Order of Moose, Buckingham Memorial, St. Joseph's parish, Plaut-Cadden Co., P. F. Sweeney, Joseph Farrell and the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY MASS FOR REV. HUGH TREANOR

Rev. Hugh Treanor, for a long term rector of St. Patrick's church, Norwich, died at the Sacred Heart church, Waterbury ten years ago. His death occurred during the Christmas season when no requiem masses are offered in the Catholic church. For that reason a group of former parishioners in Norwich memorialize him each year on a date near his birthday, which was March 17th. It was announced from the pulpit of St. Patrick's church at the four masses on Sunday that this memorial mass is to be sung by the rector, Rt. Rev. Mgr. M. H. May the coming Saturday, March 16th.

Other masses announced for this week were a memorial mass today (Monday) for Joseph Aldi, of 96 Chestnut street, at his death one of the most prominent Italian residents of Norwich. Tuesday an anniversary for J. J. Quinn, Friday a month's mind for Alfred Fournier and Saturday, following the memorial for Father Treanor, a month's mind for Mrs. Herbert Smith.

Plans are completed for the religious celebration of the feast of St Patrick, patronal saint of the parish the coming Sunday, beginning with a high mass at 7.30 which members of the A. O. H. and auxiliaries will attend, receiving holy communion in a body. That day the children's mass will be at 9.30 instead of 9, as usual. In the evening at 7.30, the organist, Henry J. LaFontaine has arranged a special concert program of Irish hymns and airs and the lecture on St. Patrick will be by a missionary father from West Springfield.

Sunday, the fourth Sunday in Lent, Rev. John J. Reilly gave an eloquent sermon at the 9 o'clock mass on the world's greatest hero, Jesus Christ.

FIVE JUDGMENTS ENTERED IN SUPERIOR COURT

Five judgments were entered at the short calendar session of the superior court Friday at New London. All of the judgments, aggregating $10,753.40 were against the Ridgewood Construction Co., and in favor of Henry Morans.

Default against the defendant, Charlotte A. Page, by stipulation, was entered in the case of Channan against Page.

The final report of the receiver, P. LeRoy Harwood, of the P. Schwartz Co., was received and the corporation dissolved.

Mr. and Mrs. Francesco Zinno were granted changes of name to Mr. and Mrs. Frank LaFemina, under which name, the petitioners have always been known.

Final judgment was granted in the case of the Dime Savings bank of Norwich against Kelly, administrator, and others.

The following motions were continued:

Matter of account of National Bank of Commerce, trustee, of the Benjamin A. Armstrong trust; hearing on and approval of account.

Rothstein against Widrowitz, et al., disclosure of defense or judgment.

George Floyd Stewart, et al against Charles L. Stewart, executor, appeal from probate; motion to set aside the verdict.

The following cases went off:

Palencar against White; judgment of default for failure to appear against defendant, Andrew Palencar.

Crowley against Rossie Velvet Co., motion for default.

Five uncontested divorces were granted.

A divorce and custody of a minor child was granted to Blanche Bougie Banta of New London against Clarence E. Banta, also of New London, who, his wife testified, beat her up on several occasions and whom, she said, carried a regular arsenal about with him, consisting of a hunting knife, blackjack and 38 calibre revolver.

On the grounds of desertion, alleged since Sept. 18, 1924, Samuel J. Jones of New London was given a divorce from Muriel Elwood Jones.

George B. Lombard of Colchester was given a divorce from Marion Bennett on the grounds of desertion, alleged since June 15, 1928.

On the grounds of intolerable cruelty, Jean Cheycinsky Mendoker of of Norwich was given a divorce from Edward Mendoker of parts unknown.

On the grounds of desertion alleged since Feb. 28, 1926, Bruno Camillucci of New London was given a divorce from Frances B. Camillucci of New London.

STATE CHAMBER OPPOSED TO TOLL HIGHWAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, March 11—The special committee appointed by President Kimball of the Connecticut State chamber of commerce with power to define the chamber's position with respect to the proposed toll highway throughout Connecticut has made public its conclusions. They follow:

"Your committee, appointed at the meeting of the board of directors held February 23, after discussion of the express toll line highway by Mr. Bennett, former highway commissioner, representing the proponents, Mr. Barnett, representing the New Haven road, and Mr. Macdonald, the state highway commissioner, to express the sentiment of the board on the proposition, begs leave to report:

"That the sentiment of the board appears to be unanimously opposed to the highway as at present planned in house bill 575 because of its taking control of state highways out of the hands of the state of Connecticut through its being an inter-state proposition; because of the broad rights conferred under eminent domain and the possibility of their abuse; because of its almost inevitable effect on the income of the New Haven road, whose prosperity closely involves the industrial prosperity of Connecticut; and because of other minor possibilities too many to detail."

The committee was appointed following a meeting of 62 directors of the state chamber and local chamber representatives at Hartford on February 23. It was one of the largest directors meetings ever held in the history of the state chamber.

At the conclusion of this meeting an informal vote indicated those present to be unanimously opposed to the construction of the proposed toll highway by private capital.

436 AUTO ACCIDENTS IN NORWICH DURING 1928

There were 436 accidents in Norwich during 1928, according to an announcement made by the state motor vehicle department. New London had 518 accidents for the year, and Windham 201.

Water Resources in State.

With the increasing growth of population, citizens are becoming interested in the water resources of the state. For that reason, the Connecticut general assembly of 1925 directed that the state geological and natural history survey collect all available data on the subject. The survey employed Professor Roscoe H. Suttie, associte professor of civil engineering in Yale university, to prepare a report, and Bulletin No. 44, state geological and natural history survey, entitled "Report of the Water Resources of Connecticut," containing the results of Professor Suttie's work, has just been published. Recommendations are made in the report for conserving our water resources. Besides this rainfall for 40 stations and run-off data for over 20 streams have been compiled in one publication for the first time. Great storms and floods affecting the state are described. At the end of the report is full statistical data covering all the municipal and private water companies of the state.

BOXING BOUTS FEATURE ANNUAL BANQUET OF TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION

Several snappy boxing bouts and a pleasing concert programme by a stringed trio, featured the annual banquet of Norwich Typographical union, No. 190, at Germania hall Saturday evening. The printers and their guests, numbering 75 in all, enjoyed a delicious roast pork supper at 7 o'clock, the menu being prepared and served by the women of Immergruen lodge, O. D. H. S. The menu follows:

Soup
Roast Pork
Mashed Potatoes — Mashed Turnips
Pie's Knuckles — Sauerkraut
Brown Gravy — Rye Bread
Parker House Rolls
Cake — Coffee

The usual monthly meeting of the union, was dispensed with. The meeting was called to order by President Benjamin Axelrod and immediately adjourned. Mr. Axelrod, as toastmaster, made a brief address of welcome, and was followed by William H. Oat manager of The Norwich Bulletin and ex-Mayor Milo R. Waters who made enthusiastic and stirring addresses.

Previous to the after dinner addresses all stood for one minute as a mark of respect to the following who have passed on: Frank H. Pullen, late publisher of the Norwich Evening Record, James H. Hankins, John Franklin, Grant Troland and Eugene Armstrong.

Among the numerous entertainment features were several boxing exhibitions put on by local boys who have made names for themselves in either the amateur or professional ranks during the past few years. Opening the card of boxing was a fast three-round go between Johnny Kop and Frankie Adams, followed by another bout between Al Koziol, former R. I. lightweight amateur champion and Jack Meadows another local boy. Jimmy Quinn boxed three rounds with Geno Pecheeni, local professional featherweight while Patsy Ferra and Freddie Besade wound up the evening's performance with three fast rounds. Owing to the slippery condition of the floor the boys were unable to show their best but all were neat exhibitions and were refereed by James V. Pedace, sports editor of the Norwich Evening Record. Charles Riordan was the time keeper. Linus Charnetski was chairman of the committee in charge of the banquet.

LOCAL INSURANCE MEN GOING TO CONVENTION

Local insurance men are very much interested in the coming fifth annual insurance day conference to be held at the Hotel Bond, Hartford, next Friday. There will be group conferences for the life insurance representatives, while other groups are to discuss fire, casualty and surety lines.

George L. Hunt, state agent for the New England Mutual Life Insurance company, is general chairman of this year's gathering and Thomas D. Faulkner, past president of the Connecticut Insurance Agents' association, is secretary and treasurer. The Hon. Howard P. Dunham, insurance commissioner of the state of Connecticut, is honorary chairman and James L. Case of Norwich and Donald G. North of New Haven are honorary vice-chairmen.

The programme is of unusual interest and there will be morning and afternoon sessions. Following the lunch at 1:15 p. m., at which Commissioner Dunham will preside, there will be responses from visiting commissioners and other guests of the conference. At 7 p. m., in the Hotel Bond, the annual banquet will take place. Among the speakers on the programme is Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London, of New London. It is expected that a large number from Norwich will attend.

MR. CONNICK'S LECTURE SURE TO PROVE INFORMING

There seems to be an impression that Mr. Connick's lecture upon "Jewelled Windows" is to be technical. This is wrong.

In getting Mr. Connick here the association felt that not many know of the beautiful windows abroad and in our own country as well as each would like to know them. Mr. Connick's colored slides will be very beautiful and should be of the keenest interest both to those who have traveled and seen the original windows and to those who have had to stay at home.

Miss Eshbaugh has placed books upon stained glass and photographs of windows on the reference tables in the Peck library. One photograph is of a large window that has lately been completed for the chapel of Princeton University chapel, Princeton, N. J.

AN EXPLANATORY LETTER FROM SENATOR BINGHAM

In His Protest Against Senator Heflin's Efforts in the Senate to Abolish the Church Pennant of the Navy, Mr. Bingham States That His Taking Issue With Heflin Was Only to Protest Against the Use of the Senate Floor to Stir Up Religious Controversy—Letter is in Reply to Protest From Lewis A. Bradford of Danielson.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, March 11—Senator Bingham, who recently urged that no religious discussions be made a part of senate procedure, as they tend to stir up religious hatred and bigotry, has received hundreds of letters commending his stand in the matter of the church pennant of the navy, when Senator Heflin was demanding it be removed from position it has held for more than a century.

Senator Bingham has also received several petitions from constituents that he change his attitude, on the ground that the church flag "is a menace to the country." Thus proving that Senator Bingham was right when he asserted such discussion in congress tended to "stir up religious hatred."

The first of the protests came from Lewis A. Bradford, of Danielson, with something like 100 signers. The accompanying letter from Mr. Bradford read as follows: "I enclose petition on the flag question. More petitions will follow as they are returned to me. It would seem to us that no flag should fly above the American flag, especially the Roman church flag."

The petition reads, "To the Hon. Hiram Bingham, Washington, D. C. We, the undersigned citizens of Windham county, state of Connecticut, wish to let you know we protest against your attack on the Honorable Senator Heflin for his defense of the American flag and the Constitution which stands for free speech. It would seem to us that you take the part of the new Vatican state, which we consider a menace to our country." Then followed the signatures.

Mr. Bingham has sent the following reply: "I am in receipt of your letter of March 6 including two copies of protests against my remarks in the senate Feb. 16 concerning the use of a church pennant flown on shipboard to indicate that divine services are in progress.

"I shall send to each of the signers of those memorials, and to others which I may receive, copies of a reprint of those remarks together with a reprint of a letter from the Episcopal bishop of Rhode Island, bearing on this subject.

"In no sense did I 'take the part' of the new Vatican state, and neither did I participate in any 'attack' on Senator Heflin for his defense of the American flag and the American Constitution. That sacred document provides that 'congress shall make no law respecting the establishment of religion.' When we attempt to combine religion and politics, especially in congressional debate, we endanger one of the greatest treasures bequeathed to us by the Constitution—religious liberty. In taking issue with Senator Heflin it was not my intent to discuss the merits or demerits of any particular church, creed or sect, but only to protest against the use of the senate chamber as a forum for the stirring up of religious controversy, where, in my opinion, it has no place.

"Sincerely yours,

(Signed) "HIRAM BINGHAM."

But few persons apparently know that the movement to change the custom of flying the pennant at peak during religious service is largely the propaganda of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, and that during the debate in the senate Charles Lee Smith, founder and president of that atheistic organization, came to Washington to see President Coolidge and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to urge that chaplains in the navy be abolished and that no chaplain should receive any part of any congressional appropriation. That same evening, Mr. Smith gave a lecture in one of the large auditoriums of Washington, urging that the people turn to atheistic doctrine on the ground that "There is no God." The same type of anti-religionist is largely instigating the removal of the church pennant on battleships as those who once succeeded in eliminating the words, "In God we trust" from coins of the United States, but the words were later restored.

It is one of the strange freaks of legislation often seen in congress. Many devout Methodists, Baptists and other non-ritual Protestant churches have been misled by the false statements of Mr. Heflin into the belief that the cross on the church pennant is the exclusive symbol of the Roman church, instead of being the acknowledged symbol of all Christian churches. In this way many persons affiliated with Christian denominations are heeding up the hands of the Atheistic association by their joint endorsement of removal of the pennant.

COLORS ON INSIDE OF ELECTRIC LIGHT BULBS

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., March 11—(AP)—A method for putting the pigments in colored electric light bulbs on the inside instead of the outer surface was announced today as the prize winning achievement for 1928 of the Westinghouse Lamp company.

An award of $500 for the accomplishment was made tonight to Albert H. Lindstrom, mechanical and metallurgical engineer of the company. The reversal was obtained by spraying the inside of bulbs, before completion of the lights. The spray is said to be different from the material used for outside coloring. Claim is made for greater durability both against fading and wear, and for bulbs easier to keep clean.

Lindstrom is a graduate of Wesleyan university, 34 years old, a resident of Nutley, N. J., and entered his present employment upon return from overseas duty in the world war.

QUESTION THE VALIDITY OF THE POCKET VETO

WASHINGTON, March 11—(AP)—Scenes reminiscent of historic arguments before the supreme court in years gone by were enacted in that dim capitol chamber today by Attorney General Mitchell and Representative Sumners of Texas, with the validity of the pocket veto involved in a precedent-making case.

One important measure which might be affected by the court's decision is the Norris Muscle Shoals resolution.

Under the constitution, bills not acted on within ten days of the adjournment of congress are dead. William S. Lewis for the Indians, contended that the word adjournment meant only adjournment at final sessions, a view directly opposed by the attorney general.

SLEW GIRL WHEN HE LEARNED SHE WAS TO BECOME MOTHER

GREEN BAY, Wis., March 11—(AP)—Solution of the mysterious slaying of a young woman, whose body was found stuffed into a culvert near Elkhorn, Wis., last August, was announced today by officials, following the confession of Robert Cone, 29, ex-convict, that he perpetrated the crime.

Cone, who was arrested recently in Santa Rosa, Calif., for parole violation, told officials he killed the girl when he learned she was to have become a mother. He identified the victim as Mary Laverty, former domestic in the Evanston, Ill., home of C. C. Coyle.

A check revealed that Miss Laverty left the Coyle family's employ to visit a brother in New York a short time before the date of the slaying.

Cone said he beat the girl to death with a hammer last July when she demanded that he marry her and then placed the body in the culvert where it was found a month later by state police.

When arrested, he first claimed his cousin Thomas Stearns of Janesville, Wis., was the slayer, but authorities established the accusation untrue.

NEGRO SINGER HELD IN MANSLAUGHTER CASE

LOS ANGELES, March 11—(AP)—George Dewey Washington, well-known Negro singer, was arrested today and held on suspicion of manslaughter following the death of Erma May Reese, a Negro woman, early this morning. The woman was killed, Washington said, by a fall from his car as it skidded on a wet pavement. The actor was appearing at a theatre here.

GRAVE CHARGES MADE AGAINST TWO DOCTORS

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn., March 11—(AP)—Dr. Murrell Pinson and Dr. W. H. Longmire maintained strict silence tonight, on the eve of the preliminary hearing at which they will face charges of murder growing out of an operation for appendicitis performed last Monday on 12 year old Robert Grindstaff at Scotha, ten miles from here.

On advices of attorneys, neither would discuss the charge, the aftermath of an inquest held last Thursday at which a coroner's jury attributed the boy's death to criminal negligence.

Henry Grindstaff, Robert's father, preferred the charge. Sheriff J. M. Moreland, who made the arrests Saturday night, said the father asserted the doctors performed the operation while under the influence of liquor, and that they left the patient while he still was under the anaesthetic. Both physicians gave nominal bond for their appearance tomorrow afternoon.

The accused medical men were in their offices today, neither showing evidence of sorrow over the outcome. Dr. Pinson performed the operation while Dr. Longmire administered the anaesthetic. Grindstaff told the sheriff. Each has retained an attorney.

The Grindstaff boy's body was exhumed for the autopsy three days after his death. Dr. J. B. Shoun and Dr. J. L. Cottrell, who examined the body, reported that the operation was basically correct, but that the appendix, which had not been removed, was normal.

DECISION ARRIVED AT BY REPARATIONS EXPERTS

PARIS, March 11—(AP)—The second Dawes committee after a morning's discussion of the plan for an international bank to handle German reparations payments were unanimous in considering the trustee function of the institution as settled and proceeded to talk about other features.

The amount of capital of the new bank was the subject of a lengthy exchange of views, in the course of which opinions generally tended toward the idea of limiting capital to minimum requirements, though there was a suggestion that larger capital might facilitate working of the institution in financing deliveries in kind.

The relations of the new bank with central banks or banks of issue in different countries were touched upon and the necessity of avoiding any competition with those institutions was emphasized. It was virtually agreed that the charter of the bank should be so drawn as to make it impossible for it to encroach upon the fields of state banks.

Nothing was decided as to the location for the international bank except that it will not be in Geneva.

The experts desire to avoid anything that would look like connecting the proposed international financial institution with the League of Nations.

CHANCES FAVOR RECOVERY OF ACTRESS ELSIE JANIS

PARIS, March 11—(AP)—Elsie Janis, American stage star, was fighting a gallant battle for life tonight with the chances favoring victory in the opinion of her doctors.

A report given out by the physicians was that another 24 hours would be decisive.

The congestion in the right lung was stated to be the disturbing factor while the appendicitis symptoms were less pronounced.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

VIENNA, March 11—(AP)—King Boris of Bulgaria arrived here. He declined to say how long he would remain but announced that he would consult ear specialists.

PARIS, March 11—(AP)—A Havas News agency report from Teheran says that Persia and Russia have signed a tariff convention on the most favored basis.

VICTORIA, Hong Kong, March 11—(AP)—An American seaman named Kish, from the cruiser Memphis, was killed here when he jumped from the burning King Edward hotel to a sheet held by firemen and spectators. He missed the sheet and struck the pavement.

MOSCOW, March 11—(AP)—War Commissar Voroshilov, addressing the Leningrand communist party conference stressed what he termed growing Anglo-American hostility, even predicting war between the two countries. He also spoke about the tendency in the communist party to veer to the right.

LONDON, March 11—(AP)—Statistics issued by the Master Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers association showed a world cotton consumption for the six months ending Jan 31 of 12,772,000 bales as against 12,987,000 for the same period last year. Consumption of East Indian, Egyptian and other growths increased but that of American decreased by 613,000 bales.

JURISTS HAVE TACITLY ACCEPTED ROOT FORMULA

GENEVA, March 11—(AP)—The Root formula was tacitly accepted by all jurists today as the basis for a new protocol for adherence by the United States to the World Court of Justice. During the general discussion of the first day's session there was evident a feeling of necessity for reaching a permanent solution of the problem which has engaged international attention for more than three years.

The United States wants to join the court. Other nations want her there. It now is only a question of ways and means. Hardly had the discussion been launched, however, when there rose to the surface the old difficulty of successfully arranging for American membership in a court which has certain affiliations with the League of Nations, of which the United States is not a member.

TRAIN "CARD SHARPERS" HEAVILY SENTENCED

NEW HAVEN, March 11—(AP)—Two of the three men arrested when the New York-bound railroad train on which they had been playing poker stopped here yesterday, were fined $200 each and sentenced to jail for 30 days on charges of gaming on a public conveyance, today. The third man, William R. Sellner, of South Orange, N. J., who alleged they fleeced him of $100 in ten minutes, was given a suspended sentence, the judge opining he had been punished sufficiently. One of the two convicted, Harry Alderman, of this city, filed notice of an appeal, while the other, Walter Clark, of Harrisburg, Pa., accepted the judgment without murmur. Clark and Alderman were characterized by the court as "card sharpers."

BODY RECOVERED FROM THE RUINS OF BANK BUILDING

DALLAS, Tex., March 11—(AP)—One body was recovered this afternoon from the ruins of the Merchants Express Bank building at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show, which with the buildings housing the poultry show and agricultural exhibit, burned earlier in the day.

More than 2,000 blue ribbon fowls, making up the biggest exhibition of poultry ever shown in the south, perished when the poultry building burned.

The fire started at about 11 a. m., decorations in the Merchants exhibit building apparently catching fire from a gas burner in one of the booths. Loss was estimated at $150,000.

TEN BUSSES, 1,000 TAXICABS ON MISSION OF PROTEST

NEW YORK, March 11—(AP)—Headed by a brass band and ten big busses, 1,000 taxicabs are scheduled to leave Times Square tomorrow morning at 6 o'clock for a pilgrimage to Albany, N. Y., to protest against the proposed tax on gasoline.

"We don't want them to cancel the bill," David Davis, president of the Five Borough Fleet Taxicab Owners' association, who will head the delegation, said, "but we're a public utility and we should be exempt. If the bill goes through it will take our bread and butter away."

AIRPLANE TAKING AID TO AN INJURED MAN

COBALT, Ont., March 11—(AP)—The frozen silence of northern Ontario tonight had enveloped a plane which took off from Remy Lake today on the fourth leg of its flight from Toronto to Moose Factory to take aid to the Rev. G. Morrow, Hudson Bay trading post missionary who broke his hip a month ago, in a toboggan accident.

The plane, bearing Capt. Roy W. Maxwell, director of the Ontario government flying service, and Dr. W. S. Paul of Cochrane, was last seen heading for the mouth of the Moose river. Weather conditions were reported good.

AUTO INJURIES FATAL TO COL. JOHN R. M'LEAN

SANTA MARIA, Calif., March 11—(AP)—Colonel John R. McLean, mining engineer and World war veteran who was married at Montecito, Calif., last week to Kathleen Burke Peabody, wealthy widow of Frederick F. Peabody, collar manufacturer, died in Santa Maria hospital this evening. Death was from a fractured skull suffered Sunday afternoon in an automobile collision.

His bride was known as the "angel of France," for her work among the wounded during the World war.

BUFFALO MAN COMMITTED SUICIDE AT NIAGARA FALLS

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 11—(AP)—For the third time in as many weeks a Buffalopian committed suicide today at Niagara Falls. Two of them went over the American cataract; the other found death by plunging into the Niagara river just above the falls. Police blamed "power of suggestion" for the suicides.

The third and latest victim is Mrs Bertha Fellows, wife of Charles Fellows, a clerk in the employ of the New York Central railroad. She had been in ill health recently, police were told.

Auto Speed Record 231 Miles An Hour

New World's Record Made by Major Seagrave Over the Daytona Beach Speedway Yesterday.

OCEAN SPEEDWAY, DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 11—(AP)—In a flaming streak of superspeed, Major H. O. D. Seagrave, famous British race track driver, today set a new world's speed record for automobiles by sending his 12-cylinder Golden Arrow machine roaring over the beach speedway at 231.36246 miles an hour.

Major Seagrave eclipsed by 22.81 miles an hour the former record of 207.55 set here last year by Ray Keech of Philadelphia, in the 26-cylinder Triplex owned by J. M. White. The new mark also surpassed by 28 miles an hour the record of 203 which Seagrave set here in 1927, with his Sunbeam Special.

On his first official run north, Major Seagrave covered the measured mile in 25.55 seconds for 231.51125 miles an hour. His second trial, made southward over the course, was clocked at 15.57 seconds for 231.21357 miles an hour. His average elapsed time was 15.56 seconds and his average two-way speed was 231.36246 miles an hour.

The two trials, timed and sanctioned by the American Automobile association, were without incident.

Although visibility was not perfect and the beach course was a little rough in spots, a brisk east wind blew directly off the ocean, which tended to help Seagrave keep his machine from running too far out on the course.

Thousands of spectators lined the sand dunes for miles parallel to the course.

Electing to make his first official run north over the course, Major Seagrave drove southward over the beach at 177 miles an hour to make sure it was working perfectly. Mechanics made a hasty, last-minute check of the giant machine, filled the cooling system with ice and pronounced it ready for the official trials.

A moment later the telephone in the judges' stand jingled and the track attendant at the starting point announced that the youthful driver was set for his dangerous ride down the hardpacked sands, which the receding tide had leveled out smooth and hard.

Far down the course, the roar of the giant machine could be heard, and the crowds stood motionless, fearing that at any minute the speeding racer might go out of control and plunge into the ocean or plough through the crowds that lined the course. With a mighty roar, the car flashed by the grandstand at the start of the official mile, gaining tremendous speed.

The machine appeared like a blur as it sped down the course. It stopped four miles away.

It virtually was impossible to distinguish the driver in the cockpit.

Before ordering his record-holding car towed from the beach, the major was asked by newspapermen how he felt.

"Fine," he replied, with a broad smile. "I'm not a least bit tired but nevertheless, I'm glad it's all over with. Unless the Triplex beats my mark, I'm through racing forever. If White breaks my record, however, I will try again."

WHITE HOUSE RECEPTION FOR DIPLOMATIC CORPS

WASHINGTON, March 11—(AP)—The first formal social function at the white house since the inauguration of President Hoover was given today in the blaze of gold braid, brightly colored epaulets, and plumed hats of the diplomatic corps.

Following a precedent of many years standing, President and Mrs. Hoover, within two weeks of moving into the executive mansion, entertained at a formal reception for members of the diplomatic corps.

The ministers, ambassadors, secretaries, consuls, charges d'affairs and attaches, with their wives took their places in groups about the historic East room. Promptly at 4:30 the President with Mrs. Hoover on his arm, entered the room and greeted the guests who had come to give their formal good wishes to the new chief executive.

As the couple passed from group to group, stopping to chat with members of each one, servants passed through the room with tea and sandwiches.

Mrs. Hoover, who has had long years of experience as a Washington hostess, graciously wended her way through the white house guests stopping to greet old friends in the corps and to give words of greeting to new members whom she had not met.

"THE BLACK CROOK" WAS REVIVED IN HOBOKEN

NEW YORK, March 11—(AP)—A sophisticated New York audience, in dinner coats and ermine evening wraps, traveled by the Hudson river tube and ferry to the old Lyric theatre in Hoboken tonight to see "The Black Crook"—and ladies in tights.

Sixty-two years ago last October a somewhat less sophisticated New York audience traveled by carriage and horse-car to Niblo's Gardens, on Lower Broadway, to see the world premier of the same show—and ladies in tights.

It was the first time that audience 62 years ago had ever seen any ladies in tights. The same might also be said of a large percentage of tonight's audience. Hardly within the memory of man has a New York audience seen so well clothed a chorus as Christopher Morley, essayist and story writer, gave them tonight in "The Black Crook."

LIGHT IN WESTERN SKY WAS VISIBLE IN MERIDEN

MERIDEN, March 11—(AP)—A shaft of light in the western sky, appearing like a beam from a gigantic searchlight, attracted a number of persons here between 10.30 and 11 o'clock tonight. It had somewhat the appearance of the milky way. Inquiry at Milldale and Waterbury elicited the information that no such light was visible from those places.

ACCEPT INVITATION OF THE RICHMOND BLUES

NEW HAVEN, March 11—(AP)—An invitation to attend the 130th anniversary of the Richmond Blues in May, has been accepted by Gov John H. Trumbull, it was announced at a meeting of the Second Company, Governor's Foot Guards tonight. The offer was received by the governor from Gov. Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia at the inaugural ceremonies in Washington.

A Decisive Battle Impends In Mexico

Both Sides Are Mobilizing Forces — Federals Predict Speedy Occupation of Torreon.

(By The Associated Press)

The tension that precedes decisive battles hangs over news of troop movements in the Mexican revolution.

Both sides were gathering forces, as the great military machine assembled by General Calles was poised to deliver its strongest blow against gathering rebels in the north.

Events Monday were marked by heavy concentration of troops on both sides, definitive end of rebellion in Vera Cruz, and check of the important rebel advance in Sinaloa.

General Calles was preparing to march on Torreon and Durango, both of which were occupied by rebel garrisons and had kept his troops working night and day to repair railroad lines north of federal headquarters at Capitas.

The rebels were known to control territory as far south as Chihuahua City and trainloads of reinforcements were frequently passing through there from Juarez, Nogales and other northern points.

Federals predict the speedy occupation of both Torreon and Durango, expecting rebel troops in those garrisons to desert their generals as soon as they have a chance to join the federals, just as other rebels deserted General Aguirre in Vera Cruz and General Urbalejo at Capitas Sunday.

Federal aviators planned to continue "peaceful bombardment" of the rebels with tracts urging them to loyalty to the government.

A dangerous rebel advance was temporarily checked in Sinaloa, where the federal general, Carrillo, was reported strongly entrenched with 2,000 loyal troops in Mazatlan, barring the rebel road to Mexico City and protecting General Calles' left flank.

General Carrillo was commandeering food supplies in the country-side and issuing rations as though ready to stand siege.

Nine new airplanes, completely equipped with machine guns and bombing apparatus, were being rapidly constructed for the federal government in an American factory. Mexican pilots were under orders to gather within three days at the U. S. naval air station at Anacostia near Washington, to fly the planes to the battle front.

Federals deprived the rebels of a rich part of their war-chest when the Mexican ambassador at Washington announced closing of all Mexican border ports of entry in the states of Sonora and Chihuahua and east coast ports of Sonora. This will prevent the rebels from collecting customs duties there.

The port of Vera Cruz has been recaptured to commerce under federal control. The rebel general, Aguirre, is hiding in the hills, pursued by federals.

Secretary of State Kellogg stated that the rebels had not been recognized as belligerents by the American government and that no such recognition would be given.

Secretary of War Good refused to make public full details of supplies purchased in the United States for the Mexican government as he considered them a "military secret."

Rebels who had planned to send an envoy to Washington announced that his departure had been indefinitely postponed. They gave no reasons.

Gen. Enrique Estrada, secretary of war under General Obregon, has joined the revolution, New York headquarters of the rebels announced. He has gone to the front in Zacatecas.

HOOVER CONFERRED WITH MEMBERS OF CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, March 11—(AP)—Conferences with numerous members of congress in the course of which he received suggestions and recommendations for appointments to federal offices occupied President Hoover's attention today as he swung into the second week of his administration.

In addition, the president talked briefly with three members of his cabinet on departmental affairs, entertained Franklin W. Fort of New Jersey, secretary of the national republican committee, at lunch, and late in the day received the members of the Washington diplomatic corps in the East room of the White House.

It was made known that President Hoover would make no statement on the withdrawal of Horace A. Mann, manager of his southern campaign, from the political field, in spite of the fact that Mann has twice said such a statement might be expected.

AN ARMED BANDIT FLED FROM MAN WITH HATCHET

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 11—(AP)—The way of the hold-up man is strewn with thorns—and hatchets. A young man entered a chain grocery store here tonight, asked the manager, J. Vincent Macdonald, 50, for a half a dozen oranges, and pulled out a pistol when the latter turned his back.

"I'll give you just two seconds to get down into the cellar," said the hold-up man. Instead Macdonald jumped for a hatchet. He chased the young robber three blocks before losing him.

"If only I were 20 years younger," mourned Macdonald, when still holding the hatchet, he reported the matter to the police.

DR. MARKEY RESIGNS FROM FACULTY OF THE C. A. C.

STORRS, March 11—(AP)—The resignation of Dr. John Markey from the faculty of Connecticut Agricultural college was announced today by Acting President Charles B. Gentry. The announcement said Dr. Markey would become head of the departments of sociology and economics at Wheaton college, Norton, Mass., in the fall. The resignation is effective in June.

Dr. Markey, besides his teaching here, has edited a book called "The Symbolic Process and its Integration of Children."

BANK WAS HELD UP BY AN UNMASKED ROBBER

CLINTON, Ind., March 11—(AP)—An unmasked robber held up the Perrysville National bank today, and escaped in an automobile with between $3,000 and $5,000 in currency. Quincy A. Meyers, president of the bank, was alone at the time. Perrysville is 25 miles north of here.

AN ARMY BLIMP WAS FORCED DOWN ON CHESAPEAKE BAY

Craft Was One of Those Battered by Storms After the Inaugural Parade—Was on Test Flight to Determine if It Was Damaged—Believe Patch Was Loosened and Enough Gas Escaped to Force the Dirigible Down—Five Men Aboard Were Rescued.

NORFOLK, Va., March 11—(AP)—After perching on a tree near Buckroe Beach and getting free, the army dirigible TC-10 today made a forced descent on Chesapeake bay near Back river. The crew of four, with Lieut. Col. J. W. S. Wuest, executive officer at Langley field, in command, was rescued, dry and unhurt and the crippled ship having lost much of the valuable helium gas with which it was filled.

The airship will be towed to Langley field, its station, by launches.

Aboard the blimp, besides Colonel Wuest, whose wife, from the windows of her home, saw the descent, were Lieut. Leslie Skinner and Sergts. Harry Balacks and J. Horan of the 15th Airship company.

The craft, one of those that took part in the inaugural parade in Washington last week-end and was battered by storms before reaching its base here, was on a test flight to determine if it had been damaged.

It was believed that a patch on the bag had become loosened during the storm and that while in the air today enough gas escaped and forced it down.

MANAGER OF AIRPORT AND AVIATOR KILLED

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 11—(AP)—Christian Sethvate, manager of the Milwaukee County Airport and Mark McComb, local aviator, were killed tonight when their airplane crashed here.

The accident occurred shortly after the ship, a monoplane, took off from the airport. Attaches said the motor cut off and the machine plunged nose first into a field, burying itself.

McComb, who was piloting the plane, had interested himself recently in airplane manufacture and sale. Sethvate was trained in the army and had been flying for eight years. He was manager of the airport here for the past two years.

DOCTOR, TEACHER, FARMER, SWINDLED IN COPPER STOCK

NEW YORK, March 11—(AP)—A doctor, a retired school teacher, a farmer, an insurance man and a locksmith were among those who testified in federal court today that they lost their savings in an alleged $5,000,000 copper stock swindle for which John and Herbert Locke, George R. Shurtleff and three others are on trial.

The farmer, Joseph Storz, of Lucerne, Pa., said that after buying 3,100 shares of Canario Copper, he visited the offices of Cameron, Michel & Co., defunct brokerage concern, on May 19, 1927, and demanded his money.

"Go down and tell the attorney-general about it," he said Shurtleff replied. "Go down and get your money back. You have been there already and when you go again get my money too. I've got 11,000 shares of Canario Copper myself."

"I will and I'll do it now," Storz testified he answered.

Shurtleff then exclaimed, according to the witness: "Go on. Get out of here or I'll throw you out."

Storz said his final remark was: "All right, I'll go but you're going to jail."

Among others who said they bought Cerario was Fred A. Grelly, farmer, of Pelham, N. H.

LEGISLATURE TODAY WILL DEBATE BIRTH CONTROL

HARTFORD, March 11—(AP)—Birth control is scheduled to become a topic for debate on the floor of the Connecticut legislature tomorrow for the first time since the start of a movement for the repeal of the state law against the use of contraceptives in the 1923 session. Bills for the repeal of the law have been introduced in each succeeding session, and until this year each had died quietly on the unfavorable report of the judiciary committee. This year, however, history has repeated itself only as far as the committee and the senate are concerned, with Judge Peck of Bristol, having announced his intention to take the floor of the house to speak against the report recommending the rejection of the bill.

TWO ELEVATED TRAINS CRASHED IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 11—(AP)—Two persons are near death from injuries received today when two elevated railroad trains crashed during the rush hour period. More than a score of other passengers were less seriously hurt, while hundreds were shocked and shaken by the impact.

Joseph Scabuto, 19, received internal injuries, crushed legs and possible skull fracture. E. C. Mironowicz, 21, was injured internally and suffered severe lacerations. Both may die, doctor said.

The accident occurred at a busy West Side station, where one loop-bound train had stopped for passengers. Another loop-bound train crashed into the rear of the first. Acetylene torches had to be used to separate the trains.

Rocco Cutro, motorman of the second train, told police that the brakes failed to hold. He was being held pending investigation.

RULES OF CONDUCT FOR JUGO-SLAVIA SCHOOL GIRLS

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, March 11—(AP)—Declaring that Jugoslavia's school girls must devote more time to education and sports than beautifying themselves, Premier Zivkovitch today decreed that all school authorities must refuse admission to girls using lipsticks and powder and wearing short skirts and silk stockings.

The premier's action was largely prompted by defiance of the new regulations on the part of the daughter of a cabinet minister who declared she was exempt from restrictions because of the official position of her father.

VICE PRESIDENT CURTIS NOW AT MIAMI BEACH

MIAMI, Fla., March 11—(AP)—Vice President Charles Curtis arrived here tonight to spend several days at the Miami Beach home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Lasker.

He was greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Lasker, and by Mayor Louis F. Snediger, of Miami Beach and Mayor E. G. Sewell of Miami. The reception was informal, in accordance with wishes previously expressed by Mr. Curtis.

"I'll probably be here for two or three days," he said in response to queries as to the length of his first visit to this section of Florida. "I do not know just yet what I will do, but I am certain that it will be something of a recreational nature."

HEINE HAD PLAGIARIZED NOVEL BY CONAN DOYLE

BRUSSELS, March 11—(AP)—Word was received today that Frank Heine, alleged forger of the purported Franco-Belgian military treaty, had been convicted by a Dutch court of plagiarizing a novel by Conan Doyle. Damages of $1,000 francs were assessed against him.

KING BORIS OF BULGARIA IS TRAVELING INCOGNITO

VIENNA, March 11—(AP)—King Boris of Bulgaria, traveling in such profound secrecy that even the Austrian police and his own minister to Vienna were unaware of his coming until an hour before, arrived here tonight in an ordinary second class train with his sister, Princess Eudoxie.

Knowing that he would be sought by reporters looking for information regarding his possible marriage, the king slipped off the train before it entered the station and was spirited away to the Bulgarian legation. His sister got off at the station and drove away in a taxicab. The young princess at first denied her identity to reporters and declared that her brother was not in the city.

Guarded by a flock of Austrian and Bulgarian secret service men, the princess looked frightened, worn, and pale. She admitted that the railroad journey had been tiresome. She refused to say how long she would stay here or to disclose the future movements of her brother. While she took a small two dollar room at an obscure hotel, Boris spent the night at the legation. Both buildings were guarded by detectives.

To assure their incognito, both the king and princess traveled in most ordinary street attire and carried shabby suitcases. The Austrian police did not require them to present passports or to formally register.

Although the king insists that the object of his visit is to consult specialists concerning an ear trouble, he is popularly believed to intend a visit to Rome to court Princess Giovanna.

PAMPHLET BY SOVIET INFORMATION BUREAU

WASHINGTON, March 11—(AP)—The soviet union information bureau, announcing the issue this week of a 283 page volume outlining the economic, cultural and administrative development of the soviet union, today made public figures showing great economic, agricultural and industrial progress over pre-war conditions.

The bureau told the Russian agricultural output now is about equal to that before the war, and is double the low mark of 1921, while the industrial output of last year was 25 per cent, above pre-war production in volume, with an almost eight-fold increase since 1921.

The book lists a number of important economic proects now in course of development and asserts that the large state industries now are yielding an annual net profit of over $300,000,000. It said between $775,000,000 and $850,000,000 is being spent on industrial expansion this year.

Soviet customs figures are given to show that Soviet-American trade last year amounted to over $111,000,000 of which almost $97,000,000 represented soviet purchases in the United States, mostly cotton, machinery and metals. The United States is second to Germany in exports to Russia.

FORMER CONVICT TELLS OF PAYING FOR PAROLE

NEW YORK, March 11—(AP)—A former convict, witness at the hearing today of U. S. Attorney Tuttle's motion to have the name of Marcus Helfand, bankruptcy attorney, stricken from the rolls of the federal courts, testified that Helfand had accepted $5,000 on the assertion he could influence a decision of Federal Judge Francis A. Winslow.

The former convict was Meyer Kaplan, who in 1926 was sentenced by Federal Judge Francis A. Winslow to 18 months in Atlanta penitentiary for using the mails to defraud in a bankruptcy case. The case was carried on appeal, without avail, to the United States supreme court, and then President Coolidge denied an appeal for commutation.

But suddenly Kaplan was placed on probation by Judge Winslow, and Kaplan said today that he believed the jurist in effect overruled the president because the convicted man paid $5,000 to a lawyer and promised $5,000 more. When he could not make the second paymenth he said Judge Winslow revoked the probation order, "for cause," and sent him to prison.

ANNUAL ELECTION OF BOROUGH OF GREENWICH

GREENWICH, March 11—(AP)—The ballot box and checking list of voters was used for the first time tonight in the history of the borough when at the annual election Frederick J. Whalen, running in opposition to the old guard ticket, was defeated by John J. Koellmer Jr., whose name appeared on the regular borough ticket as a candidate for board of burgess.

Koellmer received 215 of the 217 votes cast. Warden Joseph P. Crosby, who has held the office for 14 years and the other five members of the board of burgesses including Richard H. Outwater, member of the Indian Harbor Yacht club as well as the tax collector, treasurer and bailiff, were all re-elected by acclamation.

COUNCIL MEETING AGAIN POSTPONED; LACK OF QUORUM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, March 11—Lack of a quorum tonight caused a postponement of the regular March meeting of the common council until Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock when it is hoped that at least four, necessary for a quorum of the council, will find it possible to attend. Aldermen William E. Webber, Eugene B. Lewis and C. A. Lamoureux were present tonight. The aldermen, with Mayor Charles A. Gates, Corporation Counsel W. A. King and City Clerk A. L. Clark waited until after 8 o'clock in the hope that an additional alderman would arrive. At this point Mayor Gates announced the postponement. It was learned that Alderman O. L. Willard arrived during the week end from a trip in the south, was confined to his home by a cold and that Alderman John Reilly was out of town on business.

Much interest had been aroused in tonight's scheduled meeting as it was expected that definite action would be taken on the filling of the vacancies caused in the first ward office by the death of Alderman William E. Jackson. The aldermen indicated that they were prepared to act and would do so tomorrow night. The gallery was well-filled tonight by representative electors of the First Ward, who have prepared a petition bearing over 100 names of the First Ward residents, requesting the council to elect Robert A. Hanna to fill the vacancy. It is known that what appears to be a majority of the council will present and stand back of the name of C. E. MacFarlane to fill the office. However, a dissension in favor of either or both the names of Mr. Hanna or of Wilfred A. Gagnon looms ominously. Several of the First Warders stated tonight that in the event that Mr. Hanna is not entered in the run they will switch their support to Mr. Gagnon. Alfred R. Handfield, a member of the republican ward committee, will appear as spokesman for the petitioners at the council meeting.

A large and appreciative audience attended the concert program given at the Congregational church auditorium tonight by Edgralin's Filipino quartet, which appeared in instrumental and vocal selections. The concert was under the auspices of the Congregational church Brotherhood.

RUSSELL WAUGHT ARRESTED FOR DEFRAUDING HOTEL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 11—Russell Waught, 21, giving his residence as Hartford, was taken into custody this morning by Officer Arthur Hurley and will be arraigned in police court Tuesday morning on a charge of defrauding the Nathan Hale hotel of room and board amounting to $107.50. Waught was arrested as he completed a sentence imposed in New Britain and served in the Hartford county jail for a similar offense. He was placed in the lock-up here to await trial.

Between May 10 and 20 of last year Waught, in company with a young woman who formerly resided in South Windham and whom he represented as his wife, registered at the local hotel under the names of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hughes of New York city. When he was cautioned about the increasing bill at the hotel he explained to the management that he was a musician in the U. S. army band and that he momentarily expected a service check. He claimed that he was then on furlough. Waught and the young woman successfully made their exodus from the hotel and in New Britain the young man tried the same stunt but was caught.

Several local business men are planning to attend a hearing before the roads, rivers and bridges committee of the general assembly Tuesday afternoon when the matter of incorporating into the trunk line highway system proposed improvement to the road leading from Lebanon Center to Willimantic will be taken up. The local group will attend in the interest of having the committee act favorably on the proposition which has the full endorsement of the chamber of commerce. A new highway to Lebanon via Village Hill would serve as an important link between this city and one of its most important rural trading sources.

Committees Named.

President Emma Snow of A. C. Tyler auxiliary, No. 14, U. S. W. V., has named the following committee for the ensuing year: Auditing, Rachael Gallagher, Mary Mullen and Mary Mara; ways and means, Elsie Warren, Nora McCarthy, Rose Moreau; entertainment, Mary Ashton, Marceline English, Mary Sweeney, Marceline English, Henrietta Judge; investigating, Catherine Joyce, Dina Lavigne, Nellie Lynch; memorial, Nora McCarthy, Mary Benoit, Marie Gleason; relief, Minnie Flynn, Catherine Joyce and Mabel Peck. Members of Mary B. Cheney auxiliary of South Manchester have been invited to attend an entertainment and supper on March 22.

REPORT OF CHAMBER DRIVE WORKERS WEDNESDAY NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 11—A report meeting of the 60 workers who went out to complete the budget of $5,300 necessary to continue the 1929 program of the chamber of commerce will be held Wednesday night. While considerable of the quota was received in the opening of the drive several weeks ago a balance of $1,500 remained uncollected owing to the fact that the efforts of the chamber committees were forcibly diverted to other channels. Early reports made today on the resumed campaign indicated that the full amount would be realized.

Saunders, Hoosy Discharged.

U. S. Commissioner Russell Corcoran in a session held before him at Hartford discharged Charles Saunders of Manchester Green and Frank Hooey of Bolton who were charged with violation of the liquor law by manufacturing and having liquor in their possession. The commissioner stated that in his opinion the parties directly implicated with the manufacture of liquor on the Saunders property were not the accused. Saunders and Hooey were arrested by the federal agents after a giant still on the former's farm on Bailey Road, Bolton, had exploded, destroying the liquor plant and the barn in which it was located. The federal agents indicated that they expected to make further arrests in the case.

In the City Court.

At the session of police court this morning Louis Porsto of 127 Market street, Hartford, was charged with failure to have an operator's license in his possession. He claimed that the license had been left in another suit of clothes and the case was continued until Tuesday morning to give the accused an opportunity to produce the certificate in court. Stewart L. Pitcher of Lebanon was charged with having a defective tail-light and swinging markers on the truck he was driving. Pitcher stated that the truck was not his own property and that in driving merely as an accommodation for a friend he did not discern the defective equipment. Judge Foss imposed a fine of three dollars and costs, remitting the amount of the fine.

Mrs. Lucille H. Bailey of Washington, D. C., arrived this afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Harroun, having been called here by the serious illness of Mr. Harroun who is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital. Mr. Harroun is principal of the Natchaug grammar school and is dean of educators in Windham.

Mrs. William A. Buck is confined to her home by a painful injury to her knee sustained about a week ago.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Case have returned from a short stay in Boston, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Loomis had as week end guests the Misses Hazel Jones and Irene Hamilton, teachers in Hartford.

Richard Pickett, a student at Dean Academy, Franklin, Mass., was a week end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Pickett.

Mrs. Henry R. Lincoln returned today from a visit of several weeks in New Haven.

Chest Clinic Tuesday.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of Norwich will hold his weekly free chest clinic at the Visiting Nurse association rooms on Main street at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

MERCHANTS BUSY GETTING READY FOR SPRING OPENING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 11—Store owners and their window decorators were busily at work today painting and building trellises and the like in preparation for the special window decorations that will be a big feature of the spring opening days next Friday and Saturday. A number of storerooms visited today were found brimming with packing cases recently received and containing fashion's latest decrees in styles for all lines of merchandise.

City Health Officer Dr. William P. S. Keating resumed his practice today after a three weeks' illness with a bad attack of the grip.

Mrs. Andrew Crowley has returned to her home in Milwaukee, Wis., after a two weeks' visit with her mother, Mrs. Annie Vanderman and family.

Alderman and Mrs. Oliver L. Willard and Judge and Mrs. Otto R. Robinson returned Sunday night from a four weeks' automobile trip through the South.

Mrs. Sarah G. Backus received word today that her son, Ernest Champlain, is ill with pneumonia in Seattle, Wash.

The first warranty deed to be filed at the office of the town clerk in two weeks shows the sale, over the week end, of a tract of land on Brickton Road by Mabel E. Bowen to Robert L. Lincoln of this city. The tract is on the northerly side of the highway and covers six acres.

Town Clerk and Mrs. Frank P. Fenton returned this past week end after an enjoyable sojourn of a month in Florida. Town Clerk Fenton resumed his duties at the town building today.

Mrs. Edward J. Pare of Providence is spending two weeks as guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Hevrin and family.

Miss Elizabeth M. Case is substituting for Miss Miriam Bunker, teacher of civics at Windham high school, who is confined to her home by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Hall of Hampton left today by automobile to spend several weeks on a tour of the southern states.

Mrs. Frederick Mott is entertaining for a few days her daughter, Miss Louise Hansen, member of the faculty of the People's hospital of New York city.

Mrs. L. J. Tubridy sent word today that she is on her way back from Florida and will spend a few days with her son, Joseph Tubridy in New York city.

COLCHESTER

MRS. F. P. LATIMER, HTFD., TO ADDRESS D. A. R. CHAPTER

Colonel Henry Champion chapter, D. A. R., is to hold a meeting at the home of Mrs. H. J. Bailey Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Frederick P. Latimer of Hartford, formerly of Groton, will give an address on Americanization work done by the D. A. R. at Ellis Island.

Nathaniel Foote chapter house of the local D. A. R. society which has been closed since December 1st is to be open to visitors again about May first. During the time from May 30 to Nov. 30, 1928 one hundred and eighty callers from out of town entered their names on the visitors' register. These visitors included people from South Africa, India, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Michigan, New York, Connecticut, Iowa, California, Colorado, West Virginia, Kansas, Illinois, New Hampshire, Minnesota, Oregon, Indiana, Ohio, Tennessee, North Carolina, Rhode Island, Maryland, New Jersey, Virginia, District of Columbia and Canada. The many articles of historic interest kept at the chapter house are a great drawing card to visitors.

Charles T. Williams and his sister, Miss Eleanor Williams have returned home after several weeks' visit with their nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Williams, in Wallingford.

A number of the school children are bringing bunches of pussy willows to their teachers. Several people report seeing blue birds during the past few days, so that spring is apparently just around the corner.

John N. Phelps of Westchester Center was in the village, Monday.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the young people's division of the C. E. society in the Congregational chapel, Sunday evening. Miss Doris Riley was the leader, the topic for discussion being "How to Become a Christian." At the close of the meeting a very impressive candle service was held under the leadership of Mrs. Tompkins and Miss Riley. Two new members were taken in during the evening.

Friends of the Robert Dean family of Canterbury were sorry to hear of the death of their oldest son, Douglas Dean, 26, Thursday at St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic. The Dean family were former residents of the neighboring town of Hebron. Douglas Dean attended Bacon Academy here for a few years during which time he made many friends among the young people.

James O'Brien has the contract for removing the great mass of fallen limbs and broken branches of trees from the park in the center of the village, following the havoc wrought by the recent snow and wind storm.

JEWETT CITY

BUILDERS IGNORE LAW—FAIL TO SEEK PERMIT

A subject of some discussion at the March meeting of the board of borough government was occasioned by the procedure of builders who now and then, either through ignorance of the borough law or in disregard of it, erect buildings without first receiving the proper legal permit. Warden E. J. Jodoin declares that the law is plain, touching this matter. It is also equally apparent that infractions only serve to delay, for such builders, certain courtesies and privileges which it is within the power of the borough officials to grant.

JOE FABER LEAVING TO JOIN WESTERN LEAGUE

Joe Faber is leaving this week for Omaha, Neb., where he is to sign up with the Western league. A native of Jewett City, Joe has been making good for several seasons in the New York and Pennsylvania league with the fast record recently with the York, Pa., team.

The western engagement will land him where his merit has picked out for him a place with the big leaguers.

30-Mill Tax For Lisbon

At a special meeting of the legal voters of the town of Lisbon, held Saturday, a 30-mill tax was laid to meet next year's current expenses. With considerable difference in tax rates for several years, Griswold and Lisbon are under the wire together in the 30-mills class.

Airmail Letter

Miss Mary Desrosiers is the proud possessor of a letter from a friend aboard U. S. S. Marblehead, dated at Christobal, Colon, Canal Zone. The letter came over to the states with Col. Lindbergh on one of his newly established air mail routes, thence by air to Hadley Field. The envelope bears the air mail stamps of the Canal Zone and the new sesquiangle U. S. air mail design.

Edward Rousseau is in Boston attending the spring sales meetings, Monday and Tuesday, of the General Electric refrigerator dealers, held at the Copley Plaza.

Few Birds Seen

A check-up on local winter birds that have in recent years been classed as "common," reveals some change in their accustomed visits. Chickadees and nut-hatches once commonly seen in most any orchard tree have been few allowing that reports indicate their frequency. One observer is of the opinion that these interesting winter acrobats have withdrawn more to country orchards he having noted but one nuthatch and one chickadee. As differing from the winter of 1927-28, three local woodpeckers have been mentioned. The gorgeous "wake-up" variety has been often seen, while on a single piece of suet during the brisk snow squall of Thursday last, both the hairy and downy appeared within an hour for a morning luncheon.

The Old Burnham Inn

There is some possibility that the one-time well known T. D. Phillips place, in Lisbon, may come into its own again and once more, though even in age, be situated again on one of the new Boston and New York trunk lines. The older of the town's residents recall stories told back in Revolutionary times, that prove the Captain Burnham's inn as being often in the limelight of another age. A fine engraving of this historic roadhouse is to be seen in H. F. Bishop's book, printed 25 years ago. He said this old stage tavern or inn was kept for a long time by Captain Benjamin Burnham. It was on the direct stage line from Boston to New York, and the big four-horse stages always stopped there to change horses. It was famous in the time of the cholera scare of '32 and '33. There were then three stages each way, daily. The foaming panting horses, when they drew up on the front green, were heralded by the post-horns' mellow tones. On Saturday, September 3rd at 4 o'clock, p. m., during the early struggles of the Revolution, an express arrived in Norwich from Col. Israel Putnam, that Boston had been attacked, the night before, and that six citizens had been killed. This rumor caused the greatest consternation. The citizens of Norwich assembled about their liberty tree, and resolved to dispatch an express stage to Providence to learn the truth. David Nevins volunteered and was dispatched on this service. The next day 464 citizens started for Boston. At this famous inn in Lisbon, they halted for the night, later disbanding on the green, that is the same today, when hearing proof that the report was "not true."

Eino Karjalo was taken to New York Sunday night by his son, and at half past one, he was operated upon for appendicitis at St. Luke's hospital. Monday his condition was reported as favorable to recovery.

ARBOR DAY FOUNDER TO RECEIVE HONORS

WASHINGTON —(AP)— J. Sterling Morton, who inaugurated the custom of Arbor day in Nebraska in 1872, will be honored by the American Tree association this year. Details of a fitting nation-wide observance are to be worked out.

Spring, officially due in the United States at 9.55 p. m. eastern standard time March 20, will mark the swinging into action of the nation's tree planting army. Charles Morton Pack, president of the association, has tree planting suggestions ready for scouts, camp fire girls, women's clubs and schools.

Mr. Pack has given 3,000,000 forestry primers to the schools of the country. He has given the Charles Lathrop Pack foundation to the Yale School of Forestry and established demonstration forests for the New York State College of Forestry and the University of Washington at Seattle.

WESTERLY

GRAY LINE BUS DRIVER IS HELD RESPONSIBLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 11—Inspector Albert O. Earle of the state board of public roads, after visitation to the site of the Gray Line bus fire on the Noose Neck Hill road leading from Hope Valley to Westerly and to the injured patients at the Westerly hospital, together with examining other witnesses, has made his report. The finding declares that the bus operator Daniel A. Gass, neglected his duty and failed to aid passengers when the motor bus caught fire and was burned, causing the death of two of the occupants.

Attention is called to the fact that the passenger bus, according to witnesses interviewed, passed through Hope Valley at a 50 mile an hour rate of speed, shooting smoke and flames from the rear exhaust and inasmuch as the bus heaters are warmed by the exhaust, they became dangerously hot and ignited inflammable material inside the bus.

Brief Court Session

Civil matters were considered Monday in the Washington county superior court at Westerly courthouse, by Associate Justice Herbert L. Carpenter. The morning session with all the petit jurors present was a brief one for at 11:15 Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell announced before the judge came into the courtroom that spare jurors were excused until Wednesday morning at 10:45. Wednesday the automobile damage case, Edmund Vennard vs. Harold Libme, is set down for trial, which it is expected will take a week or more.

The case of Gavitt Furniture company, John O. Mills, prop., vs. Walter L. Clarke, did not come before the court. A stipulation was filed in which the respondent submitted to a judgment for $1,075 and costs.

At 11:30 a. m., Judge Carpenter took the bench for a few minutes when three applicants for citizenship appeared in court with their witnesses. Two foreswore allegiance to King George of England and one to King Victor Emanuel of Italy.

KENNETH RIDGE TANGLE TO BE SETTLED BY COURTS

Final disposition of the Kenneth Ridge property at Watch Hill awaits the action of the Rhode Island superior court. Action was taken Monday by Mrs. Ethel M. Baron, wife of a Brookline, Mass., physician, petitioning Judge Hugh Baker to order the Kenneth Ridge company of Westerly to comply with a contract for exchange of property which she says it agreed to do. Daniel J. Sully, who at one time earned the title of "Cotton King" by his spectacular financial operations in Chicago, and whose daughter is a former wife of Douglas Fairbanks, movie star, is president of the Westerly company. John W. Sweeney is secretary. According to testimony presented by Mrs. Baron, she had agreed to exchange her equity in a four-story warehouse at 24-32 Farnsworth street, Boston, for the Kenneth Ridge company's equity in an estate known as Kenneth Ridge, at Watch Hill. An agreement to that effect was drawn up and signed July 28, 1927. In addition, the company agreed to sell her most of the house furnishings for $9,500. She was to give a note for the furniture and was to secure the note by a mortgage on the estate. The Westerly concern has indicated as its defense allegations that Mrs. Baron represented the net income from the warehouse to be about $4,800 a year and that that figure was inaccurate. For that reason they say they declined to fulfil the contract Aug. 9, 1927, as had been agreed.

MRS. STEWART'S FUNERAL FOLLOWS THAT OF BROTHER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 11—Monday morning, at 8:30 o'clock, the funeral of Mrs. Isabella Stewart, wife of Matthew Stewart was held from her home, 4 School street. High mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. J. F. Vincent, S. M., at the Church of the Immaculate Conception at 9 o'clock. The bearers were John Hitchens, Robert Dunn, Peter McIntosh, Albert Stewart, Charles Langworthy and William Loomis. Burial was in River Bend cemetery. Mrs. Stewart was the daughter of Robert and Marie McIntosh, born in Manchester, England. She was united in marriage with Matthew Stewart in England about 39 years ago. They came to this country 28 years ago, moving to Westerly from Dedham, Mass., ten years ago.

Besides her husband she is survived by four sons, William of New Orleans, John of Boston, and Robert and Matthew, Jr., of Westerly, and by a daughter, Mrs. Charles Langworthy, of Stanton street, Pawcatuck. A brother, William McIntosh, of Clifton, N. J., and two sisters, Mrs. Edward Hitchens, of Clifton, N. J., and Mrs. Lillian Reid, of Paterson, N. J., also survive her. A brother, Alfred McIntosh was buried in Paterson yesterday and many of the relatives came here today to attend the funeral of Mrs. Stewart. There were a number of relatives and friends here also from Pawtucket, R. I., and Clifton, N. J.

Mrs. Axel Nelson

Funeral services for Mrs. Augusta Marie Nelson, 58, widow of Axel Nelson, were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home on Cross street. Rev. Luther G. Coburn, pastor of the Pawcatuck Congregational church, and Rev. S. M. Cathcart, a former pastor of the church, conducted the services. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. Burial was in River Bend cemetery. The bearers were Louis and Oscar Benson, John Beattie, Robert M. Kessel, William Dower and Mal Della Chiesa.

STONINGTON

FINE NEW HIGHWAY TO COST ABOUT $400,000

Civil engineers from the Connecticut state board of public roads have been surveying on the Hinckley Hill road from Pawcatuck to Old Mystic for the laying out of new lines of the Old Pequot Trail. It is estimated that this four-mile stretch extending from West Broad and South Broad streets, Pawcatuck, to the Road church, will cost about $400,000. It will be a state road and par of the cost will be received from the federal aid fund. Residents and land owners along this line will be greatly benefited by the new highway.

MECHANICS' SOCIAL LARGELY ATTENDED

A largely attended invitation dance and social was given by the American Mechanics in their hall at the week-end. Old and new dances were enjoyed to music furnished by Seymour maker's orchestra. Guests were present from Mystic, Old Mystic, Stonington and Ledyard. Refreshments were served at intermission. The committee in charge of the series of dances was Frank Schoonmaker, Halstead Brown and Edward Andrews.

The Nuggets defeated the local Whirlwinds in the second game of the series at Corona hall, 33 to 30. The Whirlwinds displayed much better pass work than the Nuggets, and were ahead for more than three-quarters of the game. Giant Sweet, a former Whirlwind, but now a Nugget, was a big factor in winning the game for the Nuggets. He scored ten points in the last half. The score at the end of the first quarter was 8-7 in favor of the Whirlwinds. They had the Nuggets 16-15 at the half. The third quarter ended, 23-24, still in the Whirlwinds' favor, but in the last quarter with 30 seconds to play, the Nuggets were seven points ahead, but the Whirlwinds' spurt came too late, but they sank two field goals before the final whistle. Sweet and Braeci were high scorer for the Nuggets with ter points each. D. Robertson held the honors for the Whirlwinds with nine points. Clarke and Chesebro followed closely with eight points each. Referee, E. Fitzpatrick; scorer, E. Ellis, and timer, R. Rathbun.

Mr. and Mrs. Almon J. Meister were recent callers in New Bedford.

Frank Trafian, of East Greenwich, spent the week-end with his family on Main street.

Prof. and Mrs. E. P. Jepson, of Yale, spent Saturday at their summer home on Lighthouse Point.

Miss Ann Robertson, of New London, spent Sunday at her home on Spring street.

The Reading club is to meet at the home of Mrs. Albany R. Smith, Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. R. White, of Crompton, R. I., are spending a few days with relatives here.

DON'T STARVE TO END FAT

Few succeed without harm. Try the modern way, embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. The results are seen everywhere.

Marmola contains a gland element which helps turn food into fuel and energy. The formula appears in every box, also the reasons for results. Thus you will know how the changes occur without harm.

All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box. Go start it now. Take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. Do this because of the new beauty and vim which Marmola has brought to so many, for so long.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.

Fannie Ward
Famous for Her Ever-Youthful Appearance.

"'Reach for a Lucky and not for a sweet.' That's been my policy ever since Luckies started—my way of retaining the figure I need to be known as the ever-youthful Fannie Ward. So I say to you women who want to cheat time as I have done, 'Reach for a Lucky and not for a sweet.'"

FANNIE WARD

THE modern common sense way—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. Everyone is doing it—men keep healthy and fit, women retain a trim figure. Lucky Strike, the finest tobaccos, skilfully blended, then toasted to develop a flavor which is a delightful alternative for that craving for fattening sweets.

Toasting frees Lucky Strike from impurities. 20,679 physicians recognize this when they say Luckies are less irritating than other cigarettes. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This confirms in no uncertain terms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

DANIELSON

KILLINGLY VOTES INCREASED TAX RATE OF 29 1-2 MILLS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 11—There are probably as many as 500 citizens of the town of Killingly that surged into the townhall tonight for the adjourned annual town meeting at which the bone of contention was as to whether the tax rate of the town should be as high as 29 1-2 mills this year, a very considerable advance over the tax rate for last year. The meeting was one of the most fiery that this town has seen in a number of years. There was much talk in opposition to the increase which is abhorred by everyone but in the end after all the debate and the pros and cons the meeting finally adopted the budget, submitted by the selectmen for discussion and voted the new and higher tax rate, imposing more or less expense on every real property taxpayer in the town. A half of a dozen columns would not contain the detail of the debate so it will not be attempted here. A particular item of discussion was one of $7,500 for gravelling the roads of the town during the present year. It was valiantly opposed by former Selectman Patrick Riley of Danielson, but was finally included in the budget. There are those in the meeting, and many of them, that regard this item as political revenue for those who have teams to let and men who need work from the town but it went into the budget just the same. The taxes voted tonight are payable on the third Monday of April. Attorney Harry E. Bach was chairman of the meeting and had a more or less difficult time in keeping the turbulent meeting in order.

BILL SILENT ON PROPOSED CHANGE IN CRIMINAL CODE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 11—Coroner Arthur G. Bill expressed his interest today in the fact that Attorneys William A. King and Samuel B. Harvey, counsel for Deputy Trenor A. Rice, have filed application with the judiciary committee of the legislature for an amendment to the criminal code of the state that would make the letters or notes left by Mrs. Gertrude Jackson after she had committed suicide admissible as evidence at Rice's trial, scheduled to be held in April. Coroner Bill contented himself with expressing his interest. He would not discuss the move, which has a provision requiring him to release the contents of the notes to defense counsel.

Coroner Bill said that he hoped to arrange to complete the inquest in the death of County Detective W. E. Jackson this week, though today he had fixed no definite day. "I am anxious to have the inquest completed," Mr. Bill said.

Raymond F. Kelly and Peter DeFitta, youths who were questioned at the state police barracks here Sunday relative to stealing clothing supposed to have come from stores in Moosup and Putnam, though this did not prove to be the case, have been dealt with promptly, and will steal no more clothing for some time to come. Today in the Worcester county superior court each received a sentence of two years in prison. The fact that both have records and have served time either for larceny or breaking and entering figured in the severity of the sentence they have received for stealing clothing out of DuFault's department store at Oxford Saturday. Kelly and DeFitta live in Providence, or at least call that city their home.

There is buried treasure in Danielson and in other nearby towns, take the word of the current issue of the Telephone Bulletin for it. It isn't gold or other precious metal, to be sure, but one would hesitate to say that it is none the less valuable. This item has to do with an article in the publication mentioned dealing with the underground cable that runs through this community and something of the history of it. The recent inauguration of a new president in Washington revives the story. The buried treasure is an underground cable, the first long distance one in the country. On March 4 1904, when President-elect Taft was being inaugurated a blizzard swept the east, and it destroyed all lines of communication between Washington, New York and New England. Says the article in the Telephone Bulletin, this failure was accepted as a challenge by the American Telephone and Telegraph company. The answer is the underground cable between Washington and Boston and while whoever happens to be reading these lines is so doing messages are being transmitted over it, protected from interruption by any storm that might disrupt aerial lines. The cross-country underground in Connecticut is roughly, from Stamford to Danielson, via Bridgeport, New Haven, Meriden, Hartford and Manchester. Construction of it was started in 1905, and several years required to complete it. The first toll cable was installed between Stamford and New Haven in 1906. This was known as the "A" cable. Other cables have since been installed and the installation of cables continues regularly in this underground route, increasing the value of the "buried treasure" now representing an immense amount of money.

In a financial way Danielson has benefited generously, and many times from this underground line. Crews working upon it, for one reason or another, have made their headquarters here for months at a time and likely will continue to do so. Through this territory the underground is marked by short cement stubs, bearing numerals. The cable follows the state highway from Brooklyn into Danielson, cuts off at Franklin street and heads eastward past the Old Furnace into South Killingly, where it again is at the edge of the state highway into Providence.

Jeremiah J. Malone of New Haven is the first person to be prosecuted in the Killingly court since March 1 for driving without having one of the new operators' licenses. He was fined $2 and costs, a total of $12.37, when presented before Judge W. Fenner Woodward this afternoon after being nabbed by State Officer Donald I. Geddes. A license costs $3.00. Malone's only explanation for not having a license was that getting one had slipped his mind.

Agitation here for the clearing up of electrical disturbances that interfere with radio reception has brought to hand a copy of a city ordinance of Los Angeles intended to control just such a condition as prevails in Danielson. There have been a bit much about the matter, it would seem, out in the city of Angels. The first section of the ordinance mentioned provides that it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation in the city of Los Angeles operating any apparatus generating or causing high frequency oscillations which interferes with radio broadcast receiving to use such devices between the hours of 6 p. m. and 11 p. m. Exceptions are made in emergency cases for physicians or dentists using electrical machines for emergency treatment. The punishment for violation of the ordinance is plenty. Fine not to exceed $500, or six months in jail or both. Danielson hardly would insist upon any such drastic arrangement as that. The ordinance is mentioned to show how far at least one city has gone to clear up a condition that is irritating to such a large percentage of any given community in the country.

This afternoon at the home at Killingly Center funeral services were conducted for James L. Boyd by Rev. A. E. Gallup of the Nazerene church of Danielson. Relatives and numbers of friends of Mr. Boyd's attended the service. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery in Central Village. The bearers were Victor Robinson of Attleboro, Archie Boyd of Central Falls, William Hill of Moosup and Percy Hammond of Danielson. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

This morning at the home in Brooklyn the death of Francis A. House occurred. Mr. House was 88 years old, passing his last birthday in November. He had been resident in Brooklyn about five years. Mr. House was a native of Chatham, this state, a son of Samuel and Susan Pierson House. He leaves his wife, four sons, Arthur and William of Brooklyn, Henry and Bert both in Colorado, and two daughters, Addie of Deep River and Susan of Hartford. The body is to be taken after funeral services to Haddam Neck for burial.

Alanson Colvin, here today, has been flying throughout the winter at and near Charleston Beach, R. I. Part of the time he has been acting as instructor for student aviators.

Attorney E. L. Darbie, as deputy grand master of Connecticut, was at Naugatuck this evening attending the institution of a new Masonic lodge.

As guest of the members of Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter, D. A. R., members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., were at Putnam this afternoon to hear an address by Mrs. Alice Collins Gleason of Providence.

Almost simultaneously, today came reports of robins being seen near Wauregan and near Dayville.

When Brooklyn grange meets Tuesday of this week the program calls for a competitive night. The married members who will have a part in the program are Mrs. Cora D. Pape and E. M. M. Marlor, the single members Miss Helen L. Witter and Judge O. F. Atwood. The social committee for the evening is made up of Mrs. Abbie Kent and Mrs. William Sangster.

There was a time Sunday morning during the city hotel fire at Putnam when the department of that city was in touch with Chief A. P. Woodward of the Danielson department relative to being ready to respond with aid, but it so happened that the Putnam firemen handled the dangerous fire without outside assistance.

It was said today that it is probable that the special committee of the town that arranged with certified public accountants for an audit of the town records will meet this week to discuss the calling at an early date of a special town meeting to hear the auditors' report, a very lengthy document.

Atonement—God's Discipline will be the subject of Rev. Harding W. Gaylord's address Thursday evening at the Westfield Congregational church, this being one of a series of addresses arranged for the mid-week services during the Lenten season.

Mrs. A. C. Greene and her daughter Miss Alice Greene, of North Main street, both have been under the doctor's care since the funeral of Deacon A. C. Greene and confined to their beds. As soon as she is able, Mrs. Greene is to go to the home of her son George, in Cambridge, Mass. Miss Alice Greene hopes to close the home here about May 1, and join her mother and sister, Mary, in occupying an apartment in Cambridge about June 1.

For Wednesday evening members of the Men's club of the Methodist Episcopal church have a meeting scheduled.

Rev. Edward H. Byington, D. D., of Gordon Bible college, Boston, is to speak at a Lenten meeting at the Congregational church in Wauregan Wednesday evening, the meeting being under the auspices of the Windham Union of Congregational Ministers, The Putnam Clergy Fellowship and Willimantic Ministers' association.

Lieut. Albert S. Field, inspector lieutenant of the state police department and formerly in charge of the Danielson barracks was a visitor here today.

PUTNAM

PUTNAM LAYS TAX OF 12 1-2 MILLS ON LIST

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 11—Putnam property owners will be assessed this year a tax rate of 12 1-2 mills, the same rate as applied to property a year ago. This was the outcome of the adjourned town meeting held in the city hall on Church street this morning. A mere handful of voters appeared at the meeting to express their rights. Whitman Danielson was elected moderator and Henry Benoit presided as clerk.

The call was read and the tax rate recommended by the board of selectmen was unanimously approved by those present.

Byron D. Buzbee, chairman of the committee in charge of the John H. and Mary Wadsworth Gardner library fund, left to a committee in a revisal of the Gardner will, read a complete report of the fund as it stands at the present date. The cash on hand amounts to $9,124.08 with an approved claim balance in the defunct First National bank of $1,796.43. The Free Putnam library receives all interest which accumulates on the principal to do as it sees fit in the way of replenishing supplies and making improvements in the library. Since the money was turned over to the committee in charge there has been some discrepancy regarding the fund. It was explained by one familiar with the manner in which the Gardner fund was created and accepted by the town of Putnam. The estate on South Main street was left to the town as a nucleus for a new public library building. The property at the time was in an undesirable location for such an institution and the town refused to accept it under these conditions. The will was legally revised with the approval of the heirs and the property sold and the money derived from the sale turned into a trust fund. The interest accumulated on the principal to be used by the library board. The report as submitted by Mr. Buzbee was accepted at the town meeting this morning. This included all of the business to be transacted.

Hundreds gathered at a solemn high mass celebrated in St. Joseph's church in North Grosvernordale Sunday morning by Rev. Leo Lavallee curate of the church, assisted by Rev. B. M. Donnelly for many years pastor of St. Joseph's and now at Hartford as deacon and Rev. Frank Belanger of Hartford as sub deacon, in honor of the complete renovation of the church. The mass was attended by the Right Rev. Maurice McAuliff, auxiliary bishop of Hartford, representing the Hartford diocese. Following the mass Bishop McAuliff consecrated a number of church gifts which were presented by a number of the parishioners.

Rev. Ulderic O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's church in this city, himself a native of North Grosvernordale and a former parishioner at St. Joseph's before he entered the priesthood returned to his mother church, yesterday to deliver the sermon.

The bishop consecrated six holy water fonts donated by the Society of St. Ann, Jeanne D'Arc, Holy Name society, Theodore Douville and family, the Hogan and McCormick families.

In the afternoon Bishop McAuliff officiated at the vesper service assisted by Rev. Leo Pardis, who was master of ceremonies. Rev. John H. Quinne of Wauregan, former curate at St. Joseph's and Rev. Henry Bellac of Willimantic assisted the bishop in the service. The musical numbers for both the morning mass and the afternoon vespers were furnished by the church choir. At vespers Rev. William A. Keefe, pastor of St. Mary's church in Norwich delivered the sermon.

St. Joseph's church celebrated its 50th anniversary five years ago, but since then the church has been slowly undergoing renovations due to the efforts of Fathers Mathieu and Lavallee. The interior lobby leading to the altar has been adorned with mural paintings. Within the sanctuary the altar has been extended, floor covered with carpets, that add greatly to the new beauty of the edifice. New stations have also been placed about the church, which were presented by various parishioners.

Ashford still contains plenty of the descendants of the American wilds which were common in these parts previous to the coming of the settlers. Wildcats have not become extinct for on display in a local drug store window is a 12 pound wild cat killed in the Ashford woods, about ten miles north of Putnam by John Serpon of Ashford. The cat which exhibits all the earmarks of its viciousness was brought to earth after a lengthy hunt by the killer. Several such specimens as this one have been shot by other hunters in the Ashford woods.

Of interest to agriculturalists and poultry specialists in this section of Windham county is an announcement of the forthcoming Eighteenth County Poultry meeting to be held Friday, at the Grange hall in Brooklyn. Raymond E. Wing, county agricultural agent of the Windham County Farmers association of this city has given notice of the following programme to be held: At 10:30 a. m., Roy E. Jones, extension poultry specialist will address the gathering on the subject "High Points on Brooding Chicks"; at 11:15 "Methods and Results of 1928" will be heard, the speaker being Chas. A. Brenn of Scotland, well known poultry specialist; 11:30 a. m., a few reels of motion pictures of chicken brooding will be screened, followed by a basket lunch at noon.

The afternoon programme will consist of a talk by Robert Quait of the Limestone Products company, on the subject, "The Importance of Proper Material to Feed Chicks." Movies outlining rat control will be shown, accompanied by a talk by Ernest M. Mills of the U. S. department of agriculture, to be followed by a "Hopper Contest." The closing number on the programme will consist of two reels of movies on cooperative marketing of eggs on the Pacific coast. Mr. Wing of the local farm bureau urges a large attendance at this meeting, because then programme to be presented is not one that is always available.

Miss Alice W. Billings, home demonstration agent of the local farm bureau has announced that a fashion and fabric show will be given in Putnam next week to be held in Elks' hall on Main street. The merchants of the city are cooperating with Miss Billings and are furnishing many of the articles to be exhibited. A feature of the programme will be a talk by Miss Ellen Van Cleef, clothing specialist at Storrs college, who will give a brief talk on the season's materials, colors, materials and lines. No charge for admittance will be made, but attendance will be limited to those who have procured complimentary tickets from the merchants or from Miss Billings at the Windham county farmers office in Union block.

Deputy Chief Alphonse Dumas of the Putnam fire department said this morning that the officials of the department have not as yet been able to determine any direct cause for the origin of the fire that totally destroyed the City Hotel early Sunday morning. Deputy Chief Dumas said yesterday that a defective chimney perhaps was the origin of the fire, since the firemen have on several occasions been called to the building to extinguish chimney fires and within the past two months were called to put out a small roof fire. Chief Dumas said this morning that the "bed smoking" has been eliminated from the probable list of causes. He will continue his investigation today.

Miss Madelyn Houghton, student at Dana Hall, Wellesley, Mass., spent the week end at the home of her parents Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Houghton of Grove street.

Claire Courtemarch of No. Grosvernordale was operated upon at the Day Kimball hospital Saturday.

Miss Nellie M. McNeil is at her home in Boston recovering from a recent illness. Miss McNeil is a member of the nursing staff at the Day Kimball.

Mrs. Mary McGinis who has been a member of the staff at the Day Kimball hospital for a number of years, has resigned her position to accept a similar position at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Miss Dorothy Keefe a student at Connecticut college in New London spent Sunday with her parents Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Keefe of Ring street.

L. H. Melbert of Hartford spent Sunday in Pomfret at the home of relatives.

Franklin Perry has returned to his studies at Amherst college after a short visit at his home in this city.

Edwin Duxbury was arrested by Putnam police Sunday evening after he had taken a sedan, the property of Mrs. G. R. Glawson of Farrows street, for whom he worked, and crashed into a large rock at the foot of Grove street at the intersection of South Main.

Duxbury had been in the employ of Mrs. Glawson for a short time and had neither a knowledge of how to operate a motor vehicle or had an operator's license. About 10 o'clock Sunday evening he took the car which was in an unlocked garage on Farrows street near the owner's home. He lost control of the vehicle when approaching South Main street, the car swinging to the left hand side of the silent policeman at this site and making a sharp curve onto South Main street. Here he let the wheel free, the car darted for the railroad embankment of the Norwich branch of the New Haven road, stopping suddenly when the rear axle caught on the stone.

Bernard J. McGarry, who lives a short distance from the scene saw the car. As it hung there Mr. McGarry examined it and found no one in the seat. He ran to the ruined City Hotel, where Special Officer Edward Benoit was on fire duty. Officer Benoit caused an investigation and started to locate the driver, when another neighbor informed him that he had seen a man run down School street, shortly after the crash. Officer Benoit soon found the man and placed him under arrest. Mrs. Glawson told the police that she had not given Duxbury permission to use her car. His case was continued for hearing in city court Tuesday morning. Had not Duxbury been fortunate enough to have the car strike the rock he might have been killed, as the steep incline has a drop of about thirty feet.

Three cars and a porch on a house were involved in an automobile accident, which occurred on School street this morning, when a car owned and operated by John A. Morse of South Main street crashed into another owned by Scimeas Coderre. Mr. Morse stopped his car to investigate the damage caused by him and apparently forgot to apply his brakes, as the car continued down School St. until it crashed into the porch on a house and not satisfied with this continued until it collided with another parked car owned by Supt. of Streets Frederick Dumas.

The accident was investigated by Capt. of Police Jarvis. The damage caused to both cars was slight. Neither driver was held by the police.

Funeral services were held this morning at nine o'clock at St. Mary's church for Mrs. Alexis Bibeault who died Friday evening. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's, assisted by Rev. J. D. Casey, deacon and Rev. Ernest J. Boileau, sub-deacon. Special music was rendered by the members of the 10:30 o'clock choir. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, with committal exercises at the grave at which Father Bellerose officiated.

A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated this morning at St. Mary's church at 10:45 for the funeral of Miss Agnes Mason who died suddenly Saturday morning. The mass was celebrated by Rev. Thomas McGarry of Ansonia, former Putnam boy who was a close friend of the Mason family. Father McGarry was assisted by Rev. Ernest Boileau deacon and Rev. Joseph D. Casey sub deacon, both curates at St. Mary's. The Gregorian chant was rendered by the members of the 10:30 o'clock choir. The funeral mass was largely attended by many friends and relatives of Miss Mason.

Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery with committal exercises at the grave officiated at by Fathers Bellerose and McGarry.

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Swedish Memorial church in Woodstock hill for Miss Annie Nordstrom, who died Saturday evening at the age of 69 years. Miss Nordstrom had lived in Woodstock for a number of years and was well known both in Woodstock and Putnam where she possessed many friends.

Following the funeral service this afternoon her body was shipped to Camden, New Jersey for burial.

Patrick McPaz died Sunday at the town farm on the River road after a prolonged illness. Mr. McPaz worked in Putnam for many years as a blacksmith, but became disabled and made his residence at the town home. Little is known of his life history. He was born in Ireland, but has lived in this section of New England for many years.

GALES FERRY

IMPROVEMENT ASS'N DIRECTORS HOLD MEETING

A meeting of the board of directors of the Village Improvement association, was held Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham. Plans for the annual dinner and election of officers were discussed.

As the audience room of the Methodist Episcopal church was made ready last week for redecoration the Sunday services were held in the vestry. The session of the junior church school was held in the new school building, the senior group using the vestry room.

Salt of the Earth, was the theme selected by Rev. Jerome Greer for the morning sermon. The offertory selection, Let the Heavens Be Glad had a solo part by Courtland E. Colver.

The Epworth league evening meeting was in charge of Nelson Parker, the topic being Path's to Peace. Fudge was served as the surprise feature, following the service.

In the Time and Tide contest being featured by the league at the evening meetings, the two sides stood even, 60 to 60 points, on the preceding Sunday. The contest closes Sunday night, March 17.

St. Patrick's Social

"Come spend a Wednesday night with us in Ireland," Wednesday, March 13th at 7:30, in the vestry, was the invitation on the church calendar, to the Epworth League social. Miss Doris Wightman and Miss Lillian Atkins are the committee in charge.

MINISTERS' RETREAT AT WAUREGAN WEDNESDAY

The Lenten retreat of the Windham County Union of Congregational Ministers is to be held in the Congregational church at Wauregan Wednesday, March 13. The Union is being assisted by the Putnam Clergy Fellowship and the Willimantic Union. There will be two services, in the afternoon at three o'clock being for ministers only. Rev. Mr. Hodge of Putnam and Rev. Mr. Abbott of Danielson will assist with the devotions at this service. A conference dealing with matters concerning the ministry will follow. The evening service at 7:30 will be open to the public. Rev. Mr. Williams and Rev. Mr. Jones of Mansfield will assist with the devotional part of the service. Rev. Edwin H. Byington, D. D., formerly pastor of West Roxbury Congregational church, Boston, now professor of homiletics and liturgies in Gordon college of theology and mission, will speak at both services. Rev. William C. Prentiss is president of the Windham County Union and Rev. George B. Hawkes, pastor of the Congregational church in Abington, is secretary. They are also members of the program committee of which Rev. George H. Reese, of Central Village, is chairman.

Mrs. George Babcock spent a day the past week at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whiting in Jewett City.

Miss Sally Allard was in Jewett City Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ledger, Mrs. Bromley, Mr. Ralph Lovell and Emory Davis attended Boston Auto Show.

Miss Teresa Sullivan and Miss Joan Kirby were in Norwich Saturday.

James Rovie and sons Alfred and Ernest motored to Westerly Saturday evening.

Spools fond in Egypt and dating back to about 1200 B. C. still have the thread wound on them.

PROOF OF DYES is in the dyeing!

Words won't dye a dress, or coat, or sweater. It takes real anilines to do that. That's why Diamond Dyes contain from three to five times more anilines than any other dye—by actual test.

It's the anilines in Diamond Dyes that do the work; that give the colors such brilliance; such depth and permanence. It's real aniline that keeps them from giving things that re-dyed look; from spotting or streaking.

Next time you have dyeing to do, try Diamond Dyes. Then compare results. See how soft, bright, new-looking the colors are. Observe how they keep their brilliance. Your dealer will refund your money if you don't agree Diamond Dyes are better dyes.

The white package of Diamond Dyes is the original "all-purpose" dye for any and every kind of material. It will dye or tint silk, wool, cotton, linen, rayon or any mixture of materials. The blue package is a special dye, for silk or wool only. With it you can dye your valuable articles of silk or wool with results equal to the finest professional work. When you buy—remember this. The blue package dyes silk or wool only. The white package will dye every kind of goods, including silk and wool. Your dealer has both packages.

THE CAR JUMPERS.

In the city of Springfield arrests are being made under a new ordinance which forbids anyone riding on the vestibules of a closed trolley car. The purpose is to prevent accidents which are certain to follow such a practice, when the one man in control of the car is powerless to prevent it because of his duties at the front of the trolley car. The move is really a step for the protection of those who are ready and willing to take chances which endanger them and place responsibility on the shoulders of others. No doubt there is much of kicking over such an ordinance but it is a move in behalf of what that is to be commended.

It brings attention to the need that exists for dealing with those who are accustomed to jump onto the rear of automobiles for the sake of getting a ride. This involves youngsters for the most part. They watch at a corner until a car comes along, follow it closely and just as it passes them dart out into the street, catch onto the bumper or the rear bumper and are carried along for a block or two after which they return to the starting point and try it over again.

There can be no surprise under such circumstances that there are accidents. The wonder is that there are not more of them. It is possible for many things to happen to the youngsters either by falling off, when they jump off or by getting in front of the car that is following.

It has always been the practice of boys to catch on to the rear of wagons and sleds to get a ride. Even when there were mostly horse drawn vehicles there were plenty of accidents. It was fun and it is still so regarded by those who jump onto autos, but the danger has increased many times now that there are few vehicles other than those which are motor driven.

For the most part the drivers of vehicles have no knowledge that any boys are being carried on the rear of their cars. It is the car behind that has the opportunity to witness what the youngsters are inviting. Should the car carrying them stop suddenly and the one behind be unfortunate enough to be too close there is nothing what might happen to the boy on the bumper. Likewise should a fall as he leaves the car be had been going on it is going to result some fast work on the part of the next driver to avoid trouble. In a word for greater safety this is one of those times where there is an opportunity for needed attention.

AS A MARINER SEES IT.

There are times when the unexpected is done. We hesitate to declare that what might have seemed absurd years ago cannot be worked out now. We have witnessed so many instances where the thought to the impossible has been accomplished that we have learned to be less skeptical.

It is interesting, nevertheless, to witness the reaction of an old salt to the idea of establishing landing fields in the sea with the assistance of airplanes which may be making transoceanic flights. Naturally we can expect that those who are familiar with the fury of the ocean during storms and bad weather will have an opinion regarding such contrivances.

Captain Richard Fried of the American Navy, following the seas for a long time and he is looked upon as a man of good judgment concerning matters pertaining to ocean travel, among the many others, he has been asked some thought to the idea which has been advanced of anchoring landing platforms in the ocean and he doesn't take much stock in it. He anticipates the serious trouble that will be experienced in case of storm and he is frank to say that he doesn't believe that they can be made to accomplish what is expected.

Like others he is awaiting proof through the demonstration that is being planned but he is confident that those who are engaged in operating them will have no fear of being put out of a job because of the success of such an undertaking. Even if it is possible to produce an airport in the ocean he thinks it would be extremely difficult for an aviator to locate such a small object in such a vast area of water. He is looking at the whole proposition from the standpoint of a mariner, and that is an angle to the scheme that cannot be entirely overlooked.

Captain Fried does not say that there will be no transatlantic flying. On the other hand he believes that there will be. He sees the possibility of a fast service between the two continents but he is unable to see where it will be sufficiently large to interfere in any way with the service that is provided by ships. He believes that instead of the landing platforms it would be much more practical to establish guides that would show the way to the Azores as a break in the crossing, or as a place of refuge in case of storm, accident or an exhaustion of the fuel supply.

We speculate on the possibilities of the future but we have no assurance that they will coincide with what really develops.

MAINE'S WATERPOWER.

Maine is once more confronted with the problem of checking its waste and permitting a surplus of electrical energy to be turned into cash.

For years that state has clung to the idea that its waterpowers should be used only for such purposes as can be carried on within the state. It restricted the transportation of power to state use. Its waterpower has been going to waste in great volume for centuries because there was no use for it within the state and there was a law which prevented the transmission of electricity across the border into another state.

Maine supported the idea under the belief that by retaining such valuable privileges for manufacturing it won'd be an attraction for industries to locate in Maine. That worked to a certain extent but it did not begin to utilize the water power rights, instead of the streams being lined with factories the water continued to rush to the ocean unused. Maine got some industries but not all it could accommodate or all it wanted. It has seen hydroelectric plants develop but it is impossible for them to dispose of all the electricity they generate within the state. There is a surplus. This surplus must go to waste just as long as the present law prevails. Could it be sold it would make possible the elimination of waste, it would open the way to the reduction of power rates through increased income and it would make possible the serving of cheap power to many localities outside of Maine which are seeking it.

In view of these circumstances it is not surprising that the Maine legislature is being asked this year to adopt a new law that will make possible the disposal of surplus power outside the boundary of the state.

Maine may well insist upon preserving its electrical energy for state industries. This it can do by requiring that they shall have first claim upon it, but when it gets to the point that there are hundreds of millions of kilowatts going to waste because there is no demand for it within the state and no chance to sell it outside because of the law, the demand for a change in the restrictions is justified.

That Maine should want to get as much benefit for itself from its natural resources as possible is commendable. When it prefers to do business with a huge yearly surplus, it is standing in its own light.

A WOOD MEMORIAL.

Among the many things that got the close attention of General Leonard Wood while he was governor general of the Philippines was the leprosy problem. It was not new, it had existed there for a long time, but General Wood was a physician and it was natural that he should give serious consideration to such an old problem that was bound to be of so much interest to one in his profession. And this was particularly true in view of the remarkable progress that had been made in the treatment of this disease.

As the result of his study of the situation he became convinced that the eradication of leprosy could be accomplished in the islands by means of a fund of $2,000,000. He was not satisfied to let it go at that. The declaration of his opinion was not sufficient. He was sufficiently interested to set in motion the effort to obtain that fund for the relief of suffering humanity and it was an appeal that awakened widespread interest and a substantial part of the needed fund was obtained before his death.

Good work is already being done with the funds obtained, but friends of the cause and friends of the governor general are unwilling to have the matter dropped because the general has passed away. They are determined to see the fund completed and they have sponsored the idea of making it a Leonard Wood memorial fund for the purpose of completing the needed quarter or about a million more.

It will be recalled with what success General Wood fought the yellow fever in Cuba and brought lasting relief to that republic. He was displaying equal concern in removing leprosy from the Philippines and knowing the persistency and thoroughness with which he tackled such problems there were reasons to believe that he would have made a commendable record in that direction had he been spared.

His purpose is nevertheless worthy of being put through. There are 12,000 lepers in the islands that need help while the population in that region need the protection that would come through the extensive reduction or eradication of the disease. Much is already being done for them but facilities are not sufficient to provide treatment for all of them. The need can and should be supplied and there will be much satisfaction in making it a memorial to the man who fathered the idea. It is the form of a memorial which it is believed would make a special appeal to the man who in life did so much for both Cuba and the Philippines.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

When Henry Ford says he doesn't worry about money he places himself in a class with a few others.

The man on the corner says: It looks as if another winter was going to pass without any horse racing on the Thames.

The closing day of the chamber of commerce campaign should see the goal reached and a stronger organization assured.

Perhaps if there were branch offices of the state motor vehicle department in all cities of the state there would be less failures to seek and get proper markers and licenses.

If the move for a tax on cigarettes, cigars and smoking tobacco in New York state gets no warmer reception than the same idea advanced in Connecticut it is due to suffer from a frost.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, March 11—With the exception of Senator Bingham, the Connecticut delegation returned home immediately after the adjournment of the 70th congress. Senator Bingham then held the center of the stage, not only as the representative of Connecticut but as having received presidential and congressional assignments that place on his shoulders heavy responsibilities in perfecting plans for aviation work, diplomatic study and practically acting mayor of the city of Washington.

Senator Bingham had however been forehanded in true New England fashion and accomplished much concerning the latter duties before congress adjourned, by making complete inspection of the District of Columbia, as chairman of the sub-committee of the senate committee on appropriations having power to recommend all appropriations for financing the district and city, now having a population far above a half million people.

Senator Bingham is chairman of the senate committee on territories and also on the joint commission to study the air-port requirements of Washington as capital of the nation. The aim of the commission, said Senator Bingham is to look ahead far enough to plan an airport that will be capable of development to meet the needs of the capital in the rapidly developing airplane mode of transportation. The senator is familiar with what has been done in Paris, Rome, Berlin and other foreign capitals and his experience both as an observer and a flier, will give him great influence and value on the commission. Henry M. Barry, secretary to Senator Bingham has been made clerk of the airport joint commission.

Senator Walcott has decided to remain at the Mayflower for several weeks longer, while Mrs. Hoover has opportunity to clear the house they recently occupied, of its belongings and make it ready for the Walcott's who have leased it for a term of four years. As soon as that is done, Senator Walcott will prepare it for the home coming of Mrs. Walcott who is ill and in the west for recuperation, but who expects to return with-in a month or six weeks. The Hoover house, or the Walcott house as it will now be known, is a great brick structure, built on colonial lines, with a semi-circular porch at the main entrance on S street, and with terraced gardens in the rear. The garden was a great delight to the Hoovers during the hot summers they remained in Washington while the president was secretary of commerce. The interior is finely adapted for entertaining, with square entrance hall, large drawing rooms and library, and dining room on the entrance floor, all so connected that they can be made practically into one great room.

The Walcott's will be "next door neighbors" to Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, whose home is but a step away on the same street. The Wilson's purchased the S street residence when they left the white house at the course of the Wilson term of office.

Senator Bingham has been made chairman of the Samoan commission of six, to recommend what legislation should be enacted regarding the making of those islands a part of the territorial United States.

It is expected that either Glastonbury or Windsor will be selected for the site of the new Veterans hospital for southern New England, although no definite or official statement is as yet forthcoming from the director of the veterans bureau. Both sites cover the requirement of being within 20 miles of Hartford.

Senator Bingham took occasion during the closing hours of congress to urge the cementing of friendly relations with China and said "I am told by those best informed, that the opening of the doors of the American club in Shanghai to Chinese membership is a step making event in the relations between the white races and the yellow races. It is said by those best informed that this will have more to do in cementing friendly relations between the Chinese and our citizens than any other single act that has been taken in recent years. I hope the time is not far distant when they may be accorded equal privileges with other nations of the world with whom we are on friendly terms."

The adjournment of congress brought to an end the social program of the congressional circle. It will not be renewed until late in April after congress reconvenes. But the Connecticut women, who came on for the inauguration shared many social attentions with the governor's official party, and were entertained in a round of teas, receptions and luncheons. Notably at the dinner given Governor and Mrs. Trumbull and his staff, by Senator and Mrs. Bingham. The dinner was still in progress and a series of short impromptu speeches being made with Senator Bingham as toastmaster, when a slip of paper was handed Adjutant General Gilson, by a messenger. It read Where is Governor Trumbull? The Charity ball is completely held up waiting his coming as he is the first to be received." When Col. Gilson handed the paper to Senator Bingham there was a scurry of departing guests for every one had been so entertained that time was forgotten and the governor had overstayed his limit by a half hour. Another amusing feature was when Senator Bingham called on Major John Coolidge for a speech, saying he might well tell what he had most enjoyed during his official visit. The young major rose, then said slowly, "I liked to ride in a closed car in the procession when it rained." Then took his seat without saying more, while every one laughed and said "John is a chip of the old block when it comes to short speeches."

Senator Bingham and Congressman Tilson held important conferences with President Hoover the day following the inauguration. Mr. Bingham is specially interested in certain diplomatic situations and Col. Tilson, as republican floor leader, in the program for the extra session.

As chairman of the committee on patronage, Mr. Bingham will have many details to be disposed of before the session convenes April 15.

The Connecticut delegation is gratified that the appropriations in the rivers and harbors section of the so-called deficiency bill went through without a hitch, including those for $35,000 for New Haven harbor, $7,000 for Branford and $20,000 for New London. They were also pleased at the gratifying increase in the value of exports from that state over the preceding year, the gain being approximately $14,000,000.

Senator and Mrs. McLean have decided to remain at their home here until warmer weather strikes New England on account of the illness of the senator, who has not been to the senate for many weeks. They expect to return to Connecticut late in April or in early May.

Senator Walcott may make a hasty trip to Arizona, where Mrs. Walcott is taking a sun-cure, but as he has just come on from a long visit there he may decide to remain in the east during the recess.

All other members of the delegation have gone from Washington, and before leaving Mr. Fenn expressed strong hope that his census and reapportionment bill would pass congress at an early date in the coming session.

It takes a strong-minded woman to write a letter and omit the postscript.

THE SILVER LINING

In the first place, Jenison had no business being at the party Mrs. Graves gave for Lesley. He was supposed to be in Thomasville redecorating on the fact that she had run away from him because she was afraid if she stayed she would promise to marry him.

Lesley was young and she had her art. As for Jenison, he was entirely willing for Lesley to paint murals in any one of the cute new houses going up in the river sub-division, but he was quite uncomprehending when she insisted on a wider field for genius.

One week of her absence proving entirely sufficient, days too much, Jenison caught a train for Chicago with the sapphire and diamond ring in his pocket which he had almost, but not quite, put on Lesley's finger during their last argument. And as soon as the barber and shoe polisher and the new tie were attended to, he posted straight out to the north side apartment where resided young Mrs. Graves, the school friend with whom Lesley had taken refuge.

He was flooded into the apartment on the crest of a wave of pretty girls and women, and landed in a living room containing some thirty guests present at the tea Mrs. Graves was giving for her visitor. After one startled greeting Jenison was submerged in a corner from whence, miserable, he watched the light of his life shining upon a horde of utterly unnecessary people.

When the last tea drinker had departed, quite mechanically he set about helping Lesley straighten up wilted blossoms and crooked chairs.

"I don't like," worried Mrs. Graves, who had accepted Jenison's advent as entirely natural, "I don't at all like keeping over night this gorgeous silver, borrowed from Mother Graves. She said she'd send the butler for it tomorrow——"

"Let me take it over for you," begged Jenison.

"Oh, splendid!" sighed Mrs. Graves in relief and forthwith she got into dinner clothes and departed to meet her husband for an evening's engagement. "You two can quarrel over your dinner together all by yourselves. Have a good time!" she said in pleasant farewell.

They did not quarrel. Jenison was too shaken by the domesticity of the dining room with Lesley opposite him and Lesley was too occupied trying to feel unconcerned at again seeing Jenison's six feet of good looks. In silence they packed the big suitcase of silverware. Some of the sherbets he put into his pockets.

Absent-mindedly, after his departure, Lesley straightened and patted pillows and stood and thought. And for a long time she gazed from a window toward the lake, dimly heard against the shore. The bell rang. She ran to open the door.

"What is it?" she quavered.

"Officer of the law."

"Stop joking and don't be funny," cried Lesley, relieved.

"Nothing funny about it!" the voice insisted as its owner finally appeared. He was right, star and everything. He glowered at the neatly smocked figure in the doorway. "Say!" he proceeded. "We just picked up a young sheik on the drive walking off with a case on his shoulder full of about a million dollars' worth of silver loot and more in his pockets, and he gave us some bull about its being from here. I know a crook when I see him——"

"Where is he?" Lesley demanded. "Of course he's from here and he's me—why, this is Mrs. Graves' apartment and she—why, she gave a party—the silver is her mother-in-law's and——"

"Mrs. Graves here?" skeptically.

"N-no-no," gulped Lesley wildly.

"C'mon," said the officer. "There's been enough of these silver sheiks and their lady friends posing as maids in this district. Been taking your pick of Mrs. Graves' clothes closet, I see, while she's gone. C'mon. Join your boy friend at the station."

When at 1 o'clock the Graves' arrived to extract their guests from the franges of the law and retrieve the silver, the desk gave back apologetically to Jenison everything taken from his pockets. Except one thing. At a tiny velvet box Lesley gasped and stretched out an imperious hand.

"Give that to me," she ordered, dabbing her wet eyes fiercely. "It's mine!"

And before them all she put the sapphire and diamond ring on her third finger.—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 11—While it has no significance, as far as the Bystander can see, it is an odd fact that three men with twin initials should hold the presidency in quick succession. Look down the list before Wilson and you will find none; yet since Woodrow Wilson have come Calvin Coolidge and now Herbert Hoover.

Wilson was christened Thomas Woodrow Wilson. The Thomas vanished long before he became widely known probably due to his own feeling for word rhythms; to a poetical sensitiveness in expression that always was present in his public utterances.

He liked the sound of his name in the way that he used it, and so he will always be known. It would be distorting history to refer to him as Thomas W. Wilson. Who would know under that style the American war president? It would be as ridiculous as to refer to John Quincy Adams as J. Q. Adams or to Grover Cleveland as Stephen G. Cleveland.

Clark Let Out

Take the case of Herbert Hoover. Who recalls, even now in the hour of his political greatness, when all things known of him are written endlessly, that his middle name is Clark? Once in a while you see it in print, but to the world at large and by his own signature he is just Herbert Hoover. He will so go down in history, without doubt.

Another reflection is prompted by a survey of the list of presidents. Just two-thirds of them were men who had, or at least used, only two names. Beginning with George Washington and coming down to Calvin Coolidge, christened John Calvin, that is the way they stand in the books, two-name men in blunt American fashion.

Perhaps the exigencies of politics had something to do with it. Certainly there have been times in American history when it was good politics to seek presidential candidates as remote from any social flourishes as possible.

Grant's the Best

Unquestionably the most appropriate initials of any president were those of General Grant—Ulysses Simpson Grant. You can search the city directories of the country today and find mighty few men named so as to provide U. S. combination to present their family names. It was a very happy circumstance for Grant the soldier and Grant the politician. The combination has been projected over three generations now.

Yet Grant actually was named Hiram Ulysses. It was just a happenstance when he entered West Point that he registered him with his mother's maiden name as his middle name. It was so happy a happenstance however, that he stuck to it.

YOUR HEALTH

You're as Old as Your Colds

By W. V. Gage, M. D., Denver, Colo

Edison says that "The simplest thing is the best but usually the last found out." This wise precept is certainly well borne out in our almost idiotic scientific attitude toward the common cold and its prevention.

Colds, outside of the fact that they are entirely unnecessary and annoying burdens, are physical damage-doers past calculating, in that every cold produces either a transient or a permanent injury to the tissues of the respiratory tract. Ear troubles and deafness enlarged tonsils and adenoids can all follow colds. Someone has said that "a man is not as old as the number of years that have passed over his head but as old as the number of colds that have passed through it."

It is almost absurd that cast prices are being offered for the solution of the "cold" problem, that laboratories are devoting tireless hours trying to answer the question with microscope and test tube, when if the millions could only be brought in line to see with Edison that "the simplest thing is the best," the search would be over, and the populace receive the benefit of a cold-free existence.

You will not be likely to catch cold provided you will for a few months give your body the care it deserves. The cold germ has not yet been isolated, but it is probably existent. But, like a dry grain of wheat in dry dust, it will not grow until proper soil conditions are offered it. The wheat needs proper combinations of moisture and salts, together with the soil, and similarly the cold "germ" needs the soil and tissues of a neglected body before it can flourish, propagate its kind and then render its victim a nuisance to other unfortunates who also have not taken proper care of themselves.

Folks who carry around colds and who catch cold easily are simply paying the penalty of over-eating, eating wrong food combinations, not exercising, not sweating enough, not bathing enough to keep the skin "breathing" as it should, and for allowing a sluggish state of the bowels to interfere with proper elimination.

"LENT AND MY CHURCH"

Memory Verse for Tuesday

"Unto him be the glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages" (Ephesians 3:21). (Read: Ephesians 3).

MEDITATION: I love my church because it is young. In visions and ideals it is always renewing its youth. It quotes history but when it speaks its own mind it is prophetic. It has a program and a goal. It makes promises for the future which is to be better than the past. It is going somewhere and its feet are ever light with the eagerness of youth. It is looking for something, for new light to break forth, for new advances toward the new heaven and the new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness. So it tends to keep me hopeful and cheerful and in the gala adventure of life, looking for a better world and working to bring it to pass.

PRAYER: O God who art from everlasting to everlasting, do Thou renew my youth that I fall not nor be discouraged. Keep high purpose and great expectation alive in my heart while I rest my trust in Thy exceeding great and precious promises. Amen.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Various penalties are imposed by the statute for failure to file a return and pay the tax on time and for making a fraudulent return. Distinction is made between failure and "wilful failure" to file a return. For failure to file a return on time, the penalty is 25 per cent of the amount of the tax unless a return is later filed and it is satisfactorily shown to the commissioner of internal revenue that such failure was due to a reasonable cause and not to wilful neglect. If a taxpayer exercised ordinary business care and prudence, and nevertheless was unable to file a return within the prescribed time, the delay is due to a "reasonable cause."

For wilful failure to make a return the penalty is not more than $10,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year or both, and in addition 25 per cent of the amount of the tax. For wilfully making a false or fraudulent return, the penalty is not more than $10,000 or imprisonment for not more than five years, or both, and in addition 50 per cent of the amount of the tax.

A philosopher says that theorists are fools. This theory of his proves it.

Famous Cough Prescription

Contains No Chloroform Or Other Harmful Drugs

The use of medicines containing chloroform or dope to relieve coughing is dangerous and unnecessary. Now anyone can get quick sure relief with a famous prescription called Thoxine, which contains no chloroform or other harmful drugs and is safe and pleasant to take.

Thoxine is thoroughly efficient because it has a double action—soothes the irritation—goes direct to the internal cause, and stops the cough almost instantly. Far superior to cough syrups and patent medicines. Also excellent for sore throat. Quick relief guaranteed or your money back. 35c, 60c, and $1.00. Sold by The Lee & Osgood Drug Co., and all other good drug stores.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

On Front Line in Mexican Revolution

Mr. Editor: I have just come from the front line trenches in this war. The trenches are the two sides of the Rio Grande river. On this side are a lot of Mexicans, and a lot more American tourists, who are prevented from going below Second street, but can go up the river a little away from the bridges and see all there is to see, which isn't much. M. P.'s all along the banks to prevent them swimming over to get a drink. You can hear all kinds of rumors. The extra editions say the rebels have taken Juarez, but you can see the men in federal uniforms dug in on the opposite side of the river. So I guess it's another of those exaggerated reports. The police stop all cars below Second street. There is an occasional ambulance going uptown, and altogether it is the dumbest war I ever saw. A few bursts of machine gun fire this morning, but nothing now; quiet as a sermon on prohibition. They all seem to be doing a lot of thinking about it. Once in a while a couple of officers on horseback ride along the top of the embankment. They seem to figure that they are safe enough. The men dug in in shallow trenches, or rather for holes, get out and salute and talk about the weather or something. Then they go back into their holes and the officers ride on to the next lot. I figured about 50 men from the bridgehead to about a mile upstream, but not a shot, or anything. Someone made a guess that the rebels have taken Johnny O'Brian's bar and caused the war off for refreshments. But anyway it seems like a stalemate. They say several bullets have come over the river and hit some people on this side. I haven't seen or heard any yet. The tourists come right on down Santa Fe street and get quite indignant when the police stop them. Seems as if some of them don't know there is a war on, in spite of the papers. Maybe it's so, and maybe those officers and men who go about on the river embankment don't know it either. For I know that if I was a rebel in the town, I could knock them off quite easy. But maybe they have a sort of working agreement to only fight in union hours. Anyway it is a joke as a war from the tourists' point of view.

A few of us got together, and a fellow made a suggestion that we form a parade, send over a white flag and ask them to let us on the war long enough for the tourists to go over and get a drink. Another one suggested that we telegraph President Hoover, asking that he establish a canteen as an emergency measure, and let the thirsty Americans have a drink. It seems logical enough that he should do so. It would be a work of mercy, indeed. The place where I was camping two days ago, right by the bridge on the river bank, is in the thick of it now. I moved back a bit so as to be out of the line of fire, which was good strategy on my part, but more so because the military police insisted on it. Robbed me of my front seat, darn 'em, where I had a chance to see the whole show, and now I have to line up with the other dry tourists and suffer, thinking of the good beer those spiggoty rebels are drinking over there. It's a tough world and war is hell, but never in the history of the world has a battle been fought with a grandstand view from a house cost costing one dollar a seat, with less to see for your money.

Stories That Recall Others

Her Method.

Jean, a youngster, was much disturbed one night by her father's snoring. However, she hesitated to awaken him.

Trying to distract her mind from the noise, she began to think of her pet in the basement. Unexpectedly, she hopped out of bed and hurried to her father's side. Shaking his arm, she said "Please, daddy, don't snore so loud. You'll wake my chickie up.

Therefore—

Bob, age four, does not take kindly to the economical ways of living. One morning he took all the chairs in the dining room and moved them into the living room, to build a house. When the task was almost completed, his mother arrived on the scene. She was horrified to see her overstuffed furniture being misused.

She angrily said, "Bob, don't you know this is mother's company room and she doesn't allow you to mess it up like that?"

Looking around the room with a very sober face, Bob replied, "Well, I don't see any company."

uses a cup of SUGAR
in boiling ham

A famous cook gives his recipe

A MAN, famous among his friends for his fine cooking, was asked the secret of his delicious boiled ham. He gave this simple recipe: Put a cupful of sugar in the water that boils an average size ham. Also one-half cup of vinegar. Try this and see how much it improves the taste and flavor of the ham.

Every good cook knows that there is no substitute for sugar in improving the enjoyment of other foods. Whether in preparing fresh vegetables, fruits or meats, sugar is the secret of successful cookery.

Sweetness is nature's perfect flavor. It is also the cheapest nutriment that you can buy.

Health comes from eating good foods, flavored to please the taste. Beware of extreme reducing diets. They are dangerous. Eminent medical authorities warn us that permanent injury often results from starvation diets.

Be sure that you and your children are properly nourished. Eat enough of varied foods, sweetened for enjoyment. The Sugar Institute.

The mass was celebrated by Rev. William A. Keefe and the music was in charge of Mrs. M. J. Farrell, at the organ. Pie Jesu was rendered by Mrs. Farrell at the offertory and the Priceless Love of Jesus as a waiting hymn. At the recessional she played Chopin's Funeral March. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery and the committal service was read by Rev. Frederick M. Coholan. The bearers were Timothy J. Driscoll, Bernard Meehan, John Ready and Andrew Denneff. A number of relatives and friends were present and the floral tribues were numerous and beautiful. Hourigan Bros. were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Wolf Blinderman

The funeral of Wolf Blinderman, of No. 37 Thames street, who died at 4 o'clock Monday morning at the W. W. Backus hospital, was held Monday afternoon at his residence and burial was in the I. O. B. A. cemetery in Greeneville. He had been seriously ill for several days with double pneumonia. Mr. Blinderman was prominent among the Jewish residents of the city, and was for years an employe of the public works department for the city.

Born in Russia about 52 years ago, Mr. Blinderman came to this country as a youth and located in Norwich. In this city he was united in marriage with Fannie Cohen, of New York city, about 31 years ago. Besides his widow he is survived by three sons, Louis, David and Samuel, and a daughter, Miss Freda Blinderman, all of this city; three brothers, Ruby of this city, Harry and Jacob, of New York city, and a sister, Mrs. Abraham Schwartz, of New York city.

Fraternally Mr. Blinderman was a charter member of Independent Norwich lodge, No. 209, I. O. B. A. of which he was outer guard at the time of his death. It was with sincere regret that his many friends learned of his death and their sympathy is extended to the members of the family in their bereavement.

The funeral arrangements were in charge of Hourigan Bros.

LARGE BARN AND CONTENTS DESTROYED IN FITCHVILLE FIRE

A large two-story frame barn, 50 tons of hay, 40 cords of wood, cut in stove lengths, and a wagon, owned by the Palmer Bros. mill and located at Fitchville, were destroyed by fire Monday evening. The loss is estimated at $5,000.

The building is known to have been a hangout for "knights of the road," as the upper story of the building was used for a storage place for hay and offered a likely place for them to pass the night. It is thought that the fire was caused by a tramp using matches. Whether anyone was trapped in the building could not be ascertained Monday night as the fire burned all night.

The fire started about 9:30 o'clock in the hay in the upper story and within a short time the entire building was a complete mass of flames. The upper story contained about 50 tons of hay and one section of the lower ground floor was used for the storage of wood, cut in stove lengths. There were also a wagon, blankets and other articles stored on the lower floor.

BACKUS HOSPITAL WINS JUDGMENT FOR $166.85

At the motion list session of the court of common pleas Monday in this city, Judge Charles B. Waller granted the W. W. Backus hospital judgment for $166.85 against Leon Morris of Montclair, N. J., New London and other cities. An automobile driver picked up Mr. Morris at Taft's station, Nov. 12, 1926, and while on the way to this city the car struck a tree. Morris sustained injuries, but was locked up with the driver of the car by the police. When presented in court, Morris was dazed, and after being fined $5 and costs collapsed in the court room. He was rushed to the Backus hospital on the morning of Nov. 13, where he remained a patient until Dec. 12, 1926. He claimed he was general manager for the Paramount Theatre Advertising Co., of Boston, and was doing advertising for a local theatre.

The hospital, through Perkins and McKay brought suit against Morris for board, care, nursing and X-ray treatment. The entire bill, including the interest for which judgment was granted, amounts to $166.85.

The court granted judgment in favor of Lean Winaker of Salem against Theodore R. Chappell, doing business in New London as the T. R. Chappell Dairy. The amount was $203.76, and represented the balance due for approximately 2,000 quarts of milk sold by the Salem farmer to the New London concern.

Judgement was given for $334.85 in favor of the G. M. Long Co., of Groton against George Yates of New London. Judgment was for the balance of a bill for $762, for merchandise.

The court postponed until April 6 argument on a writ of error and bill of exceptions in the appeal taken to this court by John T. Harrington, local stone cutter in the case brought by Miss Carrie A. Comstock of New New London, a suit in which Miss Comstock is attempting to evict Harrington from his premises on Franklin street.

The motion for disclosure of defense or judgment, was postponed until April 6. The case is that brought by Alex Skorneki against Patrick Curtin, a local matter.

Disclosure of defense within ten days or judgment was ordered in the case of Ireal Goldknopf against Moe Widrowitz and others.

A default which had been previously granted against the Levinson and Eldridge, Inc., and others and in favor of the Plaut-Cadden company was reopened and the court allowed ten days in which the defendants can set up a pleading.

Motions for disclosure of defense or judgment were continued in the cases of Charles Rothstein against Max Widrowitz and others and Humphrey-Cornell Co., against Rosena M. Brockett and others.

The following motions went off the list:

Disclosure of defense or judgment motion in the case brought against John O. Peckham of this city by the Weston Dodson and Co., Inc.

Motions for judgment by default and hearing in damages in the case of Charles Daigneault and others against Amelia Kornewicz.

Case of Hall Bros., Inc., against Lionel Ethier, motion for judgement.

Motion to open default judgment in the case of the Fournier Laundry Co., against Jacob Nadelson.

One of the first hospital bridge parties was given Monday afternoon by Mrs. Haward C. Collins, of Broad street. Mrs. James M. Morton, Mrs. Clifford E. Wilson and Mrs. Arthur Collins were the prize winners.

St. Patrick's favors and decorations, score cards etc., made the tables attractive, Saturday afternoon when a bridge of two tables was given by Miss Mildred Chapman, of McKinley avenue on her Birthday. Miss Virginia Chase and Miss Caroline Noyes took the prizes.

Wednesday evening, when Mrs. Lorin B. Samuson, of Lincoln avenue and Mrs. Raymond B. Sherman, of Slater avenue are giving a hospital bridge at the home of Mrs. Samuson there will be four tables, and the men have been invited.

LOCAL CHAMBER TO HOLD BANKERS NIGHT DINNER

Lester B. Shippee, state bank commissioner of Connecticut, will be the principal speaker at the closing dinner of the workers in the chamber of commerce campaign this (Tuesday) evening at 6:15 o'clock in the Wauregan hotel.

In addition to all campaign workers, all officials and directors of the Norwich banks and all members of the chamber of commerce have been invited to attend. Mr. Shippee's subject will be "Banking Progress in Connecticut." This occasion will be "Bankers' Night" in the series of seven monthly dinners which the chamber is holding this year.

Mr. Shippee is a national authority on banking affairs and with the double attraction of the closing of the intensive campaign of the chamber and the special bankers' night a large attendance is anticipated by chamber officials, and leaders of the drive.

Frank R. Murdy, commanding ace of the teams and Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, general chairman, have sent a wire call to all members of teams to make a final drive for new members in the chamber. Every worker is expected to report not less than one new member each. A special clean-up squad, organized by Mr. Murdy Monday morning, has been in the field since yesterday and will continue through today up until tonight's meeting calling on a special list.

The activities fund committee met with the directors of the chamber at the Wauregan Monday noon and made plans to close all possible prospects in that division before this evening. F. Russel Smith, chairman of this committee, announced that several large firms were to be heard from in cases where the matter of the subscription to the fund had to be taken up at headquarters located in other cities.

Hon. Arthur M. Brown, will be toastmaster at the dinner this evening, and will introduce Mr. Shippee and other speakers.

GIRL WORKERS' COUNCIL HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY

About 35 members of the Norwich council's fourth birthday banquet Monday evening at the Hugh H. Osgood Memorial parish house, with members of the council of Park Congregational church as hostesses. Eleven churches of the council were represented. The programme opened with a delicious supper served at 6:30 o'clock by the Women's Federation of the Church, the menu comprising:

Tomato bisque, chicken salad, mint sauce, small cakes pistachio ice cream, olives, candy, coffee with cream. Two large birthday cakes, each with four candles, graced the table at either end. The color scheme in the decorations was attractively carried out in yellow and green, paper daffodils filled with dainties being the favors. In the course of the meeting Mrs. A. C. Freeman, founder of the council and the guest of honor and Mrs. Emery Davis, president of the council, were presented beautiful corsage bouquets.

At the close of the banquet hour the regular monthly meeting of the council was called to order with the president, Mrs. Davis presiding. The devotional service was led by Miss Hattie Fowler of the Universalist church. A vote of thanks was extended Park church for the delightful banquet and it was voted to express appreciation to the orchestra and judges, who took part in the stunt night presented by the council recently.

The chief matter of business discussed was that of the mother and daughter banquet, sponsored by the Norwich council, to be held May 17 at the Community house and the Central Baptist church. Plans have been practically completed for the affair, an annual event and one looked forward to with unusual interest. To accommodate the large number the banquet is held at the church and community house. Mrs. Edwin V. Ross will be in charge of the banquet at the latter place and Mrs. Henrietta Tefft at the former.

Each church is expected to take a banner, with the name of the church on it, to the banquet. A report was given on the stunt night, showing it to have been a successful affair, both socially and financially.

MINISTERS' LENTEN RETREAT A WAUREGAN CHURCH

Announcement was made Monday that a ministers' Lenten retreat will be held at the Wauregan Congregational church, Wednesday. There will be an afternoon session at 3 o'clock for clergymen only, and in the evening at 7.30 o'clock there will be a public meeting. Rev. Edwin H. Byington, D. D. of Gordon Bible college, Boston, leader.

This Lenten conference is arranged by the Windham County Union of Congregational Ministers, in co-operation with the Putnam Clergy Fellowship and the Willimantic Ministers' association.

At the afternoon session the subject will be The Preacher's Perpetual Struggle, with his congregation, dealing with aspects of preaching and with himself, considering the minister's possibilities and temptations.

In the evening Rev. Dr. Byington will speak at a public meeting on The Hands That Crucified Christ. Rev. Dr. Byington until recently was pastor of West Roxbury Congregational church. He has taught for some time at Gordon Bible college.

NORWICH INN DIRECTORS HAVE APPROVED PLANS

Plans for the Norwich inn were approved at a meeting of the directors Monday afternoon at the directors' room of the Norwich Savings society. Mr. Hart, the architect of the Consolidated Hotel Service, Inc., was present with suggested plans for the new inn. The directors spent two hours in discussing these plans, and with certain modifications approved them. The architects will now proceed to work up the plans and specifications in order to secure bids for the work. These will be ready probably about the first day of May. Arrangements have been made whereby Chandler and Palmer will be in charge of the construction of the inn.

The inn is to be located just easterly of the present Golf club house on the highest part of the hill. Advantage of the contour of the lot is being taken, whereby a full ground floor can be obtained with hardly any excavation.

This ground floor will be used for pool rooms, card rooms, smoking rooms, and also the men's toilet room. The boiler room will be located near the present Golf club house. The building is to be located about 300 feet from the main road. A new driveway will be built coming around into the rear of the inn. The main floor of the inn will contain besides the main lobby, a large lounging room with fire place and large windows for sun exposure, the reading room off the lobby with fire-place, a large dining room, capable of accommodating 225 guests, when used in connection with the adjoining arcade.

In addition to the main dining room there will be three smaller dining rooms, all on the same floor and each room convenient to the kitchen which will be located next to the present club house. Above the main floor will be two floors with 71 guest rooms, each equipped with modern conveniences.

The directors are enthusiastic about the location, as there is not a room in the inn, but will have a beautiful outlook.

At the present time 50 subscriptions to the stock of the company have paid for in full. The deed to the Dewolf property, which was required in the hotel development, has been taken. Notices have been sent out for the second instalment on the stock.

At the directors' meeting the resignation of Charles R. Butts as treasurer of the corporation was presented. The resignation was accepted with regret but it was understood at the time he accepted it that it would be only temporary. To fill the vacancy, Gilbert S. Raymond was elected as treasurer.

C. L. CLASS HOLDS GET-TOGETHER SUPPER

Thirty-two were present at a delightful get-together supper of the C. L. class of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church held Monday evening in the church basement. The decorations attractively arranged, were streamers and favors, the color scheme being in green. The appetizing menu was:

Grape Fruit
Clam Chowder
Meat Pie
Salad
St. Patrick's Dessert

During the supper four telegrams were read from Mrs. George Greenlaw and Mrs. J. Harlow Graham, expressing their regret at being unable to attend. The telegrams were sent from Medford, Mass. Guests at the supper were Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor, and Mrs. Cooper and daughter, and Ernest Newbury superintendent of the Sunday school.

The business meeting of the class was held following the supper the president, Miss Florence Edwards, in charge. Matters of a routine nature were discussed. The enjoyable affair was brought to a conclusion with the playing of games and a social hour.

The supper was in charge of Mrs. William Stelzner and Mrs. Chris Allen and the decorations were in charge of Mrs. Lloyd Cochran.

LOCAL MOOSE PREPARE FOR CLASS INITIATION

Final arrangements were completed at a meeting of Norwich lodge, No. 935, L. O. O. M., Monday evening at the Moose home for the class initiation to be held St. Patrick's day, Sunday afternoon here. Nick Sullivan, chairman of arrangements, announced that a degree team of 20 men from New Haven will have charge of the initiation when between 30 and 50 candidates will enter Moosedom. An old-fashioned New England chowder will be served and a troupe of professional entertainers from New Britain will provide the entertainment.

FOUR TAXI DRIVERS TAGGED MONDAY NIGHT

Four Norwich taxi drivers were tagged Monday evening by the local police for parking their cars in Rose alley. They were Samuel Smith, 22; Joseph S. Garrish, 23; Lester W. Allen, 22; Salvatore Mingola, 20. Their cases will be disposed of in the city court this (Tuesday) morning.

13 TABLES IN PLAY AT BENEFIT WHIST

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fields entertained at a whist party Monday evening at their residence, No. 67 Peck street, for the benefit of the West End Community association. There were 13 tables in play, the prizes being awarded as follows: Women, Mrs. A. Armstrong, Miss J. Mitchell and Mrs. Manuel King; men, Mr. Hollowell, J. Goodrow and H. O. Smith.

DEPT. PRESIDENT NEWBURY INSTITUTES NEW TENT

Mrs. Jennie S. Newburry, department president, 55 Greene avenue, with Dept. Inspector Mary E. Yale, of Bridgeport, a member of the state organization committee, were in Torrington last week where they were organizing a new tent of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War. This tent will be instituted on April 9th, Sunday, March 17, Mrs. Newbury will be present and dedicate a room in the hospital connected with the Fitch's Home for Soldiers at Noroton Heights, Conn., in the name of the Connecticut Department, "In loving memory of our fathers."

Dr. P. J. Brennan Improving.

Dr. Patrick Joseph Brennan, N. F. A. 1902, a successful physician in Waterbury, has been critically ill with pneumonia for the past four days, but was reported Monday evening as past the crisis. Dr. Brennan's widowed mother, Mrs. John Brennan and his sister, Miss Annie Brennan left their home in Nelson Place some time ago to make their home with Dr. Brennan in Waterbury following the death of his wife.

Patients Discharged Monday

Patients discharged from the W. W. Backus hospital Monday were Louis Osso, Mansfield, Conn.; John Cole, Mansfield, Conn.; Florida Cormier, 23 Carley avenue, Jewett City, and Emma Bowers, West Thames street.

FOR COLDS—
ALKALINIZE YOUR SYSTEM

Doctors everywhere are prescribing this new treatment for colds; and it is delighting thousands by its quick relief it brings when used consistently.

Begin when you feel a cold coming. Take a tablespoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water, morning, noon and night, the first day. Do the same thing the second day. Then take only at night.

Colds reduce the alkalinity of your system. That's what makes you feel achy, feverish, weak, half-sick from them. Phillips Milk of Magnesia is alkali in harmless, palatable form. It relieves the symptoms of colds by restoring the alkalinity of your system.

For fifty years, this pleasant alkaline has been famous as an anti-acid. Doctors prescribe Phillips Milk of Magnesia; hospitals use it; millions know how it relieves sour-stomach, gas, indigestion and other symptoms of over-acidity. All drug stores recommend it. 25c and 50c bottles, with full directions for its many uses.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

GAMMA CLUB INCREASES LEAD IN CHURCH LEAGUE BEATING GOAL CLUB

The Gamma club by defeating the Goal club 26 to 12 last night maintained their advantage in the Church league and in fact increased it by a single margin as the Brothers of Joseph lost to the Baltic Methodists 31 to 22. In the third game of the evening the Phi Delta Mu team completely overwhelmed the Trinity five 38 to 6.

The feature game was the Baltic-B. of J. game in which the playing was close and hard. The first half found both teams playing cautious basketball and the half ended with the Brothers of Joseph leading 7 to 4. In the second half the Baltic team became organized and promptly went to the front and were never headed.

DAY POUNDS OUT A DECISION OVER ELKINS

NEW HAVEN, March 11—(AP)—George Day of New Haven, scored a surprising victory over Eddie Elkins, New York light weight in a 10 round feature bout here tonight. The visitor forced the fighting in the early rounds and had an advantage in points when the bout was half over. The latter day however, loxed his opponent in close quarters and was given the decision for his accrediting that claimed a foul in the fifth round from a left hook but the referee ordered him to continue.

Tony Travers, of this city, won the eight round semi-final bout by decision over Joe Sciotto, of New York. Jack Dempsey, New York defeated Pete Lucas, Chicago, Mass., in a second eight-rounder. Frankie Marino, New Haven, won over Tommy Franzese, New York in six rounds and Eddie Snyder, New Haven, opened the show with a decision over Lucien Gaudet, of Waterbury after four rounds.

PUTNAM AND TOURTELLOTTE IN C AND D TOURNAMENT

Putnam High and Tourtellotte Memorial high are the representatives of Eastern Connecticut in the class C and D basketball tournament to be held at Storrs next week. Stafford Springs is an alternate for the tournament. Windsor and Tourtellotte open the tourney in the afternoon of the opening day while Putnam and Old Saybrook meet in the first game in the evening.

Naugatuck, who won the eastern states tournament at the University of Pennsylvania last week is only an alternate in the A-B class which is to be held at the Yale gym.

BRAVES HAND CARDS BEATING IN EXHIBITION

AVON PARK, Fla., March 11—(AP)—The Boston Braves batted around and drove in four runs in the sixth inning today to win an exhibition game from the St. Louis Cardinals, 8 to 5. Sylvester Johnson relieved Roma Boykin in the sixth with three men on base and none out. A single, double, sacrifice, infield hit and base on balls followed to bring in the runs.

HEAVYWEIGHT FIELD HAS NARROWED TO FOUR MEN

BOSTON, March 11—(AP)—The fate of Max Schmelling, German heavyweight, was decided upon today during a telephonic conference between William F. Carey, of the Madison Square Garden, and Eddie Mack, boxing promoter of the Boston Garden.

These officials, after agreeing to work in conjunction in an attempt to straighten out the muddled heavyweight situation, decided to pit Schmelling against Jimmy Maloney of Boston here at Braves field early in June. Schmelling, Carey said, was expected to return from Germany long before that date.

Carey told Mack he expected to clinch a match for the Yankee stadium in New York between Jack Sharkey, the Boston heavyweight, who defeated Young Stribling in the recent Miami clash, and Paulino Uzcudun, the Spanish woodchopper.

The two promoters, according to Mack's version, agreed that these four heavyweights were the outstanding contenders for Gene Tunney's vacated title and that the victors of the Maloney-Schmelling and Sharkey-Paulino battles would be worthy to fight for the championship in a Yankee stadium bout in September. Carey has been assured, Mack said, that the four contenders would agree to their plans.

L. I. PROS CLASH WITH PLAINFIELD WEDNESDAY

The attraction at the Plainfield Community house tomorrow night will be the Long Island Professionals of Astoria, L. I., who come to Plainfield with an enviable record. The Long Island Pros hold victories over such clubs as the original Celtics, Renaissance Five, Brooklyn Visitations and a number of the American league clubs. There is no better basketball attraction than the Long Island team and plenty of action is anticipated when the Plainfield Pros mix it with them. Plainfield will use its regular lineup.

BOSTON CLOWNS PLAY AT DANIELSON FRIDAY NIGHT

One of the feature attractions of Eastern Connecticut will be the appearance of the Boston Clowns at the Danielson Town hall on Friday evening. The Boston team is one of the fastest aggregations of its kind and besides that they furnish plenty of other entertainment. The Clowns appear in circus regalia and give a half hour's entertainment before the game. It is a unique feature and it is expected that the old Town hall will be crowded to capacity.

AMATEURS MUST HAVE PERMISSION OF DONOHUE

HARTFORD, March 11—(AP)—A decision permitting amateur boxing promoters to conduct shows with the permission of State Athletic Commissioner Thomas E. Donohue until Gov. Trumbull acts on the proposed governing rules, was given today by State Attorney General Benjamin W. Alling.

Commissioner Donohue and representatives of the New Haven Arena met with Attorney General Alling in the capitol today and the decision was made after a long conference. Maurice Podoloff and his attorney, Daniel Pounder, represented the New Haven Arena.

LAYTON TAKES TWO BLOCKS FROM HALL

NEW YORK, March 11—(AP)—Johnny Layton, world's three cushion billiard champion, won the first and second blocks of his 500-point return match with Allan Hall of St. Louis today. Layton now leads his southpaw rival, 400 to 81. Hall defeated the champion in their special match last week, 500 to 333.

In the afternoon block, 50 to 47 in 45 innings. Each had a high run of 5. Tonight (the champion won again, 50 to 39 in 44 innings. Layton had high run of 7 and 6 and Hall one of like.

AMERICAN TENNIS STARS DETERMINED TO FIGHT

NEW YORK, March 11—(AP)—America's younger tennis players are not going to let Jean Borotra carry the national indoor championship back to France without a struggle, although Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter have made it clear that they do not intend to enter the title tournament opening here Saturday. Bill Aydelotte of New York, present champion, and J. Gilbert Hall, Orange, N. J., Canadian titleholder, filed entries today.

ILLINOIS COMMISSION O. K.'s LOUGHRAN-WALKER FIGHT

CHICAGO, March 11—(AP)—The Illinois state athletic commission today approved the Tommy Loughran-Mickey Walker fight for the light heavyweight championship March 28, opening the new Chicago stadium. Jack Fearns, Walker's manager, posted a $10,000 guarantee required by the commission that Walker would defend his middleweight title against Ace Hudkins next summer.

Boomer Dartmouth Hockey Leader

HANOVER, N. H., March 11—(AP)—Harold E. Boomer, of Swampscott, Mass., was elected captain of the 1929 Dartmouth varsity hockey team here today at a meeting of the letter men. Boomer, a junior, played on defense in every game during this past season. He was also one of the regular ends on last fall's football team.

Y SENIORS VS. SUB BASE TONIGHT

What is expected to be a fast game is slated for the Y. M. C. A. gym at 8:45 this evening when the Y Seniors clash with the Sub Base team of New London. This is the deciding game between the two teams each having one victory to its credit.

In the first encounter on December 22 the local Y walked through the Sailors 31 to 20 but on the next meeting the Sailors reversed the decision by winning 43 to 37 in a free-scoring game. The Sub Base team members are no strangers to local basketball fans as they composed half of the New London Y. M. C. A. team which eliminated the locals in the state tournament.

Tonight's game will be more equal than the New London Y. M. C. A. game as the Sub Base will not have the Coast Guard team to relieve them in the second half but will have to play the entire game. The Sub Base team has some of the top-notch basket shooters of the service on its squad in Dittmer, Willoughby and Chisholm.

The local Y team is traveling at a fast rate and expects to take the game which will give them the 1929 series over the Sailors. The Y. M. C. A. lost a heartbreaking game last Saturday night by a single point to the Old Saybrook Town team in the last fifteen seconds of play. This defeat has put a determination into the local boys to take an early lead and then keep piling up the score until there is no danger from a last minute rally. The lineups for tonight are:

Sub Base	Y. M. C. A.
Willoughby, rf	rf, Brown

Senior Leaders Meet

The Y. M. C. A.-Sub Base game will not interfere with the meeting of the Senior Leaders corps which will hold their usual rehearsal from 7 until 8:30 o'clock.

MALCEWICZ NOT AFRAID OF SONNENBERG'S FLYING TACKLE

BOSTON, March 11—(AP)—Gus Sonnenberg and Joe Malcewicz, matched to wrestle for the former's heavyweight title at the Boston Garden next Friday night, today started their final training, each confident of victory.

Malcewicz was so positive that his manager, Dr. Edward B. Sullivan said he intended to disregard Sonnenberg's flying tackle hold, the weapon which the former football player used in annexing "Strangler" Lewis' title when he confers with Promoter Paul Bowser tomorrow about the rules for the title match.

"We don't care about the flying tackle," Sullivan said today. "It is nothing but ramming and butting but if Malcewicz happens to be outside the ropes, it must be plainly understood that he be allowed to climb back inside the ring before Sonnenberg starts bucking again. Gus did not wait for Lewis to climb back inside when he won the title and I am going to insist that such tactics be grounds for disqualification."

BLITMAN GETS VERDICT OVER BRIDGEPORT BOY

Blitman's unorthodox style in the ring apparently confused his opponent, the Bridgeport boy being unable to stop a punishing left fist that found its mark repeatedly.

Smith, with a reputation of being able to "take it," was not in distress at any time except in the third, when a left swing caught him on the jaw and sent him sprawling for a count of nine. Both fighters were willing to mix it and both were forced frequently to cover up when the going became too strenuous.

Billy Wallace, Cleveland, 134, scored a technical knockout over Bickie King, Philadelphia, 124, in the eighth round of their ten-rounder.

Al Gordon, Philadelphia, 131, was awarded the decision over Maurice Hulzer, France, 129, in ten rounds. The decision was received with jeers.

ROBINSON ASKS HEYDLER TO PROBE WRIGHT-PETTY DEAL

NEW YORK, March 11—(AP)—Training camp advices from Clearwater Fla., today said Wilbert Robinson, president-manager of the Brooklyn Robins, had asked John A. Heydler, president of the National league, to investigate the trade by which the Robins obtained Glenn Wright, shortstop, from the Pittsburgh club in exchange for Jess Petty and Harry Riconda. Wright now is under treatment for an arm ailment.

Wright's lame arm developed on his first day in camp. It was learned today, Robinson says, that the ailment was due to an injury Wright received in a handball game at Pittsburgh last November. Robinson intimates that he believes the Pittsburgh club knew of the injury and that Wright was traded for that reason.

Reports have been prevalent that Wright's arm is permanently injured but both the shortstop and his physician, Dr. Cecil Ferguson of Miami, deny this.

In the event Wright's arm does not respond to treatment Robinson said he would ask President Heydler to cancel the trade by which Petty and Riconda went to Pittsburgh.

QUICK SELL-OUT OF YALE-HARVARD TICKETS

NEW HAVEN, March 11—(AP)—In less than four hours from the time tickets for the play-off game of the Yale-Harvard hockey series, to be held here Wednesday night at 8:30, Yale students, faculty members and alumni had purchased every ticket allotted to Yale. The sale, according to H. E. Woodcock, general manager of the athletic association, broke all records for the number of tickets distributed at the university in a like period.

Mr. Woodcock said the demand was such that twice the number of tickets, rather than Yale's and Harvard's share, could have been sold.

The tickets were disposed of so quickly that no advertising, mail or telegraph orders were needed.

MELLO-DUNDEE BOUT TO BE HELD APRIL 12

BOSTON, March 11—(AP)—The scheduled boxing show, postponed last Friday when Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, entered a hospital with an infected arm, will be staged on April 12, Eddie Mack, boxing promoter at the Boston Garden, announced tonight. Dundee will clash with Al Mello, of Lowell in a non-title bout.

Dundee was reported to be improving rapidly and his physician said he would be released from the hospital late this week. The champion has been ordered to return to his Baltimore home for a rest after which he will return to Boston to train for Mello who outpointed him when they met here several weeks ago.

COLUMBIA HAS STRONG BASEBALL SLATE FOR 1929

NEW YORK, March 11—(AP)—An increase in opposition in New England with the adoption of Harvard and Tufts to the schedule featured the appearance of the Columbia spring baseball program today.

The schedule: April 2, Tufts; 6, New York university; 10, Yale; 12, St. Johns of Brooklyn; 13, Harvard; 16, Fordham; 17, Seton Hall; 20, Cornell at Ithaca, N. Y.; 23, Manhattan; 26, Dartmouth; 27, Williams.

May 1, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia; 4, Army at West Point; 8, Princeton; 11, Dartmouth at Hanover, N. H.; 15, Yale at New Haven; 17, Cornell; 18, Syracuse; June 1, Pennsylvania; 5, Princeton at Princeton.

KID CHOCALATE SIGNED TO MEET VACCA AT BOSTON

BOSTON, March 11—(AP)—Kid Chocolate, the Cuban bantamweight, has been matched to meet Johnny Vacca, of Boston, in one of three ten round bouts on the all-star card which the Boston Garden will stage on March 22. Since coming to this country last August the Cuban battler has avoided defeat while running up an imposing list of knockout victories.

Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, has agreed to a return bout with Al Friedman, another Bostonian. The third ten rounder will be between Arthur Flynn, Lawrence middleweight, and Louis Scozza, of Buffalo.

Springfield Club Eliminated

KANSAS CITY, March 11—(AP)—The Leland Athletic club of Springfield, Mass., only eastern contender in the National A. A. U. basketball tournament here, was eliminated tonight, 16 to 20 by Depaw university, Chicago. The game was slow, featured by close guarding. Leland led at the half 8 to 6.

Wilby Gets Invited

WATERBURY, Mar. 11—(AP)—Wilby high school basketball team of this city tonight received an invitation to compete in the Glens Falls, N. Y., tournament beginning on the 22nd. It is expected that school authorities will approve the team's entrance tomorrow.

FARRELL AND SARAZEN ELIMINATE ENGLISHMEN IN FOUR-BALL TOURNEY

MIAMI, Fla., March 11—(AP)—Hard pressed to the sixteenth green of their afternoon round by a pair of determined Englishmen, Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen, defending champions in the sixth international four ball match today eliminated their opponents after Farrell had made his iron shots count for a pair of birdies and two resultant holes. The match went to Farrell and Sarazen, 3 to 2.

The national open champion and his partner encountered stiff opposition throughout their 36 hole match with Frank Ball, of England, but more recently of Atlanta, and Harry Notton, young British Isles professional.

Lowering skies, frequent downpours of rain, and a high wind threaten l consistent golf, but Ball and Cotton held doggedly to their American rivals. The morning outbound trip netted a one up score for Farrell and Sarazen, after Cotton had dropped two birdies, a four and a two in the 7th and 8th cups respectively, to cut down a three hole lead. On the return trip the foursome halved every hole out the 16th, when the Americans shot 4's to the 3's made by Cotton and Ball, the Englishmen finishing the 18 holes two down.

Farrell and Sarazen dropped their lead in the second and third greens in the afternoon round, and the match remained even from the fourth to the eighth holes. However, Farrell gained when he sank a nine foot putt to collect a birdie two on the ninth and Ball missed a ten inch putt on the tenth to give up another hole. Farrell's iron served him in good stead as he dropped a birdie two into the cup at the eleventh green.

Ed Dudley, Los Angeles, and Al Espinosa, Chicago, turned in a two and one victory after repulsing a determined threat on the afternoon homeward trip by Willie Klein, Wheatley Hills, L. I. and Miami Beach, and Tommy Kerrigan, Mount Vernon, N. Y. Dudley and Espinosa were one up at both the 9th and 18th greens. Klein and Kerrigan faltered in the face of the high wind to stand four down at the turn in the afternoon.

Willie MacFarlane, former open champion, of West Chester, N. Y. and Harry Hampton, Chicago and Key West, Fla., drove their way to a three and two victory over the Canadian representatives, Charley Murray, Montreal, and Dave Spittal, Toronto.

One of the day's upsets came when Tommy Armour, Washington, former open champion, and Wild Bill Mehlhorn of New York, were defeated 3 and 2 by Clarence Hackney, Atlantic City, and Craig Wood, Bloomfield, N. J.

The defeat of Al Watrous, of the Ryder Cup team, registered from Grand Rapids, Mich., and Horton Smith, sensational 21 year old golfer from Joplin, Mo. with four major 1929 tournaments to his credit, furnished the day's major upset. The pair lost 2 and 1 to Charley Mayo, Jacksonville, Fla., and Flushing, L. I., and former champion of France and Belgium, and George Christ, Rochester, N. Y.

Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., and Henri Cuici Bridgeport, Conn., defeated Frank Walsh, Appleton, Wis., and Leonard Chinutte, Indianapolis, 4 and 3 after the western boys had fallen down in the afternoon round.

Mike Brady, Mamaroneck, N. Y. and Cyril Walker, Englewood, N. J. another former open champion, were the victims of another dope upset when they lost to Johnny Golden, Paterson, N. J., Ryder cup team member, and Billy Burke, Westport, N. Y. 5 and 4.

Leo Diegel, P. G. A. champion, and Walter Hagen, British open champion, the seeded team of the lower bracket, took an easy 6-4 match from Eddie Williams, Cleveland and Wilfred Reid, Detroit.

Farrell and Sarazen will meet Espinosa and Dudley for one match in the upper bracket tomorrow, the other being the contest between MacFarland and Hampton and Hackeny and Wood.

In the lower bracket, Mayo and Christ will meet Turnesa and Cuici with Hagen and Diegel playing Golden and Burke.

OUIMET ORDERED TO REFRAIN FROM GOLF THIS YEAR

BOSTON, March 11—(AP)—Francis Ouimet, of Brookline, the 1913 open golf champion and one of the country's outstanding amateur players, has been ordered to remain out of competition for the greater part of the coming season. Ouimet on Saturday underwent a major operation, made necessary by an old injury, and his physician said he would not be able to play any golf until August.

Ouimet had expected to assist the Harvard golf team this spring and intended to play in the national amateur tournament in California early in September.

Yale Crews Out

NEW HAVEN, Mar. 11—(AP)—Three of Yale's varsity crews went to their permanent outdoor quarters on the Housatonic at Derby, today. The personnels of the crews were the same as when the outdoor training was begun some weeks ago.

Callahan Kayoes Petrolle

LAWRENCE, Mass., March 11—(AP)—Andy Callahan, Lawrence welterweight, won his 26th consecutive victory tonight, when he knocked out Pete Petrolle, of Fargo, N. D., in the fifth round of a 12-round bout.

ELECTRICAL DEPT AND INSPECTION OPPOSED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 11—A meeting of the public safety committee of the city council, held this evening on the proposed ordinance for the establishment of an electrical department and inspection, dragged its way through a two and a-half hour session. The council chamber was filled and the various sections of the proposed ordinance were generally discussed. Indications are that the proposed ordinance will resemble a punch-board when finally presented to the council for adoption. It provides for the appointment of an inspector and prescribes fees which he shall be paid. The Manufacturers' association was represented by Attorney Frank L. McGuire who opposed various provisions of the ordinance and representative citizens also objected to them. The electrical contractors are all in favor of it. The meeting, by a showing of hands, disclosed that it was in favor of an inspection department but not in favor of a system of fees for paying an inspector. Probably 20 persons took part in the discussion. The hearing was adjourned to two weeks from tonight.

PARLIAMENTARY LAW CLASS HOLDS CLOSING SESSION

The last meeting of the parliamentary law class was held at the Woman's City club rooms at 4:15 o'clock Monday afternoon. There was a very large attendance. The meeting was called to order by the chairman and the regular routine of business followed, after which the meeting was turned over to Atty. C. V. James, instructor. The meeting was entirely devoted to the answering of questions found in the question box. Each member had previously prepared one and these were discussed with interest by all.

Differences between resolutions and motions, and correct methods of changing by-laws and constitutions were among the most important discussions. The point brought out especially was to handle all business in the most tactful manner possible. Mr. James brought the meeting to a close by reading from Cushing's Manual. Mrs. Tingley then presented Mr. James a gift as a token of appreciation from the members of the class. The tea table was presided over by Mrs. Elizabeth Beckley, assisted by Mrs. Charles D. Gilbert.

NORWICH AND UNCASVILLE DRIVERS ARE FINED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 11—As a result of the drive started last Monday when state police officers of the Groton barracks arrested 27 drivers for driving on 1928 licenses, they were presented in the Groton and Waterford town courts today. All of the offenders were penalized, for those presented in the former court had their cases nolled upon the payment of $6.75; a fine of $5 each was imposed in the Waterford court. The drivers were: Thomas B. Conlon, 114 Asylum street, Norwich; Emile S. Sapreant, P. O. Box 458, Plainfield; Marie Angie Bugas, 41 Mechanic street, Taftville; Ben Touber, R. F. D. REV. CHARLES SMITH TO BE RETIRED THIS SPRING

The coming New England Southern Methodist conference will retire five pastors: Rev. Amos M. Bruce, recently of Wesley M. E. church, New Bedford, because of illness; Rev. Frederick G. Baker, North Grosvenordale, Conn., whose last pastorate was in Whitman, and Rev. Charles Smith, Uncasville, Conn., both past retirement age; Rev. George S. DeLano, Wanskuck, R. I. and Rev. John H. Buckley, Brockton.

CANADA TO COMBAT U. S. TARIFF RAISING POLICY

OTTAWA, Ont., March 11—(AP)—W. R. Fansher, progressive member of for Last Mountain, Sask., said in the house of commons today that Canada could take "a very effective answer to the tariff raising policy of the new president of the United States" by materially decreasing its tariff on British goods.

Gen. J. A. Clark, conservative, Vancouver-Burrard, attacked what he called the Canadian government's "policy of inaction" on tariff questions, saying Canada's adverse balance of trade with the United States has risen from $92,000,000 in 1925 to an estimated $427,000,000 in 1928.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

A clergyman remarked that doing wrong is simply following the line of least resistance.

Easy as falling off the Decalogue, so to speak.—Boston Transcript.

Mrs. Iggins (with a black eye)—Can't say as how my married life has been happy.

Neighbor—No; you certainly look like one of Cupid's casualties.—London Calling.

"Isn't that girl a beauty, Joe?"

"It is from his wife."

"Do you want an opinion or a quarrel?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Husband (impatiently to plump wife)—Say, aren't you through dolling?

Wife (delightedly)—Why, George! That's the first sweet name you've called me since our honeymoon.—Life.

Friend—What are you doing up here at Niagara Falls?

MacSkimp—I'm on my honeymoon!

Friend—Where is your wife?

Wife (out walking)—Come down this way, Freddie. I want to show you a perfect hat.

Arthur Husband—No, you don't. I told you at the start that this was going to be a non-stop flight.—Aussie, Sydney.

Such fun, this job hunting! You know, being a college man I never wear a hat. Yesterday I was standing in a bookshop, waiting to be hired when a lady came in, picked up a book and handed me two dollars. Today I'm going to loiter in a piano store.—Pertinax.

Dentist (administering gas to comedian)—Laugh, clown, laugh.

Slogan for the much-tooted-at pedestrian: "Heed 'em and leap."

Song for flappers—"We are tinting tonight."

"Most of our plays must be sin to be appreciated," remarks Life.

Revised hymn for officers and factories: "Work, for the boss is coming."—Boston Transcript.

The one product of his handiwork which he prizes most highly is a bedspread that took the leisure hours of two years to complete. He values it at $800. Although knitting has never appealed to him as strongly as crocheting or embroidering, Mr. Westin was active during the World war in assisting his wife in the knitting of sweaters, mittens, etc., for the soldiers.

BRADDOCK STOPS SLATTERY IN NINTH

By Edward J. Neil,
A. P. Sports Writer.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, March 11—(AP)—A hail of leather that must have seemed loaded with bricks fell clattering tonight on the jaw of Jimmy Slattery, dapper dancing light heavyweight pride of Buffalo—and in the wake of that storm, growing steadily in fierceness from the first to the ninth rounds prowled James J. Braddock, bearing the given name of champions looking for more chins to conquer.

The battle of the Irish Jimmies, bringing together two of Tommy Loughran's foremost challengers in the 175 pound ranks, came to an abrupt and sensational close after one minute and twelve seconds of the ninth round of a free-for-all mill that started as a game of tag and ended in a genuine Donnybrook. For the most part it was a game of chase the leader with Braddock, the rifle puncher from Jersey almost always a step or two behind his flitting foe.

Not until the ninth round did Braddock really catch up with the flitting Slattery, dancing ghost from Buffalo. Round after round the slow, deliberate, slow thinking youth with the heavy right fist nailed his foe fought furiously to finish him, and then was lost in the boxing prowess and sling left handed leather of the slender Slattery.

Braddock, improving steadily as he battles the ten-notchers of his division, was forced to chase Slattery in every round. He walked into the fleet Buffalo lad with right hand cocked left hook feeling carefully for the openings that came only now and then.

Often there was leather in his eyes, sticker jabs pelting on his nose and chin, but always too there was the chance of landing the rights that drew a steady toll in stamina as they crashed on Slattery's chin. The storm slow up slowly, took effect cruelly and erupted in the ninth round on a squall of gloves that all but blew Slattery from the ring.

The turning point of the battle came in the eighth round when the gaey Buffalo youth was driven into a corner under the rising power of Braddock's attack. As he came away a right hand, whistling from way back, smashed on Slattery's chin and all but sent him to the floor. The unstate Jimmy held, boxed, fought his head clear, but still was feeling the effects of that punch when the ninth round opened.

Stalking out with the stiff stance of the old-time champions, Braddock whaled into Slattery almost before the dancing master could get his fists up. Slats retreated to the ropes, buried his head in his gloves and strove to weave away from the blistering wave of gloves that flowed in on him from right and left.

Slats waited too long. Punch after punch cracked on his neck and head and each clout set him more to waving. He couldn't get away as Braddock pinned him to the hempen wall with punches. He couldn't fall for the same reason, and fighting clear meant leaving an opening for a finishing punch.

Before Slattery could choose the way out, Braddock's fists had pointed the path. The tall, slender youth from Buffalo slumped forward, slipped sideways and down for a count of five. Then came up helpless and reeling into the protecting arms of Referee Lou Magnolia, victim of a technical knockout.

The match had the crowd of 15,000 at the garden on its feet and cheering from the first gong. Slattery, twice conqueror of Jack Delaney and knocked out before only by Dave Shade and Paul Berlenbach, was an 8 to 5 favorite over the boy who knocked out Tuffy Griffith and broke Pete Latzo's jaw with a single punch.

Almost fro mthe start, however, the power in Braddock's fists had Slattery, fighting his first major battle in eighteen months, battling a rear guard action against a foe who never stopped advancing, right cocked and deadly, dangerous every second. Heavy slams to Slattery's chin hurt him in the first round, the third, fourth, sixth, seventh and eighth. Slattery out-fought the Jersey jammer in the fifth and seventh sessions, flooding him with lightning punches, and gained an even break in the second.

The Preliminaries.

In the opening four round bout, Jackie Saunders, of Long Island city, scored a quick knockout over Jack Dessimos, New York heavyweight. A solid left hook to the chin finished Dessimos in one minute and 52 seconds of the round. Both weighed 195 pounds.

Billy Lynch, New York lightweight, won a six round decision over Eddie Oliver of Brooklyn, in a bloody skirmish. Lynch battered his foe with solid shots throughout but could not put him on the floor. The weights were: Lynch 135 1-2, Oliver 134 3-4.

Maxie Rosenbloom, bounding New York light heavyweight, slapped out a decision over Osk Till, lanky Buffalo boxer, in a ten round semi-final. Rosenbloom bewildered the tall blonde with punches that winged in from all angles. A flurry of cuffs started Till's nose bleeding in the fourth and flicking lefts kept it leaking the remainder of the way. Till kept trying but rarely landed a solid clout on the unorthodox New Yorker. Rosenbloom weighed 170 1-4, Till 161 1-2.

Tommy Freeman, Cleveland middleweight, won the decision over Al Ros, of Spain, in the opening ten round match. The bout was a bruising affair with Freeman seeking out his margin through better generalship and stiffer punching at close quarters. There were no knockdowns. Freeman weighed 153 1-2, Ros 149 1-2.

There Are Literally No Cars In The World That Can Equal Cadillac-LaSalle

What was true twenty-five years ago is even more true today—no car in the world is so closely, finely manufactured as Cadillac—and exactly the same thing applies to the Cadillac-built LaSalle.

IT IS actually a fact that the Cadillac Motor Car Company can and does build into Cadillac and La Salle not only the best in materials and workmanship but the finest possible artistic and scientific achievement in motor car design, engineering and manufacture.

This is not only logical and reasonable but in a very real and literal sense inevitable. For back of traditionally superior Cadillac craftsmanship stand the colossal resources of General Motors deliberately planned to achieve a purchasing power that permits value-giving in excess of any other standard.

With the wealth of surpassing new engineering and manufacturing refinements in today's Cadillacs and La Salles it becomes more obvious than ever before that, if you want the kind of luxurious motoring that Cadillac and La Salle provide, you simply must drive a Cadillac or La Salle.

Consider, for example, the exclusive safety features in Cadillac and La Salle. No other cars in the world possess them:

The Cadillac-La Salle Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission. A vital essential in time of emergency, this transmission permits lightning-like shifting of gears with a finger-touch, at any speed, without pausing in neutral. It is quiet, simple, positive and effortless in operation and removes even the faintest suggestion of clashing gears.

Cadillac-La Salle Duplex-Mechanical System of Four-Wheel Brakes. Though these brakes are amazingly powerful and positive in action, slight effort is required to operate them. Just a touch of the toe on the brake pedal and they respond instantaneously.

Cadillac-La Salle Security-Plate Glass, with which Cadillac-La Salle windows, doors and windshields are equipped, remains intact in the event of collision or if struck by stones flung up from the wheels of passing cars.

These are but three of a host of exclusive ultra-modern manufacturing refinements incorporated in Cadillac-La Salle. Experience these new features for yourself. Drive the new Cadillac or La Salle. Then see if you can find their equal elsewhere.

In addition to twenty-three refreshingly beautiful Fisher Bodies for the new Cadillac and the new La Salle there are fifteen exclusive and exquisite custom-built models, Fleetwood designed and Fleetwood built.

La Salle is priced from $2295 to $2875; Cadillac $3295 to $3995; Fleetwoods up to $7000—all prices f. o. b. Detroit. Cadillac-La Salle dealers welcome business on the General Motors Deferred Payment Plan. Enjoy the car now and pay out of income.

FINAL QUOTATIONS SHOWED LONG LISTS OF DECLINES IN THE PRICES OF STOCKS

NEW YORK, March 11—(AP)—The reaction in stock prices, which started last week, gained added momentum today in reflection of growing uneasiness over the credit and brokers' loan situations. A series of bullish demonstrations in the public utilities and specialties brought about occasional rallies, but they failed to hold, and final quotations disclosed a long list of net declines ranging from 1 to 10 points.

Call money renewed at 9 per cent, dropped to 8 and then to 7, due to the heavy influx of out-of-town funds attracted here by the 10 and 12 per cent rates last week. Because of the heavy mid-month dividend and interest disbursements, and the federal income tax payments, another flurry in call money is generally anticipated later in the week. Considerable nervousness developed during the day over rumors, which later proved to be unfounded, that a special meeting of the New York federal reserve bank directors had been called for tomorrow. The board meets regularly on Thursday.

Much of today's selling was attributed in commission house circles to the belief that the rediscount rate here would be raised either this week or next, and that it would be accompanied by another increase in the Bank of England discount rate in order to prevent, if possible, a further drain by America on Great Britain's gold. Higher margin requirements put into effect today also may have been a factor in the selling movement.

Establishment of new low levels by some of the U. S. government bond issues, following close upon the new treasury financing at the highest levels since 1921, also had a disturbing effect on speculative sentiment. With the exception of a poor 1928 report by the American Woolen company. Most of the early earnings statements were favorable. Excellent reports were issued by the Associated Gas & Electric company, Montgomery Ward corporation, Nathan Strauss-Duparquet, Inc., Hudson Motor Car corporation, Brown Brothers, and a score of others. Talk was again heard of an early split up of Union Carbide stock and higher copper and lead prices.

Public issues were again the feature of the market. The oil stock opened 2 points lower at 43, dipped to 42¾, rallied to 43, fell back to 42½ toward the close, rallied to 43¾ and then tumbled to 42¼ for a net loss of 10 points. The issue has declined 11 7-8 points lower than its offer before having attained a new peak of 45 3-4. Nearly half a million shares of the new stock changed hands during the day.

Other oil issues were again strongly vulnerable to selling pressure. Atlantic Refining, American Bank Note, American Railway Express, A. M. Byers, Crucible Steel, Commercial Solvents, General Electric, National Cash Register, Warren Bros., Western Union and Wright Aeronautical all closed at net declines of 3 to 8 points.

U. S. Steel, Anaconda Copper, International Harvester, Packard Motors, Baltimore & Ohio railroad, Montgomery Ward, Chrysler, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and a number of other leading industrial and railroad leaders fell back 2 or more points. Despite the rather sharp declines in many of the recent speculative favorites the day's trading was only moderate in volume. Foreign exchanges held fairly firm in quiet trading. Sterling cables ruled around 4 85 3-4 but Spanish pesetas became too bad the Canadian dollar made slight recovery from their last lows.

Reactionary tendencies also predominated in the commodity markets, futures fell back about $1 a bale on cotton taking following its recent advance. Grain futures lost ground on reports of an increase in the visible supplies. Coffee and sugar futures also showed moderate recessions.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

Nancy Carroll, the titian-haired Irish featured player of Paramount, will be seen as well as heard in Paramount's "The Wolf of Wall Street" starring George Bancroft, which is now showing as an all-talking picture at the Broadway theatre for a limited engagement.

Miss Carroll is fast becoming America's film sweetheart. Brought to film limelight by her characterization in Anne Nichols' "Able's Irish Rose" which was transplanted to the screen by Paramount recently, she has been rising in the film public's esteem in a manner which bids fair to sweep her to complete stardom in the very near future.

Like every other member of the cast of "The Wolf of Wall Street," Miss Carroll has had stage experience previous to her entry upon a careerd in motion pictures. This is an important factor, inasmuch as only those who have stage trained voices, and therefore are fully qualified to made audible motion pictures of the quality demanded by Paramount, are given film assignments of importance. Nancy Carroll was formerly a star on the New York stage where she appeared in musical comedy.

"The Wolf of Wall street" marks George Bancroft's entry into the talking motion picture field. Other players who have important parts in the all-talking production are Baclanova, Paul Lukas, Arthur Rankin, Brandon Hurst, and Crauford Kent. Rowland V. Lee directed the production.

Palace Theatre.

There is no doubt that the most vital question of the day is Juvenile Delinquency. This topic, which has recently been brought forcibly to the attention of the public by a series of atrocious juvenile crimes, overshadows the liquor question, politics, everything—and the problem must be solved if society is to endure. The American people have lately begun to realize the seriousness of this situation and all leaders of thought have been deluged with urgent requests to do something about it. Yet up to the present, practically the only people who seem to have been making any sustained efforts in this direction are the police and juvenile authorities who have long realized the gravity of the problem and have done everything in their power to remedy matters and salvage what human wreckage they can.

This work of the Juvenile Authorities is strongly depicted in "The Road to Ruin," which is being shown at the Palace theatre today and tomorrow. "The Road to Ruin" is a tremendously powerful and at the same time frank discussion of the subject of Juvenile Delinquency and should do much to help the work of saving the youth of the nation by awakening the parents to the dangers that beset the children.

Co-featured on the same program is "The Cleanup." It stars Charley Delaney. In his supporting cast are Betty Blake, Lewis Sargent, Harry Myers, J. P. McGowan, Charles Hickman and Bruce Gordon.

It tells a pretty love story in an intensely melodramatic background.

The best thing about "The Cleanup" is its adaptation of newspaper atmosphere. The story details how a young editor takes up the cudgels for civic decency and by dint of hard pounding arouses the town's indignation to a point where the racketeers may be driven out, and then he leads the fight in person.

The love atmosphere is introduced when his financee begs him to drop the fight, lest he be hurt. He tells her why he must go on and then, when her brother is killed by the gang he is fighting, she becomes one of his strongest allies.

It is a thrilling, moving tale of how a modern city, infested with intrigue and corruption, moves up to battle to retain its self respect. Not only the story, but the manner in which the production was handled; the staging of the scenes, the actuality given to the illusion.

Mr. Delaney makes a splendid figure out of his characterization of the editor. Miss Blake as his affianced is all that could be desired. The others in their various roles are excellent.

Breed Theatre.

Jack Mulhall and Dorothy Mackaill, who play the leading roles in "Waterfront," the First National production closing tonight at the Breed theatre, are perhaps the best-known screen team in the industry and have appeared together in a number of notable productions during the past two years.

Among their outstanding films are Man Crazy, Smile, Brother, Smile and Lady Be Good. Prior to making "Waterfront," Miss Mackaill was featured opposite Milton Sills in The Barker, and Mulhall was featured alone in The Butter and Egg Man. While both of these pictures were of outstanding merit, the demands of theatre-goers all over the world influenced First National executives to once more join them as a screen team.

In "Waterfront," which was directed by William A. Seiter, Miss Mackaill plays the daughter of a retired sea captain and Mulhall an oiler on a trans-Pacific steamer. The supporting cast includes Frances Hamilton, Ben Hendricks, Knute Erickson, James Bradbury, Sr., Bill Bailey, Pat Harmon and others.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Cousin Jack Fools King Eagle

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

No matter what the danger you bring,
It courage takes to fool the king.
—Old Mother.

Bowser the Hound had come sniffing along the old stone wall and sent Peter scurrying to safety down between the stones. Bowser sniffed at the opening between the stones. Those sniffs sent little creepy feelings all over Peter. However, Bowser knew that Peter was quite safe there and so he wasted no time, but after sniffing a short way beyond, he turned and went back to Farmer Brown's dooryard. Almost at once Peter popped his head out. He was anxious to know if Wanderer the Evening Grosbeak was still in the apple tree close by. He was, of course, he was not afraid of Bowser the Hound.

"If you please," said Peter, "can my cousin, Jack Rabbit, of whom you have been telling me, any enemies out there in the West?"

"I should say so!" exclaimed Wanderer. "Do you know of any member of your family who doesn't have a lot of enemies?"

Peter shook his head sadly. "No," said he, "I don't."

"Well, your Cousin Jack has just as many as you have," said Wanderer. "And he has one or two that you don't have. There's King Eagle, for instance. I don't see King Eagle bothering you any."

"He doesn't bother me any," replied Peter. "I have never had to dodge King Eagle in my life. However, he doesn't live very near here and I suppose that is one reason."

"Well, your Cousin Jack out on the prairie—especially over near the mountains—has to keep an eye out for King Eagle all the time. With all his speed, King Eagle can move faster. You would be surprised to see King Eagle twist and turn in the air when he is following Jack Rabbit. I've seen some races of that kind that were worth watching."

"Does Cousin Jack dodge?" Peter inquired.

"I wish you could see him," replied Wanderer.

"I wish I could," said Peter.

"I watched King Eagle after Jack one day and I certainly thought that Jack's jumping days were over. But Jack knew what he was about. Yes, sir, Jack knew what he was about. There were two or three bushes some distance away and Jack headed for those bushes. King Eagle swooped for him and the way he shot down made me think that in a moment or two I would see the last of Jack. But at just the right moment Jack dodged."

Peter nodded his head approvingly. "That's my trick," said he. "It's a good trick."

"King Eagle wheeled almost as quickly as Jack dodged and was after him again. That thing happened two or three times," continued Wanderer. "Each time King Eagle swooped I expected to see him fly away with that long-eared, long-legged cousin of yours gripped in his great claws. But each time I was happily disappointed. Then Jack reached the bushes and dodged under one of them and there he squatted."

"What did King Eagle do?" asked Peter eagerly.

"Screamed with disappointment and flew away," replied Wanderer. "He knew better than to try to get Jack under those bushes. Jack will do that every time if there are any bushes near. But he doesn't try it with Old Man Coyote. He just trusts to those long legs of his when Old Man Coyote gets after him. However, Old Man Coyote doesn't waste his breath very often in trying to run down Jack Rabbit. It is a lot easier to hunt members of the Yap Yap's family."

Peter pricked up his ears. "Who is Yap Yap?" said he.

The next story: "Yap Yap at Home."

Horned toads are really lizards.

The pumpkin is a member of the gourd family.

NEW LONDON CIGAR CLERK TRICKY-- SPOTTED BY COMPANY INSPECTOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 11—Earl C. Branch, 892 Bank street, employed by the Whelen Drug company, corner of State and Bank streets, was arrested this afternoon charged with theft and will be in the police court tomorrow. Branch furnished surety on his bond of $1,000. Branch was arrested by Patrolman Clarence Wells at the instigation of an inspector of the company this afternoon, a warrant for the arrest having been issued by Acting Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer.

Branch was employed at the cigar counter and a few days ago the inspector made one of his frequent visits and unknown to employes of the company. The inspector entered the store and going to the cigar counter purchased smokes of the price of 55 cents. In registering the sale of the purchase, Branch rang up but 35 cents. The act was reported at the offices of the company and an examination of the record of sales having been concluded today, it developed that there was a shortage of $150. Complaint was then made to Acting Prosecuting Attorney Boyer and the arrest of Branch resulted.

GEO. POTTER, MYSTIC, SHOT—WIFE CLAIMS BY ACCIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 11—George Potter, 63, Mystic carpenter, lies in Home Memorial hospital suffering from a bullet wound inflicted accidentally by his wife, it is claimed, while in an argument. About 9 o'clock this morning the couple started an argument and Potter went to a bureau drawer and secured a pistol which he placed on a table and stated to his wife, "Go ahead and shoot me." According to the story told to Lieutenant Albright of the state police by Potter, his wife took up the pistol and pointed it at him. Becoming alarmed, he rushed toward her and attempted to take the revolver away. In the scramble for possession of the weapon it was discharged and a .32-calibre bullet ploughed in a downward direction through Potter's abdomen.

The story told by Mrs. Potter is radically different. She claims that her husband came home in a drunken condition, immediately precipitated an argument and went into an adjoining room and secured the pistol. Returning, he advanced with the weapon aimed toward her. Terrified, Mrs. Potter stated that she rushed toward him and attempted to wrest the revolver away, with the result that it was discharged. She stated that just as he pointed it at her she struck his hand a sharp downward blow with the result that he was shot in the abdomen. The course of the bullet, according to Lieutenant Albright, was such as would bear out the statement of Mrs. Potter, but she is under arrest on a technical charge of manslaughter. The condition of Potter was reported late this afternoon as very favorable.

SERGEANT GAMBLE WARNS CARELESS EX-SERVICE MEN

Again the U. S. Army Information service, No. 39 Whitehall street, New York city, has issued the following, through the New London recruiting office:

Loss of nearly a billion dollars faces World war veterans of the country who have failed to apply for the federal adjusted compensation bonus, unless they act before Jan. 2 next, according to Sergeant Gamble, in charge of the local U. S. army recruiting offices at Post Office building, New London.

Within 4,477,412 ex-service men and women estimated as eligible for the benefits of the so-called soldier bonus, only 3,613,163 had received adjusted compensation policies up to a recent date. Their claims aggregated $3,485,284,705, or an average of $965 each.

Among the approximately 800,000 veterans still entitled to apply, the recruiting officer believes there are undoubtedly many who live in this vicinity, and these will be given the necessary papers to fill out if they call or write to the recruiting office, he declared.

Any honorably discharged veteran who served in the army, navy or marine corps for more than 60 days between April 5, 1917, and July 1, 1919, providing he began his service before the Armistice, is entitled to the benefits of the adjusted compensation law. To be valid, applications must be filed in Washington before Jan. 2, 1930. Congress recently extended the expiration date from Jan. 1, 1928.

Relatives of deceased ex-service men may make application for the bonus and will be helped to complete the application blanks if they call at the recruiting office. Loss of army discharge does not cost a veteran his adjusted service compensation, the recruiting officer said, although a discharge is desired when available.

EXTRADITION PAPERS REQUIRED FOR INGRAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

Muller Had a Flask

Lester C. Muller, U. S. coast guard, was in the Waterford town court this morning charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and driving without a license. The case was continued to Monday next. Muller was arrested at 1:45 o'clock Sunday morning by State Police Officers Peter Busch and George Webber, when the officers observed the erratic driving of Muller. When searched at police headquarters, Muller had a flask of liquor in his hip pocket and he refused to reveal where it had been purchased.

Petition for Ferry Service

Today for the first time in the history of the service, the ferryboat Mohican, which ran between this city and Groton, was lying idle. Service between the two places has ceased and a noticeable increase in the number traveling in the buses was noticed. The petition which was put in circulation last week in Groton asking that ferry service be continued, is still going the rounds and it is understood that more than 100 representative citizens have signed it.

Florida Schooner Towed In

The four-masted schooner Alvena, bringing a cargo of yellow pine from Jacksonville to this city, arrived in port today in tow of the coast guard patrol boat Nemaha, which went to her assistance after a call for help had been issued. The vessel encountered rough weather en route and was practically helpless when the coast guard boat went to her assistance.

Patients dismissed today from Home

Memorial were: Mrs. Howard Russ and son, of Waterford; Mrs. William Mugowan and daughter, 61 Oneco avenue; Mrs. Thomas Dicarlo and daughter, 325 Jefferson avenue and Michael O'Shea, of Fort H. G. Wright.

Jacob K. Kopp

Jacob K. Kopp, 83, of 30 Georgiana street, died Saturday night after an illness of three days with pneumonia. He was a skilled stone cutter and for 53 years was engaged in the monumental business in this city. He was born in Germany, but came to this country at the age of 20. He was well known and had a host of friends.

HUB CAP THEFTS MAY INCRIMINATE JUNKMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 11—Two youths were arrested this evening by Patrolman George Cockell and their apprehension may be the cause of a charge being made against a junk dealer. The youths were arrested when suspected of stealing hub caps from automobiles and selling them to the junkman. The stolen property was not found in possession of the boys, but they admitted having sold metal to the junkman. As the youths are minors the junman is liable to prosecution under the law which prohibits the purchase of junk from minors.

CROOK HAS PASSED BILLS RAISED FROM $10 to $20

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 11—A fraudulent scheme, new in New London, although long practiced in the larger cities, has been worked here of late. Today it was revealed that a crook has been engaged passing United States currency the face value of which was raised by the crook. So far as the police have been able to determine the fraudulent money has been negotiated at motion picture houses or other places where patronage necessitates the quick handling of money.

The crook has removed the "2" from bills of $2 denomination and has placed the figure over the "1" on a $10 bill, making it appear that the bill tendered for negotiation is of $20 denomination. Also where the amount of the bill is printed in letters the crook has caused a piece of the $2 bill to be placed over the wording. Friday night last, the crook presented one of the raised bills at the box office of the Garde theatre and the ticket seller observed the apparent fraud. While she summoned a member of the office staff to the box office, the crook became suspicious and fled through State street, leaving his perfectly good $10 bill with the ticket seller. It was then discovered that the bill had been raised. This bill is now in possession of the police. Several weeks ago another such bill was received in the pay envelope of a mill employe in Mystic and it is believed that this bill was passed at the Capitol theatre. Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh is working on the case. A description of the crook has been obtained.

Members of the Catholic Women's club held a cake sale in the old Perry & Stone store in State street Saturday afternoon when fifty-seven dollars was cleared. The committee in charge was Mrs. Frances J. Corcoran, Mrs. William McPartland, Mrs. Frank F. LeBlanc, Mrs. James H. Neilan, Mrs. Stanley E. Thomas, Mrs. Daniel Noonan, Mrs. John H. MacDonald, Mrs. Agnes Reilly, Mrs. George Finch, Mrs. Thomas E. Donohue, Mrs. Alice Linicus and Mrs. M. F. O'Hara.

Visitors of the home department of the Methodist Episcopal church were entertained the other night by Mrs. Charles E. Spaulding in her home on Hempstead street. After a short business session refreshments were served.

Frank V. Chappell to Speak

At a meeting of the New London branch of the American Association of University Women to be held tomorrow night at the home of Miss Helen Whiton of Pennot avenue, Frank V. Chappell will give an address on old prints.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Ciavaglia of Ridgewood park, entertained Saturday night on the 23rd birthday of their nephew, Richard Benvenuti.

Charles D. C. Barnes of 20 Belden street entertained friends Saturday night in celebration of his 22nd birthday.

Members of Circle No. 3 of the First Baptist church are to hold a tea in the church parlors, arranged by Mrs. Malcolm Bryson and Mrs. Henry S. Schlink.

The dance held in the Garde ballroom Saturday night by New London chapter No. 58, National Sojourners was well attended. The Coast Guard orchestra furnished music under the leadership of Bandmaster Hayden O. Jenks.

At a meeting of the Young People's branch of the W. C. T. U. held last night it was voted to raise money to send a member to represent the local branch at the young people's conference at Sharon, Mass., in June. Last night's meeting was held at the home of Mrs. George F. Cramer of Frost street, president of the local W. C. T. U. and was attended by 12 members.

In a recent test conducted at the New London Business college, Evelyn Sawicksky of Latimers mill, Oakdale, won a pearl medal emblem. She typed 70 words a minute for 15 minutes with only two errors. Sixty words a minute is considered an excellent achievement.

Ferguson-Crouch Engagement

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Amy Powell Ferguson of Groton and Newton, Mass., to Irving Eugene Crouch of Groton. The announcement was made by Mrs. Carl R. Stafford, a sister, of Thames street, Groton. Miss Ferguson is a graduate of W. M. I. and Connecticut college. No date has been set for the wedding.

Following the meeting of Lady Aberdeen lodge, Daughters of Scotia, and Clan Cameron, Order of Scottish clans, tomorrow night, a piano dance will be enjoyed by members of the lodges, their wives and young women friends.

Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth of this city will be one of the principal speakers on the program being arranged for the fifth annual Insurance day which is to be held in Hartford next Friday.

Miss Anita Atari, 24 Colver street, a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, was discharged today.

Adriana Caracausa has leased the store, 280 Main street, to Sally Nahass for two years, dating from March 14, the annual rental to be $480.

The Real Estate Exchange has sold a building lot on Cape Ann court to Frank Kalka.

Henry R. Griswold has sold to John T. and Maude T. Haney two building lots on Shirley place.

Herbert B. Prentice has sold to Arthur B. Prentice a house and lot on Greenway road.

Police Sergeant Patrick Murphy is a patient at the private hospital, but it is not believed that he will be off duty more than a few days. The officer experienced a severe nose-bleed early this morning and when the flow of blood could not be stopped, he was taken to the hospital. At the institution this afternoon it was stated that Serg. Murphy probably would be able to resume duty within a few days.

Wife Seeks Missing Spouse

Mrs. Virginia Slocum, 3015 Sherman avenue, Washington, D. C., has communicated with the New London police seeking to ascertain the whereabouts of her husband, Edward T. Slocum, a musician. Mrs. Slocum, who is in ill health, stated that she had not heard from her husband for a year and that she is about to undergo a surgical operation.

Had Case Continued

Lester Martin, 24 Keeney lane, was in the police court today charged with reckless driving, but the case was continued for a week. Martin was driving in a southerly direction on Bank street Saturday night and at the corner of Howard street, where an automatic signal directs traffic, Martin disregarded the signal, which was set against his approach and turned abruptly in an endeavor to drive to Howard street. At the same time the new police Ford, driven by Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin and in which was Acting Sergeant John Courtney, was moving northerly on Bank street. In driving against the signal, the Keeney Lane young man's car bumped against the police auto. The colliding driver gave as an excuse for the crash that he didn't observe the approaching police car, but he could not account for his failure to drive against the signal.

Charge Nolled

Mrs. Mary Burke, 11 Pearl street, was charged with evasion of taxi fare, but the charge was nolled. The Burke woman hired a cab of the Union Cab company early Sunday and refused to pay the driver, Louis Ramistella. She was arrested by Patrolman George McCaskey.

Burton S. Taylor, 19 Pratt street, Essex, was charged with violation of the city's parking ordinance in parking on a crosswalk. He failed to present himself in court and forfeited his bond of $2. Taylor was arrested Saturday by Patrolman Michael Dorsey.

The other cases presented were for intoxication and all escaped penalty, excepting a farm worker, a frequent violator of the law, who was fined $10 and costs and went to jail.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Albert G. Reynolds

The funeral of Mrs. Lucy D. Reynolds, wife of Albert G. Reynolds, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her residence, 22 Center street, the services being conducted by Rev. Charles E. Spaulding. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Essex in Economy Run

Last Thursday 24 Essex challengers piloted by dealers from northern and eastern Connecticut started out from McKinley's Filling station in East Hartford on an economy run which was to make history. Despite the fact that the thermometer registered between 20 and 25 degrees and for over 50 miles of the total a raging snow storm was in progress, making driving difficult, an average of 22.6 miles per gallon of gasoline was made.

The entrants were divided into two routes—the east and west routes the idea being that each entrant drive through his home town.

B. A. Harrington, head of the Harrington-Hudson company, led the east route division. While the run was devoted to Essex Challengers, Mr. Harrington desired to determine what a Hudson would do under the rules and regulations of the run, and the results were eminently satisfactory. Mr. Harrington drove the car from East Hartford to New London, 40 miles of this leg being through a driving snow storm. He was accompanied by D. L. Austin of the state police force and William J. Johnson, automobile editor of the Times. The route day through Manchester, Rockville, Tolland, Willington, Willimantic, Norwich and New London. Beyond Willimantic the skies cleared for a time, though there were numerous snow flurries. It was difficult driving between East Hartford and Willimantic and stops had to be made to wipe the wet snow off the windshields. Luncheon was served at the Mohican in New London.

State Policeman Austin drove the Hudson from New London to East Hartford by way of Saybrook, Middletown, Portland and Glastonbury. The car maintained the line throughout the run, despite the hard going.

On the east division run, Maurice Leonard of Leonard Brothers, of Willimantic, carried off the high honors by averaging 29.8 miles for the 151.6 miles traversed. Raymon T. Mentle, driving the car entered by George Betts of Manchester, was second best with 28.6 miles to his credit.

The west route division was headed by a Hudson driven by J. A. Patch, wholesale manager of the Harrington Hudson company. Mr. Patch was accompanied by R. E. Horreyman of the state police and John L. Coughlin, automobile editor of the Courant.

Mr. Patch drove the Hudson from Hartford to Norfolk, after which Mr. Coughlin took the wheel and drove back to Unionville, while Mr. Honeyman finished the run by driving back to East Hartford.

The west division had more miles to travel, the speedometer showing 154 miles. Wholesale Manager Patch made 21.6 miles to the gallon compared with 18.8 miles made by Mr. Harrington in the first division.

Lunch was served at the Hotel Martin in Norfolk. The run for the second division was through East Hartford, Warehouse Point, Windsor Locks, Poquonock, East Granby, Granby, Simsbury, Canton to New Hartford, Winsted, Norfolk, Torrington, Unionville, Farmington, Bristol, Terryville, New Britain, Hartford and East Hartford.

Henry Loomis of Windsor carried off the major honors in the west division, averaging 26.9 miles to the gallon. Henry Hotchkiss, entry, driven by Louis Barbard, was runner-up with 22.8 miles to the gallon.

When the cars returned to East Hartford the weather had turned rather cold. The east division arrived about 4:15 and the committee got in the work of breaking the seals on the gasoline tanks and measuring the fuel needed to refill the tanks. The west division arrived about a half hour later and pronounced the run as one of the hardest ever experienced. The drivers were much elated over the series made.

This economy run tells a most interesting story. Essex advertisements have told of 20 miles and more per gallon of gasoline. This run proves conclusively that it is a very ordinary thing to get 20 miles and more per gallon from an Essex car.

What little things can stir up trouble. A handkerchief, a glove, a handbag found where they should not have been and returned to the person who should not have received them. What suspicions are aroused, what accusations made; what explanations demanded! In a drama all these mean trouble tragedy; in a farce, only fun. It so happens that there is a handkerchief, a glove, a handbag—which article is it that is found and starts the trouble? Some one finds it—who?—and brings it to a certain residence. Whose? To whom is it given and what are the results? Well, see this show and you will know.

GREENEVILLE

GEORGE WOOLLEY WINS IN PINOCHLE CONTEST

When the Greeneville 31 club held their regular weekly meeting Monday evening at their club rooms on Fourth street, regular business was transacted by the president, Wallace Atterbury. After the business meeting a pinochle contest was held among the members with George Woolley winning first prize with a score of 8540, while William Leeney was awarded second prize with a score of 7820. The consolation prize went to Raymond Portelance. These parties will be held weekly.

Anders Peterson has returned to his home at Providence after spending the week end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Peterson on Boswell avenue.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas McCormick of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., were the week end guests of Dr. McCormick's mother, Mrs. Margaret E. McCormick on Prospect street.

George Swanton has returned to his home at Providence after spending a few days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Swanton at 492 North Main street.

John O. Shea and Miss Delia Shea have returned to their home at Jewett City after spending the week end at the home of their cousins, Mrs. Michael J. Shea of 495 North Main street.

Earl Whitehead has returned to his home on Fourth street after spending the week end with relatives at Hanover. While there he attended the funeral services of Douglas W. Dean, whose burial took place Saturday afternoon.

William Brennan Recovered.

The many friends of William Brennan will be pleased to learn that he has returned to his home, 176 Prospect street, after being a patient at the W. W. Backus hospital where he underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Mary Mahoney has resumed her studies at the Baltic Academy after being confined to her home with illness.

Miss Gertrude Fontaine has resumed her duties as a teacher at West Hartford after spending the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fontaine on Central avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Merton Parkhurst and family moved Saturday from Boswell avenue to their newly erected cottage that they had built on the main highway near Houghton's Cove.

Rev. Frederick M. Coholan of St. Mary's Memorial church was subdeacon of the solemn requiem mass this past week at St. Brendan's church, New Haven, at the funeral of Mrs. Thomas J. Leddy, mother of Rev. Charles A. Leddy, formerly of Mystic.

Compensation Claim Dismissed.

Because of lack of jurisdiction Compensation Commissioner Albert J. Bailey has dismissed the claim of Mrs. Minnie M. Saunders, widow of Fred C. Saunders, of No. 8 Howard street, for compensation from the Grand Union Tea Co., for the death of her husband.

Mr. Saunders, who was 68, was employed as a salesman by the tea concern working from their New London branch. While crossing the highway at Old Lyme, November 14th last, he was fatally injured by an automobile. The petitioner claimed that compensation was due her as the death of her husband arose out of and in the course of his employment.

Buys Union Street Property

Through the agency of John A. Moran, real estate broker, the property at No. 55 Union street owned by John J. Callahan, consisting of a two-apartment house, a one-car garage and a large lot, has been sold to William J. Fitzgerald. Mr. Fitzgerald intends to make minor changes and buys the property for an investment.

BEST THING FOR CHILDREN'S COUGHS

Frightening croupy coughs, stuffy wheezy colds, and troublesome night coughs are so quickly eased and helped by Foley's Honey and Tar Compound that thousands of mothers everywhere rely upon it and are not disappointed. Children like it—no opiates. Mothers endorse it—no chloroform. All users recommend it. Mrs. Neldo Weigel, Calhary, Wis., says: "My mother says there is no better medicine for coughs and colds than Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and we find it so." Sold everywhere.

ADJOURNED TOWN MEETING LAYS 13 MILL TAX ON NEW GRAND LIST

A town tax of 13 mills on the new grand list was voted Monday evening at the adjourned town meeting in the town hall. An effort to cut the tax one mill, to 12 mills, made by G. Warren Davis, was voted down. With a half hundred men and women present, First Selectman William S. Murray called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock. Selectman Murray stated that the purpose of the meting was to lay a town tax on the grand list. He explained that the annual meeting last October, after voting the town appropriations, had adjourned until March 4th at which time the tax was to have been laid. The meeting was on March voted, again adjourned, until last night. Selectman Murray asked if anyone had a resolution to present.

Town Counsel H. H. Pettis introduced a resolution fixing the tax rate at 13 mills, $20,000 to be applied to the sinking fund, the balance to be used for the expenses of the town, the state and county taxes and the expense of the public schools, the taxes to be collected on or before June 10th. The motion was seconded.

G. Warren Davis asked the chair if it would be in order to amend the resolution. Being informed that he could offer an amendment, Mr. Davis amended the resolution to read 12 mills instead of 13 mills. His motion was seconded and Mr. Davis briefly explained his reason for offering the amendment. I live on the East Side, he said, where we have both a town and a city tax, and a great many country privileges. Mr. Davis spoke of Hamilton avenue, which he said it is hoped will be improved. Referring to the present condition of the street Mr. Davis said he understood the street commissioner's machine was stuck there last week and had to be hauled out.

If the improvement of the street is made, Mr. Davis said it means a regrading and presumably a quarter mile at least of new sidewalks. The properties are not yielding revenues commensurate with a large tax. This 13 mill tax means more taxes for the property owners there, Mr. Davis pointed out, and if new sidewalks are required the burden will be heavy.

Town counsel inquired of the chair if a tax of 12 mills would pay the expenses of the town. It will not, answered Selectman Murray. He stated that one mill on the new grand list means $48,359. The town officials are not asking to raise any more money than was voted at the town meeting last October. The appropriations made must be paid for, Mr. Murray said that if the meeting voted a 12 mill tax it would mean another special town meeting.

Mr. Murray pointed out that Hamilton avenue is within the city and is not a town highway. Therefore, we cannot be held responsible for its condition, he said. The amendment was put to vote and declared lost. The meeting then voted the original resolution fixing the tax rate at 13 mills. Mr. Pettis moved the meeting adjourn and the motion was carried.

GAVE SHOP TALK AT RADIATOR PLANT

"Help from the Sanctuary" was the topic of an interesting address given by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church at the meeting conducted by the Y. M. C. A. representatives at the Richmond Radiator plant Monday afternoon at 12.30 o'clock. In part Rev. Mr. Ricketts spoke as follows:

"We read in one of the Psalms these words, "until I went into the sanctuary." It was a man with a perplexed mind who gave expression to these words. He probably wondered why some men who did not live good lives were prosperous, while other men who lived splendid lives seemed to have very little success. He felt that such conditions were not justice, but when he went into the sanctuary he learned the reason.

The church has a wider outlook on life than do those outside of the church. Universities under control of the state have to be careful as to their policy and their action, but the church has no such limitations, that is a minister has a right to stand on his two feet (and I believe most ministers do) and proclaim the gospel without fear or favor. We find that the church has thought not only of the body, but of the mind and the soul. It takes into consideration the man's will. Simply because a man is a good man he will not necessarily become rich or famed. What the church aims to do is to help men to make the most of what God has given them. She teaches that the body is the temple of the Holy Ghost, and that the mind and the will must be trained and used. Capacity is not enough, it takes the will to use that capacity to the fullest extent. The church aims to develop the entire personality so that the man may accomplish what God has in mind he should accomplish. The mission of the church is to fit man for human society and also for eternity.

A great many foolish things are said against money, but the Bible nowhere argues against the accumulation of and the use of money, except that it shall be honestly accumulated and rightly and wisely used. To speak against a rich man just because he has riches is foolishness. The Bible and the church teaches what humanity needs. They show what humanity is, what humans ought to do and what they ought to be.

ANTHONY BAYENSKI FINED $10 IN THE CITY COURT

Anthony Bayenski of Greeneville was fined $10 and costs in the city court Monday morning on a charge of operating a pool room without a license. The cases against Joseph Zacker and Paul Salamucha were dropped, due to lack of evidence. They were charged with frequenting a gaming house. The three men were arrested Sunday afternoon by local police. Bayenski was arrested and charged with operating a pool room without a license. He explained in court that he did not apply for a license, as he only bought the pool room several months ago and thought that the license went with it.

TAFTVILLE

At the regular business meeting of Ponemah council, No. 34, Knights of Columbus, held Monday evening at their rooms on Providence street, Grand Knight John J. Daley presided.

Miss Nellie Delaney, R. N., has returned to her home in Danielson after spending several days with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Allard, and family, of lower Norwich avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lafleur, of New Haven, spent the week-end with Mrs. Lafleur's father, Joseph Tetreault, and family, of Providence street.

Mrs. Thomas Perkins Sears, of North Fifth avenue, spent the week-end in New Haven.

Plans have been completed for the card party to be given for the benefit of the William W. Backus hospital auxiliary, which is to take place this week.

At the mid-Lenten card party given by the members of St. Veronica's society at their rooms on Providence street Friday evening, Miss Agnes Bertrand won the first prize for women, the second going to Miss Rosanna Arpin and the consolation to Miss Sue Nolan. The men's first prize went to Thomas Parkinson, the second to Harry Collins of Baltic and the consolation to Ovila Gagnon. Refreshments were served after cards. The committee in charge consisted of Miss Ann Dailey, chairman; Miss Loretta Sullivan, Miss Lulu Greenwood, Miss Mary Ward and Miss Rose Leparre.

Mrs. William Stone, of 32 South A street, was one of the recipients of mail carried by Colonel Lindbergh on his inaugural air mail flight from Panama. Mrs. Stone having received a letter from her nephew, George Havens, Jr., who holds a responsible position with the government at Cristobal. The communication carried 27 cents postage, whereas other letters received from there via air mail carried but 5 cents postage, having come part way via steamer and train and being three days longer in transit.

INCOME TAX RETURNS ARE DUE BY FRIDAY

Only four days remain in which to file income tax returns at the office of U. S. Internal Revenue Collector G. M. Charbonneau in the court house building. The final day is March 15 and up to that time Mr. Charbonneau will be at his office from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. to receive the returns.

NORWICH TOWN

CAMP FIRE GIRLS HOLD ANNIVERSARY SERVICE

Dekonya group of Camp Fire Girls connected with the Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church held a special service in the church Sunday evening to celebrate the 17th anniversary of the national organization. The work taken by the girls during the service included: Lighting Fires of Work, Health and Love; Work by Virginia Ward, Health by Betty Browning and Love by Inez Smith; Camp Fire Girls' Credo given by the president of the group Doris Rose; Camp Fire honor system, handsign, laws and watchword, explained by Grace Marie Heinrichs; Camp Fire laws, repeated by the group. Bible reference for each was given by the following: Seek beauty, Matt. 6:28, 29, Henrietta Allen; Give service, Matt. 16:24-28 Phillis Heinrichs; pursue knowledge, Proverbs 3:13-18, Mildred Carter; be trustworthy, Matt. 25:21, Florence Gerebel; hold on to health, I Cor. 3:16, 17, Barbara Fellows; glorify work, Proverbs 31:10 to 29, Bernice Fritz; Be happy, John 15:9-13, Natalie Bailey; closing song, Lay me to sleep in sheltering flame, oh Master of the hidden fire, wash pure and cleanse for me my soul's desire. The pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter, gave the girls an address on The Power of a Smile. There was a good sized congregation. Helen Haviland Potter, the guardian, was in charge of the ritual service.

Judas, the Man Who Might Have Been, was the theme of the sermon at the morning service of the church. Mrs. Helen Haviland Potter told a children's story. The anthem by the Junior choir in charge of Mrs. Lewis E. Aldrich was well rendered. What Shall I Do With My Dollar? was the subject of the talk given by Clarence Smith at the meeting of the Junior Epworth league. The meeting was in charge of Florence M. Bennett, the superintendent. Izetta Dilette, a young lady who is blind and a teacher of the blind, gave a very helpful talk in the C. E. meeting on the subject How to Become a Christian. Theodora Brown, treasurer of the church, read a statement at the morning service which showed a small deficit to be made up before the closing of the conference year, which comes the first of April.

In the second in the series of Lenten sermons on "Our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ," at the First Congregational church, the pastor, Rev. Gurdon P. Bailey, at Sunday morning worship preached on "The Jesus of Nazareth." The text was Luke 2:52, And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favour with God and man.

In the Congregational chapel Sunday evening at 6:30, the Young People's C. E. society held its monthly business meeting, the president, Miss Dorothy Waterman, presiding. This was followed by the weekly service, which had for its lesson theme, "How to Become a Christian." Miss Ida Beebe was leader. During the evening Theodore Sterry, violinist, beautifully interpreted "Romanza," by George J. Tenkaus, Miss Louise Sterry playing the piano accompaniment.

Preceding the Lenten mid-week service, Friday evening, Mrs. John L. Browning, chairman of the supper committee of the Woman's department of the League of Service, is to be in charge and will be assisted by other members of that committee. Rev. H. H. Tompkins, of Colchester, is to be a special guest and will deliver the address of the evening.

FEBRUARY WINNERS IN STORRS EGG CONTEST

Production gained in the fourth month of contest even though February had fewer days, as the birds came through with 17,477 eggs or a yield of 62.4 per cent. Total production for the first four months of the competition is 68,762 eggs. This is an average of 688 eggs for each of the 100 competing pens, or nearly 69 eggs per bird. The following table shows a comparison of the per cent production of the 17th and 18th contests for the first third of the year:

	1927-1928 Per cent.	1928-1929 Per cent
November	42.8	51
December	43.1	56.4
January	51.9	59.7
February	54.2	62.4

A pen of White Leghorns owned by George Lowry of West Willington, Conn., has been the monthly winner since the contest started. This month the birds shelled out 253 eggs. This score, of course, enables them to win the blue ribbon in the Leghorn class. A pen of the same breed entered by the William L. Gilbert Home, Winsted, Conn., was a close second with a production of 245 eggs. This pen receives the red ribbon in its class. Fox & Sons' White Leghorns from Little Falls, N. J., made a record of 238 eggs for the month and received the green ribbon in their class and third place in the contest.

FIVE DRIVERS TO APPEAR IN COURT WEDNESDAY

In the week end drive against operators who have not taken out 1929 driver's licenses, the state police made five arrests in Norwich. The drivers, who are under orders to appear in the city court Wednesday morning are: Abraham Axelnall of Lebanon, Louis Bell of Occum road, driving a Connecticut machine with Massachusetts driver's license; Sanfrid E. Benson of Hanover, John Arson of Yantic, Edward Niederman, driving with faulty brakes.

Week End Visitor Here.

S. Browning Prentice, president of the eastern division of the American Roque league was a week end visitor in this city, having recently returned from Florida. There he played on the roque courts at St. Petersburg. That city has equipped 17 courts, two of them being covered and costing $2,000. Mr. Prentice stated that the annual tournament of the eastern division will be held at Fairmount park, Philadelphia, the week beginning July 22nd and on August 19th an invitation tournament will be held at Oak Bluffs, Norwich was the original home of roque and for many years the annual tournaments of the National Roque association were held on the Rockwell street grounds.

Bones of men who lived in north Africa in the old Stone Age, 25,000 years ago, have been discovered.

RUMOR BANKERS TRUST CO. TO ERECT NEW BUILDING

The filing in the town clerk's office Monday afternoon of an agreement by which Xavier Lambert agrees to sell, on warranty deed, the property at No. 256-258 Main street, to Lee Roy Robbins, as secretary, gives strength to a rumor that the Bankers Trust Co. plan to erect a new banking house on the site.

It is rumored that Attorney Robbins is acting for the bank in the purchase of the single story brick building and that the bank will take possession on or before April 1st. The property is on the northerly side of Main street, adjacent to Franklin square, has about 35 feet frontage and is about 70 feet in depth. The easterly end of the property adjoins Meyers alley.

The property is at present occupied by The Shufix, George H. Moles, proprietor, Nowatzky's news stand, and the barber shop conducted by Sam Therrien. The Connecticut company's trolley waiting station is also located in that section of the building occupied by The Shufix. The Bankers' Trust Co., has been located in the Thayer building since its organization.

COUNCIL MEETING AGAIN ADJOURNS FOR WEEK

Because of the continued illness of Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, the adjourned meeting of the court of common council was again adjourned Monday evening until next Monday evening. The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by Senior Alderman Harold C. Dahl and immediately adjourned.

WYOMING TRANSPORTATION DISRUPTED BY BLIZZARD

Many Small Towns and Villages Are Marooned by Snow Drifts Which Covered Highways—The Storm Covered the Entire Rocky Mountain Region—Mountain Passes Have Been Choked With Snow—The Storm Was Accompanied by Low Temperatures.

DENVER, March 12—(AP)—Winter took a parting fling at the Rocky Mountain region today, unloosing a blizzard that left a wide area buried under the heaviest snow of the year.

In Wyoming, where the brunt of the storm was felt, a blinding snow paralyzed systems of transportation, hampered the air mail and marooned small towns and villages behind drifts which covered highways to a depth of nearly three feet. The storm area extended northward to the Canadian border, spreading a blanket of snow over Montana, and southward to New Mexico.

Heavy snowfall was general in Colorado except in the San Louis valley, in the southwestern part of the state. Highways were blocked. Denver was overspread with a nine-inch covering of white and the Pike's Peak region assumed a wintry aspect in freakish contrast to springlike weather which prevailed in the area yesterday.

A tale of heroism came from snow-bound Mount Almagre, 15 miles from the famed Cripple Creek mining district of Colorado, where a group of high school boys banded together to rescue Frank Nelson, a 74-year-old prospector, from the log cabin where he has been marooned without food.

Word of Nelson's plight reached here last night and the boys, who are experienced mountaineers, plodded through waist-high drifts and blinding snow to reach him. One boy in the party was sent back at noon with word that Nelson had been found safe but in a dying condition. The boys devised a litter to carry him to a hospital in Colorado Springs and were making slow progress on the return journey late today.

Mountain passes in the tier of states in the range of the Rockies were choked with snow. Cripple Creek, Colo., was cut off by railroad from Colorado Springs, but maintained communication with the world by telephone.

The storm was accompanied by low temperatures. From 18 to 24 inches of snow fell in the territory between Cheyenne and Laramie and 12 inches was reported in the vicinity of Casper, the rich oil capital of Wyoming. Yellowstone Park was covered with a three-inch blanket.

A group of 12 members of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon basketball team of the University of Wyoming encountered huge snow drifts in traveling by automobile between Cheyenne and their homes in Laramie. Highway department workers rescued the party today after the travelers had been reported hours overdue.

FAVORS WHIPPING FOR YOUTHFUL CRIMINALS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 12—(AP)—An "old fashioned hiding" was recommended by Judge Frederick W. Fosdick in the Middlesex superior court today as the punishment best adapted to cure lawlessness on the part of modern youth.

"It is becoming more and more difficult for the courts to know what to do with these youthful offenders," said the judge in disposing of the case of Frank P. Guarente an Arlington high school boy charged with using an automobile without authority.

"I would like to take this boy downstairs with a number of spectators and a couple of husky court officers and give him an old fashioned hiding, the same as we got when we were his age. Apparently the modern parents are afraid to hurt the feelings of their children. This boy did not care what he did as long as he could take his girl for a ride."

In the end, the judge ordered that the boy be placed on probation and that he pay the owner of the car $20. When defense counsel protested that the defendant's father, a poor man, would have to pay the $30, the judge remarked: "Well, that's fine. Then he can take it out of the boy's hide."

LIVES ENDANGERED BY FIRE IN EAST PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, March 12—(AP)—Two persons narrowly escaped death, three men were injured and the roofs of nine houses were ignited during a fire that destroyed the Haven Methodist Episcopal church on Taunton avenue, East Providence, and threatened the thickly settled residential district of that town tonight. The damage was estimated at $100,000.

Police Sergt. John Estes risked his life to rescue Mrs. J. R. D. Oldham, wife of the superintendent of East Providence schools, who was trapped in a room on the third floor of the church building. He and the woman became confused in the smoke-filled rooms and were later rescued by others. Members of the Boys' Home Guards of the church had left the building only a few moments before it burst into flame.

WESTERLY MAN ON BAIL ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

PROVIDENCE, March 12—(AP)—Albert T. Bleasdale, of Westerly, held under a technical charge of manslaughter following the death of Mrs. Mary Decastro, of Stonington, Conn., who was almost instantly killed when the car in which she was riding with Bleasdale collided with another, was released late today under $2,500 bail to await finding of the coroner's inquest. Shortly after Bleasdale had offered to convey Mrs. Decastro to her work in a Noank mill this morning, the car collided with one driven by Arthur J. Butlin, of Waterford, Conn., and when the machine swerved into a pole, Mrs. Decastro received the full force of the impact and almost instantly expired.

DEATH OF ASA G. CANDLER, FOUNDER OF COCA COLA CO.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 12—(AP)—Asa Griggs Candler, who rose from obscurity as a drug clerk to a position of great wealth as founder and head of the Coca Cola company, died at a hospital here today at the age of 78.

The end came quietly at Wesley Memorial hospital, which he built and gave to his church and to which he had been confined for more than two years by declining health attributed to the infirmities of age. His condition was feeble for many months but did not become critical until a few days ago.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 11 a. m. at the palatial Candler home in Druid Hills, with Dr. Franklin N. Parker, dean of the Candler School of Theology at Emory, officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Mr. Candler retired nearly 20 years ago from active direction of the soft drink business he organized and built into a concern for which his family received $27,600,000 when their interests were sold in 1919. He was once rated one of the wealthiest men in the south but had distributed his fortune among his five children after his Coca Cola holdings were sold.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH HEAVY BENEFICIARY

NEWARK, N. J., March 12—(AP)—Under the will of William Halsey Peck, who died Feb. 27, the Presbyterian church eventually will receive a large portion of the estate estimated at about $1,000,000. Mr. Peck was a retired official of the Canadian Pacific railroad. The will was presented to probate today.

Miss Edith Mary Peck, who resided with her brother, is to receive the home here, $250,000 outright and the income of the residue of the estate for life. At her death the principal is to be divided into eight parts.

Three parts will go to the Roseville Presbyterian church. One part each was bequeathed to the Bloomfield Theological seminary, the pension fund of the board of ministerial relief and sustentation, board of foreign missions and board of home missions of the Presbyterian Church North.

Among the charitable bequests was St. Paul's school, Concord, N. H., $5,000; Bloomfield, Theological seminary.

N. Y. STATE ENFORCEMENT FOR OVER 6 PER CENT.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 12.—(AP)—State enforcement of the Volstead act suddenly sprang into the forefront of legislative activity tonight when the assembly codes committee alternately approved, withdrew, amended, killed, again amended and then finally voted to report out the Jenks prohibition enforcement bills.

As they finally emerged from the committee room tonight, they would provide for enforcement of the federal prohibition act by state officers in the case of all beverages containing more than six per cent. alcohol, instead of the one and one-half per cent. of the Volstead act and the orizinal Jenks bill.

As a result of the manipulation of the bills by the committee, it was said tonight that there is an excellent chance the legislature this year will pass a state enforcement measure for the first time since the Mullan-Gage act was repealed in 1923. However, the camp of the friends of enforcement was far from jubilant.

S. E. Nicholson, superintendent of the state Anti-Saloon league, characterized the amended bills as "just a joke."

STUDENT AVIATOR WAS KILLED DURING SOLO FLIGHT

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., March 12.—(AP)—Lauriston Cameron, a student aviator, was killed today when he banked too sharply during a solo flight and crashed. He was pulled unconscious from the wrecked plane and later died in the Nassau county hospital. He was 24 years old and came from Wentworth Location, N. H. He had seven hours of solo flying.

CONN AGGIES RIFLE TEAM WAS DEFEATED BY NORWICH

NORTHFIELD, Vt., March 12.—(AP)—The Norwich rifle team defeated Lehigh university and Connecticut Aggies, according to telegraphed returns announced here tonight. A tenman team scored 3617 to Lehigh's 3601, while a quintet of riflemen nosed out the Aggies, 1837 to 1791.

Mexican Federals Are Pressing Rebels

Government Troops Are Advancing on Three Columns, One Toward Torreon and One Toward Duranco City.

By The Associated Press

Federal troops are pushing on with unexpected rapidity to a decisive engagement with rebel Mexican forces in central Mexico near rebel headquarters at Torreon.

A Mexico City communique announces that federals are advancing on Torreon as fast as repair crews, working in shifts, can fix the railroad line across the rugged desert country which rebels had hoped would seriously delay federal columns.

Head of the federal main body was going forward from Camacho.

General Calles, federal commander-in-chief, has moved his headquarters from Canitas about 30 miles northwest to the town of Rio Grande, from which vantage point he can control progress of two federal columns, one to Torreon and one to Durango City.

First trouble over gun-running for the rebels broke out at El Paso, Texas, where two members of the American border patrol were ambushed and wounded by rebels attempting to cross the Rio Grande river with arms and ammunition. A miniature battle, in which many shots were exchanged followed the arrival of border patrol reinforcements. About fifty men were seen running for safety on the Mexican side of the river.

It was reported, but not confirmed, from Bisbee, Ariz., that federals had captured Naco, Sonora, and that a battle was expected at Agua Prieta, Sogora, 30 miles east and across the boundary from Douglas Ariz.

Naco and Agua Prieta are in the heart of rebel territory. The report explained that the coup had been carefully prepared by General Olachea at the head of a force of 2,000 Yaqui and Mayo Indians, which had been hitherto considered as supporting the rebel cause.

General Olachea was quoted as saying that although he had professed sympathy for the rebels, he had always been loyal to the government. He arrived at Naco early Monday morning from Nogales.

General Olachea, whose position in rebel territory is precarious said that federal airplanes would come to his aid if a fight began at Agua Prieta.

General Juan Almazan's column of federals was still in the neighborhood of Saltillo. Airplanes were scouting to locate rebel forces. General Almazan predicted that the rebels would avoid an engagement by retreating northward toward Chihuahua City. He estimated loyal troops under arms at 40,000, with 50,000 potential recruits from agrarians and workers.

AMERICAN AVIATOR JOINS MEX. FEDERALS

MONTEREY NUEVO LEON, Mexico, March 12—(AP)—An American giving the name of Philip H. Mohun of Washington, D. C., today joined General Juan A. Almazan as an aviator for the Mexican federals to whom he said he had sworn allegiance. Mohun said he was sent to Almazan by Col. Rojas, military attache of the Mexican embassy at Washington.

20 MEX. ARMY AVIATORS ARRIVED AT MEXICALI

MEXICALI, Lower Calif., March 12—(AP)—Twenty Mexican army aviators arrived here today from Mexico City, it was announced at the governor's palace. There are two military airplanes here, one bomber and one scout plane. Federal military leaders were awaiting arrival of two additional bombing planes reported enroute from Santa Monica, Calif.

AMERICAN TROOPS FOR THE MEXICAN BORDER

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—Apprehension of American residents along the international border over the safety of themselves and their property as a result of revolutionary activities in Mexico today prompted the movement of additional troops to the border.

The detachment, composed of a company of infantry and a troop of cavalry were ordered to Naco, Arizona, and to guard the water supply of Bisbee, a city about 8 miles north of the border.

No other troop movement at present is contemplated, American government official said.

Hoover Moves To Conserve Govt. Oil

Will Be No More "Wild Cat" Oil Prospecting in Public Lands, Unless Congress Decrees Otherwise.

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—President Hoover discussed today that there would be a complete conservation of government oil in his administration, thus laying down a policy on a subject which has vexed the last three administrations.

As officially interpreted his statement means that there will be no more permits for "wild cat" oil prospecting in public lands states unless mandatory legislation is enacted by congress.

Leases which may grow out of permits already issued under the general leasing act of April, 1920, will be granted, but after these have been issued the exploitation of government oil lands, no matter in what category they may lie and of government holdings and controls, will cease.

The president's statement, issued in reply to a question by newspaper correspondents, said:

"There will be no leases or disposal of government oil lands, no matter what category they may lie in, of government holdings or government controls, except those which may be mandatory by congress. In other words, there will be complete conservation of government oil in this administration."

This announcement of policy was endorsed by Chairman Nye, of the senate public lands committee, which has conducted exhaustive investigations of oil leases during the past five years, and Senator Borah, republican, Idaho but it resulted in a sharp protest from Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, prosecutor in the senate inquiries which led to the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills lease scandals.

President Hoover determined upon his policy after thorough consultation with Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior. Law officers of the interior department long have held that the issuing of the permits was entirely optional with the interior secretary and, of course, in the absence of prospecting permits there could be no additional leases.

FIRE ON ROOF OF AN OLD BUILDING AT HARVARD

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 12—(AP)—Wadsworth House, erected in 1727 and one of the oldest buildings of Harvard university, probably was saved from destruction today by the timely discovery of a fire on the roof. Miss Phylis Frost, secretary in the hygiene office, sounded an alarm. Damage was slight.

When Gen George Washington was in charge of the Continental army he occupied the building as headquarters for a time and later presidents of Harvard used it for many years. It is now occupied by officers of the military and medical aciene department at the university.

72-YEAR-OLD MAN WAS CONVICTED OF BURGLARY

BOSTON, March 12—(AP)—John Cochrane, alias Charles Haggerty, 72, was convicted of burglary in Suffolk superior court here today. He was sentenced to from two and one-half to three years at state prison. Cochrane played a lone hand, the police say, in breaking into four Dorchester residences early this year.

UNFAVORABLE TO STATE REGULATION OF RADIO

HARTFORD, March 12—(AP)—Two attempts at state regulation of radio will receive unfavorable reports of the judiciary committee of the legislature, it was decided today in executive session. One of the bills would give the state police power to investigate and act on complaints of interference and the other measure would give the public utilities commissioner power over the erection of radio stations within the borders of Connecticut.

MEX. REBEL GENERAL AGUIRRE EXECUTED

MEXICO CITY, March 12—(AP)—The execution of the rebel general, Simon Aguirre, one of the leaders of the revolt in Vera Cruz, who was captured yesterday, was announced by the government late tonight. The execution was carried out at Santa Lucrecia, Vera Cruz, by federal soldiers commanded by Gen. Alejandro Manje.

HOUSE KILLS BIRTH CONTROL BILL, 226-18

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, March 12—The so-called "Birth Control Bill" was taken from the table this morning and Mr. Alcorn of Suffield immediately moved that the bill be rejected in concurrence with the senate. Representative Peck of Bristol opposed the motion and made a lengthy argument against the rejection of the bill.

He stated that in the last few years there has been a great change in public sentiment on the question and leading religious leaders are now favoring some form of legislation that will allow the control of the birth of children that cannot and will not be properly cared for. Most of the opposition to the bill came from the leaders in the Roman Catholic church.

He did not believe that the teachings of the Congregational council of churches or of the Roman Catholic church should be embodied in the laws of the state, to enforce its teachings. He asked that when the vote was taken it be by rising.

Mrs. Platt of Milford argued against the passage of the bill. She doubted whether more than one in one hundred desired more than two children. The ministers of the Congregational church were not representing the membership of the church and had no right to say that this church was in favor of abolishing all restrictions. The passage of this law will have a bad effect upon the morals of young girls between the age of 14 and 20. If the present restrictions are removed there is danger of 15 per cent of the young girls becoming prostitutes.

Mrs. Lewi of Stratford favored the passage of the bill as one that would be of great benefit to humanity.

Mrs. Davids of Greenwich said that the present law cannot be enforced and is of no use. There is nothing in the bill that compels any one to avail themselves of the contraceptives or any other forms of prevention.

Mrs. Roberts of Hartford urged the relection of the bill. The divorce courts were responsible for much of the conditions. More time might be well spent in teaching self-restraint. The effect of removal of restrictive law will have a bad effect upon young girls of 18 and 20. Mr. Peltin of Clinton was opposed to the passage of the bill. He was born a Protestant and expected to die one, yet he believed that the stand taken on the question was absolutely right. That position is held by the Protestant churches and the position taken by the Congregational clergymen was not that of the church as a body. Miss Chenev of Manchester said the present law is impossible of enforcement and she moved that the bill be recommitted to committee. The motion was rejected by a large majority.

Chairman Johnson of the judiciary committee said he did not believe that the repeal of the present laws would increase harmony in the home as is claimed. On his calling for the previous question, 200 voted to sustain the committee report and 18, including nine women, voted against it. The tremendous support that had been promised for the repeal failed to appear.

The bill providing a closed season was finally disposed of in the house when it was amended to make the season closed only to the year 1930. Among the calendar bills passed were those concerning the repairs to the Groton monument, which provides: The sum of $1,000 is appropriated to the Groton Monument association for repairs to the monument of said as-

HOOVER IS REWARDING HIS SUPPORTERS IN THE SOUTH

Ernest Lee Jahncke of New Orleans Has Been Named Assistant Secretary of the Navy—Patrick J. Hurley of Tulsa, Okla., Has Been Appointed Assistant Secretary of War—It is Understood That Two Changes Are to Be Made in the Bureau Heads of the Interior Department—Burke Has Resigned as Head of the Indian Bureau and Scott as Commissioner of Bureau of Pensions.

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—The part played by the south in the elevation of Herbert Hoover to the presidency, was accorded recognition by the chief executive today by the appointment of two men from the southern states to posts in the "little cabinet."

Ernest Lee Jahncke, of New Orleans, was named assistant secretary of the navy, and Patrick J. Hurley, of Tulsa, was appointed assistant secretary of war.

In reaching into the south for these appointments, Mr. Hoover in one case, that of Jahncke, went to a state which returned a plurality for his opponent, Gov. Alfred E. Smith, while Oklahoma, Hurley's state, gave the republican ticket a safe margin.

In addition to making these two appointments, Mr. Hoover announced that Rear Admiral William A. Moffett would continue as chief of the naval bureau of aviation and it was learned at the same time that two changes are to be made in the bureau heads of the interior department. The resignation of Charles H. Burke as commissioner of the Indian bureau, who has been under the fire of members of congress recently, is to be accepted, together with that of Commissioner Winfield Scott of the pension bureau. Mr. Hoover has not decided who their successors will be, but has definitely determined that they will be replaced.

Hurley, who succeeds Charles D. Robbins in the war department post, served with distinction in the World war as a major and later as a lieutenant-colonel, participating in the Aisne-Marne, the Meuse-Argonne and St. Mihiel operations. He was a delegate to the republican national convention of 1924 and chairman of the Oklahoma state conference in 1926. During the campaign of last year, he was a leader in the Hoover forces of his state.

In his new position, Hurley will be in charge of the mobilization of industrial resources for use in time of war. His predecessor, Robbins, had expressed a desire to return to private life.

Jahncke has long been prominent in the shipping and shipbuilding industry and played an influential part in the Hoover southern campaign. He is a native of New Orleans, where he amassed a fortune through the Jahncke Drydocks company, and became well known locally as a yachtsman. He is president of the Republican club of Louisiana. Like Robbins, his predecessor, Theodore Douglas Robinson wished to retire from public office.

Moffett's reappointment was recommended by Secretary Adams of the navy department. He has been in charge of the bureau of aeronautics for two three-year terms and it was thought advisable to keep him at the post until the five-year naval aircraft building program has been completed.

Charges brought against Burke by members of congress were answered by the commissioner with a counter-accusation that a conspiracy was on foot to oust him and an assertion that this involved Senator Pine, of Oklahoma, was later withdrawn. He received his appointment in 1920 from President Harding and served consecutively under Secretaries Fall, Work and West. Previously he had been a member of the South Dakota legislature and had represented that state in the house of representatives.

He said today that he would stay at this point until his successor is appointed and then would be "very happy, indeed, to get out."

STAFFORDVILLE MAN WAS ON "SUCKER LIST"

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—More members of the "sucker list" for Cananea Copper stock came into federal court today as witnesses against the men whose clients they had been and told of a toll of golden promises broken.

One was a wounded war veteran of Queens, most of the others were from small eastern towns. From their testimony the government tried to show the widespread distribution of literature recommending purchase of stock in mines that were nothing more than holes in the earth, but which were pictured by John and Herbert Locke and four associates as potential bonanzas.

The story of Richard Beaston, of Tyrone, Pa., was typical of many told by investors who say they were defrauded of $5,000,000.

Beaston said he had paid $3,000 for 300 shares of the stock. Ernest G. Corley, a machinist of Staffordville, Conn., believed the circulars sent him and bought several shares; Ralph M. Burns, of Carlisle, Pa., bought by mail 200 shares for $425.

JOHN C. WINTERS HAS BEEN GRANTED NEW TRIAL

BOSTON, March 12—(AP)—John C. Winters, of Windsor, convicted of the murder of Cecilia Gullivan in that town in 1926, today was granted a new trial by the state supreme court.

Concluding arguments before that court in behalf of Winters' appeal were made last week by Clarence Darrow, noted criminal lawyer, of Chicago.

In a 45-minute address before the full bench, Darrow had based his argument almost entirely on an exception taken by the defense at the original trial, when the court excluded a defense move to show that Winters received blood stains on his clothing from a finger wound shortly before Miss Gullivan was slain.

Darrow had appeared for Winters in previous hearings before the supreme court, which because of changes in personnel, were not concluded until last week. He came to Winters' assistance in fulfillment of a promise made many years ago when an automobile driven by his son, then a student at Dartmouth college, struck and killed a relative of Winters. Darrow at that time offered his services if ever he could be of aid to the family.

DAWES MENTIONED AS AMBASSADOR TO BRITAIN

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—Charles Gates Dawes, who retired from the vice-presidency on March 4, is reported in well-informed circles here to be under consideration as the next ambassador from the United States to Great Britain.

Although the rumor lacks official confirmation, the president is known to have a very high regard for the ability of the Chicago banker and soldier dating from their associations in France during the war.

Mr. Dawes in his colorful career as army general in France, director of the budget and vice-president, several times shocked officialdom here with his outspokenness and the rumor of his appointment to the highest diplomatic post was received today with unusual interest.

PARIS, March 12—(AP)—Unless unforeseen complications develop, it is believed Elsie Janis, American stage star who has been seriously ill, will recover.

SIX OF SEVEN VOTERS OF TOWN ELECTED TO OFFICE

HART'S LOCATION, N. H., March 12—(AP)—Today was town meeting day in New Hampshire, so the citizens of this little town high in the White Mountains went to the polls. Six of the seven registered voters were elected to office.

STUDENTS OF MADRID STILL CLASH WITH THE POLICE

MADRID, March 12—(AP)—Students of the University of Madrid clashed again today with the police, as they have frequently during the last four days in their efforts to stage demonstrations against the dictatorship of Premier Primo De Rivera. The police drew their swords in dispersing the paraders but no one was seriously injured. Some of the students were bruised and many were arrested.

The entire student body formed a parade and marched through the principal streets pausing in front of government offices to shout, "Down with the government," "Down with Primo." The police were particularly vigilant in keeping the students from the vicinity of the war office where the premier resides.

The troubles began last Saturday when students remained away from classes because of what they considered unjust expulsion of one of their number.

MRS. CALVIN COOLIDGE TO PRESENT CHECK FOR $2,000,000

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 12—(AP)—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge tomorrow will present to the trustees of the Clarke School for the Deaf here, a check for $2,000,000, representing the Coolidge endowment fund for the school, it was learned tonight. The fund was completed shortly before the Coolidges left the white house. It was begun through Mrs. Coolidge's interest in the school, where she taught before her marriage.

Mrs. Bessie N. Leonard, principal of the Clarke school, said that simple ceremonies would be held tomorrow afternoon in the chapel of Hubbard hall. The details were not made known. It was thought probable that Mrs. Coolidge would present the check to Rev. Irving F. Wood, chairman of the board of trustees of the fund and professor of Biblical literature at Smith college.

WORK OF SUB-COMMITTEES OF REPARATIONS EXPERTS

PARIS, March 12—(AP)—The subcommittees of the reparations experts today applied themselves to the task of making all their reports fit into the skeleton of the proposed "trustee" or international bank for reparations payments.

The one thing definitely settled with respect to the projected gigantic financial institution is that a trustee of some kind must be found to succeed the agent-general for reparations if the Dawes plan is to be scrapped.

Some real differences of opinion among the experts must be ironed out before the committee can go further. General approbation of the bank scheme as a general proposition seems to have covered some hitches as to the details of organization and the scope of operation.

$6,500,000 EQUIPMENT FOR THE NEW HAVEN ROAD

BOSTON, March 12—(AP)—The board of directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad today announced that an expenditure of $6,500,000 for new passenger equipment had been authorized.

Included in the new equipment would be 90 coaches, ten combination coaches, 15 apartment mail cars, six diners, 20 gasoline-electric cars, 24 trailers for gasoline-electric cars, three multiple unit motorcars and six multiple unit trailer cars.

John J. Pelley, president of the road, was elected to the executive committee of the board.

COUNTY FIRE WARDENS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 12—The district and deputy forest fire wardens of Windham and Tolland, to the number of 60, held their annual meeting in the Nathan Hale hotel today with forenoon and afternoon sessions. Representatives of the New Haven railroad and Central Vermont railway were also in attendance.

The forenoon session was called to order at 10:30 o'clock in the blue room of the hotel by State Forester Austin F. Hawes of Hartford. Possible means for informing the public as to best fire prevention methods were formally discussed. C. Huntington Lathrop of Lebanon, assistant state forest fire warden, placed on exhibit charts indicating the decrease in forest fires within the past five years in Connecticut. Methods of fire fighting were shown in colorful motion pictures of actual conflagrations, the films having been furnished by the U. S. department of agriculture.

An appetizing luncheon was served at noon followed by another session, during which talks were given by several wardens. Among the speakers were H. H. Howard of Union, John Larned of Stafford, John Hunt of Somers, Mr. Managier of Bolton. The wardens said that permits for the burning of refuse and brush in the open between March 1 and Dec. 1 of this year must be secured from them. No permits are to be issued during April unless on days when the weather is stormy. These regulations do not affect boroughs, cities or villages with fire districts, being made only for such sections as come under the sole supervision of a warden.

C. E. EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE HOLDS ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 12—The executive committee in charge of the Christian Endeavor convention to be held in this city early in April, at which unions from throughout the state will be represented, held a meeting at the chamber of commerce rooms tonight. A final check-up was made of the several phases of the arrangements for the convention which will be conducted on an elaborate scale. The chamber of commerce offices will be placed at the disposal of the convention and all other assistance possible given to make the event a success.

The main convention hall will be the state armory on Pleasant street, making it possible to entertain in one location the 600 delegates and friends who are expected to attend the banquet and inspirational meeting that is to be a feature of the convention. Outstanding lecturers and Christian Endeavor workers of the world will address this meeting. Use of the armory was secured through local and state officers of the 169th regiment.

John R. Pickett today gave the local committee assurance that the Gem theatre of which he is manager would be offered with Willimantic's good will to the convention for the concluding meeting, which falls on a Sunday afternoon.

With public organizations doing all possible to accommodate the demands of the convention, the committee on housing the delegates is meeting with a measure of success in securing rooms for the delegates. This work is in addition to that which means the occupancy of practically every available hotel room in the city. The delegates will be in the city for two nights and each delegate will pay a nominal sum for the use of a room in a private home. The local chairman, Mrs. Merton Andrews, has enlisted the assistance of the chamber of commerce in the housing arrangements.

Fined for Assault on Mother

Charged with assault on his mother, Mrs. Julia Ladda, 57, and breach of the peace, Michael Ladda was fined a total of $20 and costs and sentenced to serve 45 days in the county jail, at the police court session this morning. The mother appeared in court today and exhibited two badly discolored eyes. She claimed that she sustained the bruises when struck by her son last Sunday evening. Ladda claimed that his mother was intoxicated Sunday evening and that she fell down a flight of stairs to the cellar. He said that he found her at the foot of the cellar stairs when he returned home.

Judge F. H. Foss and Prosecuting Attorney H. S. Gaucher agreed that it was unlikely that the woman could have sustained her injuries in the manner described by her son. Ladda has been arraigned on a similar charge some months ago. At that time Judge Foss imposed a suspended sentence of 45 days in jail, this sentence being put into effect today. The fine was on the basis of $10 on each count.

Russell Waught, 21, of Hartford, was fined $50 and costs and given a 30-day jail sentence, in police court this morning, when he was arraigned on a charge of defrauding the Nathan Hale hotel of board and room amounting to $107.50. He pleaded guilty and asked a chance to make restitution to the hotel but, in view of the fact that his jail record in other cities indicated that the offense was more or less of a habit, the accused was not given an opportunity to make good.

The continued case of Louis Forsto of Hartford, charged with failure to have a driver's license in his possession, was nolled upon the payment of costs this morning. Forsto had overlooked his license in another suit of clothes when accosted by the officer and he produced the certificate in court today.

At a session of the juvenile court a 13-year-old Brick Row boy was charged with destruction of property by throwing a stone through the window of a coach in the afternoon train to Boston Monday. A woman passenger on the train received a cut over the eye as a result of the prank. The boy was placed on probation in charge of Probation Officer William V. Palmer, Sr.

To Hold Dairy Institute

A dairy institute will be held at the Guilford Smith hall in South Windham next Thursday with morning and afternoon sessions. The Connecticut Dairymen's association, the Windham Farmers' club and the Windham county farm bureau are co-operating in the arrangements. The program will open at 10 o'clock with a talk by Charles Cass of Wallingford, foreman of the Barnes Nursery company, on Herd Management. At 11 o'clock a motion picture on Rat Control will be shown in connection with a talk by Ernest M. Mills of the U. S. department of agriculture. Luncheon will be served at noon followed by a talk on Alfalfa Growing at 1 o'clock by J. J. Anderson, superintendent of the Woodford Farm, Avon. Mr. Mills will show another motion picture at 2 o'clock and at 2:30 the 4-H club of Windham will give a short program, including a demonstration and brief talks by members. The committee in charge of the arrangements is composed of Fred Rosebrooks, George A. Cook, Archie Gallup, with R. E. Wing of Putnam, county agent, co-operating.

Rotary Initiation

The impressive ceremonial, The Building of the Rotary Wheel, was carried out at the regular meeting of the Willimantic Rotary club held in the Nathan Hale hotel in effecting the initiation of seven new members. General introductions were made by James P. Mustard, chairman of the fellowship committee. Past President Valentine L. Murphy acted as master of ceremonies and presented the speakers with the "spokes" for insertion in the wheel. The talks, designated by the "spokes" of the wheel were made in the following order: Acquaintance, Herbert W. Huber; Friendship, Gerard E. Loiselle; Fellowship, Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock; Inspiration, Richard E. Dodge; Service, Charles W. Hill, and Fair Dealing, Justice George E. Hinman. At the conclusion of the ceremony, President Raymond A. Parker read the Rotary code of ethics and then presented a framed copy of the code to each new member. Cigars contributed by Ernest Rottomley were enjoyed today. The guests were Rotarian Edward J. Jewett, president of the Norwich club, and Benjamin L. Smith of New Haven, who was with his brother, Frank M. Smith. The meeting next week will be in charge of John F. Ahern of the public relations committee.

OBITUARY

Albert Stiber

Albert Stiber died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Olga Hauschild, of 1551 West Main street, Monday night. He was born in New York city, Nov. 15, 1855, a son of William and Anna Sturz Stiber. The deceased leaves two sisters, Mrs. Mary Warwick of New York city and Mrs. Hauschild of this city, and two nephews, Arnold Warwick of New York and Edmund Hauschild of this city. Mr. Stiber conducted a farm in Gurleyville up to about two years ago.

Success is looked for in the report meeting of the 60 solicitors in the 1929 chamber of commerce membership campaign which will be held in the Nathan Hale hotel at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening. The 1929 campaign was resumed a few days ago under direction of a committee appointed for that purpose by Acting President Charles W. Hill, who filled this position in the absence of President Frank P. Fenton. The committeemen are: Albert B. Smith, Louis H. Arnold, Ralph H. Gibson, Roland B. Jordan and Raymond A. Parker. The sum of $1,100 is necessary to complete the necessary budget of $8,200 for this year's work.

Andrew J. Carey was given a recognition dinner at the Nathan Hale hotel Monday evening by the local branch of the Telephone Employes' association in noting his long term of service with the Southern New England Telephone company. Covers were laid for 21 with Stanley Johnson, president of the Willimantic branch, as toastmaster of the evening. Mr. Cary was presented with an attractive 20-year service badge by Benjamin F. Reynolds, local wire chief, on behalf of the company and the association. The dinner was followed by an entertainment and dance. Mr. Cary entered the employ of the company 20 years ago as a member of the "floating gang" of the plant department. He was assigned to the local exchange two years later and since that time has given faithfully of his valuable services.

PACKARD

Standard Eights Priced $160 Lower

PACKARD Straight Eight luxury, acknowledged supreme by motorists throughout the world, is now available to new thousands of owners.

Effective March 4th, all models of the popular Standard Eight line were reduced $160 at the factory. The new prices make the Packard Standard Eight the most outstanding motor car value of the year.

From the Five-Passenger Sedan, now listing at $2275 to the Seven-Passenger Sedan Limousine at $2675, the Packard Standard Eight line offers a wide choice of body types—and at prices actually lower than the last established prices of the Packard Six. Ten models are available, three of 126-inch wheelbase and seven with wheelbase of 133 inches.

All Packard features are found in today's Standard Eights, including the new and exclusive Shock Absorbing System with its device for eliminating front wheel "shimmy". Packard has but one measure of quality—the highest. Standard Eight models are Packards throughout—in all that this famous name implies.

When may we demonstrate the model of your choice?

If you prefer to buy out of income, you will find the Packard Payment Plan most attractive. Many take possession of their new cars without any cash outlay because the used car allowance equals or exceeds the down payment on the new car.

DANIELSON

SCHOOL COMMITTEE TO REDUCE COST OF SCHOOLS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 13—Supt. W. E. Parker of Killingly's schools made known this morning that the town school committee has undertaken a study and survey with a view to reducing the cost of the schools during the coming fiscal year. That this can be done without impairing the efficiency and present high standard of the schools seems almost certain. Indeed, there is the likelihood that the present high standard of the town's schools can be made even higher.

The present study of the problem includes suggestion for closing a room or a school here and there throughout the town and transferring the pupils in such rooms or schools to other buildings. Changes in economic conditions in town within the past few years have made such a consolidation possible, especially at Attawaugan and at Killingly Center.

Also under consideration is the plan to close the South Killingly school and transfer the pupils studying there to the Junior high schol and the grammar school building in Danielson. The per pupil cost at the South Killingly school is the highest of any school in town. The cost of educating the children of the South Killingly district involves not only the maintaining of a school building and the employing of a teacher, but also transportation cost for pupils in the district brought to the school and transportation of pupils of the district of Danielson to attend the high or junior high schools. That particular school is going to cost in excess of $3,000, the present school year. It is estimated that at least two-thirds of this amount can be saved by transporting the pupils to Danielson, where they can be incorporated into classes in the high and graded high school buildings and taught without employing any additional teachers. Other changes in other parts of the town would effect further savings, rom the study insofar as it already has proceeded it would appear that at least $5,000 can be saved by the consolidation processes.

In line with Supt. Parker's and the school committee's efforts to cut down the cost of the schools and yet improve their efficiency it is of interest that Killingly's school costs are lower than those of the state as a whole and generally lower than the costs in Putnam and in Plainfield, two neighboring towns with about the same population as that of Killingly.

For instance, in the school year 1926-1927, in Killingly, the average per pupil cost in the elementary schools was $62.42, as against $73.96 for Putnam, $81.60 for Plainfield and $77.50 for the state at large. In that same school year the per pupil cost at the high school went above $100 for the first time. This was due to heavy purchases of equipment and other expenses incident the enlargement of the school by the construction of two new wings. However, in that year the cost here was $121.71 per pupil, as against $112.24 for Putnam, $125.45 for Plainfield and $103.22 for the state at large. In that year the combined cost per pupil in Killingly of the high and grammar schools was $75.71, as against $90.53 for Putnam, $92.81 for Plainfield and $89.21 for the state at large. Last year the Killingly high school per pupil cost was reduced to $104.64, as against $157.24 for the state at large.

Here is evidence of exceeding care in the administration of Killingly's splendid school system and a demonstration of the fact costs here are being kept as low as possible.

The school authorities will continue their study and planning for further cutting of costs through the remainder of the present school year and hope to have their consolidation plan worked out in detail and ready to be made effective at the opening of another school year in September.

Friday of this week the 18th quarterly county poultry meeting is to be held at Grange hall in Brooklyn, opening at 10:30 a. m. There are to be four addresse, two during the morning session, two at the afternoon session. The speakers are to be Roy E. Jones, poultry specialist at Storrs, Charles A. Brenn of Scotland, Robert Quait representing a limestone products company and Ernest M. Mills of the United States department of agriculture. Messers Jones and Breen will speak during the morning session, Mr. Jones discussing High Points in Brooding Chicks. Mr. Breen on the subject Methods and Results of 1928. The Importance of Mineral Feed to Poultry will be discussed by Mr. Quait at the afternoon session, when Mr. Mills will give a talk on Rat Control, this talk to be illustrated by motion pictures, which also are to be used during the meeting to show brooding chickens and co-operative marketing of eggs on the Pacific coast. There is to be a hopper contest during the afternoon, and those entering are requested to bring their favorite types. There is to be a basket lunch at the noon hour.

This morning the body of James Dever arrived here from Brooklyn, N. Y., where death occurred, and was taken in charge by Undertaker Louis E. Kennedy. Funeral services later were held at the Sacred Heart church in Wauregan, Rev. J. H. Quinn being celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery. Friends acted as bearers. Mr. Dever was at one time a resident of Wauregan. He left that place about 20 years ago and located in Woonsocket, still later going to Brooklyn, N. Y., to make his home with his daughter.

Relatives from this town were at North Grosvenordale yesterday to attend, at St. Joseph's church, a solemn high mass of requiem for Narcisse Desautel, 78. The officers of the mass were Rev. J. C. Mathieu, Rev. Fr. Lavallee and Rev. Ludovic Paradis. Hymns during the mass were most impressively sung by Alphonse Desautel, grandson of the deceased. Mr. Desautel leaves eight sons, Arthur and Mederic of North Grosvenordale, Hormidas, Adelard and Alfred of Woonsocket, Ovila of Wauregan, Louis of Ballouville and Archie. There are also three dauzhters, Mrs. Edward Lizotte of Southbridge, Mrs. Albert Godreau of Woonsocket and Mrs. Lionel Cournoyer of Providence. One son, Ovila, of Wauregan, who is an invalid, was unable to attend the funeral.

To clear up what appears to be more or less of a misunderstood point raised at the adjourned annual town meeting last evening it was pointed out today that the much discussed $3,600 expenditure for repairs and improvements at the Dayville school is an item in the budget really carried over from the budget of the previous year. The appropriation was made at that time, but the bills for the work done were not received until after the close of the last fiscal year, July 31, 1928, so the old appropriation was notu sed. Meanwhile the bills for the work have come in and the item must as a matter of course be included in the present budget.

Miss Gertrude Poirier of Danielson and Mrs. Lionel Poirier of Putnam are to spend Wednesday in Providence.

On this 41st anniversary of the great blizzard of March 12, 1888, the temperature in Danielson ran up to 65 degrees in the sun this afternoon, and brought out the first sample of balmy spring weather.

Rev. F. C. Williams of Willimantic will preach at the Thursday evening Lenten service at St. Alban's church.

W. E. Bitzood was in Boston today to visit with his father, F. E. Bitzood, who remains as a patient at a hospital in that city.

Local sportsmen who handle such matters said today they have no assurance as yet that the state will release more trout in local streams prior to the opening of the fishing season on April 15.

Railroad square and Railroad street are in mighty poor condition just now, deep with ruts and rough and muddy. Along the street the traveled way is owned by the N. Y., N. H. and H. R. R. company.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton F. Pellett are at their home on North Main street after spending several weeks in the south.

A considerable number of the Danielson members of the Putnam Country club were at the club this evening to attend the annual meeting, at which reports were presented and officers elected for the ensuing year.

Chief John McFarland said this morning that action will be taken to apprehend boys who have been amusing themselves by taking soda bottles stacked in cases outside a bottling works on Water street and sealing them out onto the ice covering the Assawaga river.

The dog quarantine is being rigorously observed in Danielson, though occasionally a dog gets away for a time. Some of the dogs that were vaccinated early are again at liberty, but there are few of these out as yet.

John C. Hansmann of Lawrence was a visitor with friends here today.

Dr. W. D. McCormack, one of the group of eclectic physicians that located in this county several years, has discontinued his practice at Central Village and will locate elsewhere.

Brooklyn has a 25-mill tax rate this year, and collections are to begin in that town within a few days.

The quarterly meeting of the standing committee of the Westfield Congregational church is to be held in the vestry Thursday evening.

JEWETT CITY

OVERSEER JOHN JACOBS RECEIVES FAREWELL GIFTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, March 12—John Jacobs finished his term of employment by the Aspinook Co. Tuesday, with his resignation as overseer of the make-up department. Good will and best of wishes in the parting were finely embodied in a few words by S. L. Thompson, his second hand, as acting for the employes, he presented Mr. Jacobs a handsome wrist watch. Followed in a few minutes by this fine expression of good will from those who have come under his direct supervision, the overseers of the biz establishment came in for their good fellowship and good bye. James Blair, their spokesman, was happy in his presentation of a handsome Russia leather Gladstone travelling bag, accompanied by an autographed testimonial of their earnest desire for success and happiness. Mr. Jacobs, upon receiving these handsome gifts, acknowledged both with appreciation. He recalled the many successes and pleasant hours which they had been privileged to enjoy in common. Mr. Jacobs takes up his new position with the Pacific Print Works at Lawrence, Mass., Monday the 18th.

During a walk afield, on the afternoon of March 13th, 1900, E. F. Burleson and E. H. Hiscox, found trailing arbutus in full bloom on Read's hillside. Unlike the beautiful fringed gentian, arbutus does not shift around much. Arbutus is growing and will bloom on Read's hillside this spring, and hardly a man is now alive who remembers when it was not to be found there.

MISS DRISCOLL OPERATED EARLY STITCHING MACHINE

Miss Annie Fitzgerald, during a recent visit in Greeneville was pleased to meet Miss Nora Driscoll, who was anxious to learn of her many old-time friends in Jewett City. Many benefits and worth-while influences have been the heritage of Jewett City, traceable to the fact that the Driscoll family were reckoned among its one-time residents. The family was a large one, with natural tendencies toward thrift and industry.

During the earlier history of the J. F. Slater mills, came Daniel Driscoll and his wife. Of their children, a considerable number of whom were natives of Griswold, Miss Nora is sole survivor. The others, Nancy, Mary, Kate, Daniel, Patrick and John, although engaged in widely differing occupations, never drifted far from their home town. Here they lived and from this section all of them were laid to rest.

Nora, 50 years ago, in the cloth shop of the Slater mills, operated one of the first rotating stitching machines. Its power was from the regular shaft line, and it accomplished in a few seconds the sewing together of the long 50-yard cuts of cloth that were to pass through the trimmer for final brushing, before being yarded and shipped to Greeneville for finishing.

Sunday at 1 a. m., the mercury here stood at 6 degrees above. Tuesday at 1 p. m., the readings all through this section were from 66 to 68. Not since last fall has the weather man furnished a day as fine and warm as Tuesday. Just 41 years ago it snowed and blew and howled, without a let-up for three days and nights.

To Buy first Aid Kit

A meeting of Jewett City chapter American Red Cross was held Monday evening in the chapter room. It was voted to purchase a first aid kit, a stretcher and blanket to be placed in the Hose house, where it may be ready for use in any emergency that might occur in the town. Warden E. J. Jodoin was first consulted as to the advisability of the plan and was very favorable to the idea. He said the borough would provide a closet for the articles. Mrs. J. H. Tracy was appointed to purchase the articles. Miss Catherine Barnett was chosen delegate to the national convention to be held in Washington, D. C., April 22-25.

PUTNAM

RUINS OF CITY HOTEL TO BE CLEARED AWAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 12—The ruins of the City hotel, totally destroyed by fire Sunday morning will not remain, according to Zephren Harquoil, the hotel keeper and owner of the property. Mr. Harquoil said this morning that insurance adjusters were expected to inspect the ruins today and after adjustment had been made he would rip out the walls, clear away the debris so as not to impair the small portion of the city's civic beauty that is contained within Union square and lower South Main street.

Mr. Harquoil was asked today if he planned to reconstruct a modern hotel on the site. His answer was to the effect that nothing of this nature would take place at any immediate date, as it is his intention to free the site from the debris that is at present on the property. It was also rumored about the city this morning that a deal for the sale of the site had been made. This the former inn keeper flatly denied.

Mayor Richard and the members of the city fire commission in a statement this morning said that they were highly pleased with the capable and efficient manner in which the members of the fire department handled the City hotel fire Sunday morning and by their quick work prevented thousands of dollars of other property being destroyed by the flames. Mayor Richard praised the work of Deputy Chief Dumas and also commented upon the feat of the three members of the No. 1 hose company of the central fire station. Harry Morse, John Peters and Frederick Dinsdale, who braved the flames to crawl to the blazing roof to rescue Michael O'Neil, who was trapped in his room. The chief executive of the city this morning paid tribute to the local Salvation Army corps for the part they played in furnishing the firemen with hot drinks and sandwiches. The members of the fire commission have also spoken highly of the firemen in coping with the situation of Sunday as they did.

Edwin Duxbury, 20, of Boston, was arraigned before Judge M. H. Geissler in police court this morning on a charge of taking a car without the owner's permission, operating without a license. Since he was not of age, Probation Officer Peter A. Gardner entered a plea before the court of not guilty.

Officer Sponcey testified that he was directed to the accident and after questioning several by-standers, all evidence pointed to Duxbury, who had left the scene, if he was the driver of the car, immediately after the crash. He later found Duxbury and inquired for his operators license, which he was unable to produce. Mrs. G. R. Glawson charged that she had not given the youth permission to take her vehicle. With this Officer Sponcey, testified, he had sufficient evidence to arrest the boy.

James Hall, 19, a taxi driver, employed by the City Taxi testified that he picked Duxbury up at the lunch wagon in Rhodesville, at 8.55 p. m., Sunday and drove him to the second house on Farrows street, which is occupied by George R. Glawson. Hall told the court that he did not see anything peculiar about the boy and drove off at once.

Robert King, 25, of 19 Farrows, a counter man at the lunch wagon in the north end testified that he had overheard Duxbury in a conversation with George Glawson and inform him of an accident in which his (Glawson's) car had figured. King was unable to tell the prosecution anything further regarding the conversation.

Robert Malley, also employed by the City Taxi, testified that on the evening in question Duxbury had hired his car and had him drive him (Duxbury) in a circuitous route from the north end to Farrows street to Ring street and then summoned him to take him back to the lunch wagon again. Malley asserted that he carried Duxbury about the city between the hours of 8.30 and 9 o'clock.

Lucian Holmes of 15 School street, testified that he saw Duxbury leave the scene of the accident and dash across Grove street and disappear in the darkness of School street. At the investigation, according to the police Holmes was able to identify Duxbury, but in court this morning he was unable to testify to this point. Holmes, according to the police was to have offered the convicting evidence, but in reality the opposite was true. It was upon his testimony that Judge Geissler upheld the boys' plea and discharged the case.

It was learned today that the state has not made any further arrests in connection with the wholesale slaying of deer in the towns of Pomfret, Hampton and Ashford as was done about a week ago. Nevertheless the protected animals are being killed and the state and county game officials are still continuing their investigation in an effort to further trace and apprehend the illegal hunters of venison. County Game Warden J. Fred Ash, who has been a leading figure in the investigations that have already taken place, has been forced to refire from active participation in the hunt because of a broken arm, sustained when cranking an automobile. It was thought today that more arrests would be made before the close of the week.

"Louis Bradford," was a name on the lips of scores this morning as the Bulletin commenced its daily circulation in this section of the county today. Louis Bradford, of Danielson crashed the front pages of the Connecticut press this morning and The Bulletin especially, because of his protest against Senator Bingham's efforts to stop the fiery Senator Heflin from preaching "religious bigotry" in the senate. It will be remembered that Bradford gained notoriety in this city about a year and a half ago, when a Ku Klux Klan meeting was interrupted on Woodstock avenue, when the members of the Putnam fire department were called to extinguish a burning cross. As the firemen attempted to enter the grounds where the white clad and masked men were congregated, a line of hose was cut into pieces and it was alleged that Bradford drew a revolver, pressing it into the stomach of a fireman and threatening to fire if he should persist. A complaint was made against the Danielson man for his act, that later resulted in a warrant being drawn for his arrest. He was arraigned in the city court in Putnam on two counts and as insufficient evidence was presented the prosecution was stopped by the Putnam court officials.

Until late this afternoon there had been no appointment made by the trustees of the Putnam Savings bank to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of its treasurer, Daniel J. Byrne. It was said today that no date had been set as to when the board of trustees would meet to make the appointment of the new executive of the institution. At present the clerking force of the bank is being assisted by a representative of the state banking commission. This method will afford the trustees ample time to make a selection.

According to information obtained today Providence lawyers, who negotiated the sale of the entire village of the Mechanicsville mill houses and the French River inn, for a Boston concern, will file deeds Wednesday. The signing of the deeds will take place in Providence and will immediately go on record in the town of Thompson. The French River mill and the French River farm in West Thompson are not included in the transaction.

It was learned through reliable sources this afternoon that the Standard Oil company of New York has successfully completed negotiations for the leasing of the Prentice Filling station on North School street. According to plans of the oil company the station will be maintained under company supervision.

Dr. Edward F. Perry, well known Putnam physician, has returned to his home on Grove street after a stay at the Day Kimball hospital.

The weekly Elks Masonic tournament was held last evening at the Masonic lodge rooms on South Main street. The Elks as usual were victors in the weekly indoor sports fray.

Dog Warden Ernest L. Chandler is continuing his working in connection with the enforcement of the quarantine on dogs in several towns and cities in this section of the county. Warden Chandler killed a dog early this week which possessed symptoms of rabies. The head of the animal was sent to the state laboratories for inspection.

The members of the Putnam fire department were called out twice today. A first alarm was sounded shortly after noon and was a general alarm from box 24 on Walnut street, for a chimney fire. The slight blaze was extinguished without property loss. The firemen returned to quarters at one o'clock and were called again at 1.30 p. m. to fight the season's first grass fire, which occurred on Pomfret street. This blaze like the first was slight and was quickly put out without loss of any property.

Charles Murphy of Storrs has returned to his studies at Connecticut college after a short visit at the home of his mother in this city.

As yet State's Attorney Bradford has not appointed anyone to fill the office of county detective, made vacant a month ago by the slaying of County Detective William E. Jackson of Willimantic. Several applicants have filed their applications for the position. No date for an appointment has been disclosed by officials.

Captain W. J. Jarvis and State Officer Royal V. Scranton of Danielson barracks were in Worcester today where they questioned Peter DeRitta and Raymond Kelly, Providence clothing store thieves who were arrested on Saturday evening for theft of clothes in Massachusetts and Rhode Island cities and from a store in this city. Upon his return tonight Capt. Jarvis said that he had grilled the youths but the boys refused to give any information other than what the police already have. It was reported to the Putnam police Saturday evening that the boys had visited clothing stores in Southbridge and Webster and were thought to be in Putnam. DeRitta and Kelly pleaded guilty in the Worcester court today and were sentenced to two years in the house of correction but they appealed and are now released on bonds of $3,000 each.

Doctor Found What is Best for Thin, Constipated People

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not my small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness — and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of his 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1876), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores it previously had in his private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

SPEED AND MORE SPEED.

When Ray Keech drove his special automobile at a speed greater than 207 miles an hour, breaking the record that had previously been established by Major Seagrave of England, it was recognized and predicted that it was simply another demonstration of the fact that the speed limit had not been reached and that others could be expected to better it. That has occurred and once more the record is in English hands.

In the struggle for the honor of being the record holder Major Seagrave has brought to this country a new machine, one built for racing and in the construction of which special thought has been given to the elimination of all possible resistance. The Golden Arrow is thus a peculiar looking automobile but he has shown at Daytona Beach that it possesses the speed that has been claimed for it and he holds the coveted honor because of it. The appearance of a bird doesn't always indicate its ability.

Traveling at the rate of better than 231 miles an hour, going faster by 23 miles an hour than Keech did when he won the distinction, Seagrave has not only proved the speed of his machine but skillfully demonstrated his ability in the handling of such a machine. Just what that means is not easily appreciated. Not many have experienced any such speed, while those who have held the steering wheel while making 60 to 80 miles an hour know what the consequences are if there is a false move made or if some obstruction deflects the wheel. Every racer knows the perils that are faced when setting out for a new record. They were all the greater because of the greater speed in the case of Major Seagrave, but both he and his machine met the test in a most praiseworthy manner. He has pushed the mark higher and given the other racers something to shoot at.

That the challenge will be accepted is to be taken for granted. Boosting the record by 23 miles increases the difficulty of those who try to beat it, but it doesn't place it beyond reach any more than it has been established that the Golden Arrow has actually done its best. The quest for speed on land and in the air has by no means gotten to the stopping point.

HANDSHAKING

In reaching the decision that there will be a curtailment of the handshaking by the president, it is such a step as has been threatened for a long time. President Hoover is no more desirous of denying his countrymen a chance to meet and shake hands with him than any other president has been, but he is conscious of the time that is required by this formality.

In reducing the days to two when he will shake hands with the public it is conceivable that this arrangement may be subject to change. He is now just getting into touch with the duties of his office. He is finding that there is plenty to do, that there are many requirements and that handshaking only adds to his burdens without accomplishing anything.

One can appreciate the reaction of a busy man of affairs if he were constantly interrupted by those who had nothing to do with the problems under consideration on his desk. The situation of the president is even more complex. He has the problems of all kinds and varieties and yet he has no desire to give the impression that he is exclusive and cold. Furthermore it is to be realized that the shaking of hands with a large number of people every day means a tax on his physical condition which few understand.

There is a common desire to see and shake hands with the president. It is a manifestation of esteem and is the source of much gratification to the individual but it is to be understood that there is a limit. Just now President Hoover believes that he should not exceed two days a week. It may be reduced to one or none and there may come a time when it can be increased but whatever it is it is to be realized that the president must be the judge and the people of the country will have sufficient regard for his duties to sustain his decision.

CONSERVING OIL SUPPLY.

Some people have given thought to the problem that is presented by the oil that is wasted in the course of industrial operations, or the oil which is employed in the different processes and which is not recovered and used over again. They have found that it pays to put steel chips and shavings, which have become saturated with oil, through a process of reclamation for the oil that is obtainable.

Such being the case it isn't learned with surprise that a method has been devised for the treatment of waste oil, such as that which comes from the crank cases of automobiles.

There have been those who have claimed that it was possible to use it for the fuel in certain oil heaters and there are many instances where it has been used for the oiling of drives and roadbeds, but in many instances the aim seems to have been to get rid of it the quickest way possible. That for some meant turning it into the sewers. That is what was done in the city of Washington until the practice was discovered and it was recognized as being a serious menace to life and property, because of the combustion that was likely to follow.

The result of the inquiry that has been made has resulted in a proposal that all service stations and other agencies collect and deposit this oil in suitable containers. Pouring it into the sewers has been prohibited, but inasmuch as it has been learned that it can be reworked and made into a good grade of lubricating oil there appears to be an interesting future for it. It should mean a profitable business unless the competition gets too keen.

When we stop to think that there are 1,000,000 gallons of such oil which has been thrown away yearly in the city of Washington alone it can be appreciated what a tremendous waste there is throughout the country. With satisfactory results this idea of reclaiming it should have an appreciable effect in the struggle for the conservation of the oil supply of the country. It is simply another step in the elimination of waste which has been encouraged because of the great quantity involved.

BUSINESS WITH RUSSIA.

It is inevitable that there should be a careful study of conditions in Russia and that there should be a close scrutiny of the trade reports dealing with that country. Russia is a country of many people and many demands. It wants much that can be supplied by other countries. It needs much in order that it may do a bigger business, not only in supplying its needs but in serving world demands.

Russia isn't where it is today because other countries have forced it there. Its difficulties have arisen from within and because of those conditions it has found it increasingly difficult to maintain relations and do business with other countries. Russia has proceeded to make a bad wreck of itself, but there are reasons for believing that it has seen the need of turning about. Evidences of changes for the better are obtainable and some of the wildest ideas have been abandoned. Russian trade and business have been picking up but they have not as yet gotten to the point where they come any where near to what they were before the war.

Getting back is a slow process, and it hasn't been helped by the experience which other nations have had with it as the result of trade agreements. When the British rushed in, in the belief that they were going to get the cream of the Russian trade, they were quickly disillusioned. They quickly realized their mistake and backed out. Others have since ventured and diplomatic as well as trade relations have been established. The result is that the volume of trade has increased and yet Russia finds it desirable to do much of its trading in this country.

It has been found that trade can be carried on without a resumption of diplomatic relations. Europe looks with much more interest on the trade that is possible with the country than with the relations with the soviet government. That this will in time have its effect upon Russia is not improbable. Changes for the better have occurred there and time will doubtless show them the wisdom of more reforms, but there is little reason for believing that relations with this country will be resumed until Russia meets the requirements which we have set forth.

CRIMINAL ALIENS

The plea for the deportation of the criminal aliens is one that gets much support as crime statistics are studied and the utter disregard for the privileges obtained in this country is noted.

Aliens have been coming to these shores for a long time. Not all of them have been law abiding, but most of them have contributed much in the upbuilding of this country. They are, however, the ones who have had a regard for the laws of this country and who have shown a respect for its institutions. They have come here to be Americans.

There are those who may or may not have come here with any such object in view. Whether they conceived the idea before leaving their native land or after landing here of starting a career of crime may be difficult to ascertain. It is by their deeds that they must be judged. If they have proved worthy citizens they are by all means welcome. If they have displayed a criminal tendency, and are disposed to act under the policy that the country owes them a living and they are going to get it by hook or by crook and are ready to snap their fingers at the law, it is time that the protection of the public got the attention it needs.

Conditions for which many aliens are responsible have prompted the idea that they be sent back to the country from which they come upon conviction for serious crime. This means that there is no one to blame for it but themselves. If they cannot appreciate the advantages here without abusing them they are certainly not entitled to them.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: March can please the most critical when it wants to.

Just at present in New York they make a big fuss when they find a speakeasy just as if they didn't know it existed before.

Apparently many of those who went to the West Indies did so for reasons other than pleasure and then encountered a surprise party.

The new attorney general terms himself a democrat in Who's Who. But one who has voted for the last four republican candidates for the presidency isn't being led around by a chain.

A BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mother's eyes filled with tears as she placed the little little pink candle on the prettily decorated cake. Those seven candles stood for seven happy years. Never for a moment had she or Ned regretted the impulse that had caused them to take the dear little baby girl into their home and hears. It was time for Ruth Helen to be coming from school and mother hastily hid the birthday cake on a high pantry shelf. It would be time enough for Ruth Helen to see it when her young guests arrived for the supper party.

When Ruth Helen arrived her usually sunny face was cluded by some anxious thought.

"Anything wrong, honey? Didn't you get good marks on this day of all days?"

"My marks were all right, mother, but some of the girls said I couldn't really know whether this was my birthday or not 'cause I'm 'dopted. What does 'dopted mean?" Mother sighed deeply as she held out her arms to Ruth Helen. At last the dreaded day had come. How cruel that it should be on a fete day.

"The word is adopted, darling," she said bravely.

"It means something very lovely. You see, honey, some mothers have babies just come to them but other mothers have to go out and hunt for their babies and that was the way with me. Daddy and I just wanted a little girl so much we went out and hunted for the sweetest one we could find and that was you, Ruth Helen."

Although mother's joy still was tinged with sadness, the little party went off gayly and she thought she had never seen Ruth Helen's eyes shine with greater happiness than when she proudly cut the seven-candled cake. Then there was the delightful excitement when daddy arrived right in the middle of the dessert course with a present for each of the seven children at the table.

"This sure must be your really truly bithday, Ruth Helen," remarked a little boy guest, after blowing his newly acquired whistle with zest.

"It certainly is her birthday," gravely answered mother. And when the party was "let out," as Ruth Helen expressed it, and the child had gone to bed, mother told daddy what had happened.

"No use feeling bad about it," he said cheerfully. "We always agreed that she must be told the truth some day, and I don't believe it could have come about more naturally. It will be all right with Ruth Helen. There's an S O S from her room now. What the matter hon?"

"I want mother, please, I want mother."

"I'm coming, dear," called mother and in amoment she was upstairs beside the little bed. "Is anything wrong, dear?"

"No, mother, I just wanted to have you tuck me in the way you used to before I was a big girl, and sing 'Hush, my dear.' Will you please, even if I am 7 years old?"

"Of course, darling; I'd love to. No matter how old you are, you'll always be my little baby just like you were seven years ago."

"I'm glad of that. Birthdays are nice, but I always want to be yours and dady's baby."

"That's right, dear. Now we must say the prayers and sing." In a few minutes the little ritual was over and mother leaned over the bed to kiss the sleepy eyes.

"Yes, only I want to tell you something, mother."

"Yes, dear, what is it?"

"I just wanted to tell you how awf'ly glad I am that you were the mother that picked me out." Two little arms crept around mother's neck, and the sobbing voice went on. "I couldn't have stood it to have any mother but you."

"What did I tell you?" asked daddy, who suddenly appeared at the foot of the bed—Chicago News.

"LENT AND MY CHURCH"

Memory Verse for Wednesday

"That they all may be one" (John 17.21). (Read: John 17).

MEDITATION: I love my church because it is comprehensive and not exclusive. If it were exclusive it would be little. Being comprehensive it is most truly catholic. It recognizes gladly the wider fellowship. These people of other churches are more than my neighbors, they are my brethren in Christ. Underneath all superficial differences of opinion or practice our faith is one, our religious experience one. When we take counsel together it is sweet. When we work together it is for a common end. So the walls of partition are crumbling and the prayer of our Lord is drawing to its answer. Let me therefore be charitable in the things wherein we differ, claiming this wider fellowship as a support to my own faith, and an opportunity for cheerful co-operation with all who love my Lord in sincerity.

PRAYER: O Lord my God who dost make all things mine, whether of Paul or Apollos or Cephas, open to me the mystery of that Christian experience and fellowship which is common to all who love the Lord. In His name, Amen.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 12—Among unwritten books the Bystander would like to read, the white house memoirs of Grace Goodhue Coolidge would occupy a prominent place. What an interesting tale she could unfold—but no doubt never will.

What a flood of light she could throw to bring Calvin Coolidge into relief from his human and understandable side as distinct from the political and official personality which has bulked so long and so enigmatically in the public eye.

Yet, unfortunately, it is not the habit of first ladies to write their memoirs. As a class, wives of presidents seem always to have held aloof from that, and Grace Coolidge in her six years at the white house has established for herself an enviable reputation for good taste and tact.

A Hard Job

Socially speaking, the job of being wife to a president must be difficult. Never, by any chance, may a first lady in her own personal social contacts—as distinct from the formal and deadly duff official functions—drop any hint of what she may know or think of the problems of statecraft or politics with which her husband deals.

Tongues, Washington tongues, wag too easily, and gossip from a tea table or sewing bee runs too swiftly and is fraught with too much possibility of serious consequences to permit that.

There has been much conjecture in recent years as to the part in the evolution of this or that president the driving ambitions of his wife may have played. What the facts may have been largely has remained hidden in the family circle.

But the wagging tongues never have had this to say of Mrs. Coolidge. Quite the contrary. Among the Coolidge-ana of Washington these last years has run the tale that Grace Coolidge was determined immediately after the election of 1924 that the family was going back to private life in 1929—and that at the time when all the world prattled as to whether Coolidge would run again.

More Than Admiration

The good ladies who said it with diamonds for Mrs. Coolidge, but so carefully guarded their identity, seem to have expressed something deeper than just their own admiration for the departing first lady. There is no question in the writer's mind but that she has a peculiarly personal grip on the imagination of America, probably utterly unknown to herself.

Examination of the news index over her Washington years shows all of the Mrs. Coolidge stories running true to form, picturing a quiet, self-possessed kindly person with a strongly feminine appeal about her and a determination to live her own wholesomely American life in hours off duty from the official responsibilities of her position.

Washington long will remember Grace Coolidge for herself, unspoiled by association with great places.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Under the "information at source" provision of the revenue act of 1928, all persons, "in whatever capacity acting," are required to report to the commissioner of internal revenue payments of fixed or determinable income to others during the taxable year of $1,500 if the recipient of such payments is single. If the recipient is married, report need not be made if the payments aggregate less than $3,500. If the marital status of the payee is unknown to the payor, or if the marital status of the payee changed during the year, the payee is considered a single person for the purpose of filing an information return. A separate return of information for each employe is required of employers. The requirement is not limited to periodical payments, but a single payment must be reported.

Information returns are carefully checked with the individual return of the taxpayer to whom such payments are made. During the year 1928 many delinquent returns were secured as a result of the examination of information returns.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Thoughts Of a Wanderer.

Mr. Editor: This will be the fifth and concluding article of a trip and vacation through the Wonderland of New England. Time is ever on the move and we are due to leave Pittsfield at 8.15 a. m. via motor bus for Springfield, and over a very interesting route, for Pittsfield, which is in the heart of the Berkshires, is the natural starting point, whether you are going north or south. We move down Appleton avenue. We have pointed out for us the summer residence of the late Oliver Wendell Holmes and here is seen the "Holmes' pine," under which it is said he used to spend a great deal of his time. A little farther along we pass "Arrowhead," the home of Herman Melville, who will be best remembered as the author of "Moby Dick, The White Whale," which no doubt most every boy has read at some time or maybe has looked upon the screen version of the story. Shortly we arrive at Lenox, the home of millionaires, for this place is noted for its many beautiful estates, and there show places it would be hard to duplicate in any section of the country. Here was the summer home of Henry Ward Beecher, whom you can all recall. Also here lived Nathaniel Hawthorne, who wrote that truly wonderful book, "Scarlet Letter," and "The House of Seven Gables," and many other books. On the way back we have had to make several detours that have taken us off the usual route. We come to the town of Lee. This is famous for its paper making and also for its fine stone quarries, from which have been taken over 250,000 headstones by the national government to mark the graves of its soldier dead. From here was taken a great deal of material for past of the capitol at Washington and also St. Patrick's cathedral in New York city, and many other noted buildings.

Now we move on to the town of Stockbridge. Here can be seen a monument that was erected to the memory of Jonathan Edwards, who was a missionary to the Indians for six years. He was born in East Windsor, Conn., Oct. 5, 1703 and died at Princeton, N. J., March, 1758. This place was also the home of Cyrus W. Field, who laid the Atlantic cable, also David Dudley Field and other great men who were biz men in the world of business. At Great Barrington we stop for a short time, and we give the place the once over, for here there are many beautiful places. I talk with the formation and he says I have been go-formation nd he says I have been going over the route for four years and I am not letter perfect yet. Here there is a monument in front of the town hall which tells the world that here was the first resistance against the authority of Great Britain in 1774. The cannon in front of the town hall is an historic one, having been captured by the American frigate "United States" from a British man-of-war. Near here is the town of Sheffield, the oldest town in the Berkshires. And here lived George Root, who wrote one of the songs that stirred the hearts of the boys in blue in 1861-1865. How many of you old timers can recall Tramp, Tramp, Tramp the Boys Are Marching? I hear you say, "Every one of us." Soon we come to Westfield and then Springfield and here is the terminal. We clamber aboard a bus marked Hartford, and this is reached in due time. Again a change to a bus marked Norwich, and somewhere I have heard that name before and it sounds good to me. Soon we arrive at Colchester, and here was located at one time one of the first rubber mills in this country. They made a fine grade of goods that was known all over this country, but that mill has long since disappeared. Here we change for our last lap, and we soon come down Broadway near the Wauregan. Well I am a little bit tired, but what does that amount to for I had a good time and an interesting trip, and what else matters!

YOUR HEALTH

Vaccination Unsuccessful in Influenza

By E. E. Morrison, M. D., Great Bend, Kansas

Each of the disorders that characterize influenza is caused not by one germ alone but by a group of germs. These groups are variable—sometimes one germ predominates, sometimes another. The groups are never the same, either in kind or numbers. For this reason vaccination for the purpose of prevention is unsuccessful. When a disease is caused by one germ alone and never by anything else, as is true of typhoid fever or if diphtheria, vaccination confers immunity.

As influenza infection invades the mucous membranes of the respiratory tract in much the same manner as do the infective agents of the common cold. With influenza there is more fever, muscular soreness, headache, backache and a greater degree of prostration. The infection has a greater tendency to invade the sinuses. It is decidedly toxic. As it progresses frequently it invades the lungs and causes a peculiar type of pneumonia. It also frequently causes pleurisy, with formation of fluid and later of pus in the pleural cavity. The heart muscle is often affected. This is a very serious complication and results in permanent damage.

For the purpose of prevention, sprays and gargles are practically useless. One should keep away from infected persons. During epidemics one should avoid crowds. Overheated rooms should be avoided. Sudden chilling of the body, wet feet, damp clothing, exposure to currents of cold air from open doors or windows, all place the mucous membranes in favorable condition for the reception of the germs that cause these diseases. Clothing should be adjusted to the weather.

A severe pain above the root of the nose and above the brows warns us of the invasion of the frontal sinus. Severe pain in the face above the upper teeth may be caused by an inflammation of the maxillary sinuses. A bloody, purulent discharge may be present in any sinus inflammation. Pain, swelling and tenderness behind the ear indicates the beginning of a mastoid abscess.

When Blanche came to the Mental Hygiene clinic at the age of 36 she had had two illegitimate children, one rather recently, who had died, and the other, Marjorie, worked regularly to support her mother.

The cause of Blanche's coming to the Mental Hygiene clinic was that she had had epilepsy for many years. Hence, advice was desired as to whether or not she could carry on in the community or whether she should be committed to some suitable hospital. To be sure, her record was against her with her history of immorality and the frequent changes she made in the few jobs she was able to secure. Then, too, was she a suitable person to have the custody of the illegitimate minor child who so willingly supported her with her meager factory earnings?

The doctors felt that the patient would be better in an institution but due to her horror of going to such a place and the unwillingness of her family to commit her, it was evident that other plans must be made.

Her spells were controlled insofar as possible by medicine and diet, and the social service department busily began to make plans for Blanche. The Family Welfare society augmented the family budget until employment was found for Blanche which it was felt that she could do without injury to her health. To be sure, this took time, for there are few places safe for epileptics in industry. Then Blanche tried living with her sisters who had well established homes, as it was felt that here she would have better care and Marjorie would have more suitable surroundings. This plan was followed until Marjorie married and went away. Then, as Blanche's sisters were rather dictatorial with her, a change in regime was tried. With the social worker's help a room was found in the home of a friend which she could rent. Another friend who lives near by would take her as a boarder. Thus Blanche settled down independent and happy. Of course, the clinic worker has kept Blanche on the prescribed diet, supplied her with medicine regularly, arranged for her recreation and kept up her morale by frequent contacts and by making the necessary adjustments in the family. Other social agencies have also played an important role in making Blanche the independent self-respecting person she now is, and has been, for the last year. Never before had Blanche been interested in trying to "cure" her spells which she had accepted as inevitable, but now she sticks rigidly to her diet, takes her medicine regularly and is exceedingly proud of being a good citizen, economically independent.

Stories That Recall Others

A Good Reason.

A minister, encountering Billy, the four year old son of a member of his congregation, said: "Billy, I think your mother is very kind to invite me for dinner."

Billy replied: "Oh, did she finally ask you? She said she guessed she had put it off as long as she possibly could without letting you know she didn't want you."

A Story Of Coffee.

Not long ago a young woman was sent to solicit new customers. At one house an elderly woman with an ear trumpet came to the door. The solicitor gave his usual sales talk and explained in detail why the coffee he was selling was excellent. The woman went into the house and soon came back with a sandwich in her hand, saying: "I am sorry, young man, that I haven't any coffee I can give you, but here is a sandwich you can have."

AUTO HIT SMALL GIRL AND DAMAGED BUILDING

A peculiar accident occurred about 6.30 o'clock Tuesday evening at the intersection of Franklin street and Boswell avenue, when an eight year old girl was slightly injured and a Willys-Knight touring car was considerably damaged. The touring car, owned and operated by James L. Wells of Devon, Conn., was proceeding up Franklin street, it is understood, behind a trolley car and became stalled about opposite No. 201 Franklin street.

The driver got out of the machine and cranked it. The vibration of the motor, the driver claimed, caused the car to be thrown into reverse and it started backwards. Before the driver could get into the car it had struck Angelina Kurachopoulos, 8, of No. 155 Franklin street, and mounted the sidewalk and came to a stop against the building at No. 201 Franklin street, damaging it to some extent.

The child was taken to her home a short distance away and was attended by Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve for bruises to her knee. She is the daughter of Atham Kurachopoulos.

A crack about three feet long was made in the brick foundation of the building and the top of the touring car was smashed. About $50 damage was done to the car.

CHAMBER CAMPAIGN TEAMS REPORT FINAL TOTAL OF OVER $17,000

A total of $17,501.50 was raised during the Norwich chamber of commerce expansion campaign which came to a close Tuesday evening with the final reports of the team workers at a supper meeting at the Wauregan hotel. In addition to "report night" it was "bankers night," one of a series of seven monthly meetings being held by the chamber during the year. The amount reported Tuesday evening as the final figure is expected to be considerably increased as several of the team captains were unable to be present and failed to report. Additional reports of subscriptions are also expected from the activities fund committee.

During the supper hour there was spirited community singing under the direction of Edward T. Connelly with Nicholas J. Spellman at the piano. There were also vocal selections by Commanding Ace Frank R. Murdy and Edward T. Connelly. Atty. Arthur M. Brown said that he was proud of the duties and asked for their total contributions to the campaign. He learned that it was $2,100 to the activities fund, besides other contributions to the campaign workers. Mr. Brown congratulated Dr. Campbell, Frank R. Murdy, Joseph C. Wurth, W. Russell Smith and the other workers for their part in the campaign and voiced appreciation of Carlton Yount, "the man behind the campaign with the technical knowledge to put it over," he said. Mr. Brown then presented Mr. Yount in behalf of the chamber of commerce a token of esteem, a large Thermos bottle.

Commanding Ace Murdy in brief remarks thanked the workers, Mr. Yount and the office force of the chamber. Mr. Murdy said that every member of the chamber organization should go out and secure one more member, making it a membership of 500. The chamber of commerce needs the support of the citizens of Norwich, Mr. Murdy said.

The address of the evening was delivered by State Bank Commissioner Lester B. Shippee.

In his address Commissioner Shippee said that the national banking system was started as part of the Civil war financing and that the outstanding feature of the act was the right given all banks chartered under its provisions to issue currency protected by an equal amount of government bonds deposited with the U. S. treasurer.

The state banking system, he said, is composed of all banks operating under charters granted by the several states and each state assumes all responsibility for the supervision and control of these banks. The general structure of our banking scheme is still under discussion and there are, perhaps, those who continue to believe in a unified national system as best adapted to our modern needs. This belief, said the commissioner, is not generally accepted, and I do not believe its adoption is within the range of possibilities.

I submit, he said, the national banking system and pay it tribute. No one having the welfare of the country at heart and believing in a sound fiscal system would want any injury inflicted upon it. With regard to the state banking department, he said it is a branch of the state government, created and maintained for the purpose of exercising supervision over all banks and certain other financial institutions deriving authority to do business from the state or operating under state charter.

In conclusion Commissioner Shippee said: Since the enactment of the several investment law for savings banks and trust funds, a special department has been maintained for the purpose of testing new issues of securities to ascertain if they qualify as legal investments. This is highly technical work and requires a skilled bond expert. A legal list is published semi-annually and all changes in the list are bulletined as they occur.

The commissioner makes an annual report to the governor which contains many statistical tables in addition to a statement of condition of all banks and other institutions under his supervision. This report also tabulates the savings bank investments and other information in which the public is interested. Our last report contained about 300 pages.

We have a code of banking law which is broad enough to cover all requirements of a sound, progressive banking system and restrictive enough to keep our banks safe. And, most important of all, we have in control of our banks men who are willing to keep along the lines of good, conservative sane banking. We may well be proud of the banking institutions in this state.
